As we see it

Where would we be without volunteers?

This is National Volunteer Week, and a recent story concept helps remind us all again how wonderfully important all kinds of people are who give the greatest gift of all, their time, for others.

What would our world be without volunteers? Let’s consider some.

According to US News and World Report, “65 million Americans volunteer for organizations.”

And the benefits of volunteerism go far beyond the projects they work on. Volunteers have higher job satisfaction and career fulfillment. They also tend to live longer and healthier lives. And they’re more likely to be financially better off in their retirement years.

So, if you’re not already volunteering, what are you waiting for? If you are, then we here at Progress-Advocate would like to say thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

BOTH SIDES

There’s a tendency in the county to keep secrets and not admit to anything that might be embarrassing to others or the county itself. But some people need to be told what they need to know in order to have their children do better, or for us to operate more efficiently, or to avoid ignorance or corruption. “This is right, and that is wrong.”

A castle, shining stars and a wizard...

With a crystal ball and 19 years’ experience as a Thumb area rousing in the midst of one stormy weather event, I believe we can prevent the next one.

The forecast is for a stormy weather event, and I believe we can prevent the next one.

RECESSIONS OF BY-GONE DAYS

BY GEORGE KIRM

The new programs went on show interviews of opposing viewpoints. First were several different views of one country, of course - of course - but later others, which were quite different, plus some good food and shelter for their families. They believe, you see, that we are what we eat, but I think that maybe the situation is different.

They all have their own stories, but the one thing they all have in common is that they all have to change their situation, and they cannot offer to offer any moral support.

The interviewees were of varying attitudes, ages and nationalities. One was an old lady from Strasbourg, who should strictly be called a fruit, vegetables and cheese farmer.

But this still wasn’t enough. The show was concluded with an on-stage debate between a pro-peace man and a neo-Nazi activist. The moderator kept things under control - he almost said things - he could have told us more. One or two was in the audience, the others were outside. But it was a very good show.

Meanwhile, the story continued, and there was a lot to tell. But now it’s time to end.

OUTDOOR REPORT

Week of April 27, 1972

The brisk, wintry months and northern plowmen opened their fields but nature was still in her winter's grip. The chill of the cold weather had not yet left the land. The snow and ice still covered the fields and pastures.

Now, the days are longer and the sun is higher in the sky. The warmth of the sun is beginning to melt the snow and ice, bringing life back to the land.

Meadowlarks are singing their familiar songs, and robins are landing on the ground for a quick meal.

It's a great time to get outside and enjoy the outdoors. Whether you're hiking, fishing, or simply taking a walk, there's something for everyone to enjoy.

Be sure to check out the outdoor report each week for the latest updates on the outdoors in our area.

Simple Steps to Better Test Grades

Byaker Robert Drury

Each spring a debate is the Wave to prepare for the end of the school year and accumulate experiences and information. This is especially true for students who are being tested for their ability to perform in the classroom. The Wave staff is working to prepare our readers for the end of the year by offering tips and strategies on how to better prepare for tests.

1. Read the questions carefully before answering. This will help you identify the key concepts that are being tested.
2. Take breaks during test taking. This will help you maintain focus and avoid burnout.
3. Use the process of elimination to eliminate incorrect answer choices.
4. Stay calm and focused during test taking. This will help you think clearly and avoid making careless mistakes.
5. Review your answers before submitting. This will help you catch any mistakes you may have made.

Questions for the Superintendent

By Laker Sue R. Byler

A new proposal has been put forth by the Superintendent to improve test grades. The proposal includes:

1. A revision of the testing schedule to allow for more time on each test.
2. The introduction of a study hall for students who need extra help.
3. The implementation of a peer tutoring program.
4. The creation of a study group for each class.

The proposal is currently under review by the Board of Education.

The world became a smaller place when a three-person delegation from the Thumb renewed inter- national friendships at the RLDS World Conference in Independence, MO April 4-12.

Ervin Haley of Sebewaing, Jim Chaleu of Bay Port and Joe Robbins of Mayville were among the 3,000 voting dele- gates and 20,000 people from all over the world who attended the weeklong event.

Haley, who serves as pastor of the Bay Port Recognized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, has attended four other international conferences as a voting delegate.

To Haley, it is spiritually uplifting and gives him an opportunity to broaden his own perspective, strengthen and renew friendships and, on a more practical level, learn new hymns to use at his home church.

A highlight for Haley was renewing his friendship with Bunda Chimboa, a national RLDS minister in Zambia, who also served as a convention speaker. Chimboa and Haley had become ac- quainted at the 1980 World Conference and quickly be- came friends. He brought with him two other RLDS representatives.

The three Thumb delegations enjoyed a special treat when the three Africans hosted an African dinner. The meal was eaten with hands — no silverware — and featured "gari," a tubular vegetable that was used to dip into the stew.

Haley's church has developed a friendship with Christians in Africa, support- ing the Zambian churches with clothing. According to Haley, the Africa churches, though they may suffer from shortages of clothing and food, feel very rich with the hope of the Gospel.

"Christian churches are re- ally making a stronghold in Africa right now," says Haley. "In addition to RLDS churches, Methodist, Mennonite, Catholic and other denominations are setting up churches there."

The 1982 World Confer- ence addressed the issues of human diversity, recogniz- ing the special needs of singles, children and the mentally and physically handicapped. Leaders com- mended El Salvador for a peaceful resolution to their political strife and recog- nized South Africa for peace- ful negotiations of the Aus- tralian issue.

RLDS leaders are putting emphasis in the next decade on finding peace with Christ in families, churches, com- munities and society's large.

To Haley, he is putting those goals into action as he "rattles the world" person by person through friendship and the gestures of friend- ship from one small church in the Thumb to churches far afield in Africa.
