Lillian Leipprandt is known as the "Florence Nightingale" of the Pigeon Area, because of her heroic nursing efforts during the flu epidemic of 1918-19.

Through the succeeding years, she continued nursing — along with existing four successful children, tending a house, farm and garden, and being a devoted wife to her husband, the late E.T. Leipprandt.

Now at age 95, she's slowed down a bit, not by choice but by a broken hip suffered in August while tending her beloved flowers.

But her eyes sparkle when she brahs about her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

When so many of her friends are gone or no longer can care for themselves, she speaks of being anxious to return to her home.

"I left in such a hurry. I probably won't know where anything is," Mrs. Leipprandt says. "And who will dig my potatoes and onions?"

She celebrated her 95th birthday Tuesday, at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Phyllis and Clarence Gattel, where she's staying during her recovery from hip replacement surgery. They've been 95 years filled with love and laughter, she says. "It's been a wonderful life. I've met a lot of lovely people," she says.

She spends a lot of time tattling now, a skill learned from her aunt decades ago. Her children's homes are graced with pillowcases edged with the delicate circles of Mrs. Leipprandt's handwriting.

And many areas women own quilts stitched by her quilting group from the Schurrer Hospital Auxiliary.

"When someone wants a quilt quilted, they pay the auxiliary and a group of ladies come to my house and we stitch them. All the money goes directly to the auxiliary," Mrs. Leipprandt says.

Are you interested in enjoying a pool, campground, retirement village, new storefronts or additions to Pigeon?

A five-day rural issues seminar led by Pioneer HI-Bred International, Inc. in Cleveland, Ohio last spring planted a seed of interest in pursuing such future projects in several Pigeon residents who attended.

That seed has grown into plans for a Strategic Planning Committee aimed at attracting Pigeon for the future. An open forum is planned for this Thursday, Oct. 11 at 7 p.m. at the Pigeon District Library.

Rob Steele, who will lead the seminar, hopes that Pigeon residents from diverse occupations and backgrounds will attend to provide input and support.

"We aren't starting 'at ground zero' like many other communities we are trying to make plans. The strength we have in our schools, library, hospital, Chamber of Commerce, Economic Development Corporation, village, township and service clubs is unbelievable," Steele says.

"What we're hoping to do is provide a planning committee that can oversee the efforts of all these groups and 'pool our resources' to get it done.

Rob Steele, who works as vice president at Thumb National Bank and Trust Co., plans to draw upon his experiences as a former strategic planner for Comerica Bank in Detroit and elsewhere previously, in working on a strategic plan for Pigeon.

"The most important thing a business can do to ensure its success is planning. The same is true with municipalities and villages," Steele notes.

"We need to take a pro-active stance in future years, rather than reacting to a situation. I think some rather precarious economic times are ahead nationally and we need to leverage our strengths and weaknesses to be ready for these future challenges.

"At Thursday's meeting, we hope to build some excitement in looking at some new projects for Pigeon.

"There'll be six subcommittees formed - Recreation, Beautification, Tourism, Business Development, Strategy and DDA/Grant-writing - that are bound to catch the interest of someone willing to work in that area," adds Steele.

At Thursday's meeting, he also will review results of the recent Pigeon Chamber of Commerce business and consumer surveys, show a brief segment of the "Search For Solutions: Winning Communities" video, overview the planning process and provide time for a brainstorming session.

Most of all, Steele hopes to build excitement for some of the possibilities that are open to Pigeon.

"We already have an excellent 'quality of life' in Pig- grove," he says. "What we need to do is go forward and make plans, rather than sit back waiting for things to happen."
When he talks, they listen!

When you call Pete Ruiz de Castilla, you get the same kind of response you might expect from a police officer or a doctor. But when you call him about your child's drinking problem, you don't get a lecture or a prescription. You get a conversation. Pete Ruiz de Castilla is a coordinator for the TEAM (Teen Education and Mental Health) program, which stands for Teen Empowerment, Education, and Mental Health. He's been working with young people in the area for over 10 years, and he's seen firsthand how important it is to have someone to talk to who listens.

Letters to the Editor:
Schoener Ambulance Needs You!

DEAR EDITOR:
What would you do if you were hosting a children's birthday party and your child needed medical attention? You'd probably call an ambulance. But what if the only ambulance available was the one that was just called to your house for a medical emergency? And what if that ambulance was already tied up with other calls?

Schoener Ambulance is a local company that provides emergency medical services. They're always there when you need them, but they need your support to continue serving the community. Please consider making a donation to Schoener Ambulance and help ensure that they can continue to provide the vital service that they do.

Sincerely,
Erich Schoener, Director

Lakewood Board Of Channel One

Lakewood Board of Channel One

Dear Mr. Borrego,

If there was a financial risk, you would be another story. But there's no financial risk. "Dolgoel" and all its components will be on the air for Levittown Television. The station will be able to afford it.

The Lakewood Board of Channel One has made a decision to withdraw from Lakewood Television. This decision was not made lightly. The Board has been working on this issue for several months, and they have come to the conclusion that it is in the best interest of the community to do so.

The Lakewood Board of Channel One would like to thank Mr. Borrego and all of his staff for their hard work and dedication to the station. The Board hopes that Mr. Borrego will be able to find another use for the station and continue to serve the community.

Sincerely,
Robert D. Gilman, President

WHAT IS CHANNEL ONE?

Channel One is an educational television program offered by White Plains Communications, a New York-based media company. It is funded by a federal government grant, which includes advertisements and sponsorships.

The Channel One program is designed to provide students with a vivid and interactive learning experience. The program features news stories, educational materials, and interactive exercises that can be used in the classroom.

No more leaf pickups in Elkton village

By Amy Heiden

With the start of the fall season, the Elkton Village Council has announced that leaf pickup will no longer be offered to residents.

"We made this decision after careful consideration," said Village President John Johnson. "We believe that the cost of leaf pickup is too much for the Village to sustain.

Mr. Johnson added that the Village will continue to provide other services, such as snow removal and street cleaning, to residents.

The Village Council also announced that they will be reducing the number of trash cans in the Village, from 5 to 3.

The Village will be providing a schedule for the reduction of trash cans, which will be posted on the Village website.

"We hope that our residents will understand our decision and continue to support the Village," said Mr. Johnson.

The Village Council will continue to work on finding ways to improve the Village and provide the best possible services to its residents.

"We look forward to serving our residents in the future," said Mr. Johnson.

Both to blame for education mess

Anyone who has witnessed the back-biting sarcasm and constant bickering of the two gubernatorial candidates, not to mention the inane statements of others in the political melting pot that is TV and radio, you realize education spending is one of the top issues in an otherwise awful campaign.

And it’s about time.

Both candidates, Gov. James Blanchard and Republican hopeful Sen. John Enright point their fingers at each other, saying neither is due to bad enough schools. But most voters believe the blame hasn’t been past on Lansing’s power base for more than 20 years — and only 3 years ago those same lawmakers have tried to do a great deal, but doing nothing, to actually improve our state’s educational scene.

Now, of course, they each tell us what they would do if they were in charge, but most do — to help teach teachers into proper universities and资质 equivalency. But perhaps the real idea behind all the random initiatives resulting from this attitude, will amount to little more than our lawmakers are too busy.

And now, the largest state and national teachers associations are rushing to talk the same way.

The National Education Association, as well as its state counterpart, the Michigan Education Association, is trying to overcome the former image as an opponent of school reform. For years, as news reports say, the NEA has an image as a group that digs in its heels anytime change is proposed. That perception likely began a decade ago, when the NEA opposed one of the earliest (and best) teaching-reform proposals: pay teachers for performance.

Now, as Pigeon native and NEA member Mark Geiger says, “Let it be known that the NEA wholeheartedly supports rewarding teachers for their personal and collective productivity.”

The NEA is leading what is referred to as a “reform education,” adopting a stance many thinkers have promoted for the last three decades or more.

Some recent recommendations to improve education:

- Create small, type classes for children as young as three years old.
- Implement two weeks of school for a child each academic year, for the one-in-two students who find a college education too demanding.
- End and group students in classes by their scores.
- Get a thorough revamped of the way teachers are educated.

No one in the NEA really believes most of those proposals will become reality soon. But they do represent change, insight and a method of improving a lethargic educational system which needs a full and future.

And for more, educators, school boards and lawmakers all have something similar to talk about — a genuine concern for making education more fun.

And more, educators, school boards and lawmakers all have something similar to talk about — a genuine concern for making education more fun.

The NEA is promoting to general leaders is better than the leadership and stances taken by our gubernatorial candidates in this muddy campaign.

SATURDAY’S SHEEP

Three sheep breeders arranged a tour of several area fairs on Saturday. It was 0-0 in a row of six people who planned to look at what other sheep raisers are doing. Elizabeth Baldy, Lew Ford and Betty Ann Arehart of the Hilltop Sheep Farm in Birch Creek, Mich., will represent Sheep by the 16th Annual State Fair around the corner. The farm has 150 sheep and 300 head of cattle. Club leaders were their spring sale by the hilltop and decided to have a tour of the Wheaton home for the convenience of the members. Farm club members are cordially invited to stop in and see the sheep.

Pigeon hosts county woman meeting

The Pigeon Worth Civic Club had around 40-50 Civic Club members from throughout Huron County, the group’s 7th annual International Women’s Day program Monday at Pigeon Library. Civic Club President Betty White welcomed the crowd to the Pigeon Library. "We really don’t cover everything," Mrs. White said. "There are many things going on here and it’s kind of hard to get them all in this program."... All are invited to the next meeting which will be held the 3rd Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the Library. Interested parties can contact the Pigeon Civic Club for more information.

Pigeon girls, Class of ’25, havełąd as their annual meeting, a luncheon at the Woods Restaurant in the Ida Hotel. At the meal, Mrs. White addressed the group about the organization’s activities and thanked them for their support and encouragement. The group also discussed the upcoming meeting for the month and decided to plan an event for July.

Skiing, hiking, and maintaining the library are among the things they enjoy. They are all very active members of the community and can be contacted about any further activities they plan to do in the future.

The Pigeon Worth Civic Club is an organization that was founded by the Pigeon Women’s Club in 1925. They meet monthly during the school year and hold a luncheon each fall. They are dedicated to supporting the Pigeon Library and the Pigeon Civic Club.

They have been very active in the community and have contributed to many local events and projects. They are known for their annual fundraising events, such as the annual Chili Cook-Off and Raffle, which have become popular among the Pigeon community.

The group also supports local schools by contributing to their PTOs and helping with various projects. They have been involved in the local school system for many years and have had a positive impact on the community.

The Pigeon Worth Civic Club is open to all women who are interested in being involved in community activities and supporting the Pigeon Library. They meet every 2nd Tuesday of each month at the Pigeon Library. For more information, please contact the Pigeon Library at 989-296-4150.
Strong Laker defense crushes Cardinals, 37-8

By AMY HEYDEN

A year ago, the Millington High School football team was crushed by the Laker defense. This year, coming off of a 2-7 season, the Lakers turned the tables and crushed the Cardinals, 37-8.

This year, coming for the 9-3 season, the Lakers received the ball at the start of the game and with 10:04 left to play, the Laker defense stepped up and Myron Jones intercepted a pass from the Laker quarterback. This resulted in the first Laker touchdown of the game.

!Image

The Lakers defense was led by Von Johnson and Cameron Poland, who had 5 tackles each. The Laker defense held the Cardinals to only 2 first downs and 53 total yards for the game.

The Lakers defense was also helped by the Laker offense, which scored 21 points in the first half of the game.

ELKTON PRESIDENT'S CIRCLE

By GEORGE W. WILLICUAY

Village President

Villagers declared that last year’s councils would not be doing this year’s councils. Villagers decided to do things that were a little bit different from last year. We must all work together to see that this year’s councils do their job. Villagers will work together to make sure this happens. We must have a strong council to represent our interests.
