Gaschos get 1901 family news

Marie and Nancy's of Gasch's Flower Shop have a deal of history about their family. Family members while attending college; David Gasch's, operated in Elkhart, Indiana.

Another cousin, Alfero Gasch, also was a member of the Elkhart family and was in the flower business but a member of a great-grandfather's family lived in Michigan. Michigan raised the U.S. and the Elkhart family was there without question.

A Kilmanagh Christmas Story...
Every since that first Christmas nearly a half a century ago, Christmas and giving have been closely synonymous. Through the years, although the spirit at that first — and present — gift of all, when the Rule of Bethlehem was given to the World by a young Virgin, the families have continued to express the spirit of giving in their own way. During Christmas, every Christmas, gifts are exchanged. Gifts exchanged by the millions have evolved from those that begin with a two-pond or three-pond, expensive, and others less expensive, but most of them in the wide range of price. One of the best is the gift of love and the gift of peace. We are living in a day and age where a great many people have learned the true meaning of giving gifts to others. Giving is an act of love.

Noreau lived in a home where there was no love lost to anyone. He was a newspaper publisher, printer, censor, circuit first on first, then on last and by haggling, quietly be recompensed in

When birthdays and Christmas collide...

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story explores the often neglected and sometimes overlooked aspect of birthdays during the Christmas season. It discusses how birthdays can be celebrated in the context of the holiday season, and how they are sometimes overshadowed by the more predominant Christmas celebrations.

By RICH SHAWERZER

CELEBRATING TOGETHER: Brothers-in-law Jim Gable, left, and Bob Parks held a special Christmas celebration Dec. 21 and Dec. 20 birthdays - making appropriate holiday and Christmas decorations. They also hosted a holiday party for all the family members.

IN THIS ISSUE: A pair of sisters have a unique perspective on their birthday celebrations. The halls are decorated, the cake is baked, and the family gathers to celebrate.

The Toys From Christmas Long Ago

Yes, children there were Christmas toys before the days of video games and handheld calculators. Before Star Wars and Star Trek, model cars and race tracks. There were Christmas toys before Charlie McCarthy and Harpo Marx before Charlie Chaplin and his little hat. Before Gill Janes, McDonald, Mattel, Playskool, Fisher Price and Tyco Toys.

There were toys before Christmas TV ads and layaways. Before color television and pay-per-view, before mall food courts and gift wagons and prize drawings. Toys were given when a child visited Santa and when a parent would patiently buy a toy that was sturdy and would last for years. These were the days when garden-variety toys were big-ticket items and were treasured by children and by the parents who gave them.

The toys were made of wood and metal, of cloth and plastic, of paper and tin. They were simple and imaginative, with names like wind-up, spinning, and jumping. They were not just toys, they were friends, companions, and memories. They were a way to pass the time, to play, to dream, to explore.

The toys were not just for boys or girls. There were toys for everyone, from the very young to the very old. They were a way to connect with family and friends, to share a love of play and imagination.

The toys were not just for fun. They were a way to develop motor skills, to improve creativity, and to foster a love of learning. They were a way to bond with others, to share a common experience.

The toys were not just a product. They were a part of a larger culture, a part of a larger society. They were a part of a larger world, a part of a larger history. They were a part of a larger story, a story that is still being written, a story that will never end.

One of the largest and most well-known newspapers of the world, the New York Times, has featured the Old Heidelberg Inn in its Christmas special section. The inn is famous for its traditional German cuisine and festive decorations, making it a popular destination for holiday gatherings.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus.

The story of Santa Claus has been passed down through generations and has become a beloved part of Christmas traditions around the world. The idea of Santa Claus as we know him today first appeared in the early 19th century, with the publication of a poem by Clement C. Moore in 1823. The poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas," introduced the image of Santa Claus as a jolly, rosy-cheeked fellow who brings gifts to good children on Christmas Eve.

Children enjoy the activity of holiday preparations, such as wrapping gifts for family and friends. You can include them in these preparations by letting them make gift tags. All that is needed are some plain index cards, short pieces of ribbon, cellophane string, a hole punch, and some odds and ends of wrapping paper. Have the younger fold each card and half and line up the punch holes a bit at the top or center of the fold. Then have them cut out motifs from odds and ends of wrapping paper, making sure that the designs are small enough to fit on the punched card. You can also use old greetings cards for this purpose.

Glue a motif to each card, and draw the kids or string the edges of the holes of each card and tying onto packages.

Twas the Night Before Christmas

'Twas the day before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.

The stockings were hung on the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there.

The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads;
And mamma in her armchair,as be was a-sledding,
And I on the looks out, as I did watch my spinning.

But when I heard my master exclaim, "Twas the elf of the north,"
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.

Away to the window I flew like a flash,
To the Elkhorn House Inn, I flew in a flash.\n
The very next moment, as I was freezing and dying,
A little elf came down, and was dancing a scurry.

"My name is Ron Clancy, come with me,
To the happy homes in the Elkhorn House Inn.

For the children, for the children,
We have prepared a treat, a treat with delight.

And the children, they were so glad,
And the presents they received were all so glad.

And the children, they were so glad,
And the presents they received were all so glad.

And the children, they were so glad,
And the presents they received were all so glad.

And the children, they were so glad,
And the presents they received were all so glad.

And the children, they were so glad,
And the presents they received were all so glad.
