Tell us whose farm this is... and we'll draw one name from the correct entries for a one-year subscription to the Progress-Advance for you or the person of your choice.

Remembering When....

This series of aerial photos is about 30 years old, but the pictures have never been seen by anyone except staff of the newspaper.

You'll be amazed at how these farms have changed in 3 decades. Some old homes have been torn down and new ones built. Many farms have new owners, perhaps their children, or even grandchildren are living there now. Almost all of them have far fewer buildings today then they had in the 50s. In some cases you'll notice that fields are larger today then ever. Roads are better today. Some trees have been cut down, all of them have grown. On some farms, herds of cows are seen in the barnyards or in a adjoining pastures or orchards.

These oldtime pictures will prove a genuine history book of changes in farming during the past decades.

The Progress-Advance is no more acquainted with the names of the farms than the readers, as they were 'shot' by Bill Hendrich and his pilot flying from town to town, and farm to farm. So put your thinking cap on, then, call 435-2331 or deliver or mail your answer to our office. Winning entry will be drawn at the close of business Friday from all correct entries received. Decision of judges is final.

The Red Cross knows that the regular sales of their blood is essential to support their work in the community. However, due to the recent disasters, the demand for blood has increased significantly. Car/deer accidents on the rise in state

With microwaved deer roasting almost everywhere, it might seem that deer are increasing in numbers. In Michigan — the state that has the highest deer population in the state — deer and vehicle collisions are becoming more frequent.

According to Michigan Law, deer collisions are not reportable incidents. However, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources reports that deer collisions are on the rise. In 2017, there were 6,700 reported collisions, up 25% from 2016.

To help reduce the number of deer-related incidents, Farm Bureau Insurance offers several tips to help motorists avoid collisions with deer:

1. Drive defensively: Be alert for deer in the road.
2. Use headlights: Deer are more visible at night.
3. Slow down: Early morning and late afternoon are peak times for deer activity.
4. Be aware of early morning and late afternoon: These are the times when deer are most active.
5. Watch for signs: Deer crossing signs are a good indicator of deer activity.
6. Keep a safe distance: Deer are unpredictable and can change direction suddenly.

It’s EASY to “hear” through LISTENING EAR in The Progress-Advance!

When you don’t want to be disturbed, tell your community, company, organization, or government what you’re doing. Use the service. When LISTENING EAR is used, it will be indexed by “The Progress-Advance”, and the information will be available to the public. Please consider this comment for next week’s LISTENING EAR.
