it's a good life
in a small town

As we see it

What's the good of a festival?

In the days and weeks preceding a big festival, it's not surprising that committee chairmen and members, and the great number of workers, ask themselves, "What's the good of a Festival?"

They're saying, in effect, are all these nights of meetings and planning, all these jobs, all this money, worth it?"

"Does anybody notice that we work our bunsions off? Does anyone care that we spend thousands of dollars for a three-day entertainment that happens once a year?"

"In other words, do Festivals make a difference?" Then, the great event finally arrives, crowds of people pour into town. They laugh, they cheer, they visit, they enjoy themselves, they are well-treated, they like the town and its people, and the community develops a stronger image as a friendly, pleasant place to see and to shop.

So, do festivals do any good?

First of all, please note that the festival itself is only the vehicle that brings the visitors into town. The image that's created as the people come here depends mostly on what they see.

The much-greater image depends on how they're greeted and how they're treated by the merchants, and clerks, the residents, the waitresses, the young people and the children.

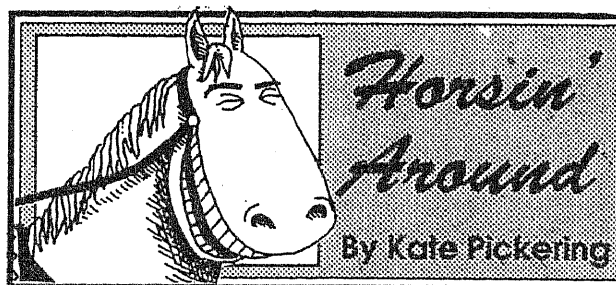

The festival itself is much like an advertisement in a newspaper.

The "advertisement" can only bring them here - into your store or business place.

Once inside, the "vibrations" they get depend on how those merchants and sales people impress the visitors.

That's up to the clerks and checkout girls, the tellers and the receptionists. It's also up to the people they meet on the street and in the Festival park.

So, whether a festival—or any public activity—is worth the effort depends very much on how they're treated by the sponsoring town.

"SUMMER TV SURVIVAL" MADE EASY...

The front-cover headline on a recent issue of a rather popular and well-known weekly TV listing publication reads - in large-alarming-red-bold type...

"INSIDE - Your Summer TV Survival Guide!"

And the article of the same name contained therein gives a rather in depth, play-by-play review of what is in store for summer TV viewers. It contains a lot of helpful information and many important facts concerning our favorite television stars, hot new summer replacement programs, predictions for the up and coming new fall TV season, listings of the best that cable has to offer, and critic's reviews of a variety of programs. Anyone who is (or was) at all intimidated by the prospects of dull summer re-run viewing could breathe a sigh of relief with this special and all-important issue in hand!!

It seemed like such a good and truly helpful idea to publish a guide of this sort that I decided to compile some listings and print a "Summer TV Survival Guide" of my own - right here in this column. So get your scissors handy, you may want to clip this out and keep it handy to refer to from time to time over the next couple of months, in the event that this summer's television viewing becomes a little lackluster...

How To Survive Summer Television Viewing
by Kate Pickering

Turn the TV off - go outside - it's summer for God's sake!

— The End —

That's up to you.

There's little question that the most successful towns are the ones that stage events as a treat for friends and visitors.

In fact, if a town could stage some kind of an event every week, they'd soon increase their business volume that many would have to expand their business places.

If a town would simply stage some kind of an event every month, they'd see an unbelievable rise in their businesses.

Simply notice the many, many more cars in town on a "Garage Sale" weekend, or when there's a large nearby auction sale, or even when there's a big funeral.

Events that bring people into a town are providing the avenue for more business. How much of that your own stores garners depends on your and your staff of clerks.

It wouldn't hurt a bit for "the boss" to repeat a few of the old rules to his staff. It would pay to talk about courtesy, promptness, personal interest—and a big smile—for all the customers. Those displays of honest interest and friendly attitude have become so rare in many places that they are truly noted and treasured when they do occur.

So, is a festival or other big community event worth the cost and effort?

That's up to you—your clerks and your staff. It will be worth it if you do your part.

FESTIVAL BITS & PIECES

CONGRATULATIONS, COOPERATIVE ELEVATOR! The Thumb Area is proud of the 75 years of service that the Cooperative Elevator Company has provided. Not just a Pigeon-based business anymore, the Co-op now encompasses quite a few Western Thumb communities in its farm business.

Let's not forget in this historical year, or at any other time, that this is a business based on cooperation. Cooperation is a neighborly word and neighborliness is a concept that is fast escaping modern America. Rural America knows differently, though. There are very few things in life that one accomplishes alone. We need each other.

That's the kind of concern that led to the formation of a cooperative 75 years ago and that's the kind of concern that continues to get things done here in the Western Thumb.

I WANTED TO ENTER THE FARMERS' FESTIVAL LIP SYNC CONTEST THIS YEAR. For almost a year, I've been practicing a Willie Nelson rendition of "Over the Rainbow" while I drive around the countryside. I've even imagined myself dressed up like Willie Nelson with long braids and a red bandana.

None of my kids will share this dream of mine. "Mom, you've got to be kidding! Willie Nelson! Get a grip!" was what they'd tell me.

Now that we're close to Festival time all I'm hearing is "Thank goodness I'll be at camp that week. At least Mom won't bother me about that Willie Nelson lip sync stuff." It would be a great act. Hey, it is a great act—in my imagination, that is.

BEAN, BEANS, THE MUSICAL FOOD...Well, if you've been around family reunions where baked beans are a main dish, you probably know the rest of the rhyme. Here in the Thumb we tend to take beans for granted. The Co-op's bean soup cooker shows up at lots of gatherings. Weddings and graduations call for beans on the menu and we're used to hearing the bid price for old crop, new crop navy beans along with the weather on the radio.

But can we take for granted one of nature's most nutritious foods? Filled with fiber and protein, beans are a staple food in many parts of the developing world. Field after field of the Thumb's great beans are one of our area's rich resources.

As for the musical food part, one of these days some researcher is going to find a "cure" for the music of beans. Until that happens, add more molasses and brown sugar to make sweet music from the Thumb's navy beans!

RECOLLECTIONS Of By-Gone Days
BY GEORGE KEIM

EDITOR'S NOTE: Writing for George this week is his daughter Mary Maarsen-Keim visiting from the Netherlands.

Greetings to the Pigeon community from Mary Maarsen. I'm home again, quite unexpectedly, I must say.

My Father is quite a guy. He's "gettin' better every day. This is truly something we are thankful for.

My Father has a very strong spirit and his body still comes around when something happens. He does however, have some difficulties with his diabetes.

He was used to being strong and he could eat anything he wanted and it didn't matter, but now he can't do this.

This isn't easy to accept or to understand, but how many of us who don't have diabetes, understand about those who do?

Do we show some sensitivity to those who have to watch what they eat for whatever the reason, or do we razz them by saying, "aw come on, you can eat more?"

Who are you trying to kid? This type of kidding really bothers me and I'm not so sure when I hear it that I can understand it.

Something unexpected happened at our house the other evening. This time the unexpected wasn't a scare. I was making supper and someone rapped on the door. "Who could be knocking on our door at this time of the day," I thought as I went to see who it was.

I couldn't have been more surprised. Here were two Amish men standing there. One of them asked if George Keim lived at this place. I said he did and asked if they really were Amish. They affirmed this and I wondered how on earth they had heard of Mr. Keim.

These Amish men I'd never seen before. I didn't think they were some relatives of Mother's. These older gentlemen were traveling for a few days and were driving through the Thumb Area and on their way to Mio.

They had stopped at a motel close to Bay Port and the lady of the motel had told them they might enjoy visiting with Mr. Keim.

The two men had come to the right place. They had a nice visit, all three men, and they spoke Pennsylvania Dutch. This particular dialect of German is still the language that is spoken among the Amish.

I really had fun listening to this. One of the Amish men asked if I could understand what they were saying. I have never spoken this language, but I can understand it.

As a child I heard this language and I wished so much that I could speak it. I always thought that anyone who could fluently speak a couple of languages was really lucky. I still feel that way.

I now speak the language of the Netherlands.

My children can speak English very easily and my Dad can still speak German. Anyone who has a chance to learn another language is privileged. There are lots of interesting thoughts to be shared in reaching out in friendliness.

I will end with a short verse from the Bible found in Proverbs 15:13a. "A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance."

Sincerely,
MARY MAARSEN-KEIM

Buschlen leaves this week for South Africa

By AMY HEIDEN
Just in time to miss the start of Farmers' Festival, Brenda Buschlen will leave the U.S.A. to spend a year in South Africa as a Rotary Exchange student, the first out-bound exchange student in over 10 years.

While Buschlen has already graduated from Laker High School, she'll be required to attend high school in her host country. She's already learned from her host family that the school year in South Africa runs from January through December, split into four terms, and she'll be arriving in time for the start of the third term. Classes begin at 8:10 a.m. and finish at 2:30 p.m. with 20-minute breaks during the day.

No lunch is provided, so students bring their own snacks for the day. Uniforms are also required.

South Africa wasn't her first choice, she says. Rotary International, who is sponsoring her as an exchange student, gave her a list of 30 countries, and she listed them in order of preference. "Australia was my first choice," she says. Becoming an exchange student wasn't as easy as just picking a country, though.

Buschlen had to endure plenty of interviews and fill out numerous forms before she was chosen to represent her Rotary district in a foreign land. She became interested in becoming an exchange student when she noticed a poster on the bulletin board at school.

"I didn't know where I was going to go to college, so I decided to check this out," she says.

Now she's on her way to a country that's in the news nearly every day, but she says she's more nervous about being accepted than she is about the turmoil that country is experiencing.

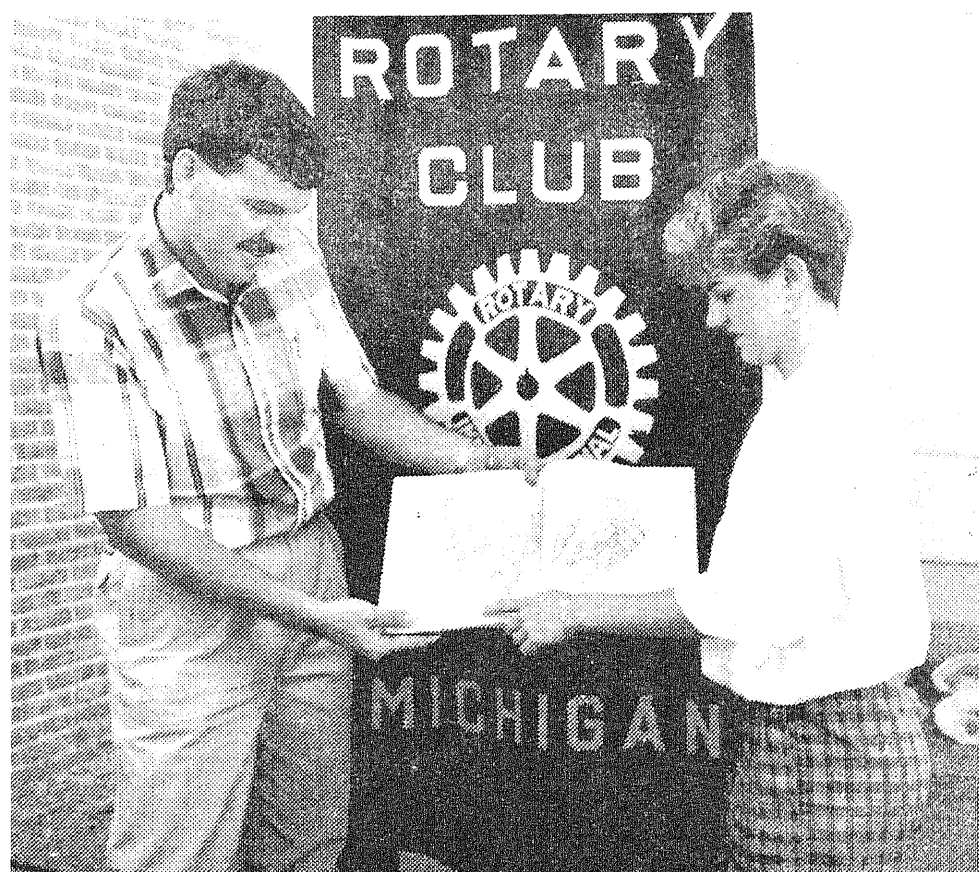

"I'm excited about going, but I'm also nervous," she admits.

Buschlen will be spending her year in a town called Fish Hoek, on the western cape of South Africa. Near the town, mountain ranges sweep down the bay, where most of the town's kids spent their hours on the beach.

"I've heard the country is beautiful. I also found out they drive on the opposite side of the road, like in England," she says.

When she's not attending school, Buschlen will be attending Rotary meetings in various South African cities, showing slides of "the good life in a small town," and sharing her experiences of growing up in the Pigeon community.

Editor's note: Brenda, who does our "We're Asking You" feature, plans to keep us up-to-date on her activities in South Africa. This time, we'll be asking her the questions—"What's it like in South Africa, and why?"

Out-bound Rotary Exchange Student Brenda Buschlen shows Rotary member Jeff Leipprandt where she'll be living for the next year.

Around The World... With Brenda Buschlen

By the time you finish reading this article, I hope to have my bags completely packed and ready to go to Fish Hoek (pronounced Fish Hook), South Africa.

It will be in this town, which is 15 miles south of Cape Town, where I will spend almost a year of my life being a foreign exchange student.

Since late September, I have been busy preparing myself for my upcoming venture. Countless forms, various medical examinations and nerve-wracking interviews were some of the matters I had to complete before I was chosen to be a Rotary Youth Exchange Out-bound Student.

One of the forms I had to fill out was a country preference sheet containing 34 different countries. Ranging from Argentina to Zimbabwe, I placed the countries in the order of my choice. I must admit I didn't know where some of these countries were located, so while determining the order of my countries I had a world globe beside me.

I had to have this sheet completed and signed by my parents before my first Rotary District 631 meeting, which took place at Northwood Institute on Nov. 5. At this meeting I was interviewed twice and met with other students, who like me, were anxious to be selected as an out-bound student.

In addition to the interviews and the introduction of the Youth Exchange Program, I was also able to watch slide shows shown by inbound students and listen to them tell about the countries they were from.

After all the slide presentations and speeches were delivered by the inbound students, the other hopeful outbound students and I were allowed to switch the order of our countries if we wished to do so.

I was especially fascinated with the slide presentation given by a girl named Sarah, a South African who was from Durban. It was her presentation that influenced me to change the order of my countries. She made South Africa seem like such a great place to go that I moved South Africa from the 31st position to my 3rd choice for my countries.

Other Rotary weekend meetings followed where other outbound and inbound students and I would meet, learn and discuss a variety of subjects, such as world events or the United States involvement in certain countries.

Because I am considered to be an ambassador for my country, my District wanted me to feel more at ease with these topics since I'm sure I will be asked for my opinion at one time or another.

Through these weekends I have also had a chance to make friends with students who are from South Africa and have had many questions answered by talking with them.

Finally on Feb. 3, I received a letter informing me I was assigned to South Africa for my year abroad. I was sort of shocked to find out I was headed to South Africa. I thought for sure I was on my way to Australia (my first choice).

I've been met by both positive and negative comments as I have informed people about going to South Africa. One minute I was being told how beautiful South Africa was and the next minute I was notified that I'll probably get killed if I go there.

Boy was I confused!! When many people, including myself (nine months ago), heard the word "Africa" immediately visions of elephants, mud huts, black men with spears in their hands and bones through their noses clouded their minds.

I'm sure there are places in Africa where these may be seen and I hope to view that sort of unique culture, a culture I am not accustomed to, but there is more to Africa than that! South Africa is quite modern.

They do have cars and running water. Hey, they even have color television!

Along with my allowed limit of two suitcases (which can't weigh more than 70 pounds each) and a carry-on bag, I will also take a video camera that I purchased to capture the numerous memories I intend to have during my stay.

From time to time I will send back tapes to my family and friends so they too can see and share the new and thrilling experiences I believe I will have.

They will also be able to send tapes to me letting me know how they are doing back in Michigan.

I am extremely happy to have this once in a lifetime opportunity to experience what I think will be one of the best years of my life.

I will encounter an exciting culture, meet new friends, learn a foreign language, heck maybe even learn a few new sports like rugby, squash or surfing!

I am sad to leave my family and friends as I will miss them a lot, but I look forward to the challenge that awaits me in South Africa! So long Pigeon! Hello Fish Hoek!!

"ALL ABOARD" For Co-op Tours!

By ENGINEER AMY HEIDEN

Cooperative Elevator's colored bean plant on Berne Rd. in Pigeon, and its giant grain domes outside Elktion have been so much a part of the scenery that most local folks just spare them a passing glance.

But it's likely that many local residents have little idea about the inner workings of these landmarks.

This weekend, though, the bean plant and the Elktion complex will be open to the public, as part of the Co-op's 75th Anniversary Celebration. And special train excursions will shuttle folks between Pigeon and Elktion for those tours.

The tours will originate at the colored bean plant on Berne Street, where the trains will be boarded, and continue to Elktion, unloading behind the giant concrete silos. Each excursion will last about two hours, including the 35-minute trip between the two villages.

The schedule calls for three trips on Friday, July 27, at 9 a.m., 11 a.m., and 1 p.m., and two trips on Saturday, July 28, at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

Tickets are sold for a specific departure time, according to Co-op Bean Marketing Specialist Mike Eisengruber, who is coordinating the excursions.

At the colored bean plant, festival-goers will learn exactly what happens a farmers' beans from the time they're dumped to the time they're sorted, bagged, and loaded for shipping.

Next, at the Elktion complex, the 'tourists' can step inside one of the giant concrete grain domes, capable of holding 650,000 bushels of corn, or 900,000 bushels of oats.

Then, it's on to the oat processing plant, where oats are processed into various racehorse and sweet feeds.

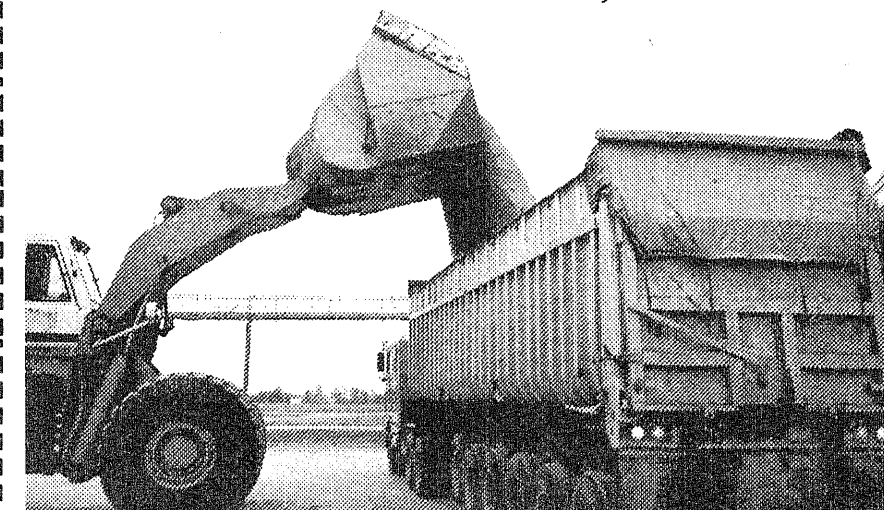

Only a limited number of tickets are available, Eisengruber says, at the Pigeon business office.

Co-op bean marketing specialist Mike Eisengruber checks navy beans running through a de-stoning machine in the Berne Road colored bean plant. The beans are shaken by the machine, which makes the heavier stones fall to the side and away from the beans.

Here's the scalper house, the first place the newly harvested beans go after being weighed and dumped. Pods, sticks and some of the dirt are removed from the beans here, before being dried.

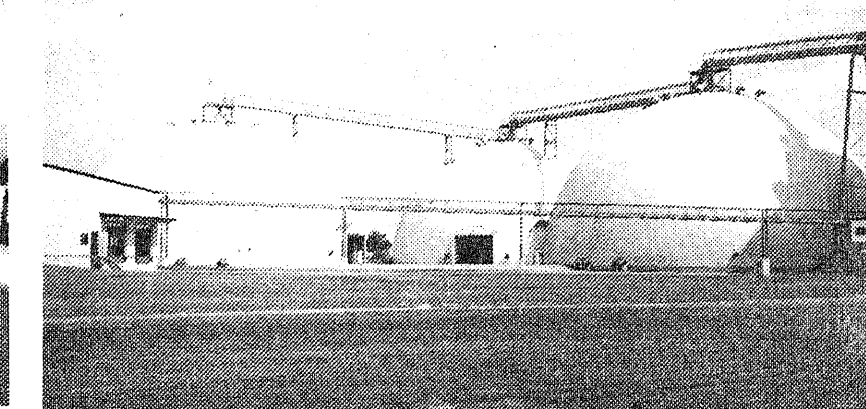

Kevin Buchholz, who works as an independent contractor at the Co-op's Elktion complex, loads a truck with clipped oats from one of the giant storage domes. The oats will be dumped into a pit, conveyed into a concrete silo, then conveyed into a concrete silo, then conveyed again over to the oat processing plant.

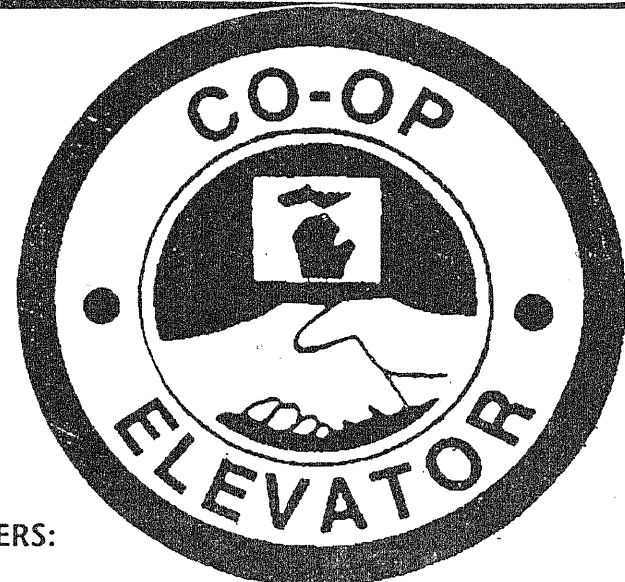

At the Elktion oat processing plant, John Schaaf and Gil Sprague bag sweet feed. Several different kinds of racehorse feeds and sweet feeds are produced at the plant. The plant is capable of processing up to 2 million bushels of oats each year.

Mike Eisengruber checks beans traveling under the unblinking electric eye of a sorting machine. The eye is programmed to reject the bad or discolored beans, and send the good ones on to be shipped.

The three giant concrete grain storage domes at the Elktion complex can each hold 650,000 bushels of corn, or up to 900,000 bushels of oats.

Will farmers suffer wheat mosaic/mildew diseases?

LeCureux says current harvest will tell the story

By MARY DRIER
Thumb Area farmers won't know the results of damage to their wheat crops from bacterial mosaic and powdery mildew diseases until the 1990 wheat crop is harvested.

Extension Ag Agent James LeCureux.

Bacterial mosaic diseases appears as a small, yellow spots and mottling near a plant's midrib. Eventually, spots can combine into streaks turning leaf tissue from tan to a dark brown.

"There is no treatment for the virus." Powdery mildew appears as patches of white colonies on leaf surfaces caused by high humidity and cool temperatures.

"We had some dryer, warmer weather later in the growing season and that helped to keep the diseases from getting worse," said Huron County Cooperative LeCureux says.

"The disease is brought on by warm, moist weather and is believed to be seed-borne," LeCureux says.

"There is no treatment for the virus." Powdery mildew can be controlled by commercial products like Bayleton and Tilt," says LeCureux.

"We won't know until harvest what impact the diseases have had, but it doesn't appear to have had any serious impact," says LeCureux. "It has been Michigan State University's position that most of the wheat grown in Michigan is resistant to powdery mildew and that powdery mildew can be found in every field every year, but doesn't harm the varieties of wheat grown in the state."

According to LeCureux, Michigan State University has some test plots to check on the impact of sprays used on powdery mildew. One plot is on the Gettel Farm on Sturm Road near Pigeon.

"Research has shown that if the disease hasn't contaminated the flag leaf, the last leaf which makes up about 80% of the yield, most farmers should see normal crop yields," LeCureux says.

LeCureux notes Huron County farmers average about 64 bushels per acre and some get 80 bushels per acre.

After the Festival, it's Fairview Relief Sale time!

If you've recuperated from this week's Farmers' Festival and have time left over after next weekend's Bay Port Fish Sandwich event, you may want to take part in the 25th annual Northern Michigan Relief Sale at Oscoda County Fairgrounds, three miles west of Fairview on Caldwell Road, on Saturday, Aug. 4.

The 70-acre site will be filled with opportunities to buy quilts, carvings, clocks, baked goods and to enjoy many foods from snacks to meals, organizers say. Money raised at the sale will go for Mennonite Central Committee programs around the world. The Fairview sale is one of 35 being held in the U.S. and Canada in 1990. Last year the sales raised more than $4 million for MCC.

An open house will precede the sale, from 5-9 p.m., Friday, August 3, giving earlybirds time to view items on display for Saturday.

There will also be a garage sale, and a bean soup and cheese cake meal, followed by a musical program by the Keynote Singers of Saginaw on the Friday evening schedule.

The sale's most popular attraction is the Auction, starting at 9 a.m. Items include a child's play house in barn design and a hand-crafted grandfather clock. The auction highlight starts at 11 am, with sale of nearly 200 quilts, comforters and baby items.

The "Self-Help" display allows artists from various countries to support themselves and their families. There will be a special for children, known as "Kid's World." Items there are priced within a youngster's budget.

MCC is the service, relief and development agency of North American and Brethren in Christ Churches. About 1,000 volunteers serve MCC in 54 countries, and each year more than 20,000 grassroots volunteers work at material aid centers, thrift and gift shops, Self-Help Craft activities, meat canning and relief sales.

MCC shipped 22.4 million pounds of food to 17 countries in 1989, including beans, corn, flour, meat, milk, oil, rice and wheat.

I wondered if I'd ever find relief. I decided to see a chiropractor. And chiropractic helped me beat the effects of stress. Chiropractic uses the body's built-in ability to help heal itself. My chiropractor works to find what may be disrupting that process and corrects it. No drugs or surgery are involved. And I feel better than ever. When you don't know who else to tell your comment, compliment, question or statement, we're here at The Progress-Advance's

LISTENING EAR

Write: LISTENING EAR, Box 143, Pigeon, 49755, or Box 116, Elkton, 48731 or drop off at Progress-Advance Office in Pigeon by 5 p.m. Fridays. Selected contributions will be published.

I think there should be a fee for the county parks. Maybe it will keep out some of the riff-raff and cut down on the trash. Sometimes the beach is so crowded you can't even get near it, much less on it.

Something needs to be done about all the kids hanging around in Elkton. And doing something doesn't mean the police. How about you parents who let your young kids out at all hours of the night. Show some responsibility, or your kids will end up in jail someday.

Face it, Caseville isn't a sleepy little country town on the lake anymore. It's trying to grow up to be a big-time resort now. And if you don't like resort living, either get used to it or move out. Tourism is where the money is these days.

The Pigeon District Library plans their annual Quilt Show during the Pigeon Farmers' Festival, July 26-28 and also their annual Book Resale. Included for sale will be like-new paperback books, a nice selection of children's and adult books.

I don't think that there should be a constitutional amendment banning burning the flag. That's really a non-issue, and it's just like politicians to wrap themselves in the flag just to score points and get re-elected.

What's important is not a piece of cloth with stars and stripes sewn on it, but what that flag stands for. Besides, when's the last time you saw a flag burned? Or have you ever seen a flag burned in a demonstration?

What's this country coming to when people are threatened by someone making a statement, however offensive that statement might be? Whatever happened to land of the free? People seem to be willing to give up more of their rights all the time. Keep giving them up, people, and pretty soon, we won't have any at all.

I've heard lots of people saying what's the use of recycling when you get charged the same high price no matter how much trash you set out to be picked up. Well, every little bit NOT sent to a landfill soon adds up. Pretty soon there won't be much space left in those landfills. Besides, you're saving on the resources that went to make those recyclable materials in the first place.

What's The Progress-Advance doing to help in the recycling effort? You had nearly two full pages about recycling. Are you practicing what you preach?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: We use recycled newsprint whenever it becomes available, but supplies are very scarce at this time due to great demand -- and the "big" papers get better treatment from paper companies than the little guys...)

Regarding perch dinners, the best ones anywhere around are at Greenfields.

I agree about Township Boards having more money than they need at times. Of course they should maintain a fund balance, but it should be equal to six months or less. If it's more, lower our millage!

To the person talking about Caseville residents being able to use the beach for free after the charge starts: all Huron County residents pay to maintain these parks, so all county residents should be able to use them at no charge. Just because you live nearby doesn't give you any more rights. You may live a quarter mile away, while I live two miles away.

What would be fair is to charge all out-of-county residents for using ALL the parks. If you just single out our Caseville Beach, people will go elsewhere. And, if even 10% of summer people go elsewhere, we've lost a lot. How can we stop this?

Remember the Bay Port Fish Sandwich Weekend is next Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 4 and 5. We hope to serve 10,000 this year, and they are nutritious and delicious.

Parade is 10:30 Saturday morning, and the community hymn sing is Sunday morning at 11. Finally, the cow chip bingo is 5:30 p.m. Sunday. You're invited!

Come one! Come all! Come see the Miniature Wooden Circus at the Pigeon District Library on Friday, July 27 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. You'll be amazed!

I think beach taxes are unfair and should not be charged anywhere.

Lots of food on Festival menu!

By AMY HEIDEN

What's a festival without a wide variety of great foods to eat?

There'll be plenty of good eating during this year's Farmers' Festival with various civic clubs and organizations planning to show off their culinary skills.

On Thursday, delicious fish dinners-all you can eat-will be served up at the VFH Hall, starting at noon. And that evening, members of the Michigan Avenue Mennonite Church will be serving up some great bean soup at the Pigeon Recreation Park from 5 p.m. till the last little bean is gone.

FRIDAY: Like barbecued pork? Then the Pigeon Lions have just the dinner for you.

They'll be roasting a pig or two for a tasty barbecued pork dinner, which includes Michigan baked beans and cole slaw on Friday evening from 4:30 to 7 p.m.

SATURDAY: And the Pigeon Rotary Club starts Saturday morning cooking plenty of plump chicken halves for their annual Chicken Barbeque, served right after the Grand Parade at the Recreation Park.

With your dinner, you'll get plenty of delicious Michigan baked beans, cole slaw, cookie and a drink. You can eat them at the park or take 'em out, as you choose.

SUNDAY: If pancakes and sausage are your favorite, then the Knights of Columbus will make your day Sunday morning when they heat up their griddles and frying pans at the K of C Hall on Pigeon Road.

They'll be serving up fluffy pancakes and juicy sausage all morning long from 8:30 a.m. till 1 p.m.

ELKTON PRESIDENT'S CORNER

By GEORGE W. WILLOUGHBY,

Village President

Village Council will meet again on Aug. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in village hall. It is the council's intent to establish the Downtown Development Authority.

We have discussed the DDA for several months and have held public hearings. The indication we have received from these discussions and meetings is that the majority of our residents are in favor of the DDA being established. Hopefully, at the August meeting the actual ordinance establishing the DDA will be ready for council approval.

Council will review bids on the painting of the water tower. This is something that was not planned for in the current budget, however, experts have advised council that the tower should be painted as soon as possible in order to avoid more costly maintenance in the future. A budget amendment will have to be made to cover this expense once we are made aware of the actual cost of getting the job done.

We are continuing our efforts to update ordinances and the development of a strategic plan for Elkton. This planning process is necessary in order to make Elkton eligible for several different types of grants.

This is taking a lot of time and hopefully, once accomplished the plan and procedures will be kept upto date and followed by future councils.

A major concern of many residents, the village council, and myself is the behavior of some of our youth and the apparent lack of parental supervision.

Many people have exhausted considerable time and effort to develop a decent park in Elkton and yet a few, for some reason feel they have to destroy it.

Several people have been offended by the language they are confronted with while walking in our town. I have observed streets being blocked, sidewalks being blocked, and other behavior by our youth that is uncalled for. I have been advised that 10 to 16 year-old youths are running the streets at two in the morning.

I would ask our youth to utilize the parks as a gathering place and to clean-up the language that is being used on our streets. If for whatever reason you feel you have to express yourself in this manner do it at home not in public.

I would ask that the parents would keep a closer eye on when their children are home, where they are hanging out, and the way they are behaving.

As your village president, I don't like the idea of having to get "hard nosed" regarding these types of problems. I believe it would be much easier and more effective if we would all consider each others' rights and show some respect for each other-than to have the "legal" system utilized.

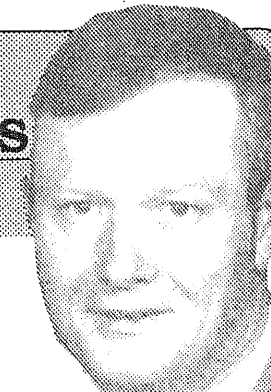

The bottom line to this is that you have now been made aware of the problems. I sincerely hope our youth and citizens will correct the situation by working together. If not the only choice we have left is the increase formal enforcement action.

I have advised the Police Department to take the proper formal enforcement action regarding these type of problems. We have given enough warnings and it is apparent that the warnings have not been effective in resolving our situation.

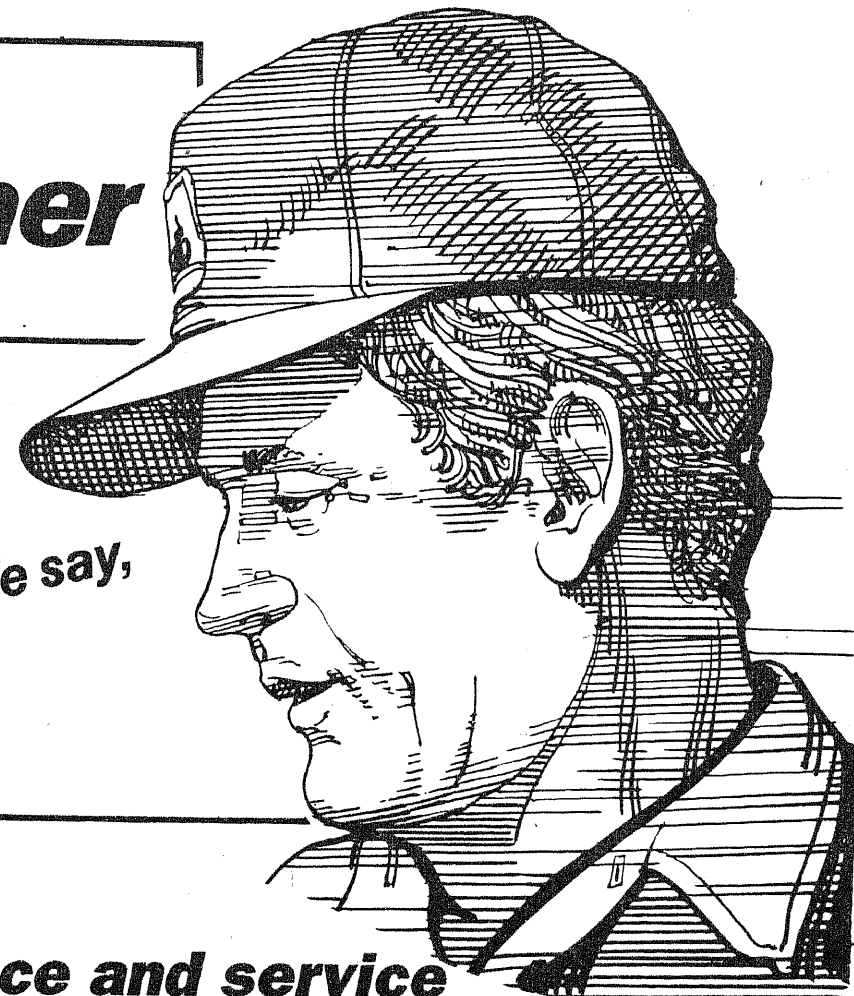

I believe all our citizens have a right to walk our streets, utilize the parks, and enjoy our town without being subjected to the foul language and types of behavior I have mentioned. It is my responsibility to assure that this situation is corrected.

I trust that our youth and parents will correct this situation without becoming involved with the formal legal system!

YFC Auction draws large, buying crowd

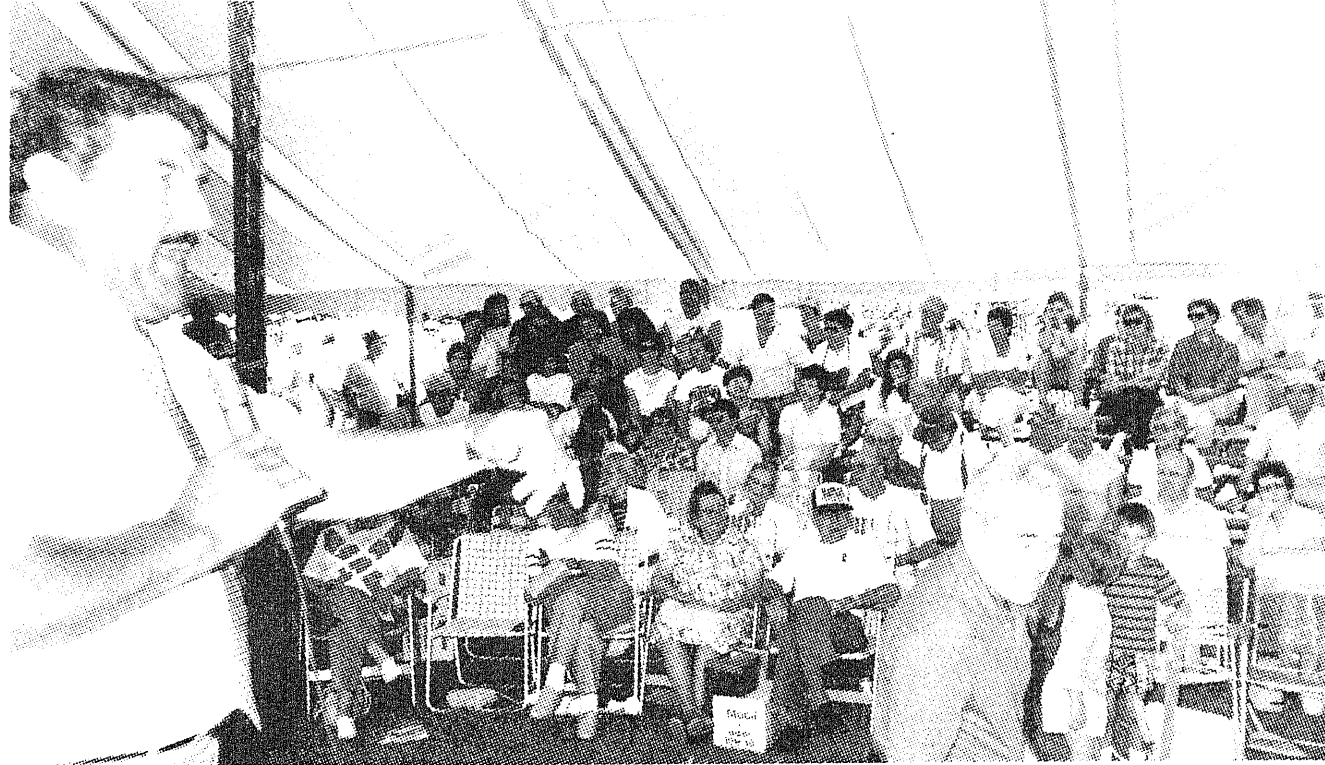

About 375 persons bought oak tables to used cars, handmade quilts to homemade pie and used items to new artwork during the 11th annual Bluewater Youth For Christ Auction Saturday at Pigeon Recreation Park.

Actually, 375 is the number of buyers who registered for auction purchases, while hundreds more bought sale items or otherwise supported the local non-profit group. Bluewater YFC Executive Director Dwight Gascho said the number of buyers and items sold were similar to last year's figures, and YFC hopes to make $25,000 or more on the sale. "We had a nice crowd and a beautiful day," Gascho said. "We feel very good about how the auction went."

He noted some of the best priced items included homemade quilts and Pennsylvania Dutch Dinners, Christmas Dinners, Hawaiian Dinners and more.

"We'll announce final numbers when everything is known, but we're very appreciative to the community for its support of Bluewater YFC," Gascho said.

AT RIGHT, auctioneer Dale Wertz works the crowd. BELOW, the "grill guys" with hamburgers and sausages.

Outdoor Report

Week of July 23, 1990

Excellent fishing for walleyes was reported throughout Saginaw Bay. Especially productive areas ranged from Bay City to Sebewing, from Linwood to AuGres and around the Charity Islands. Fish ranged from 5 to 8 pounds and were biting at depths of 11-18 feet. Hot'n'Tots continued to be the bait of choice.

Both smallmouth and largemouth bass were hitting along the weedy shores that line the perimeter of the Bay. Bass, one of the most popular fish throughout the U.S., seem to have lost favor locally since the walleye took over, but anglers looking for a great fight and a seriously under-fished specie, may want to turn their attention to bass.

The estimated 12,000-bird goos population living near metropolitan Detroit was reduced by 800 birds recently when DNR wildlife personnel trapped the molting birds and shipped them up north. The birds have raised havoc with golf courses and lawns with their droppings. They have no natural enemies in the city and most areas are closed to hunting.

The 1990 early experimental Canada Goose hunt is aimed at reducing these numbers. This year's hunt will remain very similar to 1989. Dates for the hunt are from Sept. 1-10 and the daily bag will be 3 birds, with the possession limit of 6.

A pair of Trumpeter swans released in April of 1989 by the DNR have returned to Michigan. The pair is from a group of 9 birds released in Kalamazoo County.

The goal of the DNR is to obtain swan eggs from zoos, hatch and raise the young at MSU's Kellogg Bird Sanctuary, and re-establish 330 nesting pairs by the year 2000.

Trumpeter swans were eliminated from Michigan and other parts of the Midwest by market hunting in the late 1800s. They were popular because their feathers were preferred for making quill ink pens, and their downy skins were made into powder puffs. The Trumpeter swan can be distinguished from the more common, but non-native, mute swan by the color of their bill. Trumpeter swans have a black bill, while mute swans have an orange bill with a knob on the top.

Caseville Kiwanis welcomes women

By SALLY RUMMEL

"Ladies, first!" Those are the words often heard at the Wednesday meetings of the Caseville Kiwanis Club, since charter female member Alice Hart joined the ranks of the Kiwanians last month.

Hart has since been joined by bankers Kay Fortsch and Nancy Buchholz and the other 25-plus male members of the group seem pleased about the change.

"I get treated royally every Wednesday," says charter member Hart, who is employed at First of America Bank and also serves as Caseville Village Clerk.

The Caseville Kiwanians, who meet weekly at the Country House Restaurant, had a special meeting July 11, when former resident Joe McBride, now of San Diego, Calif., addressed the group on the importance of estate planning.

He said, "It pleases me greatly to be able to return to my home of Caseville and speak to you and answer your questions."

One thing that hasn't changed since women have joined the Kiwanians is the "man-sized" portions served up by Country House owner John Parr and group.

"I really have to adjust my other meals and exercise habits every Wednesday," said Hart, and the other women, with a smile.

Steam thresher demo recalls by-gone days

Bygone days are being brought back to Pigeon at this year's Farmers' Festival with steam thresher demonstrations, sponsored by the Pigeon Historical Society and local farm implement dealers. The full-size thresher, owned by John Bukowski of Harbor Beach, will be cutting wheat with a binder and shocking it, according to Historical Society member Gene Hamilton.

Bukowski's machine is a 1912 Case steam engine with a grain separator. The demonstrations will take place behind the Historical Museum on Thursday and Friday at 2 p.m., and on Saturday at 11 a.m. Hamilton noted that the dealers making the demonstrations possible are Gettel and Company, Damm's Inc., and Osen-toski Equipment.

BY GENE HAMILTON
Pigeon Historical Society
Threshing was quite an event 50 years ago. All the farmers in the neighborhood would exchange work.

At mealtime, the crew would wash in a large wash-tub and dry on line roller towels. The towels showed that some didn't wash very good.

The women would cook them a bountiful meal, after which some would eat two or three pieces of pie. Some threshing outfits were privately owned while others were owned by a group of farmers.

Some had threshing machines for wheat, oats, and barley, while others had bean separators, clover hullers, corn shredders, and saw mills.

There were many types of engines used for these threshing machines.

Some of the people who owned these and operated threshing outfits in the early days were Henry Einhardt, William Lindberger, Ervin Sturm, Henry Herzog, Art Kuhl, Paul and Walter Baur, Ward and Milan Turner, the Faust Brothers, Art Schoenholz, Tom Farver, and the McKinley Farmers Group.

Ervin Sturm, assisted by Earl Sturm, LaVerne Sturm and Ed Vandrey used a Bidwell Beaner, Keck Gonnerman Beaner, Huron Grain Separator, Huber Tractor, two cylinder Titon Tractor, (30-60) H.R., Farmall International (15030 H.P.).

Henry Herzog used a Huber Beaner and Grain Separator with a W.K. 40 International Engine.

The McKinley Farmers Group was operated by Norman Miller, Elmer Wilfong, and Ed Bannick. They used a Beaver Grain Separator with a two-cylinder Nickols and Sheppard engine, and a Huber Beaner with Auton Taylor Engine.

Walter and Paul Baur assisted by Bill Ebert used a Keck Gonnerman Beaner and grain Separator run by a 15-30 McCormick Deering International engine six-cylinder Rumley engine, and a W.C. International.

Levi Schneider and Bill

Limberger assisted by Fred Elftman used a Bidwell Beaner, and a Red River

Special grain separator. They also operated a clover huller and a corn shredder. Later they sold out to Art and Jim Truemmer.

Henry Einhardt assisted by Ted Keehler and John Seaman used a Bidwell and Greyhound Beaner, a Red River Special Grain Separator, and an Oil Pull Rumley Engine and a John Deere engine. He used a Clover-all Clover Huller and a Corn Shredder. He was also a well-driller.

Art Kuhl assisted by Sam and George Kuhl used three steam engines; a Greyhound, Minneapolis Moline, and a Russel. He had a gas tractor, Baker 25-50 h.p. with a Leroy engine made in England, and also an Oliver Hart Par Tractor. He used a Keck Gonnerman Beaner and an Advance Rumley Clover Huller, a Goodson Grain Separator, and a Buffalo Pitts Grain Separator.

There were many more threshing outfits around, but we have no information on them.

Evenings at Church

Caseville UM greets new minister

By AMY HEIDEN
Rev. Greg Mayberry's pastoral duties have taken him from one end of Michigan to another.

The new pastor at Caseville United Methodist Church, his first pastoral assignment was at Wesley United Methodist Church in Iron River, on the Wisconsin border in the Upper Peninsula.

Now he says he's much closer to his parents' home in Columbiaville than during his six years in Iron River. "It was 480 miles to Iron River from Columbiaville. Now I only have to travel about 70 miles," Rev. Mayberry says.

A graduate of the University of Michigan with a Bachelor of Science in biology, Rev. Mayberry received his Master of Divinity degree from Methodist Theological Seminary in Delaware, Ohio. His first full-time pastorate was at Wesley UM, and in his six years there, he had a chance to explore some of the attractions in the U.P.

"I took advantage of the history of the area, and when my parents came up, we visited a lot of lighthouses and the waterfalls there," Rev. Mayberry says. He also had the chance to do plenty of cross-country skiing, easy to do in the long Upper Peninsula winters. His transition to the Caseville area was made simpler by the welcome he received from the congregation and other Caseville residents, he says.

"People have been really helpful. Not just the church people, but other community people, too," he says. One of the first changes Rev. Mayberry made on his arrival was to change the church bulletin from a tri-fold bulletin to a full one-page sheet. "I think it's much easier to read now, and from the comments I've heard, I believe others agree with me," he says. One of his most important missions will be to strengthen the Sunday School and youth programs of the church. "We have a good Sunday school program now, but we don't have a formal youth ministry," he says. Mayberry says the Caseville and Iron River churches have one very important similarity. They both have a good cross-section of membership, including a group of retirees willing to step in and help wherever they're needed. "This congregation thinks of itself as retired, but I look out from the pulpit and I see plenty of young faces," Rev. Mayberry says.

"The retirees have the advantage of more free time, and they have years of experience, not just in the church, but in other areas as well."

REV. GREG MAYBERRY IS PROUD to call the Caseville United Methodist Church, the most photographed church in the country, his new "church home."

Video makes hospital visit easier for kids

DEAR MR. ROSS: I'm up to mischief as usual. We just had our meeting for all the enlisted spouses clubs of the military stationed in Hawaii. We voted to use the money each group has earned from fund-raisers to help Tripler Medical Center here get some pediatric teaching materials.

Their wish list entails a VCR with which to view "Mr. Rogers" (from the children's show "Mr. Roger's Neighborhood") talking to the wee folk about going to the hospital, having an operation, etc. A Tripler nurse specializing in pediatrics feels these teaching aids will help prepare the kids, while lowering their fear levels. Government money can't be used for this, because it is not considered a necessity. They are asking for $1,500 to cover the cost of a portable VCR and two tapes. Through our efforts, we've been able to come up with $1,057. If you could make up the difference, we could get this show on the road. If you can't, we'll explain that we couldn't cover the whole wish and perhaps they will get some other "angel" to kick in the rest. I could go on and on, but I know you must get a ton of mail. And your mind can absorb only what your seat can endure.—MRS. K.C., Kailua, Hawaii

DEAR MRS. C.: So in other words, "Get off your rump, Percy, and write us a check for $443." Just kidding! Your request for help with your worthy project was made in a most respectful way, and I'm happy to oblige. My check is in the mail.

Here's to all the future Tripler Medical Center pediatric patients. May their fears be lifted and their health returned.—

DEAR MR. ROSS: Three years ago, I had a tubal ligation. I had the operation, because I thought I lacked the patience and the mental strength to have any more children. Since then, I have found out that what I needed was to take medication for my stress and depression.

Now that I have stopped working full-time and have become a "real" mother, I realize I made a grave mistake. Both my husband and I long for two additional children. I am now ready to take this opportunity, both physically and mentally. However, since I don't have the income to pay for a reversal of the surgery, I need to ask your help.

The operation runs in the $2,000 range. The success rate is 75%. My insurance company was more than happy to pay for the original surgery, but not for this one. We presently have four children, and our youngest is 3. We would like all our children to be close in age.

I finally realized that motherhood is the greatest blessing a woman can have. Do I have your support?—MRS. L.P., Salt Lake City, Utah

DEAR MRS. P.: You certainly have my support in terms of motherhood being a wonderful thing. And lucky you, you have four children with which to experience it. However, you do not have my financial support for having more children. Our planet is so overpopulated, we don't have the resources to care for all the children we have now. If you want more children, I suggest adopting.

Libka has 'building in his blood' . . .

By SALLY RUMMEL
Pigeon resident Neil Libka knows more about the buildings that have been constructed here in the last 15 years than just about anyone else in the village or township. That's because his job as Building Inspector for the Village of Pigeon and Winsor Township takes him to the construction sites of the most humbly built storage sheds to larger building projects like the addition on Pigeon's Community Book Store.

His job as Building Inspector, a post he has held since 1975, keeps him busy only a couple times a week, a much slower pace than he had during his 10 1/2-year career as an appraiser for the Huron County Equalization Department. Libka retired from that post April 30, but finds his interest in property assessments, appraisals and construction continues. During his county career, Libka conducted field work, priced out property and compared his findings with the assessments. That career followed a 21-year employment with Michigan Lumber Fabricators in Elkton, where he worked in cost accounting, house engineering and as office manager. When the company closed, he spent several years running the Dutch Kettle Restaurant and Pigeon Lanes in Pigeon, then worked for Great Lakes Appraisal Co., which led him into his appraisal career with Huron County. Libka admits to enjoying his retirement, having more time to catch up on his love of fishing. His Building Inpector job, he says, keeps him close to the business which was his family's livelihood for years. He and his wife, Joan, will be married 41 years this September and their family includes six children, ranging in age from 26 to 40, plus four grandsons and four granddaughters.

RETIRED APPRAISER NEIL LIBKA seems to have "building in his blood". Even though he's retired, he still enjoys the part-time work of Building Inspector for the Village of Pigeon and Winsor Township, which takes him to construction sites like this one at the Community Book Store in Pigeon.

The Pigeon Chamber of Commerce says:

'Leave your driving to us!'

"Leave the driving to us!" is the suggestion offered by the Pigeon Chamber of Commerce, who has organized a "shuttle service" with Thumb Area Transit for the three busiest days of the Pigeon Farmers' Festival — this Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9 to 5.

According to Pigeon Chamber of Commerce President Rhonda Buehler, the transportation service is being offered so that as many activities can be enjoyed without worry of how to get from one place to another.

"We've really tried to keep most of the festival activities downtown so that our merchants can benefit from a large number of shoppers," she explains. The T.A.T. buses will be leaving every 15 minutes on the hour from the downtown municipal parking lot, and will make a loop beginning at the Thumb National Bank & Trust parking lot on Main Street to the Pigeon Elementary School parking lot, St. Francis Borgia Catholic Church, the Farmers' Market, Cross Lutheran School, Pigeon VFW Hall, Salem and First United Methodist Churches.

"There will be an easy way to get to any of the festival events," adds Buehler. "You can park at any of the outlying parking lots, and a bus will be there within minutes to take you where you want to go."

Both the Cross Lutheran and St. Francis Borgia parking lots will be closed to parking on Saturday because of the Grand Parade and other activities.

Wisner puppeteers entertain with a message

"Papa John's Garden" will be presented by the Wisner Puppeteers for Top-of-the-Thumb Leisure Ministries this Wednesday, July 25. The program is at 8 p.m. in the Caseville United Methodist Church.

In keeping with the Farmers' Festival in Pigeon, "Papa John's Garden" illustrates the harvest of blessings we have from the Lord.

Operators of the puppets are Walter and Marilyn Latimer and their son, Bryan of Unionville, Carol Schairer of Sebewaing, and Don and Edna Koepf and daughters, Sharon and Cindy of Akron. They are members of Wisner United Methodist Church. The group has been pulling strings for about ten years. The Koepf family makes the puppets used in the six different stories. They started with a couple of animal puppets and a refrigerator box for a stage.

Through the years their cast has grown to about sixty characters and elaborate backdrops have been constructed. Lights and tapes are also used in the presentation.

The Wisner Puppeteers have appeared at banquets, Rally Days, Bible Schools and other events in Caro, Kingston, Birch Run and Saginaw. This is their second time at TTLM Vespers.

Board member Marilyn Elenbaum will introduce the performance. Her fellow members of Kilmanagh United Methodist Church and members of Bay Port United Methodist Church will serve refreshments following the program.

On Wednesday, Aug. 1, Pastor Raymond Orth will be the Vespers speaker. He is pastor of Cross Lutheran Church (ELCA) in Pigeon.

Worship leader for the evening is TTLM director Mavis Pechette. She will join fellow parishioners of St. Felix Catholic Church and members of Hayes United Methodist Church as hostesses for the social time after the service.

TTLM wishes to remind residents and vacationers of the children's activities held each week. Every Wednesday morning at 10 a.m., the staff is at Bay Port RLDS Church for stories, games, songs and crafts.

Port Austin United Protestant Church is the location at 1 p.m. on Thursdays and Fridays at 11 a.m. Caseville County Park is the spot.

TTLM staff also conducts the activity hour at Duggan's Family Campground on Saturday mornings at 11 a.m.

It's a Jungle Out There

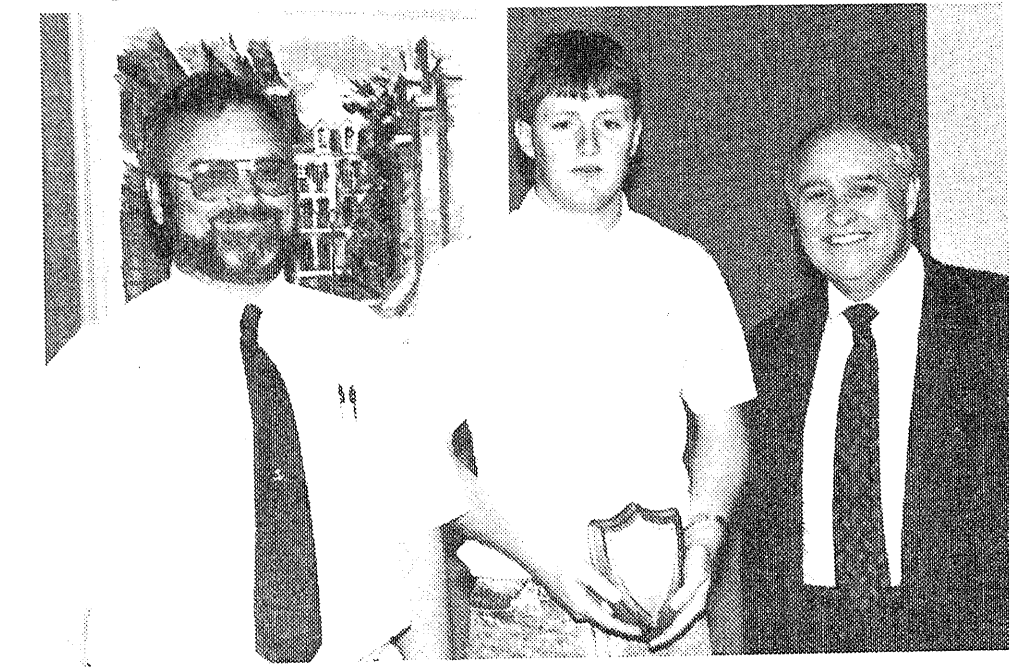

Every day, 1 out of every 4 Huron County residents enter a frightening world the rest of us take for granted: the world of words. Non-readers handle print the only way they know how: by ignoring it. Advertisements, signs, and messages don't reach their intended audience. Adults ready to win the battle of the words can get free help from H.E.L.P., which has private volunteer tutors all over Huron County. For more information or to volunteer, call Donna at 269-9502. This literacy awareness message was sponsored by the Harbor Beach Public Library which reminds you that reading is freedom.

The course provided training in leadership and helicopter flying techniques as well as instrument flying. Roberts, a 1985 graduate of Laker High School, is the son of Janet M. Harris and stepson of Harold Harris, Elkton.

Winners at the recent table of bridge at Scenic Golf and Country Club were Florence Schuman, Betty Peterhans, Jean Parent, Shirley Deering and Fran Dunsford. UNITED IN MARRIAGE

WINTER - BUSHEY

Cindy Winter of Bay Port and Eric Bushey of Saginaw, united their lives in marriage on June 16 at St. John's Lutheran Church, Kilmanagh. Pastor Jeffrey B. Walsh joined together in a doubling ceremony the daughter of James and Donna Chalou of Bay Port, and the late Jerry Winter and the son of Louis and Yvonne Bushey of Caseville.

Special wedding music included "What is Love," "Doubly Good to You" and "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Lora and Dave Keenan of Saginaw. The organist was Amy Horst of Sebawaing and the trumpet player was Robert Dean Jr. of Pigeon.

The bride approached the altar wearing a formal white satin sheath with re-embroidered alencon lace with a scoop neck on the shoulder. Her gown featured long puff sleeves and was accented with an attached chapel length train with cut outs. The matching headpiece was a pearl spray contour wreath with several sizes of roses with creptal centers. Puff veiling with Lily of the Valleys accented the back.

The bride carried a free flowing cascade of sonia and white roses, champagne sweethearts, pearls and streamers. Baby's breath and special greens added the finishing touches.

Vicki Winter of Bay Port, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, joined at the altar by bridesmaids Amy Winter and Geri Kay Winter, both of Bay Port and sisters of the bride; Amy Bushey and Kelly Bushey both of Caseville and sisters-in-law of the groom and Lynda Braun of Pigeon, friend of the couple.

The bridesmaids wore emerald dresses with a lace bodice and three quarter length shirred sleeves. The dresses were accented with a v-back and a full swing tea-length skirt with cascading lace trim in the back.

The bridesmaids carried colonial round bouquets of sonia roses with mini carnations.

The flowergirl was Kellie Chalou of Bay Port, cousin of the bride. The groom chose a friend, Ron Souva of Caseville, to be his best man, assisted by groomsmen William LePage of Elkton, friend of the couple; Troy Weidman of Pontiac, friend of the couple; Jeff Bushey and T.L. Bushey, both of Caseville and brothers of the groom and Kregg Baur of Rochester, friend of the couple.

Helping seat the wedding guests were Jay Bushey and Mike Bushey, both of Caseville and brothers of the groom.

ille and brothers of the groom.

The ringbearer was Rollie Chalou of Bay Port, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore an ivory tea-length dress accented with a lace overlay at the neck and a key hole back.

The groom's mother wore a creme street length skirt with a lace over satin top. Both mothers had shoulder corsages with peach and ivory roses accented with pearls.

The newly-married Mr. and Mrs. Bushey greeted 375 guests at a reception at the Colony House, Cass City. Guests attended from Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Flint, Ortonville, Livonia, Mt. Morris, Farmington Hills, Sterling Heights, Birmingham, Mt. Pleasant and the surrounding Thumb area.

The bride, a graduate of Central Michigan University, is a speech pathologist for the Tuscola Intermediate School District. Her husband, also a CMU graduate, is employed at Yeo and Yeo, P.C., C.P.A. in Saginaw.

After a one-week honeymoon on a Caribbean cruise, the couple will reside in Saginaw.

Will Dave Dietzel make it to the parade on time?

By AMY HEIDEN

Dave Dietzel has driven a two-cylinder John Deere tractor in every Farmers' Festival parade since 1978—and if Lady Luck is with him, he'll be riding in Saturday's parade.

But he won't be coming from his home in Owendale this year.

He and his family will be rushing back from Waterloo, Iowa, where he's displaying a tractor in Expo II, the World's Fair of John Deere Two-Cylinder Tractors and Equipment, sponsored by Two-Cylinder Worldwide.

Dietzel's first two-cylinder tractor, a 1935B, came into his possession in 1978 almost by accident.

"A friend paid me for painting his truck with half a beef and a pile of junk," and now the beef is gone, but the tractor is still here," Dietzel chuckles.

That tractor has been driven in plenty of Farmers' Festival parades, but it will be overshadowed this year by Dietzel's latest obsession—a 1951B—which he bought for his son Eric to drive in parades.

But after learning that Two-

Cylinder Worldwide was planning another Expo, Dietzel says he "decided to go for the gusto and make it a show tractor."

Displaying a tractor at the Expo is not as simple as loading up a tractor and showing up, Dietzel says.

Tractors have to be invited to the event, based on applications from the owners. Each owner has to submit a detailed description of his tractor, color photos, and a list of equipment. Of about 2,500 applicants for the Expo, less than 500 were selected to display, Dietzel says.

Many of the tractors in the Expo will be "show" tractors, detailed to the last nut and bolt, Dietzel says.

For example, all the cast iron parts on his tractor have been sanded and filled, so that the painted parts are smooth as glass. When the tractor was torn down for restoration, each piece was painted before it was reinstalled, then the whole tractor was painted again.

Even the nuts and bolts don't show wrench marks. "That kind of detail proves it's a show tractor," Dietzel says. Every detail on the tractor is authentic, even down to the two-legged deer emblem that the company used during those years.

Even though the tractor shows attention has been paid to every detail, the tractors and equipment at the Expo won't be judged—except in the minds of the exhibitors, Dietzel says.

And although the Expo tractors are mostly amateur owned, he says he'll know if he's a "professional" by comparing his tractor to others.

Dietzel will be parading his show tractor in Saturday's parade, providing he makes it back in time.

"So many people have wanted to see the tractor that I really want to have it in the parade," he says.

And the tractor will be displayed along with other tractors belonging to members of the Thumb Two-Cylinder Club at Gettel Implement after the parade.

After all the hoopla, the tractor will belong to son Eric, age 12, who Dietzel bought the tractor for in the first place.

Dietzel plans to restore tractors for his other two children, Jamie, 10, and Chris, 4, and is trying to talk his wife Tina into a tractor of her own. "She's not quite as wild about it as I am," he says.

Why his obsession with the green and yellow machines?

"We're nuts, that's why," he says.

"Everybody likes the sound, that chug, chug, chug. And they feel different than the new tractors. The new tractors are just like trucks. This is a combination hobby, profession and a dream of a love."

Beautiful Blueberries!

Crepes, muffins, pies, puddings or cobbler...no other fruit makes so many desserts so delicious and simple as fresh Michigan blueberries.

The first blueberries are believed to have been harvested by the Indians along the shore of Lake Huron as early as 1615. From that time on, blueberries became a favorite of Indians and settlers, and the popularity of the small, sweet fruit continues today.

Both wild and cultivated blueberries grow in our state. The wild varieties are known as "lowbush" and grow on bushes 6-18 inches tall. Cultivated blueberries are called "highbush" because the plants can grow as tall as 12-16 feet. The biggest difference between the two is the way they are harvested. Lowbush berries are picked mostly by hand, while the highbush varieties can be picked by hand or harvested mechanically.

Michigan-grown blueberries are a low-calorie high-carbohydrate snack that can be eaten out of the hand or mixed with other fruits for a nutritious salad. Michigan's blueberries contain only 82 calories per cup and are also a good source of potassium. Full of vitamins A and C, fresh blueberries add color and taste to any bread, salad or dessert.

Fresh blueberries are on sale this week in markets across the state, so take advantage of Michigan's bounty with these recipe ideas:

Preheat oven to 375-degrees. Combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan; add blueberries, lemon juice, lemon peel, cinnamon and salt.

Cook and stir over medium heat 4-6 minutes, or until thickened. Place in 2 quart baking dish; spoon cobbler topping over fruit mixture. Bake 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm with ice cream or whipped topping. Makes 4-6 servings Cobbler Topping: Stir together 1-cup flour, 3 Tbl sugar, 1-1/2 tsp. baking powder and 1/4 tsp. each ground cinnamon & salt. Combine 1 beaten egg and 1/3 cup milk. Stir into dry ingredients just until moistened.

2-cups flour 1/2-cup butter or marg.

Preheat oven to 375-degrees. Combine all ingredients except blueberries and nut topping. Using electric mixer, beat 30 seconds on low speed; scrape bowl. Beat 2 minutes on medium speed; scraping bowl frequently. Spread half of batter in greased 2-quart glass baking dish. Spread half of blueberries on batter; sprinkle with half of nut topping. Repeat layers with remaining batter, blueberries and nut topping. Bake 45 to 50 minutes or until wooden pick inserted near center comes out clean. Serves 9-12.

Nut Topping: Combine 3 Tbl. softened butter or margarine, 1/3-cup each packed brown sugar and flour and 1 tsp. ground cinnamon. Add 1/2-cup finely chopped pecans; mix well.

Blueberry Ice Cream Pie

1-1/2-cups blueberry honey sauce 3 egg whites
1-9 inch graham cracker pie crust 6 Tbl. sugar
1-quart vanilla ice cream (softened) 1/2 tsp. vanilla

Preheat oven to 475-degrees. Spread half of ice cream in pie shell. Mix remaining ice cream with blueberry sauce. Fill pie. Freeze until firm. Allow egg whites to reach room temperature. Beat egg whites, vanilla and cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Gradually add 6 Tbl. sugar, beating until stiff and glossy. Cover entire surface of ice cream with meringue, sealing edges. Place pie plate on board and bake for about 2 or

3-cups sugar 3-oz. fruit pectin
1/3-cup orange juice

Wash blueberries. Crush berries in an enamel or stainless steel pan. Add sugar & fruit juices. Mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil. Boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in pectin. Seal in hot, sterilized jars. Refrigerate. Can be stored for 2 months. Makes 3 cups or 4 (6 ounce) jars.

Blueberry & Ham Salad

2-cups blueberries 2-cups orange sections
2-cups salad greens 1-cup sliced celery
3-cups diced cooked ham honey yogurt dressing

Line a salad bowl with bite-size pieces of greens. Arrange ham, fresh orange sections, celery and blueberries in a pretty pattern on top of greens. Chill. Just before serving, toss with yogurt dressing.

Honey Yogurt Dressing: Combine 3 Tbl. honey with 8 ounces of plain yogurt.

Blueberry Honey Sauce

2-cups blueberries 1/2-cup honey
1-tsp. cinnamon 1/2 stick unsalted butter
1/2 tsp. grated nutmeg salt

In a saucepan, combine berries, cinnamon, nutmeg, honey, butter and a pinch of salt. Bring the mixture to a boil, reduce heat, then simmer, stirring occasionally, for 5 minutes. Serve the sauce warm over ice cream, pancakes, french toast or waffles. Makes about 1-1/2 cups.

Lots of Festival food

■ And those heavenly elephant ears with sugar and cinnamon, or fruit toppings, will be available throughout the weekend, too.

Then try some refreshing lemonade, sold by the Pigeon Historical Society.

MORE, TOO: And all over town during the Festival, there'll be plenty of other tastes to tempt your palate. ■ The Cross Luther League is once again planning to sell pizza from their stand downtown, at Pigeon's spotlight corner.

Cool refreshing milk and ice cream will be sold by the Michigan Milk Producers, at their red barn concession stand by Kretzschmer Hardware. And Jack Tyler will be bringing his food concession to downtown Pigeon again, with hot dogs, cotton candy and other goodies.

Food at the Recreation Park will include Pat Jackson's elephant ears, Smith's cotton candy and snow cones, Bechler's broasted chicken and Miller's concession stand with popcorn and candy.

And on Saturday, during the Red Hacker Basketball Tournaments, Blue Water Youth for Christ will be grilling sausages, complete with green peppers and onions, in the Municipal Parking lot downtown.

Osentoski Equipment celebrates remodeling

By AMY HEIDEN

Remodeling can do wonders for a house, and it can also give a business a whole new look and feel.

That's exactly what has happened at Osentoski Equipment in Pigeon, since they've remodeled the entire showroom and parts department.

Osentoski was one of 40 Case-International Harvester dealers in the U.S. and Canada to be selected for a facelift, designed to open up floorspace and create a bright store environment, according to manager Don Osentoski.

"Osentoski was chosen for the remodeling because Case-IH believes we're growing every year, that we're an aggressive company," Osentoski says.

He explains that before the work started, the aisles were congested with merchandise - but now that merchandise is neatly stored on shelves. New signage directs customers to the goods they need, and clean walls and floors make the entire dealership more inviting, Osentoski notes.

"A lot of guys don't like to send their wives to some implement dealers because the place is dark and dirty, but we've tried to make the store an attractive place you can come and do business in," he says.

Osentoski Equipment still carries a full line of parts of Case IH tractors and equipment, plus filters for all makes of tractors, batteries, paints, and engine oil. Now, there will be more room to expand the merchandise lines even further.

Osentoski Equipment is celebrating the remodeling and its 22nd year of business in Pigeon with an Open House July 25-27 with a special sale, with discounts on parts and merchandise. Customers are invited to enter a drawing for daily door prizes, and the grand prize of a new 11-hp Cub Cadet lawn tractor with 38" deck.

DAN OSENTOSKI is pleased with his new surroundings, after months of remodeling.

ODE TO ALICE PRITCHARD
Alice was a Polar Bear
We know that this is true
She's also famous for doing hair
Her leaving makes us blue,
At the end of July she will retire
Or so she's said for years,
We thought that she was lying
And now it's finally here
So here's your final goodbye from us
We sure have had some fun
You didn't want there to be a fuss
So stop in, say goodbye, and run!
