Depeon’s Pumpkin Farm delights families

The Michigan Water Resourc es Commission recently ordered the Village of Caseville to construct a sewage and water treatment system by 1982, much to the satisfaction of present Caseville officials.

The village has experienced problems with raw sewage being washed into Saginaw Bay because the soil is saturated and cannot absorb the discharge from the private septic tanks in areas of Caseville, says Village President Mike Power.

To pay for a sewage treatment facility to solve the problem, funding is being sought from federal government sources.

MONEY NEEDED: The state order, helps move Caseville higher on the priority list for federal funding. With federal funding for such projects drying up under the Reagan Administration, Caseville officials are hopeful this grant will take the city as soon as possible.

If the funding is authorized, there is still a cost, however. Construction of the sewage facility will be eligible for 50 percent federal funding with only 50 percent of the water treatment facility.

Power says, "It’s one of those cases where we’re trying to get our dollars. It is set to expire in three years."

The cost of the project is yet to be determined, but an engineer told village officials it could cost several million dollars.

With the possiblility of no future federal funds, Caseville welcomed and is asked for the state to order construction of a sewage treatment system.

Power says, "Rather than wait until no grants are available, the village will accept a voluntary condensation, thereby doubling the amount of grant dollars and moving us higher on the list for grants, says Power."

HISTORY: Caseville officials have been working to get a sewage treatment program for some time. At a study 10 years ago revealed sewage problems. At that time 90 percent of the sewage was being sold for private septic tanks in the areas of Caseville, says Village President Mike Power.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit the Pigeon VFW Hall on Monday, October 19th from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

According to Red Cross Executive Secretary Kathy Swartzwendruber, the quota for this visit is 250 units. She and the Red Cross urge all eligible donors to help alleviate the blood shortage. Previous donors will be contacted for appointments, she adds.

Pumpkin Pie Recipe

For Michelle Akland

Plans are underway for several fund-raising events for the benefit of Pigeon VFW Post 220, under the leadership of Post Commander Richard Swartzwendruber. The events include a pumpkin pie sale, an auction, and a benefit concert. The proceeds from these events will be used to support the local veterans’ home and other community projects.

Many community members have already donated items for the auction, and local musicians have expressed interest in performing at the benefit concert. The pumpkin pie sale will be held during the week of October 10th, with all proceeds going to the post.

For more information on how to donate items for the auction or volunteer at the benefit concert, please contact Post Commander Richard Swartzwendruber at 432-2345. Donations can also be made directly to the Pigeon VFW Post 220. Thank you for your support!

Road vote is another sad sign

Last week's overwhelming 1982 to 10 vote turning down a 5.99 million tax proposal for the improvement of roads and bridges in the county was just another chance for this beautiful area is to lose one step further...

Everyone loses that way! Voters have said no to school taxes in the past, but they have not said no to those from the county... But asking for less than what’s due is asking to lose your property maintain-ed, who sit?

Every property owner in the county is the most three-year proposal for public welfare. The County's Board of Supervisors lab has been plenty of cash in recent road-making and bridge-building activities. Fees for new roads and bridge renewals or increases. But asking for less than what’s due is asking to lose your property maintain-ed, who sit?

The message came through loud and clear—this question was not up for discussion. Everyone knows two parts of the margin shows folks weren’t asking if we all we’re all poor, our roads and bridges and our chances for continuous safe travel. Folks in suburban areas and farmers alike, the same folks who have spoken. I hope that’s not true; but the low taxpayer will pay for better roads.

FORE!

In Florida...

Don’t wear their get-up early enough! After a busy, sunny morning, we were going to be a bit early to get on the road. I didn’t want to wait too long, so we decided to stop at the American Country Store and grab some breakfast. It was a busy day, and everyone seemed to be in a hurry.

On our way back to the car, we noticed a group of people had gathered in the parking lot. They were all dressed in their best clothes, and it looked like they were about to have a picnic.

As we drove away, we couldn’t help but feel a bit sad. The people in the parking lot seemed so happy, and we wished we could have stayed and joined them. But we had to get on the road and continue our journey.

We decided to stop at a small roadside restaurant for lunch. The food was delicious, and we enjoyed our meal while watching the world go by.

After lunch, we continued our journey. The sun was shining brightly, and we knew we had a long day ahead of us. But we were excited to see what the next few hours would bring.

From Under The Willow

October bright blue weather

The weather this morning was a beautiful bright blue sky with a few white clouds here and there. The air was crisp and the trees were changing colors.

As we drove along, the scenery changed from fields of green to trees of orange and red. It was a beautiful sight to see.

We decided to stop at a small town and explore the area. The town was quaint and charming, with small shops and restaurants.

We had a lovely lunch at one of the local cafes, and then we continued on our journey. The drive was beautiful, and we couldn’t wait to see what the next few hours would bring.

Take It . . . Any Way You Want It

We arrived at our destination just as the sun was setting. It was a beautiful sight to see, and we knew we would have a great time.

The confidence level of the Catawba men's basketball team took a hit when they were defeated 73-66 by the University of South Carolina-Charleston Monday night in a game played in the Catawba University Convocation Center.

The game was not without its share of controversy, however, as both teams were penalized for technical fouls throughout the contest. The Cougars, led by junior forward Brian Dill, scored 24 points in the first half to take a 39-31 lead over the Eagles. Catawba's defense held tight in the second half, however, and the Eagles were able to pull within four points of USC-Charleston with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

But the Eagles were unable to maintain their momentum, and USC-Charleston pulled away to win by 12 points. Despite the loss, Catawba's head coach Jim Haggard was pleased with his team's performance.

"I'm happy with the way we played," he said. "We gave them a good game, but we just couldn't get the shots we wanted."

The number 333 is a special number for many people. It is the number of a famous movie that was released in 1953. The film was directed by Stanley Kubrick and starred Jack Lemmon and Diane Keaton. The movie was a hit and has become a cult classic. Many people enjoy watching the movie and discussing the themes it explores. The number 333 is also believed to have mystical significance by some people, who see it as a sign of good luck or a symbol of connection to the universe. It is a reminder that everything in life is interconnected and that we are all part of a larger whole.

As the seasons change, it's time to think about preparing for the upcoming holiday season. One way to do this is by learning a new instrument or practicing your current one. This can be a fun and rewarding activity that allows you to connect with others who share your passion. Whether you prefer classical, jazz, or pop music, there are plenty of options to choose from. Don't forget to keep an eye out for local music classes or workshops that might be available in your area.

Homes are being built at a rapid pace in the county, with new developments popping up everywhere. This is great news for the local economy and for those looking to buy a new home. However, it's important to be aware of the potential challenges that come with rapid development, such as increased traffic and strain on local resources. It's important to plan ahead and work with the community to ensure that development is done in a responsible way.

Saving lives starts with you. Whether you are a driver, pedestrian, or cyclist, it's important to always be aware of your surroundings and to follow the rules of the road. Taking extra caution can help prevent accidents and tragic outcomes. It's everyone's responsibility to do their part and make the roads safer for all.
