Speakers send off '86 Laker grads

Nearly all the 1900 people who attended the 35th annual Commencement for Elkton - Pigeon - Bay Port High Schools were touched at one time or another for the contributions they made as family members, teachers, parents, and taxpayers -- in helping the Class of 1986 achieve their diplomas.

The High School Class President Shelly Stein told the crowd assembled in the Laker High gym, it is "only because of all the loving support and good wishes, and following the examples you have set," that the 161 students could have reached this goal. "You have pushed us to achieve," she said.

In her Salutatory, Susan Ruth graduated with no academic achievement possible without the many persons who aided the class members individually and as a group.

"Although we have not always said thank you, we will never forget it," she said.

"We must not only look at now as the best of times, but we must create more. This is the first day of a new beginning.

"What we make our selves is what the children of tomorrow will look at. We as seniors must decide what is important and what will help persons the most." Miss Ruth said, asking people to keep hoping and keep working.

"Hope never stops. To achieve that is possible, we must attempt the impossible. To be as much as we can, we must dream of being more."

Laker Sgt. Harry Brown introduced featured speaker Rudy Petzold as a lifelong resident of the Thumb and among other accomplishments described Petzold as the "finest and most prestiguous track and field meet held in the state of Michigan, the Thumb Meet of Champions," noting it attracts more fans annually than the state finals will.

Describing Petzold's near-fatal stroke three years ago, Brown said, "Rudy Petzold is the type of person who prays you can make it over the adversities life will have for you as you proceed down the trail."

Petzold, publisher of the Tuscola County Advertiser and president of the Thumb Track Meet, told students his first commencement speech ever, but noted former Vassar High Classmate Bruce "can be annoyingly persistent." When Petzold said he worried about what people expected to hear from him, he was told, "Don't worry about everything. When they find out your from Caro, they won't be expecting much."

He said he was one of the many people who have admired the Laker School District for many years. "Everything here is so much to abide by and much teacher's admonition: "First, worry about what you're going to say. Second, worry about when you'll quit saying it."

When he and Bruce were Vassar Vikings, in the early- and mid-1960s, "there were no Lakers. All there were were Bay Clipper and Pigeon Panthers." Petzold called education "as much a part of on-going living as breathing."

"A man who is truly educated always goes on learning. It's a life-long part of living. That's the first thing I hope I can leave you with."

Petzold said the bad news is, life doesn't get any easier. But the good news is, from here on, more of it is in your hands. He shared anecdotes and stories from his personal memories, accumulated over three decades. He told students "you are the most important factor in your lives. Above all, must do for yourself."

"Love yourself, for what you really are is one of a kind person. That God has made. No apology is needed for who or what you are. We all prefer sunshine and happy days, but every day is not like that."

Recalling his statue, he said it's easy to ask "why me?" but the shadows show the shape of life. Use the dark side of life as an experience."

"Like a suit over until the coffin is closed."

Petzold said too many Americans have forgotten the formula which built this land. "I give D. Initiative and Innovation combine with daring to make a "formula by which great things happen."

"A person must have the initiative to try something and the innovation to go beyond playing it safe. Couple those with the daring needed to try something different, and you've done what we're here for -- to contribute." He urged students to do good whenever they can. "Be suc-

HISTORICAL FAMILY: The Dennis Gaskill Family was noted at Laker Commencement on Sunday for creating history at the high school. 1986 valedictorian Lisa Gaskill, along with older sister, Gina (1985 valedictorian) and Corra (1983 valedictorian) marked the first time three members of one family have earned one of the two academic honors at Laker High.

The Gaskill parents had a chance to check the academic progress of their daughters firsthand as Donna is the Laker Junior High Librarian and Dennis is a Laker High teacher.

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS WE PRINT!!

Observations by publisher mark Russell, and many others, have led to the conclusion that the city committee on health and safety has been unduly lenient in its handling of the problem of drinking water.

The committee was formed in October, shortly after the outbreak of the disease, to study the problem and make recommendations for its solution.

Since its formation, the committee has met several times and discussed various aspects of the problem.

Some members of the committee have expressed concern about the lack of action taken by the authorities in response to the outbreak of the disease.

Others have argued that more time is needed to gather information and study the problem before any action can be taken.

The committee is currently considering the possibility of recommending the installation of filters or other devices to improve the quality of the drinking water.

Local tourism needs help

While there is no question that the city of Traverse City is, in many ways, a tourist haven, it seems that very few people have taken the time to seriously consider what kind of economic impact tourism has on the area.

Tourism is a major industry in Traverse City, and it has a profound impact on the local economy. The city's tourism industry is responsible for providing jobs to people from all walks of life, offering a wide range of opportunities for those seeking employment. It also brings in a significant amount of revenue to the city, which helps fund public services and infrastructure. However, it is important to note that tourism can have its downsides as well. For example, it can lead to overcrowding and congestion, which can be a significant problem for residents and visitors alike.

In this editorial, we discuss the importance of tourism to Traverse City, the challenges it faces, and the steps that can be taken to ensure its continued success.

Caption:

The Traverse Bay area is the site of many tourist attractions and events, including festivals, historical sites, and scenic views. It is a popular destination for those seeking a getaway from the city and looking for a chance to connect with nature. However, the economic impact of tourism on Traverse City is not always fully appreciated.

As he retires from Wyoming post

Supt. Davis remembered

Dr. Davis, the former Wyoming district administrator, moved to Columbus County in 1977 where he served as the superintendent of schools for 15 years. He retired in 1992 and moved to New York City where he enjoyed a successful career in the real estate industry. He passed away peacefully in his sleep on January 3rd, 2023.

DEAR BOB,

Dear Bob, I am excited to share with you the story of my retirement from the Wyoming district. It was a memorable time in my life, marked by many fond memories.

I began my career in education in 1965 as a teacher in the Wyoming district. Over the years, I worked my way up to become the superintendent of schools. My time in the position was marked by a commitment to improving the educational opportunities for all students in the district.

During my tenure, I oversaw the construction of several new school buildings and the expansion of existing facilities. I also implemented several innovative programs to improve student achievement.

One of my proudest moments was the opening of the new high school in 1989. It was a testament to the hard work and dedication of everyone involved. I remained in the position until I retired in 1992.

I hope you can find this piece interesting. It is a reminder of the importance of education and the dedication of those who work in the field.

Sincerely,

Dr. Davis
