Economy forces business changes

By RICH

SWARTZENDRUBER

A business operating in Pigeon for more than 60 years will close its doors and radically change its focus in the near future.

Kraft, Inc. has been in the tile drainage business since Erich Kraft started the operation in 1926, but this Thursday, an inventory liquidation sale will mark the end of tile installation, at least for the foreseeable future, according to Kraft, Inc. Chief Executive Officer Lowell Kraft.

After involvement in recent years in tile, highway and airport drainage construction, sales of tile installation equipment, seawall construction and rental equipment, the corporate entity will be used by Kraft to perform consulting and engineering work in the drainage industry.

ECONOMIC SQUEEZE: A poor agricultural economic climate in recent years and intense competition in the drainage industry in the Thumb Area took its toll on Kraft, Inc., Lowell Kraft says.

"The lack of spendable capital investment dollars among farmers for tile installation was the biggest factor," Kraft says.

"Farmers are getting a terrific bargain in tile installation right now because competition is keen and tubing

CLOSING THE DOORS: Kraft, Inc. Chief Executive Officer Lowell Kraft will close the doors of the present Kraft, Inc. building after an inventory liquidation sale this weekend. The corporate entity will continue, but its focus will change from tile installation to a consulting function.

prices are low. There are going to have to be some price increases or others are going to be getting out of the business also," he predicts.

FEW REGRETS: "I regret having to lay off the people who worked here. We're trying to help all of them get jobs and all but three of our 10 employees have now found different jobs," Kraft said.

"If I have any regrets it would be not getting out of the business two years ago."

OPPORTUNITIES: With the change in focus to consulting, the building owned by Kraft, Inc. is now for sale or rent. Kraft hopes another business can use the facility to help contribute to Pigeon's improving economic situation.

He mentions the rental service could be a good chance for an established business in Pigeon.

"It's an opportunity for someone in town to make themselves known as a rental center. It won't support itself in a community as small as Pigeon. It has to be part of a going business," Kraft observes.

Leipprandt new Co-op marketer

By RICH SWARTZENDRUBER

Several changes at Cooperative Elevator Company were noted by Board Chairman Gerald Elenbaum at a recent board meeting. He pointed out the occasion marked the last board meeting for Ted Leipprandt as Chief Executive Officer in view of his retirement as CEO, effective July 1. John Kohr will take over as CEO and President of the cooperative on that date.

Another change Elenbaum happily announced was that Leipprandt will begin a new assignment as a marketing specialist for the Co-op, effective Oct. 1.

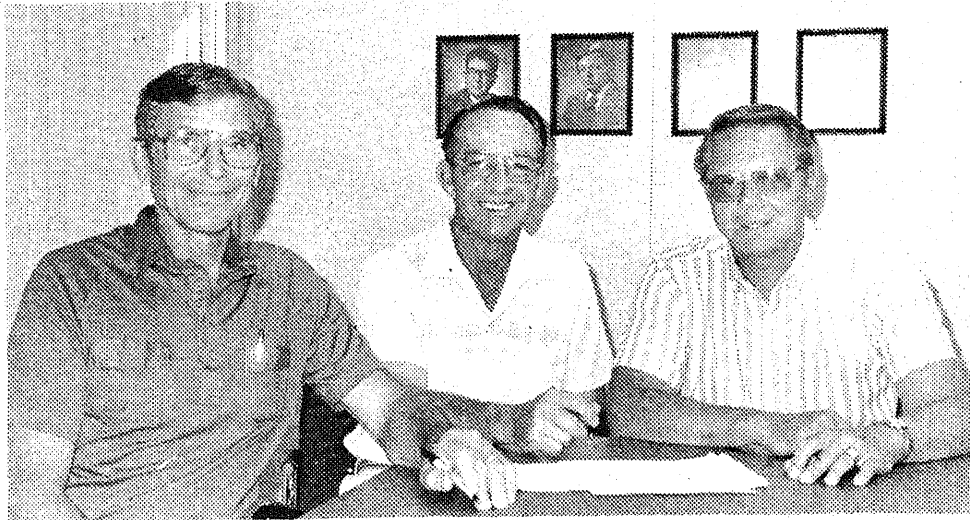

NEW CEO KOHR: Kohr has been employed with Co-op for 25 years and has most recently served in the capacity of marketing vice president.

He is very active in professional and community organizations as a member of Michigan Bean Shippers Board, Valley Marketing Board, Pigeon Lions Club, as well as serving as a Winsor Township officer and fireman.

He and his wife Dianne live in Pigeon and have four children and two grandchildren.

LEADERSHIP HISTORY: Kohr will be the fifth person to head the 72-year-old cooperative which was organized in 1915.

M-24 MEETING JUNE 30

Area residents who could be affected by a proposed extension of state highway M-24 from Caro northwest to Unionville are invited to attend an informational open house sponsored by state Department of Transportation on Tuesday, June 30, at USA Elementary School, 2966 Church Street, Unionville.

MDOT officials will be on hand from 3:30 to 5 p.m. and again from 7 to 8:30 p.m. to answer questions on the status of the proposed project.

"This is a very informal situation," stressed Public Hearings Officer Philip Chisholm. "There is no formal presentation of the project. Our people will be there to talk with area residents on a one-on-one basis."

The extension project would involve a combination of upgrading existing roads and new construction. The right-of-way width for the improved roads, including M-138, has been reduced from 150 to 100 feet, but the project would require acquisition of property from both sides of the road involved.

Information on the planning project or any other MDOT planning project may be obtained by calling 373-9534, they say.

POWER RACE SET AUG. 29

Lower Saginaw Bay is the location for the first 1987 Michigan stop in the American Power Boat Association's national off-shore race, coming Saturday, Aug. 29.

Upwards of 50,000 spectators could watch the races, featuring boats up to 50 feet in length with two to four engines -- which can reach up to 140 miles per hour. Between 50 and 70 boats are expected to compete in eight divisions according to John Burdick, a consultant for the Offshore Racing Commission of Detroit, which sanctions such events.

This race formerly had been held in Cleveland, Ohio, but that event was cancelled, leaving open the date for Saginaw Bay use.

Bay County Chamber officials say a parade featuring the boats will be planned Thursday, Aug. 27, and official test day is Friday, Aug. 28, with qualifying on the Saginaw River and Bay. The Bay Harbor Classic begins at noon on Aug. 29, and the race may be picked up for national broadcast by cable TV sports channel ESPN.

It could pump up to $4 million in tourist dollars into the local economy, officials add.

Race course begins at Bay City and proceeds northeast in the bay, to Point Lookout off Au Gres, back southwesterly toward Standish and zig-zagging to Bay City. Each lap is 60 miles long -- but at 100-plus mph, they shouldn't take long, experts agree.

The only other such Michigan event -- conducted annually at Grand Haven -- drew about 400,000 spectators last year.

SOLO RACE IS UNDERWAY

Nearly two-dozen brave -- and single -- sailboat skippers left Saturday on the 585-mile course from Port Huron to St. Joseph, in the 'Huron-Michigan Single-handed Challenge' race conducted for solo sailors every few years.

Finishing is almost as important as winning in solo events, as just three sailors have accomplished the total Huron-Michigan race -- compared with the 3000 or so who race annually in the Port Huron to Mackinac event for crews each July.

Sailors say the world's longest freshwater solo race should take about 10 days to complete. Most solo skippers sleep 15 to 20 minutes at a time, and carry several kitchen-type timers to help stay awake.

480,000 WALLEYES RELEASED

The state Department of Natural Resources last week released 480,000 walleye fingerlings in the two-inch range into Saginaw Bay, bringing to eight million the projected number of walleye now swimming around the bay.

The fish planting program is now in its 10th year, and DNR officials believe the process imitates natural reproduction so well that fish numbers are growing well.

Most of the newly released fish were placed near Linwood, Tawas Bay and near Quanicassie, the DNR says. The Saginaw Bay Walleye Club assisted in the two-day release.

GET LIFE INSURANCE THAT "PAYS FOR ITSELF"

If you hate paying bills, especially life insurance premiums, you'll like Quick Pay. Your policy can begin to "pay for itself" in as few as five years. That means no more out-of-pocket expenses.

The earning power and flexibility of universal life make Quick Pay possible. Your policy earns current interest rates on an income-tax deferred basis. When you've paid premiums for the number of years you selected, the policy begins to pay for itself from the cash values which have built up. Naturally, changes in interest and mortality rates will affect your policy's cash value.

Look at some ways you could design your own Quick Pay program:

| Number of Years To Pay | Annual Premium @7% interest rate | Annual Premium @9% interest rate |
|--------------------------|----------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 5 | $2,677 | $1,751 |
| 8 | 1,844 | 1,275† |

Farver Farm receives centennial certification

By RICH SWARTZENDRUBER
 The days when early settlers in the Thumb Area had to carve their farms out of the woods while defending themselves from wolves were remembered when a Michigan Centennial Farm marker was presented to Clifford Farver, his wife Mary and his brother Floyd last week by Detroit Edison representative Richard Leach.

Floyd remembers hearing how his grandfather, Thomas Farver, scouted out some land near the site of the present centennial farm on Farver Road, about 2 1/2 miles north of M-142 and west of Elkton.

Traveling from Caseville through the woods, a dog with Farver was killed by a wolf and he had to seek overnight shelter for his own safety.

TRUE PIONEER: Thomas came to the Thumb Area from Pennsylvania by way of Saginaw about 1862. He then took a boat to Oak Point and worked in the Crawford Lumber Mill in Caseville and also fished at Oak Point for several years, before staking a claim on some land in the 1870s.

On Aug. 1, 1863, 100 acres (which is now the centennial farm) was officially decided to Thomas Farver. The family still has the original homestead deed which was signed by then U.S. President Chester Arthur.

The farm was bought by his youngest son Thomas H. Farver about 1900. About 1960, Clifford and Floyd purchased the farm from their father, Thomas H. Clifford now owns 120

OBSERVATIONS BY CO-PUBLISHER MARK RUMMEL AND ANYBODY ELSE HE CAN GET TO WRITE 'EM !'

NEWS REPORTS: Folks in and around our beautiful Western Thumb Area have been making news in the past week or so, in news stories published in good out-of-town papers. These stories are all EXCELLENT boosters for our area, such as:

■ FRIDAY, JUNE 19: The Detroit Free Press carried a very nice story with a Thumb Area map, outlining all the festivals and special events going on now through August, under the heading "The Thumb is plumb full of fun in the summertime."

Quoted first was Bay Port's Henry Engelhard (who's almost a legend himself...), talking about its famous slogan "Where the fish are so big they catch the fisherman." Nice job, John Gonzalez, staff writer.

■ MONDAY, JUNE 15: The Bay City Times ran an excellent story about another local "legend," Sand Point developer George Beadle. He, his wife Jeanette and their newly-hired promoter Christine Moore are featured in a fine story, four photos and a map "Youth joins experience in Huron" — all talking about the excellence of Sand Point. Truly, a boost for our whole area! Nicely done, staff writer Tom Gilchrist.

■ SUNDAY, JUNE 14: Bay City Times' writer Karl Albert turned out a fine story (with three pictures) of the Prozman Family's Delcath Farm near Caseville, known as an "ultra-modern milk factory." Dairy farmers Bruce and Evelyn Protzman plus their son and daughter-in-law Gary and Deann are highlighted in another excellent job, titled "Caseville farm is modern 'milk factory.'"

Did you know, for example, that they use surveillance cameras (as in big-city department stores) to watch for cow changes in the barn? Also nicely done.

■ WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3: Please excuse a small personal indulgence here. I would be journalistically remiss if I DIDN'T reprint the truly SUPERB comments made by my cousin, Dan Rummel of Unionville, in a Detroit Free Press story titled "Macaroni: from box to bravo."

The Free Press had previously asked readers to tell them about how they use and enjoy macaroni... and Dan did just that. And I quote from his "Single man's week-long macaroni and cheese recipe:"

"I used this when I was single, years ago. It might explain why I was so willing to get married. But it was filling, quick and a little different every day."

• Sunday: Big Dinner at my folks'. Monday: Take two boxes mac and cheese, follow directions on box and now you have a dinner. Tuesday: Add one can whole kernel corn, salt, pepper and garlic.

• Wednesday: Take remainder, and add one can of peas and 1/2 cup sliced onion. Thursday: Add three hot dogs that are getting old in the fridge, two spoons of mustard and mix. Friday: Add 1/2 cup mushrooms and some sliced cheese and spice to taste.

• Saturday: Feed what is left to the dog, and call folks for Sunday Dinner."

Dan told The Free Press, "This main dish will keep getting better and better as you add from day to day. It might even go the whole week for less than $2. The next week, mix your days up and add the hot dogs on Tuesday instead of Thursday and so on. Try to be creative!"

Dan, your WRITING is what's creative in all this! Thanks for brightening the morning for more than 2 million Free Press readers that day! Luckily, Sally and I haven't been invited lately to eat at Dan's house (also home to wife Dawn and new bundle of joy S. Daniel, of course!)

acres of the original and Floyd owns the other 40 acres. Both of them rent out the land to other farmers.

COUNTRY SCHOOL: The oldest buildings on the farm are the barn and schoolhouse, both erected in 1906. With the exception of one boy who died as a baby, all of the 10 children of Thomas H. attended Farver School.

Although overgrown with trees and vegetation, the building still stands as a reminder of the many one-room schoolhouses that dotted the countryside of Huron County.

OUTSIDE JOB: As is the case with some farmers today, Thomas Farver had another source of income in addition to farming. He operated a sawmill, taking advantage of the large supply of wood generated when the woods was being cleared for farming and towns.

Floyd says his grandfather helped clear some of the land in Elkton and used the trees for his sawmill.

LOOKING BACK: The many changes over the years of the historic farm can be seen in a photo taken about 1909 or 1910. In the picture, family and hired farm workers proudly pose in front of two steam-powered tractors.

The large, cumbersome pieces of engineering technology generated only about 18 horsepower, but represented the progress of technology of that day over live horse power.

FAMILY FARMERS: This photo, taken about 1909 or 1910, shows members of the Farver family posing in front of the barn built in 1906 with "modern" steam-powered tractors.

From left are: Clarence Farver, Frank Farver, Thompson (first name unknown), Jonathon "Boney" Farver, Tommy Farver (on the wheel), Charlie Severn and Thomas H. Farver with daughter Flossie. Frank, "Boney" and Thomas H. Farver were all brothers. Clarence was the son of Frank Farver. One of the tractors was a "Peerless" and the other was called a "Huber."

Pigeon EDC supports Bay Area Airport plan

Pigeon Economic Development Corporation has unanimously endorsed the Bay Area Airport near Caseville, citing its benefits to business throughout the entire Western Thumb Area.

Pigeon EDC members unanimously approved a request to formally go on record in favor of the $1.4 million general aviation airport during the annual EDC meeting last Tuesday at the Pigeon District Library. The airport would be located in a portion of the two-mile area bounded by M-25, Crescent Beach, Caseville and Dunn Roads in Caseville Township.

The project will be funded by a 90% federal grant, plus 5% state and 5% local match. The Bay Aviation Club of Caseville has already pledged to maintain and operate the airport for up to 20 years, and the local match-portion has been raised, according to Joe Maust, Jr., Bay Aviation Club and Pigeon EDC member.

BIG IMPACT: Supporters say the airport will bring in up to $2.5 million in its first 17 years of operation, citing Michigan Department of Transportation figures which show $21 is earned from every person landing at such facilities. The EDC pledged to contact Caseville and Pigeon Villages, plus Townships of Winsor, McKinley and Fair Haven, to formally urge them to join the airport project. The Village of Caseville is the lone governmental body now pledging to support the airport.

FINANCES: The Pigeon EDC has total cash available of $45,986 according to the audit report by Donald Faupel. The group earned $691 in savings deposit interest in the past year and more than $4584 in land contract payments on various properties which have been sold to new businesses in recent years.

Previous notes totaling $8396 were paid off and more than $27,252 in loans and operating expenses were made in the year ending June 30. The balance in the EDC's account as of the audit on April 30 was $18,694. The membership's donations have generated assets worth more than $89,681, with liabilities of $77,302, mostly in land contracts and notes payable to its stockholders.

ELECTIONS: Two Board of Directors' members were re-elected and one new person named for three-year terms. Ron Heckman of Pigeon and Mary Otto of Thumb National Bank were re-elected.

Very often, the fate and direction of a person's life depends on how he or she views that situation. Look at the viewpoint negatively, and it will often turn out that way. On the other hand direct people living their lives as best they can. Even 35 years later, the facts are the same: "The negative thinker does a very dangerous thing: He constantly pumps out negative thoughts to the world. If you send negative thoughts, you're going to surround yourself with negativism."

"When one becomes positive, he has a great power."

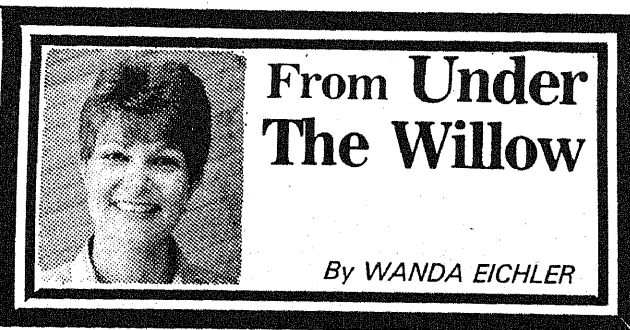

Those words were true then, and they still are now. The 89-year-old inspiration spoke at Detroit's Metropolitan United Methodist Church. He and his wife Ruth, coincidentally a Detroit native who attended the church as a girl, are working on a program to teach self-esteem to elementary school children.

Dr. Peale admits he isn't just looking at the world through rose colored glasses, as he attempts to put an optimistic bent on life. He acknowledges this era is probably the most stressful ever.

But his message still rings out clearly: Positive thinking can overcome all tragedies.

He hopes his self-esteem program for youngsters will one day be taught nationwide. "When one becomes positive," he told reporters, "he has a great power over... the body." Being at peace with life is part of the power of positive thinking, he added.

It all seems so simple -- but it's all so true.

40 years of blessing

Next Tuesday will see another Blessing of the Beans take place here in Pigeon at the Cooperative Elevator Company bean warehouse. The results of many hours of volunteer work of the Laker and Unionville-Sebewaing Future Farmers of America students who annually conduct a fall canvass for CROP donations and the offerings of area churches will come to fruition as 75,000 pounds of beans leave the Thumb area bound for the African country of Mozambique.

My recollection is that we haven't had a Blessing of the Beans for quite some time for a number of factors, timing of shipments being one. In a way, I suppose it is a kind of crazy thing to do. We all gather in a huge warehouse where we're surrounded by huge pallets of dry edible beans. We have some clergy present, some FFA representatives, some folks from the community and some folks from CROP in Lansing. Then we sing a hymn or two, talk about God's goodness to us and our responsibility to help others and say some words about the parts of the world that these particular beans are bound for.

After a prayer of blessing, everyone is on their way, including the 75,000 pounds of beans that will travel by truck to port in New Jersey this time. That's it -- just a short reverent reminder of the task accomplished.

But what meaning is tied up in those few minutes and sack after sack of beans? Here several communities and many different organizations and lots of people get together and say that it is a good thing to help others, especially to feed those who are hungry. This statement is made in spite of rainy falls and crop failures and dry springs and heavy doubt. So we gather money together and, through the organization of Church World Service/CROP, buy beans and ship them overseas to folks who need them more than we do.

The Pigeon area has been a part of shipping commodities overseas through CROP for 40 years now. As a matter of fact, we are the only community in the state of Michigan that can claim 40 years of support for CROP programs. Like I said, there is a lot of meaning tied up in those sacks of beans that will leave that warehouse next Tuesday morning.

So if you can make it for the Blessing of the Beans, come join the celebration at 10:30 a.m. on June 30. Stand side by side with FFA students, pastors, CROP people and neighbors as the beans are blessed before they begin their journey to Mozambique and families who need them. Be blessed yourself for your participation in the 1987 Western Thumb Area FFA/CROP Blessing of the Beans.

Dr. Peale's well-known viewpoint.

"If I were lost at sea in a lifeboat, I'd much rather be stuck with an optimist than a pessimist," says the school's psychology professor Michael Scheier. "I would expect an optimist to be able to row, and for a long period of time, because that person believes it will pay off."

"A pessimist would lay back in the sun, taking it easy, because he'd say 'What's the use?'" says Scheier -- who considers himself "slightly pessimistic."

His studies show people's viewpoint -- either positive or negative -- aren't just faces displayed to the world. They help determine what people do, how they feel... and may even have important health implications as well.

Researchers developed a scale to measure positive and negative viewpoints -- and discovered that people with a general sense of optimism handled stress better, recovered faster from coronary bypass surgery and were more successful in completing treatment for things such as alcoholism.

Good thoughts alone don't make things happen. Optimistic people are doers, concentrating on ways to solve difficulties, while pessimists are more passive, believing failure is inevitable.

The positive viewpoint has certainly been rewarding to Dr. Peale in his 89 years, and may even help explain his fine longevity. There's no shortage of optimism, either... if we just know where to find it -- and if we choose to search for and use it!

Retired teacher responds

DEAR EDITOR:

I believe you owe the Laker faculty an apology. I quote, "If a majority of taxpayers indeed want to pay teachers less, that's their choice -- but inferior instruction will result."

What a mean, hateful statement to publish in The Progress-Advance! Teachers have a right to the best of working conditions and a salary equal to or more than other professionals in the area. However, teachers are, by nature, caring people. Millages may fall but the teachers will continue to arrive promptly each morning and put in many extra hours reviewing the accomplishments of each day and making plans for the next. Money cannot compensate for the stress upon teachers who have to cope with personalities, because not many children come from perfect home situations.

Your statement is a condemnation of a great profession and I sincerely hope you are never guilty of such poor judgment again.

DEAR EDITOR:
 When I was quite young, Bad Axe was a long trip off. Once, one of my uncles drove over there with his old car, but it wasn't an old car then and he only had one flat tire that trip. So he thought he'd done pretty well.

Once, when I was still quite young, I was there and it was a very hot day. That was before they had the streets paved and a team of horses was hitched to a big wagon with a water tank on it. They were sprinkling the streets to keep the dust down!

My Father used to have business there with the bank and would go to Bad Axe quite often. I got to go with him once in a while. Last Sunday, I drove over there to see the big Sesqui-centennial Parade. I had to park on a back street and didn't know where to stand. I heard somebody call "Hello, George," and here was Doug Honaker from Pigeon and his family, sitting in the shade. They even had several empty chairs to sit on.

Well, we had a good visit and a good place to see the parade. And when the parade finally came, it was a real good. I saw a lot of people I knew and many called hello to me. Then a real old Model T Ford came down the street -- and here Lillian Leipprandt and Hugo Leipprandt were sitting in the back seat! They were contestants in the senior king and queen contest.

Hugo told me that the fellow who drove it didn't know how to run it and had it pretty hot. Instead of using the gas lever for speed, he used it to low clutch.

I used to run them, and I grew up with Model T's. Although my Dad did run a gear-shift car, he could handle a Model T the best. I never saw so many two-cylinder John Deere tractors in one place as I saw in that parade! They were all kinds of models and ages. Many had tires on them that I knew were put on. Stanley Shetter came popping along on the last one, with a big straw hat on. After the parade, I went over to the Fair grounds, but it was really hot there. I saw many people I know and many people who knew me. One was Howard Bannick and his sons. He made two steam engines that he often has in parades.

He told me he used to live south of the former Decker School on Nolter Road. His Father was road commissioner in Winsor Township and they built many roads in the township while he was in office.

He used to have two threshing machines going at one time. I don't know how soon I'll do it, but sometime I'm going to Bad Axe and visit him!

In a recent issue of The Progress-Advance, there was a picture of the Dan Swartzendruber celebrating their 70th wedding anniversary. He is the last uncle I have, for he was a brother to my Mother. I was still quite young, but I remember when they got married. One of the boys I was playing with had to go home because he had the measles. It was a big wedding and many people were there -- and anybody who didn't have the measles got them!

My sisters and I got them and uncle Dan got them, too, the next week. In Prov. 10:7 it says, "The memory of the just is blessed, but the name of the wicked shall rot." Well, I'll always have a good memory of my Uncle Dan and Aunt Mary and I hope my nieces and nephews can say the same about me.

Several weeks ago a local production that achieved a new low in TV programming had Hamtramck as its local. It was such a disaster that station officials sent apologies to the city and its people.

A radio news item tonight referred to that incident and prompted some reminiscences of Mama's teaching days.

Whether some wrong home addresses were deliberately given, Mama never knew -- but those home visits presented some situations not mentioned in her college text books.

In Memphis, Gaylord -- yes, even in Pigeon -- she knew there were some who strayed at times from the place who could speak English and who would help her.

After some months on the job Mama became sufficiently street-wise to avoid trouble. There was a positive side to those home visits. She saw clean homes, she noted the willingness to work hard and she sensed the strong family loyalties.

After two years on the continuation school assignment, girls who had an office job achieved considerable status among family and friends.

Mama had few problems in the classroom but an ex-

Mama found the solution to her problem in 1928. On June 23 of that year she got married and thereafter her reasons for refusing Sunday white lies because on many Sundays we splurged and went to the Chidwa Tea Room. Their Sunday special was a good meal with coffee and dessert included in the 65-cent price.

Lori Diener marries John Rathje at Cross

Cross Evangelical Lutheran Church, Pigeon, was the site of wedding vows spoken between Lori Lynn Diener and John Marlin Rathje, both of Pigeon, on Saturday, June 6.

Pastor Raymond E. Orth, assisted by Pastor Ronald J. Diener, uncle of the bride, joined the couple together in marriage in a double-ring ceremony before 400 relatives and friends.

The bride is the daughter of Dennis and Carol Diener and the groom is the son of Marlin and Marian Rathje, all of Pigeon.

Special wedding music included the selections "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer," sung by soloist Maria Schumacher accompanied by Kevin Laursen on the piano.

The altar was decorated with white arrangements of snagdragons, fuji pompon mums, Princess Ann mums, carnations and gypsophilia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her mother's wedding gown of white satin and chantilly lace with three chiffon ruffles on the sides and back and large chiffon roses on each ruffle. The lace was trimmed with tiny pearls. The dress was designed and fashioned by her mother.

Her bridal attire was complemented by a hat of white satin and chantilly lace adorned with tiny pearls.

The bride carried an old-fashioned romantic cascade of flowers made up of gardenias, stephanotis and accented with apricot nectar roses.

The bride chose a friend, Anne Orth of Pigeon, to be her maid of honor, assisted by bridesmaids Shelly Wissner of Owendale and Lisa David of Sparta, both friends of the bride. They were attired identically in floor-length gowns of marigot blue chiffon, each detailed with a soft drape neckline, short shirred sleeves and a soft easy skirt. The attendants carried airy cascades of stephanotis and apricot nectar roses, dotted with tiny bits of blue silk flowers and gypsophilia.

Flowergirl was Michelle Mohr of Pigeon, cousin of the bride.

The groom asked a friend, Robert Miller of Spring Arbor, to be his best man. Groomsman was Dennis Diener, Jr., Southfield, brother of the bride and Brad Farver of Bad Axe, friend of the groom.

Helping guests to their seats were ushers Kevin Kausch of Owendale, friend of the bride and James Rathje of Yale, brother of the groom.

Ringbearer was Bradley Shaw of Pigeon, nephew of the groom.

The groom's mother chose a royal blue tea-length satin and lace dress with spaghetti straps and a lace button sequins on the right shoulder and sleeves. Her corsage was of junior bridesmaid pink sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Following the wedding ceremony, guests from Michigan and Ohio gathered at the Pigeon VFW Hall in celebration of the event.

The bride is a 1985 graduate of Laker High School and is studying Accounting at CMU. Her husband, a 1984 Laker graduate, is majoring in Physics at CMU.

Something To Think About

JOHN A. CHAMPAGNE DIRECTOR

A CHILD'S VISITS

Should children visit the grave of a loved one? By all means. There is nothing gloomy or macabre about it. In fact, one is tempted to say that regular visits by a child to the grave site should be encouraged.

Such visits aid the mourning process through its stages of unfoldment. They help the child come to terms with the permanence of the situation. They provide the child with an act that can be performed in the face of so much passive acceptance, a kind of ritual pilgrimage that can be renewed over and over again and which will hopefully help offset the feelings of helplessness brought by the overpowering act of death. In this vein, it might be wise to introduce young children to the concept of death itself by occasional visits to a local cemetery. This is a tranquil and natural way to broach the topic, and most children respond to these strangely meditative places with curiosity and pertinent questions.

DEAR MR. ROSS: My son lives in Kentucky in a small trailer with his wife and four beautiful children (ages two to 18). He has been in and out of the hospital numerous times with a bad back. He has a small body shop where he works on farm machinery. In his small town there is hardly enough work to support his family. My son doesn't drink or smoke and is a good man. He is very troubled because his family has to go outside in all kinds of weather to the outhouse, especially because his two year old has respiratory problems. He has managed to pipe water into their trailer, but cannot afford a commode because of the expense of a septic tank. A company has asked $3,000 to put it in. However, my son has a personal friend who promised to put in the tank and commode for $300. I would like so very much to help him, but we have no money. If you could see fit to give him just $300, it would be a Godsend. — Mrs. R.C., Dayton, Ohio.

DEAR MRS. C.: No more trips to the outdoor facility. Get your son's friend lined up for installation because I'm kicking in the $300. — $$$$$$—

DEAR MR. ROSS: I've gotten into big trouble with my credit charges. Now I realize "unlimited" credit doesn't reach into infinity — there is a limit. Almost everything I charged was a necessity. Could you work out a financial payment plan for me? If nothing else, I suppose I could return the VCR and big screen TV. — G.L., Fort Myers, Fla.

DEAR MR. L.: It's funny how quickly a luxury becomes a necessity when you can charge it. I've got a new financial plan for you — it's called cash. Pay 100% down at the time of purchase and nothing every month thereafter. — $$$$$$—

DEAR MR. ROSS: I'm writing in behalf of my parents. Mother will soon be 80 and cares for my dad, who will soon be 86. He's an invalid and also a diabetic. Each month she must pay $36 for disposable bed pads to keep dad's bed dry. She has made large cloth diapers which must be washed each day. This places a heavy strain on her physically. What she really needs is some "Depends" disposable diapers, but there's no way they can afford the cost. If you could help in any way, it would be appreciated. — Their Daughter, St. Louis, Mo.

DEAR DAUGHTER: This will probably open a can worms with my readers, but here I go again! My check will cover six months' worth of Depends for your father. I hope it helps provide a little rest time for your mother. — $$$$$$—

DEAR MR. ROSS: Maybe you like helping homosexuals, but then you probably don't have to work around them. There's something that ain't natural about those people. If God had intended man to be with man, why did He bother to make woman? I'm just standing up for my principles. — Mr. J.A.,

Spokane, Wash.

DEAR MR. A.: Maybe you think you're standing up for a principle, but it sounds to me like you're defending a prejudice. — $$$$$$—

Caseville School revenues up

By RICH SWARTZENDRUBER
The great interest and debate about the Laker financial condition is the actually increased about 4.4%. Because farmland makes up such a small portion of the Caseville district, overall

RESIGNATION: Board accepted the resignation of first grade teacher Laura Sawatzki, who is getting married and moving from general office; replacement of 178 feet of sidewalk from Vine Street to the main entrance and from Pine Street to the side entrance near the Boiler Room. (to conform to hearing last Monday. At the regular monthly Board meeting which followed the hearing, a budget for the 1987-88 school year was approved. Anticipated revenues total $1.135 million with expected expenses pegged at $1.134 million, according to Superintendent James Stahl.

MILLAGE CUT: Last month Stahl noted that Caseville's financial situation is different than most Thumb Area school districts. While neighboring districts such as Lakers suffer from a significant drop in revenues due to falling values of farmland, property in the Caseville district has

School to cut its millage rate or conduct a public hearing to explain why revenues must increase above the rate specified in the law, Stahl says.

Although no official action has been taken, Stahl says he expects the Board to lower the district rate from the current operating millage rate of 18.25 mills to 17.7 to meet Headlee requirements.

DATE CHANGE: Due to time requirements of the annual Board reorganization meeting, the next regular monthly Board meeting will be Monday, July 13 at 7 p.m. in the school library, with Board reorganization taking place at the same meeting.

dent accident insurance through Student Assurance Service. The price for grades K-6 will be $8 per student and grades 7-12 for $14 each.

That price would cover accidents during the school day, with additional 24-hour coverage and major medical also available at a higher cost.

Insurance for football players will also be offered for $44 per student. Stahl noted 14 players purchased the coverage last year.

BIDS: Board authorized Stahl to seek bids on carpeting for all office areas; new drapery for the teacher lounge; superintendent's office and school the July Board meeting with the exception of the bus bid, Stahl says.

St. Paul's, Linkville re-dedicates enlarged church

ST. PAUL'S, LINKVILLE members are proud of their newly-remodeled and enlarged church, which was rededicated in special services on Sunday, June 14.

Sunday, June 14 was a joyous day for members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Linkville, when the church observed a Re-Dedication.

Following the ribbon-cutting ceremony, a crowd of worshippers sang "Lift High the Cross" as they filed into the newly-remodeled and enlarged church.

Pastor Walter Rutkowski of Sterling Heights preached the dedication sermon to the members and many guests who had been members under Pastor Rutkowski's leadership from 1937-43.

Under the direction of organist Faye Errer, the children's choir, adult choir and flute soloists performed hymns of praise and thanksgiving.

ELKTON SENIOR CITIZENS

There were 49 senior citizens in attendance at the Elkton luncheon last week, with Mildred Tilt giving the table grace. Chairman Mike Renn greeted Judy Brown and daughter Cheryl Lynn, guests of Della Trudgen.

He thanked Carl and Lillian Kuntzman for the 50th anniversary cake and Mary Matthews, who furnished ice cream to go with it in honor of her birthday.

Sesquicentennial King and Queen Mike and Millie Renn were thanked for their entering the contest and now will represent Huron County.

"God Bless America" was sung and the pledge of allegiance repeated. The birthday song was sung for Mary Matthews, Orville Eidt and Welthy Schadd. "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" was sung for the Kuntzmanns in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Della Trudgen read the minutes and a thank you from the Renns for choosing them to represent the group in the "King and Queen" contest. She also read an invitation from the Dan Dietzel family to help them celebrate their 25th anniversary on Sunday, June 28 from 1:30-3:30 in the Elkton Methodist Church Hall.

Alvina Walsh had a card to be signed for the 100th birthday of May Stevens on June 22.

A basketball camp at Laker High is scheduled for June 29-July 3, according to Director Joel Leipprandt. The sessions will run from 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m. each day. The coaching staff will include Spring Arbor College Assistant Coach Rob Miller, Laker Girls' Varsity Coach Paul Beachy, former Laker Victor and Phyllis Bickler. The planning stage for the project began in 1982 under Pastor Paul Hoyer, and became a reality as many volunteers assisted with the project. The Christmas Eve service was conducted in the completed interior, but ramps were finished in the spring.

The congregation and present pastor, Rev. Ray C. Glend, express their thanks to God for the blessings He has bestowed and thanks to all who participated.

WANTED: Drivers for seniors

Human Development Commission is enlisting the aid of volunteers to provide rides for seniors who need to go to the doctor, drug store, grocery store, meal site, hospital or other important appointments.

Volunteers are paid mileage by HDIC to cover expenses, says Mary Ann Vandemark, executive director of HDIC - but they receive nothing for their time, except the appreciation they get from seniors who would otherwise have to cancel their appointments.

MORE OFFERINGS: Another service is SENIOR HOME REPAIR, targeted at implementing safety measures around the home. Minor home repairs, installing safety rails, smoke alarms, making ceiling repairs and basic weatherization procedures are among services provided. Persons 60 and over may qualify for Senior Home Repair by calling HDIC staff people.

MORE TO: There are other services from HDIC. Director Vandemark explained, including CHORE SERVICE and the FOSTER GRANDPARENT PROGRAM.

CHORE SERVICE involves non-continuous household tasks, such as installing storm windows or screens, washing walls or replacing door or window locks, which may be too difficult for older individuals, are included.

In the FOSTER GRANDPARENT PROGRAM, seniors with the time, interest and caring may establish a consistent one-to-one relationship with young people in need of special attention.

That may help someone read or play, take walks or take time to talk together to provide encouragement, sponsors at the HDIC say.

Senior Services Programs do not charge for such services, but donations are accepted and encouraged. Donations are put back into the program, so more area people can be served.

Anyone who needs such programs, or can provide services, is invited to call the HDIC in Caro at 673-4121 or 1-800-846-6394, the director stated.

The public is invited to attend a meeting of concerned local persons involving our schools. It's set this Thursday, June 25 at the park pavilion at Pigeon Elementary School, at 7:30 p.m. Thank you.

There was a free car wash at Cross Lutheran School Saturday, from 9 to 11 a.m., sponsored by Cross Lutheran League. It's just one small way for us to demonstrate to you the love of Jesus Christ.

Another way we are attempting to share Christ's love is by collecting funds to help support our handicapped foster child, through Christian Children's Fund. If you would like to help us with this or our other Luther League projects, your contributions will be greatly appreciated. Thank you.

You no voters are disgusting. Just wait until they close YOUR school. You'll cry and say you want to keep it open and that you'll pay more taxes, but it will be too late. It's not fair we in Bay Port have to suffer and you don't.

Yes, I think it's fine if PTL lets Jim and Tammy come back. That way, the Internal Revenue Service will know just where to find them when they're arrested for bilking millions of dollars out of innocent but stupid followers.

Why after all these years do we need to expand the Lakers kitchen? Wasn't it good enough

To the person(s) in Elkton who have been telling LIES about a particular situation. You are hurting everybody involved, but mostly you are hurting the person who you have been lying to. Please, before any more lies are told, GET ALL THE FACTS STRAIGHT.

FB, your wife complains about wanting the millage to pass. Then why don't you pay for trash pickup and stop dumping your trash in the sand pit outside Bay Port, before they lock it up too? No, they wanted us suckers to give them everything they desire. It's rotten that the Bay Port School is closed. It's rotten there won't be any buses. This is being done to make the parents beg! Maybe they would have gotten more mills if they hadn't been so greedy. It is tough to go to the store and buy only the necessities, no extras.

It is tough to be a senior citizen and live on Social Security alone.

Please consider all the people when thinking about a millage increase.

The other day I was in the laundromat and this beautiful young lady came in and headed for the phone. You would not believe the foul language that came out of her mouth - more four-letter words I have never heard.

It really made me think her mouth was a lot dirtier than my laundry. In my eyes, the beauty of this young woman left. It's bad enough when men talk this way, but why women?

I wonder if the hospital board members are aware many supervisors are stepping down from their positions of responsibility? Do the board members know why? Or don't they care? They certainly haven't given employees any reason to believe they do care.

It is true the sixth grade is going to the junior high next year?

The float "Preserve Our Heritage," sponsored by the Bad Axe Historical Society, captured the theme trophy in Huron County's Sesquicentennial Parade conducted June 14 in Bad Axe.

More than 110 entries containing over 200 individual units participated, according to Parade Chairman Bob Brueggeman of Bad Axe, formerly of Pigeon.

Theme of the parade was "Memories of Yesteryear." The Historical Society's float centered around a log home and the organization's planned July 25 and 26 historic homes tour.

Other parade awards included: St. Mary's of Parisville, most original; Trinity Lutheran Church of Elkton, most beautiful; Chuck's Plumbing of Harbor Beach, most comical and John Ballard of Sebewaing, senior citizens' float award.

Michael and Mildred Renn of Elkton, sponsored by the Elkton Senior Citizens, were crowned Sesquicentennial King and Queen for Huron County at the reunion picnic which followed the parade.

First runners-up were Harold and Isabel Richards of Harbor Beach, sponsored by the Senior Diner and Services organization of Harbor Beach and second runners-up were Leonard and Ermythe Seley of Elkton, sponsored by the Elkton Women's Civic Club.

Honorable mentions went to Hugo and Lillian Leipprandt, sponsored by the Pigeon Historical Society; William and Helen Russell of Elkton, sponsored by the Village of Elkton; Jack McGeachy and Mrs. Bernice Wearsch, sponsored by the Bad Axe Historical Society; Vean Badgley and Mrs. Fern Copeland of Bad Axe, sponsored by the Huron County Gem and Mineral Society and Robert Maschke and Mrs. Atilia Sonik of Port Hope, sponsored by the Port Hope Retirees Club.

Mrs. Ruby Maschke of Port Hope, Mrs. Bernice Haley of Bad Axe and Norman Schroder of Sebewaing judged the candidates during a gathering earlier in the week. Area merchants donated a number of prizes for the winners and all contestants.

The King and Queen and the Sesquicentennial float will be available for other area parades throughout the summer. Organizations wishing to sponsor them for an event may call 269-6431.

GOD'S LOVE HAS PROVIDED THE COLORS OF NATURE FOR SUMMER

Now Scorpio, the letter "J", Emblazoned in the southern sky Adjacent to the Milky Way, Presents a dazzling sight on high. It's time for our escape from chores, Regardless of what's left undone; We'll move into the great outdoors To have our season in the sun And study what the Lord has made, Observing nature close at hand; With all its wonders now displayed By teaming life throughout the land. The lessons of our faith will strive To show what God's great love is worth; For all creation comes alive When carefree summer warms the earth.

Warm summer sun, shine friendly here.

Bible comes to life at unique VBS

By RICH SWARTZENDRUBER

Bible stories came to life for 82 children at a Vacation Bible School sponsored by Bay Port and Hayes United Methodist Churches. An experiential learning concept called "Bible Times Marketplace" was used at the Hayes location to give the children a background of the Jewish culture that existed during the three-year earthly ministry of Jesus Christ. The children were divided into "families" named after the 12 disciples and the groups were guided by an Ema (mother) through the marketplace. Each morning a member of each "family" had to draw water from the well. Other activities they experienced included: acting out the story of Zacchaeus under an actual sycamore tree, visiting the Sea of Galilee (Pigeon River), inspecting fish nets, being approached by a tax collector and a beggar, meeting a "Rabbi" in the Temple, visiting a storyteller and meeting in an outdoor chapel. The children also observed live sheep, saw wool transformed to yarn on a spinning wheel and watched rope being made. The students also learned to make rope belts, money bags, sandals, band instruments and scrolls.

LEARNING BY DOING: "The children didn't open a Bible once during the week, but they learned a lot of verses in their "families," said Bible School Director Marie Leipprandt. She admitted the unusual type of Bible school created much more work than the traditional approach, but with the help of 40 volunteer workers, the event was successful. The children enjoyed the experiential approach so much there were no discipline problems, Leipprandt said.

REAL FOOD: In keeping with the spirit of the event, snacks for the students included bread, butter, honey, fresh and dried fruit as well as apple and grape juice. "The kids loved that stuff. They didn't miss the cookies and Kool Aid whatsoever," noted Leipprandt. The students also helped make some of the bread and butter they enjoyed for snacks.

MUSIC: The youngsters also had a slightly different twist on the musical portion of the Bible school. Jewish songs and folk dances replaced the traditional singing for the children.

PERFECT SETTING: The spacious surroundings, the nearby river and woods were ideal for the unique Bible school. The event is even more meaningful to Hayes members after experiencing a more menacing river last fall when the church was flooded. The spirit of cooperation and willingness to volunteer to help with clean-up work carried over to this spring when extra work was required to offer the experiential type of Bible school, concluded Leipprandt.

LOTS OF TENTS: Some young children play more traditional games as other Vacation Bible School students visit displays in the many tents erected on the site at Hayes United Methodist Church.

STORY TIME: Storyteller Thelma Wilson captures the attention of the children with a story during the unique Bible school at Hayes.

Wednesday, July 1 is the day to change your calendar and it is also the date of the Singpiration, a part of Top-of-the-Thumb Leisure Ministries Vespers.

Residents and vacationers are invited to come to the Caseville United Methodist Church and join in singing led by Dale and Floris Wertz of Pigeon.

The program begins at 8 p.m. on Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Wertz live between Pigeon and Bay Port. He is serving his first term on the Huron County Board of Commissioners and is a well-known auctioneer. He has been master of ceremonies at many local functions. They are members of Salem United Methodist Church in Pigeon and use their talents in the music ministry there.

They will be leading congregational singing and providing special music as part of the program.

Following the musical service there will be fellowship and refreshments. Hostesses for the social time are members of Elkton's Missionary and United Methodist Churches. TTLM President Mavis Pechette will be the Board representative for the evening.

Wildlife neighbors

Eighteen years ago, when we built our first home, we faced a major decision as to the location. Both my wife and I favored the country and the freedom of the out-of-doors, but being the parents of 3 growing children, we also felt the necessity of staying close to town where school activities would take place. We finally decided on a lot near the edge of town, next to an area of vacated land, a small woodlot, and a nearby river. Although I still long for the log cabin in the pines, I feel satisfied that our decision was the right one, and as of late, some wildlife neighbors have made us feel right at home.

At a time when most anti-hunting groups are lamenting the destruction of all wildlife, both me and my wife, feel that the frequency of major wildlife sightings have greatly increased. True, we haven't been visited lately by the California condor, or the bald eagle, and I can't remember the last grizzly encounter on Anton Street, but we have witnessed some strange occurrences for town dwellers, and here are just a few of them.

A couple of years ago a deer family took up residence in the woods across from our house. It started as 2 but soon turned 3, a doe and 2 fawns. The buck, like most men, left town as soon as the kids got big. It was a welcome sight to rise in the morning and catch a glimpse of the family grazing in the grassy field next to our street.

One morning my wife called frantically to me while I was busy shaving. When I reached the bedroom and peered out the window, there was the doe tip-toeing across the front lawn. She paused at the edge of the street and then, as if prompted by someone with a cue card, bolted for the woods and the safety that lay beyond.

The deer aren't there anymore. A neighbor who lives in the woods told me that a family of wild dogs, (honest) moved in the area and chased the deer away.

There was also a time when a steady crop of corn in the field next door made a great feedlot for a family of pheasants.

Just last week, Sweetwife was on her way out of the house when she saw a rustling movement on the base of one of our pine trees. She investigated and found a strange looking brown bird sitting beneath the tree starting intently in her direction. When she approached, the bird jumped into the branches and continued to stare.

Suddenly she remembered the camera in the house and decided to record this event on film. After securing the camera she again approached the tree. This time when she got near, the bird jumped down from the branches and headed for the garage. She tried to circle him but he was too quick and with a burst of speed ran right into the garage. By this time Sweetwife was so excited with the possibility of the large bird being trapped in the garage, she completely forgot about the camera or the sensational pictures that might have occurred. Her only thoughts were to get that blasted bird out of the garage.

A sudden lunge on the part of Sweetwife was too much for the bird and he boomed down the driveway and with a roar of beating wings high-tailed it for the high areas across the road.

That evening, when I arrived home from work, I heard the breathless account of the bird encounter and a detailed description of the bird. I had an inkling of the species and it was confirmed when I showed my picture of a ruffled grouse.

Last week at work, I received a frantic call from the wife.

"A big turtle just crawled into my flower bed in front of the house," came the excited voice from the other end of the line.

"So!" I countered casually.

"So, I don't want to be working in the flowers and come face to face with a big turtle," the irritated voice on the other end of the line complained.

I bit my lip. Wonder who would be the most frightened, I thought?

This week's THUMB AREA OUTDOOR REPORT

Fishing in the Harbor Beach area has slowed down considerably during the past week. Sport fishermen and even charter captains, are having trouble locating the trout and salmon they know should be there. This strange occurrence is not out of the ordinary, as several times during the past couple of years the fish have suddenly become scarce. One thing for sure, the fisherman is one of the most dedicated species on earth, and it won't be long before he locates his quarry; once more. Anglers at the top of the Thumb seem to be faring much better. Although the lake trout have moved out as the warm weather of summer increases, they still have been feeding actively and that means full coolers for those who are willing to venture offshore in pursuit of the deep water fish. Walleye fishermen continue to have a "heyday" in the Charity Island region. Most of the great fishing continues to be south of Little Charity, and the walleye numbers are best termed a "lots". Many lures are taking fish, but if you are a "first timer" you can't go wrong with a few different colored Hot 'N Tots.

MUCC is joining the DNR and other conservation groups in trying to solve the mystery of Gravely and Little Gull Islands located in northern Lake Michigan. Sometime during the middle of May, persons landed on the island and destroyed almost 2,000 double-crested cormorant eggs. This type of cormorant is a threatened species in Michigan, and whoever destroyed the nest seemed to know what they were after as they left the gull eggs alone. The conservation groups are so outraged by this wanton act that they are offering a $6,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person, or people responsible. Dr. Kay Dodge, president of Michigan Audubon stated, "It is difficult to understand why anyone would want to destroy young birds in the egg. This is a threatened species that does not interfere with man's activities."

Camping has been super popular in the Thumb during the early part of this year's vacation season. Both State Parks have indicated that they are full most every weekend and have very few vacant sites during the week. Private parks seem to be a better bet for finding an open site, but the vast hordes of vacationers still prefer the beauty of both Sleeper and Port Crescent. The unseasonably warm weather of late probably has something to do with the early surge of camper seeking some relief from the hot and humid days.
