Statewide trails sound promising...

W hat's a thousand miles long, covers an entire state—and could truly put Michigan on the national map as a leading, innovative state?

If you know the answer, you're probably a bicyclist, or a jogger, or a snowmobiler or a cross-country skier. If the picture doesn't quite fit the description of your preferred sport, you may not know about a state trail that could very well make you an expert. Michigan's Trails Alliance is promoting the plan, which actually includes some separate trails at the time. With the proper Lansing attitude—and some money-losing—the whole program could cost a thousand miles in the state without ever using a road by 1986. And we know, while aging, that gets easier everyday.

The Trails Alliance is a group of trails organizations pushing for development of the plan. Some are horse riders; others promote cross-country skiing, while still others are for whirlies. The group started a few years ago as more recreational trail ribbons; some a few months away from being opened, when they dropped money-losing. The railroads are perfect trails—but a few years ahead. Some even have visitor centers at busy times, or turn around under handshake bridges.

But converting an unseasoned railroad bed to a trail isn't that simple. About 3,000 miles of these trails have been abandoned in the last 15 years in Michigan, and about 400 miles more are considered possible by 1986. However, less than 200 miles have been purchased for public ownership, and those are primarily in the Upper Peninsula.

Another problem is that no particular state agency oversees such a project. Should DNR work with its "natural" attitude—oversee such a project? Or should it come under another department of Transportation? Sometimes, purchasing a rail bed is difficult because of the complex bids, fundamental, accident liability and other reasons. Usually, adjacent property owners want to acquire the land—they let the land open for people to walk or snowmobile on publicly.

But the proposed trail program is an official state recreational park project. And, state must spend at least 10% of highway funds on nonmotorized transportation projects, and that brought in $7 million for such trails last year. A compromise can be reached. Bicycle riders are seeing more streets and a variety of community.

This Week's Question, Asked by Jackie Peck:
What is your favorite wintertime recreational activity?
And why?

I love all outdoor activities because I hate sitting in the house.
Annette Prich

ice skating, because it keeps me warm while I'm outside.
Loretta Howard

Building snowforts, so I can throw snowballs without being hit.
Joel Tate

Walking in the snow, because I like the way it looks when it's just fallen.
Loretta Beckett

Snowball fights, because I like to be with my friends.

THE LIGHTS OF OUR CHOSEN FAITH BRIGHTEN OUR HOLIDAY

The colored bulbs on house and town
Proclaim the holiday ahead.
For you, and those who know you,
When nighty candles burn instead.
Sometimes these lights will coincide;
Though this year there is no sport.
One definition is applied:
They're both occasions of joy.
And to the symbols which adorn
Our homes there are all for all to see:
To mark the night which first was born,
Or hail the Hebrews' victory;
A time to lower once again,
As lessons of each faith recall.
To illustrate by means of light
God's gift of love to one and all.

Understanding Tax Rates of Next Year’s Refunds

The first step should be the preparation of a written budget. All recurring income sources, such as your income and that of your spouse, interest, dividends, social security and any other funds, should be listed. This list should be broken down into cash and non-cash income. The next step is to determine deductions that you can claim for your home, car, and other items. These deductions should be taken into account when planning your budget.

Your retirement could be the best years of your life. Or the worst. Because unless you plan for it now, you may find yourself struggling to enjoy your retirement.

There’s Social Security, of course, but it’s just possible it may not be enough in the years ahead.

That’s why you need to start planning for your retirement now. Your IRA can help with that.

And you won’t have to pay any taxes on that money, or on the interest it earns, until you withdraw it when you retire.

For more detailed information about your IRA, please contact a Mutual Savings office near you.

Lakers not important early league hoop victory

By RICH SWANBERG

The Lakers, led by a career-high 30 points from center Greg Johnson, won their first game of the season, 105-91,
over the East High School Trojans.

Johnson, who had been struggling with a foot injury, scored 30 points on 21-of-27 shooting from the field and 8-of-10 from the free-throw line. His total was the highest in the Lakers’ history.

Johnson’s performance helped the Lakers to their first victory of the season, after two losses to start the year.

The Lakers outscored the Trojans by 18 points in the fourth quarter to seal the win.
