Lack of geographic skills is sad!

The recent "revolution" that young Americans are "dying to go global" is not going to work if you don't know which is east and west. You can't even read a map anymore.

But there are still some American adults under the age of 30 who know where the seven seas are. Nearly half of the people who were asked said they could locate a capital city of the United States.

Not every American adult under the age of 25 had some of the latest survey -- finding nearly 7 of the 100. Many couldn't locate the Pacific Ocean, even though it's nearly half our world. And, while 90% of American adults ages 65 and older could locate our own state of Michigan.

A quarter of these young American surfers couldn't find the Soviet Union, and one of every seven couldn't even find the United States! U.S. adults (aged 25 and older) did somewhat better, but still missed nearly half the right answers. Older Americans averaged 86 of 96 correct answers, making them the lowest among the nine states surveyed.

While the data shows that nearly 12 of the 16 proper answers, followed by West Germany (15), Japan (14), and Norway (9). -- neither particularly surprising results. They were followed by French, Italians, and Warrington. The survey also asked about their knowledge of world geography, and the young age group (10 to 24) did not do better than the 18- to 24-year-olds.

Of course, we all should have a good working knowledge of our world, its politics and what country owns that far-flung island, but we're not going to save the world, unless our friends in the U.S. know the U.S. In other words, some of the more important studies showed that people who were geographically savvy could locate the U.S. and Michigan.

The National Geographic is spending $60 mil- lion to fight what President Reagan calls the "relentless charm of geographic ignorance" by helping to improve teacher training, course materials, and materials here in the U.S. It's a worthy effort and goal -- but our citizens must first feel there's a need and reason to benefit from this study... or it will never have a chance.

The Past In Print

From the archives of The Pigeon Progress and The Evolution

In the Pigeon Valley, history is never far away. From the days of the early pioneers to the modern era, the region has been shaped by the lives of those who have lived there. Here are some highlights from the archives of The Pigeon Progress and The Evolution:

80 YEARS AGO

Aug. 2, 1933

The Big Bear Club in Big Rapids, where the water front is so small, was the scene of the annual Big Bear dance, held by the club's ladies. The dance was held on the evening of July 29th, and was attended by a large crowd of people.

40 YEARS AGO

Aug. 4, 1963

The Pigeon Valley High School football team was victorious over the rival team from Big Rapids, 13-7. The game was a hard-fought battle, with both teams showing great spirit and determination.

60 YEARS AGO

Aug. 10, 1953

The Pigeon Valley High School commencement exercises were held on the evening of June 26th, with a large crowd in attendance. The exercises included speeches by the principal, the guest speaker, and the student body president.

80 YEARS AGO

Aug. 7, 1933

William J. O'Brien was elected chairman of the Big Rapids chapter of the American Legion.

70 YEARS AGO

Aug. 11, 1953

Mrs. Elmer M. Hough, one of the pioneers of the town, died on July 27th. She was a member of the first class of the Pigeon Valley High School.

Fish Sandwich Day is proclaimed by Governor!

By executive declaration, Saturday and Sunday, August 6-7, 1988, have been designated as the Bay Port Fish Sandwich Days.

That was brought last week by Bay Port Chamber of Commerce members and officers through a proclamation issued by Governor James J. Blanchard.

The proclamation included, “Bay Port once reigned as the world’s largest fresh-water fishing port and commercial fishing remains in leading industry and large employ.”

Today, the proclamation continues, Bay Port remains the only fishing port from the Michigan/Ontario border around Michigan’s Thumb to purchase fresh fish.

Wales trip memorable for Laker netters

Two Laker volleyball teams were down but not out just two weeks prior to their trip to Wales for a 11-day sports exchange in July.

Returning home last Thursday, Concey Schriro, Carol Kruger and Beata Stetten visited their trip was one “they will never forget.”

Anonymous was the reason the Laker girls traveled to Wales, where they played three matches with local Wales pupils consisting of girls in 4th grade and higher. Other internation- al teams competed in soccer, tennis and softball.translated into a different English, educational and sports exchange.

“Each day was different,” said Schriro, “that they do there. They don’t have school buses.”

The reason that the Laker girls visited was because Wales was willing to allow the girls to play all the games of the week.

In addition to playing volleyball, Schriro, Kruger and Stetten visited the girls enjoyed huge enthusiasm.

“Each day was different,” Schriro said, “that they do there. They don’t have school buses.”

The girls played some of the local girls all day there were over 20 different English girls, and the girls played a different English language to the girls.

They played the girls over 20 different English girls, and the girls played a different English language to the girls.

The girls played some of the local girls all day there were over 20 different English girls, and the girls played a different English language to the girls.

One thing the girls learned was that each game was different English language to the girls.

FATH BIDS US MAKE THAT CHANGE IF IT'S FOR THE BETTER

At some time in our lives, we all feel that a change is in order, for a variety of reasons. Perhaps we have taken on too many things at once, or we need to be jobs or volunteer activities. We find that we cannot do any of them well, and we may also be jeopardizing our home life in the process. Or we may find ourselves locked into a job that is boring and without a future, and which does not make use of our real talents. If any of these situations sound familiar, start looking around for something better, or quit one of the jobs that you have no time for. However, before you take any drastic steps, pray for guidance at your House of Worship, and talk to your clergyman. This will prevent any rash or impulsive moves, and remind you that God will place you where you really belong, if you will just give Him a chance to do it.

Latch Key Program...

The Clinton-Pigeon-Bayport Board of Education is seeking to initiate the Latch Key Program as a morning and after school activity to offer a moderate priced children’s program. The program would operate during the school year August through June as a service to parents based on user fees. The proposed program would include:

Latch Key is a child care program which would provide parents the opportunity to have their children remain in school in a safe and supervised environment for a few hours each day. The hours of operation would be from 7:30 am to 5:00 pm. The program is available to all students in the Clinton-Pigeon-Bayport School System. Children aged 6 to 12 years old are eligible to participate in the Latch Key Program.

To be eligible for the program, children must be enrolled in the Clinton-Pigeon-Bayport School System and must be 6 to 12 years old. The program will provide a safe and secure environment for children to study, play, and participate in various activities. The program will also provide homework assistance and educational activities to help children develop important life skills.

The program is available to all children in the Clinton-Pigeon-Bayport School System and will operate from Monday to Friday during the school year. Children will be picked up from school and brought to the program site, where they will have the opportunity to participate in various activities, including homework assistance, educational activities, and playtime.

If interested, please contact the Clinton-Pigeon-Bayport Board of Education at 619-7704 to obtain more information or to enroll your child in the Latch Key Program. We look forward to serving our community and helping children succeed in school and beyond.

Saginaw Bay

Improvement and enlargement of the harbor under the Michigan Design Program. He said a present problem in the village is the need to get a "sloop" cleaned up and removed from the center of town, but that some environmental people claim the 2.5-acre site is home to the "last of the seagulls and the last of the mosquitos."

The representative from McKinley Township said the Pigeon River in his area is so shallow that "you can float a boat.""Balls told him the way to go is a target site for dredging.

NO ORVs: A discussion concerned ORVs, which Balls said are prohibited on state land because of damage to the environment. The plan, he said, is to designate 1,500 miles for ORV travel; and when they can only operate in those areas. Now they have to be warned with signs, but some operators tear down the signs and claim they “didn’t know ORVs were banned.” Under proposed change, they will be permitted only where signs state they stay open.

MORE TOURISM: Extending tourism seasons is a priority target. Balls explained, “Once the tourist season is past, people leave and don’t return until next year.”

The DNR’s objective is to prolong the season and “bunting is one way that is done. More special events, more spread out, helps accomplish that,” Balls added.

That’s why such things as viewing wildlife, trails and similar activities are in special demand.

In closing, Balls repeated DNR objectives, namely, more water access, assistance to related infrastructure, expanded wildlife viewing, lengthening the tourist season, with private participation particularly welcome, and a general promotion of the destination program.

Fullfillment of the DNR mission is the goal, and a request for participation in the program was presented to each person attending. The request asked participants to participate in the program was presented to each person attending. The request asked participants to prioritize recreation tourism goals for their individual communities, asked for strengths and problems of the areas and requested suggestions for DNR participation.

The mission,”presented to each participant stated, “is to establish a local planning program for Saginaw Bay that will expand natural resource-based recreation and related tourism development and encourage private sector investments compatible with essential environmental protection.”
