Bean donations blessed for 40th time

HURON COUNTY CROP. Founder Russell Harder, left, stands with Mrs. E.T. (Illie) Leiprandt, center, and her son Ted Leiprandt, retiring CEO of the Cooperative Elevator Company, which spearheaded the bean drive.

Blessing before the beans were loaded into 104 bushels from the processing plant via two trucks to Detroit, where they would be loaded onto rail cars to Battle Creek, Md., then freighted to Mispillion, Mozambique. From there the beans would be trucked to the province of Jinambane, where guerrilla warfare and drought conditions are causing displacement of Africans into refugee camps, and widespread famine.

Michigan Church World Service Director David Bower, who traveled to Zambia two years ago, expressed his deep appreciation to the Pigeon area for what it is doing in relief work through CROP. The Pigeon area CROP program works like this, Bower says, "Each fall, local churches, high schools and Future Farmers of America chapters solicit contributions for CWS. CWS then buys beans from the Pigeon farmers, pumping some money back into the area's farm economy. Several members of local FFA chapters were also present for the event, witnessing the climax of their door-to-door canvass, which takes place every October. According to Bower, efforts of the local FFA chapters have resulted in Michigan being the number one CROP contributor in the country. The Pigeon area is the last of CWS contributors nationwide to the tradition of giving crops instead of money, according to CROP representatives. And so the tradition continues, generally from local business people, farmers and individuals making the purchase of beans possible, and 750,000 famine-stricken people will have a better chance of survival, thanks to the bean shipment.

As Rev. Luke Yoder of the Pigeon River Memmiton Church said, "It's as much value to us giving, as it is to those who are receiving."

Also present for the "Blessing of the Beans" were Charlotte Thompson of Freeport, representing Michigan Farm Bureau; and Judy McDowell, chairman of the board of directors of Michigan CROP.

Friday meeting to decide

Lakers may vote later in summer

By Rich Swartzendruber

As many questions were raised as answered at the Elkhart - Pigeon - Bay Port School Board meeting Monday night.

In response to numerous pleas for another millage increase before school starts — from people opposed to closing Bay Port School in the upcoming year — the Lakeboard will consider the matter at a special meeting scheduled for Friday, July 19 at 7:30 P.M.

At that meeting, a decision will be made whether to schedule a millage election before school starts in late August, how many mills to place on the ballot and the number of years the increase would run. District residents are urged to attend that meeting to voice their opinion on a future millage election and the proposed rate, officials said.

Petitions: Attorney Dale Cubitt, who lives in the Lakeboard District, told the Board 450 people across the district have signed a petition asking that the Bay Port Elementary School stay open.

He spoke positively about the increased voter turnout in Bay Port student, urging the Board to reconsider closing the school. Cubitt said the group "will take whatever action is necessary to keep the school open.

Cubitt bidden at legal action to keep the Bay Port Center open. "We didn't want to come before the Board to plead with Cubitt," said Baur. "It is impossible to walk to force that issue on the school board.

Former Bay Port School Board member Frank Hennes referred to official notes taken at a citizens’ advisory meeting in Bay Port prior to the Lakeboard consolidation vote in 1966, which said the Bay Port School board would remain open and be used. He also joined the call for another millage vote before school starts, so the Bay Port Center could have a chance to remain open.

Valuation Drop: Although the school board members pledged the Bay Port center open, additional mills were approved by the board and the additional mills could be made if less than 10 mills were used, officials said.

Muslim Sir Smith said the district could possibly get by on 7.5 or 8 mills and still be able to balance the budget. That would, however, put a great deal of pressure on voters in 1989.

Baur said information from a state official points to another 25% drop in agricultural state equalized value is likely next year.

REVIEW a committee consisting of Board members Baur, Smith and Virginia Leiprandt along with Bay Port representatives Peggy Kuhl, Cerr Deming and Carol Seely will review the options of closing Bay Port Elementary School at a meeting scheduled for Wednesday (tonight) and report its findings at Friday's special meeting.

Experience: Cheesaning School told. Robert Baur offered some insight in the issue of school consolidation, so that district is also struggling with the problem of passing millage proposals.

He pointed out Cheesaning had five mills and 10.5% of that millage was voted down before one millage went on the ballot.

and WATERS

Grayling

The water was crystal clear and so was it, the sky. It seemed like the world was waiting for us to return. As we set off, I felt a sense of excitement and anticipation building inside me. The waters were calm, and the sun was shining brightly, casting a warm glow over the entire landscape.

I turned to look at my fellow anglers. They were all grinning from ear to ear, eager to cast their lines and test their skills. The air was crisp and invigorating, and the scent of water and nature filled my nostrils.

As we approached our first stop, we couldn't help but marvel at the sheer beauty of the surroundings. The trees were tall and sturdy, their leaves rustling gently in the breeze. The water was so clear that we could see the fish swimming below the surface.

I was about to cast my line into the water when suddenly, a large fish appeared from nowhere, leaping out of the water with a mighty splash. It was a magnificent sight to behold, and I knew right then and there that this was going to be a day to remember.

After a few minutes of waiting, a large fish finally appeared on the surface. It was a beautiful specimen, its scales shimmering in the sunlight. I cast my line towards it, and with a gentle tug, the fish began to pull me in. It was a thrilling experience, and I knew that I had found my calling.

I spent the rest of the day fishing, skilled in the art of casting and reeling, and I was surprised at how much I enjoyed it. By the end of the day, I had caught several fish, and I was exhausted but satisfied.

As we returned to the lodge, I couldn't help but feel grateful for this opportunity. The experience had taught me a lot about myself and about the beauty of nature. I knew that I would never forget this day, and that it would always be a treasured memory.
