

'Iowa Rose' brings bluegrass music to Band Shell Sunday

Bluegrass music takes center stage this Sunday night at the Pigeon Band Shell when "Iowa Rose" performs in a 7 p.m. concert.

The performance features the Michigan-based band which has sung and played at the Wheatland Bluegrass Festival near Shepherd and in many other places.

Three men and a woman — Jeff Rose, Mark Schrock, David Raffenaud and Mary Sue Wilkinson — combine their unique musical talents into bluegrass favorites as well as new numbers, too.

You're invited to bring your own lawn chairs or blankets for listening comfort, according to the Pigeon Band Shell Entertainment Committee, which is sponsoring the concert. No alcoholic beverages are allowed and there is a small admission fee payable at the gates.

Rain site for the performance is the Laker High Auditorium, and this is the final concert in the Band Shell Committee's 1992 Summer Series.

Meet Bay Port Queen Shannon!

Bay Port's new Queen is Shannon Marion, selected from a field of six young Bay Port ladies at the Bay Port Fish Sandwich Days Festival this past weekend.

The 16-year-old Marion will be a junior this year at Laker High School. She's been involved in cross country, track, debate, drama and band, playing alto sax. She also served as president of the Laker SADD chapter.

Queen Shannon says she's an animal lover, and has two cats, two dogs, two sheep and raises game chickens. Some day soon, she wants to own a Paint horse. She's very interested in the culture of the Sioux Indians, she says.

After graduation, she wants to go on to college to study science and music, and hopes to work for the Department of Natural Resources someday.

"I'd like to come back to work in this area, because I love Bay Port so much," Marion said. "I'd like to try to make things a little better for everyone who lives here."

Saturday's bright sunlight got the 15th annual Bay Port Fish Sandwich Weekend off to a GREAT start, and the largest parade ever resulted in 5000 sandwiches being sold within the first six hours.

But Sunday's cold, rainy weather resulted in smaller fish eaters that day, and an estimated 8000 sandwiches were ultimately sold, according to preliminary counts.

"We had a wonderful start, but Sunday didn't cooperate," Festival planners said. "We would have sold out the 10,000-plus as planned if it hadn't rained so hard."

Large crowds were reported at all Saturday events, and a record 54 exhibitors sold crafts and handmade items.

Look out as you drive in Pigeon 'til Nov. 6...

Pigeon's massive street and sidewalk replacement project gets underway Monday morning, and will cause traffic and pedestrian disruptions through Nov. 6.

Michigan Department of Transportation officials say work by PTI Construction of Oakley will begin in several locations. First, all road surfaces will be removed to allow underground and electrical work.

At least one driving lane should be open at all times, but many stores will be opening back doors for customer use during the construction.

Caseville starts curbside recycling Oct. 1... with a twist

By AMY HEIDEN

In October, the Village of Caseville will join a growing list of villages and cities in Michigan with recycling programs.

What makes Caseville's effort different from others is that the village will run its own recycling program.

With money from a $325,000 grant from the Clean Michigan Communities Project, the village purchased a compartment truck to pick up materials at curbside, baling machinery, a chipping machine, recycling bins, and is constructing a building dedicated solely to the program.

Caseville is one of just six Michigan communities selected for the Clean Michigan Communities Project.

Village Councilman Bob Schoenberg is chairman of the village's recycling committee, and he's been joined by Sandy Goslee, recycling coordinator in charge of education, in efforts to get the program officially started.

They've set Oct. 1 as the tentative start-up date for the curbside recycling program, and they were opening bids on Aug. 4 to hire a project manager.

That person will be responsible for the pickup and processing of recyclable materials, the spring and fall leaf pickup, and the backyard composting program, Goslee said.

CASEVILLE "RECYCLERS" Bob Schoenberg, chairman of the Village's Recycling Committee, and Recycling Education Coordinator Sandy Goslee show collection equipment, in front of the new village compartment truck and the recycling building. Caseville's curbside recycling program starts Oct. 1. AMY HEIDEN PHOTO Collection bins will be distributed to each household, and there'll be larger containers for businesses. Residents will be able to recycle newspapers, No. 2 plastic, corrugated cardboard, tin and aluminum cans, and clear, brown and green glass.

Although the markets aren't especially great for cardboard and colored glass, there are a few companies taking those materials, and they'll pick up those materials and find markets for them, Goslee says.

"We're also working closely with county officials on recycling, too," she said, and county officials are also looking for new markets for recycled materials.

Recycling has become commonplace and a way of life in many people's lives, and now it's Caseville's turn. "I think residents are excited about it. Everyone's waiting for it," Schoenberg says.

Primary Election brought out plenty of signs...

We've all seen hundreds of roadside signs, urging local residents to vote for this candidate or that. Tuesday's Primary Election will allow at least half of those signs to be "retired," as winning candidates move forward to November General Election — and losers go home. This collection was spotted on Lloyd & Donna Ziel's farm on Richardson Road, between Pigeon and Elkton.

Get sweet treats with your coney!

By AMY HEIDEN

Scarving down a loaded-to-the-max coney dog and fries at Little Rascal's — says owner Hersel Fouladbash — should be fun, an experience you want to repeat again and again.

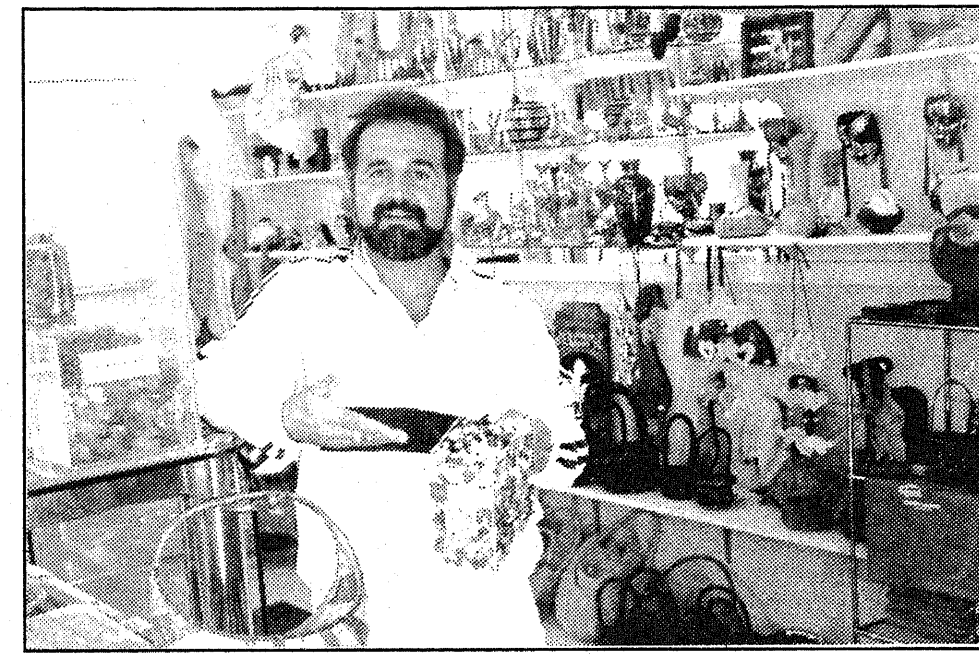

But the experience isn't complete, he says, unless a visit is paid to his new Sweet Shop next door.

Located beside Little Rascal's across from Caseville County Park, the Sweet Shop offers items such as a piece of baklava fresh from Greettown, chocolate fudge, or a huge chocolate chunk or macadamia chunk cookie — or maybe a handful of Jelly Bellies, former President Ronald Reagan's favorite treat.

While there's all kinds of sweet treats, it seems the baklava is the star of the show.

Made in Greettown in Detroit, the baklava is made of lots of layers of paper-thin phyllo dough, crushed walnuts, butter and sugar.

"I want my customers to have a lot of fun, but it's not complete unless they have something unique and sweet for dessert," Fouladbash says.

LITTLE RASCAL'S OWNER Hersel Fouladbash proudly holds a container of gourmet Jelly Bellies in his new Sweet Shop. The Sweet Shop features baklava made in Detroit's Greettown. AMY HEIDEN PHOTO

He opened Little Rascal's last year after giving up an extremely well-paying job as a designer for Chrysler Corporation.

Since then, the Caseville restaurant has gained a reputation for great coney dogs, and Fouladbash has gained a reputation for caring deeply about his customers.

"I want my customers to come back. If something isn't right, I'll make it right," he says.

Making it right even extends to babysitting young children, if it means the parents can enjoy their meal more, he declares.

Making it right also means only the best for the Sweet Shop, filled with all kinds of sweet delights, he adds.

And not only does it feature homemade fudge and cookies, made fresh by Judi Fouladbash, but there's craft items made locally by Paulette Duffy.

Some of those items include one-of-a-kind welcome signs, and limited-edition dolls. The shop also carries a nice selection of solid brass items, clay or brass chimes, brass masks and Southwest-ern crafts made by local artists.

"I like to support the local people as much as I can," Fouladbash says. "The things they make are very unique and beautiful."

He calls his little Sweet Shop the "doll house on the hill," because it's housed in a small building. But drawing on his designing skills, Fouladbash has made the building look bigger by raising the ceiling and liberally using mirrors.

"No one walks in without saying something like 'wow,'" he says. "It really makes me feel great."

UNDERWATER MARKER IS PLACED
The first-ever underwater placement of a Michigan Historical Marker is scheduled today (Wednesday) three miles east of Lexington in Lake Huron.

The historical marker is to commemorate the tugboat "Sport," which was possibly the nation's first steel-hulled vessel, experts say. It sank in heavy seas Dec. 13, 1920.

The tugboat was designed by naval architect Frank E. Kirby and was manufactured in 1873 by the Wyandotte Iron Ship Building Works.

Sport was discovered in 1987, just beyond the Sanilac Shores Underwater Preserve, and is listed in the State Register of Historic Sites.

Following the commemorative ceremony, State Bureau of History representatives and members from the sport-diving community will install the marker 50 feet below the surface of Lake Huron.

BOAT LOOTED & DAMAGED

Don Holland, 50, of Sebawaing reported the larceny from a boat in Fair Haven Township.

Holland had the boat for sale and parked in a lot on Unionville Road near Kuhl Road. When Holland went to show the boat to a prospective buyer July 24, he discovered damage and missing equipment.

The missing items included Vexilar video sonar, King-Loran C electronic equipment, a marine speed/distance indicator, and a large landing net. The items were valued at $1,245. About $150 of additional damage was done to other equipment that suspects attempted to remove.

MARIJUANA PLANTS SEIZED

About 77 marijuana plants were seized Wednesday from a cornfield in Lake Township in the area of Conkey and State Park roads near Caseville.

Area farmer John Depner reported the plants to the Michigan State Police Post in Bad Axe. The plants were discovered while spraying a cornfield.

The plants were about two feet tall and had an estimated street-value of about $70,000.

PLANE CRASHES IN TUSCOLA

While headlines focused the crash of TWA Flight 843 at New York's JFK Airport Thursday, Tuscola County was also the scene of a plane crash.

Three passengers escaped injury when a private Cessna airplane piloted by James E. Forgie, 64, of Gladwin, ran out of fuel.

Forgie averted danger by landing the plane in a newly-cut hayfield near Dutcher and Colwood roads in Almer Township. The plane received no structural damage.

After a make-shift refueling in the field, the plane was flown to Caro Community Airport for proper refueling and continued on its way.

HISD TEACHER TO JOIN STUDY

Mary Ellen Blum of Huron County's Intermediate School District was selected by the National Rural Education Association to be a state representative at the 1992 National Congress on Rural Education, in Traverse City on Oct. 11.

The purpose of the Congress is the advancement of educational excellence in rural America. The meeting will address concerns and issues common to schools in rural and small communities across America, and work to formulate solutions and position statements that could impact national policy, as well as state and federal legislation.

COURT PROCEEDINGS

In 73rd District Court (Huron County), Judge Karl Kraus last week heard the pleas of/or passed judgment on:

■ John N. Pantelis, no age given, pled guilty to speeding 59 in 55-mph zone; ordered to pay $50 fines and costs;

■ Gwendolyn A. Ploe, 40 of Caseville, pled guilty to retail fraud, second degree, following an April 9 incident at a Bad Axe department store; ordered to pay $150 fines and costs, serve 20 hours' community service and make restitution of $270.28;

■ Martha L. Krzeszewski, 34 of Davison, pled guilty to disorderly person; following a July 15 incident in Fair Haven Township; $175 fines and costs;

■ John E. Kiosowski, Jr., 18 of Elkton, pled guilty to impaired driving; $500 fines and costs, ordered to serve 18 months' probation, counseling ordered and loses driver's license for 90 days;

■ Kelly A. Bucholtz, 19 of Port Austin, pled guilty to disorderly person; $175 fines and costs;

■ Tammy J. Fetterhoff, 22 of Elkton, pled guilty to disorderly person; $175 fines and costs;

■ Mary Ann Navock, 30 of Port Austin, pled guilty to impaired driving; $500 fines and costs, counseling ordered and loses driver's license 120 days, and

■ Bradley L. Craig, 34 of Otisville, pled guilty to drunken driving, following a July 18 incident on Port Austin Road, Lake Township; ordered to serve 20 days in Huron County Jail; pay $600 fines and costs, serve 12 months' probation, counseling ordered and loses driver's license for 18 months.

OBSERVATIONS BY CO-PUBLISHER MARK RUMMEL AND ANYBODY ELSE HE CAN GET TO WRITE 'EM!

WHAT A WEEK! Bay Port enjoyed its biggest Fish Sandwich Weekend Festival Saturday, then got partially rained out Sunday. But before the rains came, 54 craft stands offered goodies and the largest parade marched through town in front of more people than ever before.

Every town needs a festival or special weekend to give residents a chance to work together and share pride. To watch the Bay Port volunteers coordinate the making of thousands of tasty fish sandwiches is amazing. Besides, every town needs the chance to make some money for community projects.

Bay Port didn't set a record for fish sandwiches this weekend, but supporters shouldn't be upset. They did as well as the weather allowed, and they did things right!

DESK-CLEARING: ■ I'm glad I'm not President Bush. I think he probably tosses and turns in bed each night, wondering what to do to win re-election. When average folks say they're not better off than four years ago, incumbents shudder... and often lose.

I've been amazed at the suggestions that the President step down or that he should dump VP Dan Quayle. Clearly, though, he'll have to do SOMETHING to get his name back into the "positive" column among citizens...

■ This week's paper has a particularly super collection of stories, ads and photos (my opinion). We didn't have room again for all the items submitted to us, but watch for them.

One of the facts that DIDN'T get in is that between 80% and 85% of all children making a wish to the Make-A-Wish Foundation ask to go either to Disney World or Disneyland.

■ Have you enjoyed watching the Olympics? Eleven-year-old daughter Sarah has led our family in watching the games and I've enjoyed the competition greatly.

Isn't it scary to think the entire career of an athlete boils down to a two-minute routine or a 12-second run? The gymnasts especially have so much talent and it all ends up depending on how their feet land or whatever. It's fun to watch, but nerve-wracking, too...

■ Speaking of the Olympics, I have to smile when I see those corporate sponsors such as AT&T say they're "Proud Sponsors of the Olympics." AT&T's ads even promise they will donate a minimum of $4 million to the U.S. Team.

That's great, but they've got the facts wrong. You and I are providing that $4 million, since it comes from customer revenues. So, I guess we're ALL corporate sponsors of the U.S. Olympics Team!

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "In gambling, the surest way to end up with a small fortune is to start with a large one!" (scott Meyerscheck)

As we see it

Volunteers keep small towns going

Those 1500-plus folks who attended Monday night's Tommy Dorsey Concert at Pigeon's Band Shell saw something first-hand which is getting hard to find. They saw volunteerism at its best, and learned how a lot of folks each donating a little time and ability can make something big happen.

The lawn chair crowd was asked to raise their hands if they had never been to Pigeon before, since this concert by the 17-piece world-renowned orchestra was widely promoted into Saginaw, Bay City and the Saginaw Valley. Probably one-third of all the people there indicated this was their first trip to Pigeon and the Thumb.

Later, the crowd was asked to raise their hands if they were NOT from Huron County — and nearly one-half were from elsewhere. And there they were, gathering together under a clear summer night's sky to listen to quality music played by professionals... in Pigeon, Michigan.

As one of the Pigeon Band Shell Entertainment

Committee members noted, "We couldn't buy this much goodwill and tourism exposure for a thousand dollars."

And of course that's right, even though the Dorsey Orchestra cost several thousands of dollars to bring to town. But many local folks could enjoy the music along with those out-of-towners, and all could share the pride of a good concert, well presented and well done.

It's easy to point fingers at the Frankenmuths and Traverse Cities of the world. "They get all the advantages," critics say, or "We could do something if we had what THEY have."

Well, the tiny town of Pigeon took a chance on bringing a big-name band to town, took a chance on encouraging enough folks to come to make the effort worthwhile — and took a big chance on the weather, which could have doused many hopes.

What was the result? More folks gathered in front of the Pigeon Band Shell than live in Pigeon Monday night, to have a good time.

They sat in front of a cute little band shell built last summer with total volunteer labor. It was designed for free, built at no charge and painted by folks wanting to do something for their town... and their town's future. They didn't do it for the money.

The folks taking tickets Monday night volunteered their time and the people backstage were there for free. And they loved being there, too.

Volunteerism results in a great deal of pride, too. A community's future depends in part on whether there's quality of life. Pigeon showed its quality Monday night and deserves to feel good all over...

will return to this spot soon. Watch for it!

MEETING MONTANA

Hawgust 8-15. Those are the dates of the Montana Fair. The posters all over Millings, Montana are a delight of hog humor.

"Vote Demohog. Vote Repiglican. Shake your bacon. We win hams down. A squealing deal." — these and more slogans and corn advertise the upcoming fair.

I spent five days in Billings last week. The Billings Night Rodeo was right outside my hotel window. We'd finish our night meetings (this volunteer church group meets well into the night) and go slip into the stands for the last of the rodeo.

Montana bills itself as the "last best place." Natives told us that people are coming to enjoy the fresh air and buy up space. There is a very definite conflict between newcomers and natives that underlies the changing economy and tax base that increased population could bring.

Apparently the state government is almost broke. Farm mediation programs and assistance for ranchers and farmers leaving the land has been cut. Rural pastors consider their very isolated communities as rural communities at risk.

One ranch family took time last Saturday afternoon to tell of their struggles in preserving ranching land from the threat of strip mining and oil drilling. Stewards of the land, they deal daily with tangled legalities that would hamper their grazing and crop operations. This family, Ann Charter and her son and daughter-in-law, Steve and Jeanie, are using advanced grazing and pasturing methods. Their dining room was the ranch's control room, complete with blackboard to write messages to those coming and going and a computer to track markets and bid electronically.

Montana farmers and ranchers face the constant threat of extreme weather conditions, too. They tell of hailstorms that sweep thirty-mile pathways for a hundred miles, of drought that is prolonged, and of severe winter conditions. It is a land where only tough and tenacious people survive. It is a place of boom and bust cycles.

One town that we visited, Winnett, nowhas a population of 200. At one time it was an oil boom town and an anchor town for hundreds of homesteaders. Ten thousand people used to live there, the natives told us. The small United Methodist Church that we visited is largely made up of the children of homesteaders and townspeople that have stayed—all of them in their advancing years.

In their faces and from their stories one can see the love of the land and place that keeps them in a town and on ranches that some would consider and God-forsaken, isolated place.

Yet this small church has plans to add on a fellowship hall. The thirty church members served the annual dinner for the Mid-Rivers Telephone Cooperative. That's 30 people serving a dinner to 300 people in a town of 200!

"How many places can an 85 year old man die and have 150 people come to his funeral?" asked the woman pastor of the church as she told story after story of the faithfulness of the people and the value of small towns. Funerals are held in the school gym, she said, since the church could not accommodate that large of an event.

On the way out of Winnett, our school bus passed the community swimming pool, chock full of kids on a hot summer day.

I was impressed! I public swimming pool, albeit a small one, in a town of 200 situated way out on the high plains of central Montana! What a challenge to towns everywhere that want a better quality of life for their people!

The antelope do roam on the high plains. We saw lots of them on our journey two hours north of Billings, up through Roundup and on to Winnett and Grassrange. We drove through a forest area that had been burned over in 1984. Rains came late this summer and we saw wheat fields where the crop is noticeably stunted, but harvestable. Combines and hay balers crawled the plains. The crop is late, but farmers and ranchers alike are glad to be getting some crop in a year when it looked like drought had taken everything.

Montana's population is around 800,000. The Billings area accounts for ten percent of that population. Billings bustles as it is one of the jumping off points for international tours to Yellowstone National Park. Tour companies fly Japanese and Korean tourists to Los Angeles to see Disneyland and then fly them into Billings where they head by bus into Yellowstone for a day.

Hotels and motels dot the city. Good restaurants and museums add a touch of urban culture, even through one Billings resident told us that the Night Rodeo (every night!) is the best entertainment in town. Some of us at the meeting skipped lunch one day and enjoyed viewing a juried quilt show at the Western Heritage Center is downtown Billings.

If you are going to Billings by plane, be prepared. The airport is located on the Rimrocks, a huge bluff that almost circles the town. My seatmate on the flight into Billings was enjoying the descent. All of a sudden I heard, "this pilot is crashing us into a mountain!" Landings feel somewhat abrupt to passengers as the bluff and the runways suddenly appear and there's Billings down in the Yellowstone River valley.

The West is filled with history, magnificent scenery, solid people, and space. I got the feeling that it is the space that Montana people treasure the most—precious space in a place that defines who they are and what they do.

RECOLLECTIONS
Of By-Gone Days
BY GEORGE KEIM

DEAR EDITOR:

When I see those big loads of wheat going by, I just can't help but think back how we used to do when the harvest came around.

I talked with a lot of us old-timers and we all told how we used to get our binders out and a lot of those old ones you had the sharpen the sickle.

Being a hired man, it was my job to turn the grindstone and the boss would hold the sickle. He made sure it was real sharp.

Then we'd take the binder out in the field and put the bull wheel down and change the turnage around and hitch the horses on.

If you had a six foot cut, you'd put three horses on. If it was an eight foot cut, you put on four horses. If you didn't have a dolly on, it was very heavy on two horses' necks.

The first round you'd go the opposite way clear around the field. You'd have to go around behind and throw out the bundles.

Usually the first time around, the binder would miss several bundles and you'd have to hand tie them.

Then you'd start to cut and if your wife wanted to help shock, you'd let her. If your children were big enough, you'd put them at it, too.

Years ago, the wheat had beards on it, but they weren't sharp like the barley beards were. They'd get into your arms and up your sleeves.

Some people used a fork to shock it, but we hired men had to do it by hand. I guess we hired men grumbled enough and they got beard-less barley.

There were some men around those days who said they could shock grain as fast as the binder could cut it.

Well, I used to be able to shock grain as fast as any man and I know that if the binder didn't give too much trouble, there was no one man who could keep up with the binder.

Once I was cutting oats and the platform canvas didn't work. I had to stop and tighten it up and with the hot sun shining on my back, I got a little overheated.

The oats had to be cut so I stuck right with it 'til I had it done, then I shocked 'til it got too dark to see, then I went to bed.

Well, it started to thunder and it looked like rain, so I got up and went to shocking and I worked as hard as I ever did. The rain held off 'til I only had about one acre left to shock.

I got soaking wet, but I had all my cut grain shocked and it rained for a few days. I sure was glad it was all shocked up.

In Prov. 10 it says, "He that gathereth in harvest is a wise son, but he that sleepeth in harvest is a son that causeth shame."

So when the crops are ready to harvest, I know that when I was a hired man or on my own, when it was ready to take off, I didn't want it to rain and I couldn't sleep 'til my crop was either thrashed or combined and harvested in the granery or elevator.

SINCERELY YOURS,
GEORGE KEIM

HDC SAYS THANKS: Volunteers for the Human Development Commission handle a lot of chores for the agency, like answering phones, stuffing envelopes, deliver hot meals to seniors, provide transportation, serve meals at senior meal sites, and much more. And like volunteers everywhere, in every field, they don't get a lot of recognition or pats on the back. EXPLAINING DEATH THROUGH NATURE

Children are going to die. winter only to renew itself in the spring. Take advantage of these smaller crises to teach your children about death. Not only will they learn about the nature of death, but they will learn what it feels like to cope with such losses.

Don't try to hide reality or immediately replace the animal with a double, hoping the child won't notice the switch. This is a natural chance for the child to learn about death. You might have a small "service" for the animal and bury it, or at least introduce the concept of death by having a simple talk about what happened. The seasonal change of flowers and trees offers another familiar illustration of life vanishing in the

KIWANIS CLUB OF CASEVILLE

By CHARLIE KIRK

The regular meeting was preceded by the monthly business meeting presided over by President Len Watchowski, who informed board members that he has been asked to serve as Lt. Governor of Division 19 for the 1993-94 term. Congratulations, Len!

Items of business included participation in the United Way Fund Drive, prospective new members, support of the Scheurer Hospital Scholarships For Med Students program, purchase of a new club banner and exploration of the sponsorship of a golf outing fund raiser to support Village beautification projects.

These items will be brought before the membership for action at a regular meeting.

Opening ceremonies for the regular meeting were followed by the introduction of guests who included Mike Gage, Leslie Hagen, Mike Groff and A "Little Jack" Jensen.

Anniversary congratulations was warbled for Gene Sluke, Happy Birthday for Nancy Buhholz's son, Blaine, Happy Dollar for Ann Kennedy's announcement that her husband had been elected to the Michigan State Athletic Hall of Fame and not to be outdone, Len donated a (unborrowed) Happy Dollar for his future high post.

John DiVincentis reminded all to support the musical program at St. Roch Friday night. Mike and Leslie, who have been known in the past to draw their own numbers for the 50/50, rekindled the prospect of hope by drawing the number of Bill Anderson and Mike Gross.

A very impressive letter from Kim Pittenger thanking the club for their support in her quest to further her education was read last week and I failed to make note of it. Her letter not only reflected her own talented command of expression but also the skills and talents of her instructors at the Caseville School! Good luck, Kimberli!

Bob Schoenberg introduced the guest speaker, Huron County Prosecutor, Leslie Hagen. Leslie listed her accomplishments since taking office on Jan. 1, 1991.

Three areas in particular were mentioned. Drugs and Alcohol abuse and Child Abuse. She explained the process of reaching trial and stated that 85% of children brought before the court are from dysfunctional families. A Q&A followed.

ELKTON SENIOR CITIZENS

Thirty-five were present when Third Vice President Edna Wakefield called to order the July 28 meeting of the Elkton Senior Citizens. Guests were Violet Musselman and Fred Wakefield.

Charles Willis offered the table prayer before the potluck meal.

The afternoon session opened with Elizabeth Schelke and Hazel Beach in charge of music. The group sang "America, The Beautiful" and gave the Pledge of Allegiance.

The birthdays of Archie Hyttenen, Ina McMullen and Mayme Kasserman were recognized with the Birthday Song. The Anniversary Song was sung in honor of the 54th wedding anniversary of Phil and Kay Walker.

Set-up committee for August will be Agnes and Bill Moran and Mildred Dietzel. Serving on clean-up will be Edna Wakefield, Clayton and Ardis Gemmel, Hazel Beach and Ray English.

Harold Renn and Bill Moran conducted bingo games. Cover-all winners were Fred Wakefield and Ray English. Chuck Willis won the booby prize.

Willis is to chair the program for the Aug. 4 meeting.

United in marriage

Chandonnet - McGathy

Joely McGathy of Pigeon and Robert Chandonnet Jr. of Taylor united their lives in marriage at 3:30 p.m., Saturday, June 20, in First United Methodist Church, Pigeon.

The Rev. James P. Schwandt officiated the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of John and Linda Walsh of Pigeon, and Roy McGathy of Imlay City, and the son of Bob and Sylvia Chandonnet of Taylor.

Soloist was Missy McCormick of Pigeon accompanied by guitarist Steve Jias of Elkton.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a chiora taffeta gown with portrait neckline and fitted bodice adorned with alencon lace, sequins and seed pearls. The full skirt was trimmed with a ruffle edge and secured with lace pick-me-ups. The back waist was graced with a french godet and dior bow complemented by a cathedral train.

Her headpiece was a three tier floor length veil with pouff secured by a band of beaded alencon lace with sequins.

The bride carried a cascade of country flowers consisting of white lilies, pink roses, stephanotis, purple freesia, alstroemeria, Queen Ann's lace, caspia and ivy.

Laniel McGathy of Pigeon, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore mauve dress with blue flowers, featuring a portrait neckline, fitted bodice and tea-length skirt.

The bridesmaids were Cindy Bushey of Saginaw, Ginny McGathy of Pigeon, Michelle Danks of Caseville, Cheryl Wilcox of Clark Lake, Devin McNitt of Ann Arbor, Kim Goss of Broomfield CO. and Sarah Kalmar of Taylor.

The bridal attendants' dresses were blue with mauve flowers made identical to the maid of honor's.

Their bouquets were hand tied with a country flair consisting of alstroemeria, caspia, Queen Ann's lace, larkspur, dried purple statice and dried blue baby's breath complemented with mauve paper ribbons and blue rafia bows.

The flower girls were Meghan McGathy of Lapeer, sister of the bride, and Jaimit Mann of Riverview, niece of the groom. Their dresses were identical to the maid of honor's and they carried baskets filled with a variety of country flowers.

Matt Skolnik of Riverview, friend of the groom was the best man.

The groom's mother chose a mid calf length pink sequin dress. Both mothers wore a corsage of Galani roses and daisies accented with caspia and statice.

Congratulations Tracy!

We're Proud Of You.
Love, your family.

United in marriage

Cook - Keyworth

Marriage vows were exchanged between Ila L. Keyworth of Elkton and Wilbur E. Cook of Marlette, Saturday, May 9, in the Elkton United Methodist Church.

The double-ring ceremony was officiated by Rev. Jim James.

The altar was decorated with a unity candle and matching arrangements of pink baby rose buds and ivy vine accented with satin and lace bows.

Special wedding music was sung by soloist, Mrs. Joel (Janelle) Brisching, niece of the bride, accompanied by Mrs. Dale Wertz on the organ.

Escorted to the altar by her daughter Janet Kay Wilson, the bride wore a tea-length gown with a pearl bridal band neckline, featuring a satin jacket adorned with pearl and sequin appliques.

Both the gown and jacket were trimmed with a Venise lace boarder. Her headpiece was a single champagne rose and white bridal stephanotis accented with ribbons of ivory satin and lace.

She carried a bouquet of champagne roses and bridal white stephanotis with ribbons of ivory satin and lace, accented with tree fern and white mini aster.

Maid of honor was Penny Cook of Grundy, VA., daughter of the groom.

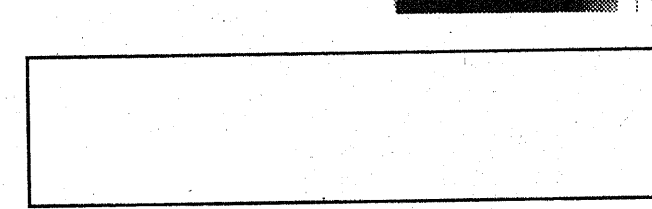

She wore a daphne rose satin gown with sabrina neckline. The gown featured a V-back, fitted basque bodice and full circular skirt. She carried a smaller version of the bride's bouquet with pink roses and mauve accents to complement her ensemble.

Rochelle Keyworth and Kelly Cook, granddaughters of the bride and groom, were the flower girls. They wore pale pink ruffled dresses with matching hair ribbons. Each carried a heart shaped basket filled with rose petals.

Best man was Doug Keyworth of Elkton, son of the bride.

Helping to seat the wedding guests were ushers Scott Keyworth of Elkton, grandson of the bride, Jim Cook, John Cook and Paul Cook of Marlette and Milford, sons of the groom.

Ringbearer was Cory Wilson of Broken Arrow, OK., great-grandson of the bride. Following the wedding the newly married Mr. and Mrs. Cook greeted 175 guests who attended from Oklahoma, Florida, Georgia, Minnesota, Ohio, Washington, D.C., Virginia and surrounding areas, at a reception held at the Huron County Expo Center, Bad Axe.

After a honeymoon to Niagara Falls the couple is residing in Marlette.

75 children enjoy Caseville Summer Rec picnic

MORE THAN 75 KIDS enjoyed a picnic lunch last week to celebrate the end of the Caseville Recreation Program. For the past two weeks, the youngsters enjoyed all sorts of activities, including movies, roller skating, tie-dying t-shirts, putt-putt golf and Banquet basketball, and magician R.B. Woodward.

Program Director Brian Samborski said that many local stores donated prizes, pop, chips and candy for the big picnic.

SOME OF THE MANY FACES OF BAY PORT'S 15TH ANNUAL FISH SANDWICH FESTIVAL WEEKEND!

The Sebewing lip sync group of Nicole Pommerenke, Becky Cohrs, Melissa Dutcher, Kristin Boizman and Melissa Bills won first-place in the Lip Sync Contest, performing "Hair." They won $25 for their efforts, before more than 400 people.

Bay Port Promoter Henry Engelhard, Chamber of Commerce President Jan Forge and State Rep. Dick Allen look over the Bay Port Fish Sandwich State Proclamation which State Rep. Allen presented Saturday — and which was promptly displayed!

1991 Queen Tracy Lesoski crowns new Queen Shannon Marlon, as Second Runner-up Lena Nlanaut and First Runner-up AnnMarie Carter look on.

Some of the fun enjoyed during this year's Fish Sandwich Festival was people-powered. These kids on a swing were flying so high they nearly "saw over" the top bar.

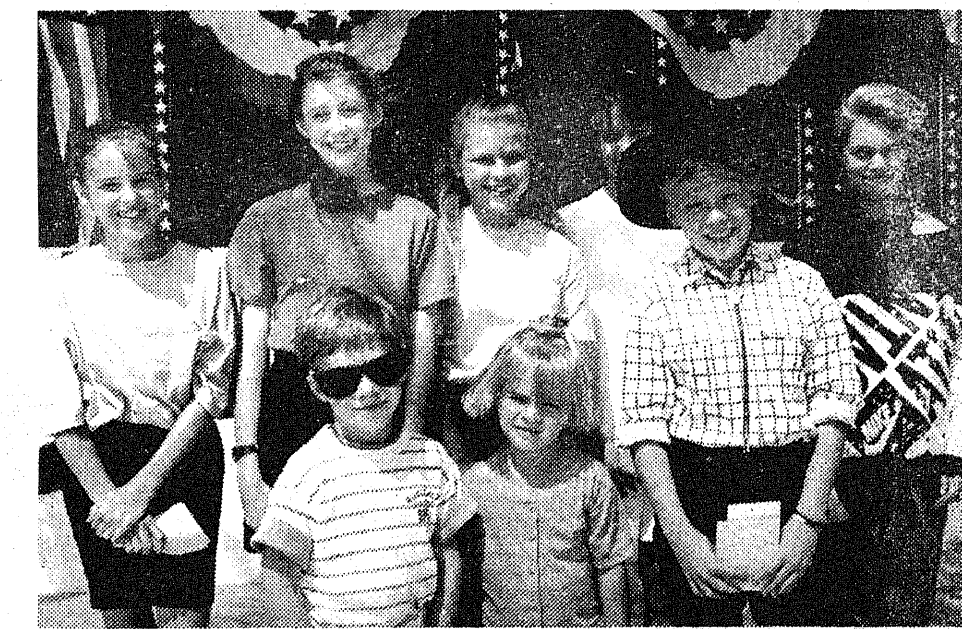

Vollmer Plumbing's float REALLY put into practice the phrase "Where the Fish Catches The Man!"

Henry Engelhard always finds time to give some advice or directions to Fish Sandwich Festival visitors, who came from all over the Midwest for the tasty treats.

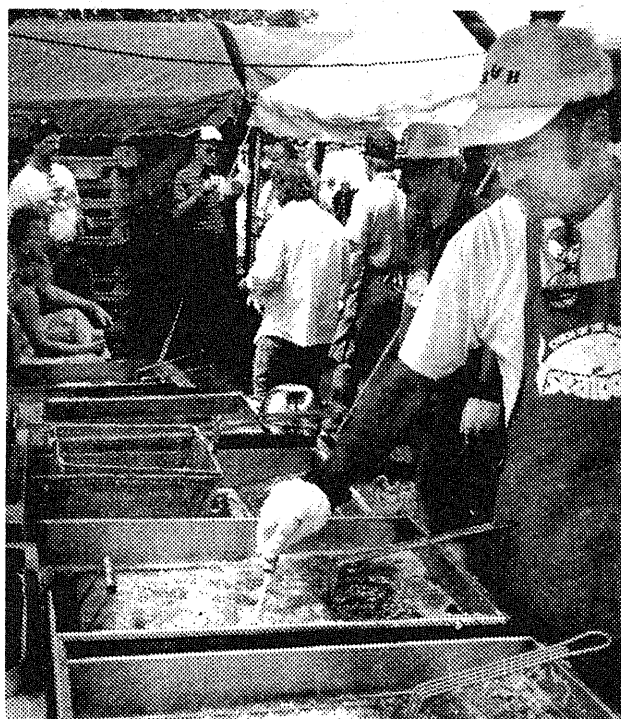

Bay Port's Grand Marshalls Dorothy and Del Hinton drew lots of applause as they were pulled in a special horse-drawn wagon during Saturday morning's parade.

Lip sync second-place winners are (front row from left) Jordan Gaeth of Sebewing and Amanda Chlotti of Bay Port with "I'm a Girl Watcher" and third-place winner Sarah Rogers of Williamson with "Except on Monday." In the back are the "Hair" group of Sebewing, first-place winners in the contest coordinated by Judy Milton. Donations were made by Wallace Stone, Bay Shore Collision, Lee's Landscaping, Gumby's and Lefty's Drive-In.

A toilet was part of the "When you gotta go, you gotta go" float from Gumby's of Bay Port. Jim Bollenbacher again emceed the parade and most Fish Festival events.

Fish fried all day Saturday and Sunday, and the line of customers stayed long for five hours Saturday.

Joanne Harder dips a hot fudge ice cream sundae at Bay Port United Methodist Church's booth.

Basketball fun planned

AutumnFest 3-on-3 set Sept. 5-7

Three-on-three basketball tournaments have been popping up all over the place, like dandelions in the spring. They're popular with players who like to match their talents against equally talented opponents, and with spectators, who love the particularly scrappy brand of basketball played in these tournaments.

Elkton's AutumnFest 3-on-3 Tournament is the latest tournament to come down the pike, as part of the annual celebration Labor Day weekend, Sept. 4-7.

The parade starts at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 5. Deadline for parade entries Aug. 21. For more information or entry blanks, contact Shirley Cunningham at Ron's Party Store in Elkton, or call 375-2780.

Entry forms for the AutumnFest 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament are also available from Cunningham.

The tournament kicks off at 8 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 5, in the parking lot between Ron's Party Store and the U.S. Post Office.

Organizer Dan McIntosh said that there'll be brackets for everyone from age 8 to adult.

There's even a discounted entry fee for teams whose members are 13 and under. The younger teams will be coed, McIntosh said.

All team members will receive a commemorative T-shirt, too.

To help out those kids who may not be able to afford the entry fee, organizers have set up a fund to pay the entry fees and donations are being accepted for that fund.

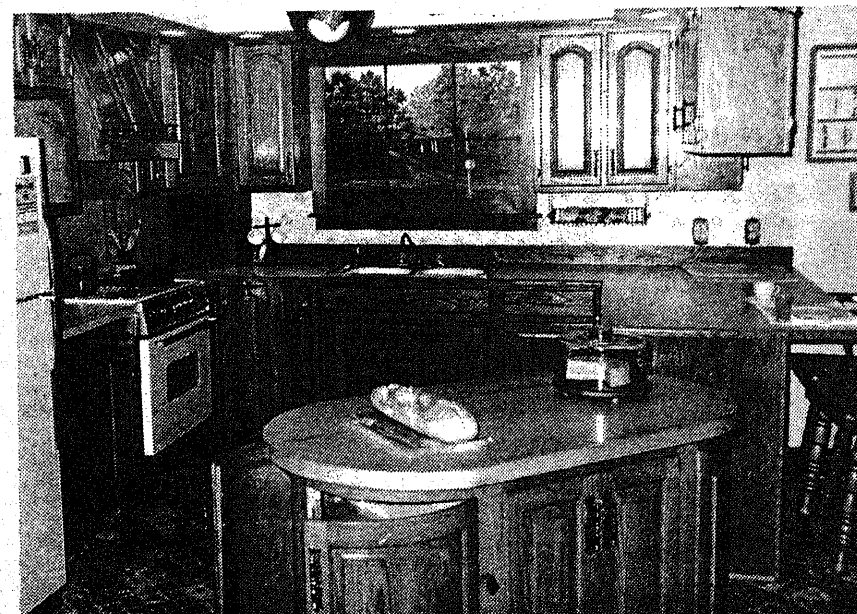

The deadline for entry is Friday, Aug. 21, and interested players can call McIntosh at 375-4495.

Summer is Reunion Time

SOUTHWORTH REUNIONS

56 members of the George and Florence Southworth family met Sunday at the Elkton Ackerman park. A potluck dinner was followed by visiting and games.

Out of state members were Mr. and Mrs. Reed Southworth of Atlanta, GA., Cheryl and Robert Halyburton of Charlotte, N.C., Nancy Southworth and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Burbshell of Boston. Others came from Flint, Clarkston, Adrian, Pigeon, Elkton, Troy, White Hall, Ithaca and Caseville. Mary Gardiner of Port Austin, a sister of Florence was a guest.

Next year's reunion will be at Elkton on Sunday, July 18, 1993.

OLDENBURG REUNION

The Oldenburg cousins held a reunion Sunday at the home of Dorothy Elssesser, where dinner was enjoyed followed by visiting and taking pictures.

Members came from Hemlock, Saginaw, Eastpoint, Mt. Clemens, Sterling Heights, St. Clair Shores and Elkton.

The Elssesser children's mother was Emma Oldenburg of Saginaw.

The 1993 reunion will be with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Franz in Saginaw.

CARSON REUNION

92 members of the Carson family gathered at Bird Creek Park, Pt. Austin for a fellowship dinner and an afternoon of reminiscing. The children had lots of park equipment to keep them occupied.

Les and Hazel Simmons, Caseville were the oldest, the eight month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Zinger of Caseville was the youngest.

Members came from Owosso, Pontiac, Davisburg, Cubit Lake, Owendale, Port Hope, Bad Axe, Kinde, Filion, Caseville and Port Austin.

The 1993 reunion will be held at the same place.

Classes in childbirthing start Aug. 11

Childbirth preparation classes are scheduled to be Aug. 11 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Scheurer Hospital. The classes will cover various areas of preparation for childbirth including exercise, relaxation, breathing patterns, the stages of labor and more.

The course will consist of four classes, instructed by Phyllis Yoder, R.N., and the fees payable at the first class. Participants are encouraged to bring a support person. Couples who have attended before and are interested in a refresher need only attend the last class of the series.

For registration, call Scheurer Hospital at 453-3223.

Bean Queen Candidates named

Nine candidates from all parts of Huron County, were interviewed last week to select the 1992 Huron County Bean Queen, according to Jim LeCureux, Huron Extension agricultural agent.

District Library Corner

PRE-SCHOOL STORY HOUR

The theme for the Tuesday, Aug. 11 Preschool Story Hour will be "Picnic" with the stories "Picnic Pandemonium" and "Teddy Bears Picnic."

Exercises, games, flannelgraph, a song and fingerplays will be part of the activities planned for the children.

Children from age three to five are invited to attend either the 9 or 10:30 a.m. sessions. A registration fee is required, per family per year.

SUCCESSFUL FESTIVAL

The free movie "The Great Mouse Detective" at the library was very successful with 55 children and 12 adults attending.

The Annual Book Resale brought in $765.40 for the purchase of new books. And the Annual Quilt Display had 694 guests from as far away as Maryland, Georgia, Indiana, Mississippi, Florida and some too numerous to add and many from the surrounding counties. On display were five wall hangings, 52 large quilts, 28 baby quilts, two lap quilts and one pillow.

The Pigeon District Library would like to thank the Quilt Committee and volunteers. Also the quilters who donated their lovely quilts for display for this annual event. Your help was greatly appreciated, without you there would be no quilt display. Thank You!

SUMMER HELPERS

During the summer months you have seen some new faces.

Tricia Learman of Elkton is majoring in Biology at Albion College. She plans on doing research as a Medical Technician. Tricia enjoys reading, playing tennis, golfing and bird watching.

Barbara Peck, daughter of Jack and Barbara Peck is a graduate of Laker High School and will attend Eastern Michigan University in the fall.

Also helping at the library this summer is Jennifer Landenberg, daughter of Sandy Apley of Bad Axe. She is a junior at Bad Axe High School and will graduate in 1994. She plans to work in the police force.

Jennifer likes to collect old coins, ride horses and is active with the Explore Post.

SUMMER READING PARTY FUN!

The Summer Reading Program "Read, Rock, Rap" party took place on July 30.

Out of 145 readers who qualified 94 attended the party. At the party the children visited the "Pigeon Historic Museum," played "Musical Chairs" and heard a saxophone musician Josh Salsburey of Elkton. He played the theme from the "Pink Panther."

The door prize winners were Jimmy Goslee and Kevin Cook. They received a gift certificate for a video rental.

The total number of books read during the six week program was 3,814. 18 children in kindergarten read 592 books, top reader was Aaron Eichler; 45 in first grade read 1,314 books, top reader was John Ohlendorf; 33 in second grade read 965 books, top reader was Cole Armbruster; 17 in third grade read 379 books, top reader was Jeremy Licht;

10 in fourth grade read 217 books, top reader was Kristine Gettel; 8 in fifth grade read 164 books, top reader was Crystal Peyer; 4 in sixth grade read 109 books, top reader was Rachel Ohlendorf; 5 in seventh grade read 72 books, top reader was Ana Langevin and one eighth grader read

12 books and that top reader was Leigh Fluegge.

The library would like to thank Josh Salsburey and all the participants in the Summer Reading Program. We hope to have the same support next year for the 1993 Sequantics Program.

BOOK RESALE QUERIES

Many patrons have asked questions about the Annual Library Book Resale. Here are some answers to some of the most-asked questions.

WHERE DO ALL THE BOOKS COME FROM?

Some have been withdrawn from the library's collection because they are outdated, worn out or have not been checked out for a very long time. The vast majority, however, are donated by the public.

IS IT BEST TO WAIT UNTIL JUST BEFORE THE SALE TO DONATE BOOKS?

No! If you have books to donate, DON'T wait. Bring them now.

IS MY DONATION TAX DEDUCTIBLE?

Absolutely. We won't be able to give you any sort of valuation for them. It's best to consult your accountant or tax return preparer for that information.

DOES THE LIBRARY USE ANY OF THE DONATED BOOKS?

If the library does not own, need additional copies of, or need a replacement copy, that book may go directly into the collection. Most donations are sold and the money used to purchase more books.

Yes! We will take books now for the 1993 Annual Book Resale.

Woods & Waters

WATER POWER

By DUANE GUENTHER

I had lied to my Mom. I wasn't going over to Teddy Christian's house that cold, rainy spring morning like I told her.

Where I really was going was to a dilapidated shack built high on the banks of the Wiscoggin River near a bridge south of town.

It was really a creek, although I spotted the word river on local maps more than once, and usually trickled over moss-covered rocks on its way to Saginaw Bay.

But today, like yesterday and the day before, it roared at the height of a tremendous spring flood.

A bunch of guys, most of them older than I, had snared assorted boards from the river debris, and with a hammer, a few nails and some convenient trees to use as corner posts, fashioned a snug little lair from which to watch the powerful body of water sweep by.

An old milk can, with a hole punched in the back to let the smoke out, provided enough heat to ward off the spring chill. It, with a makeshift bench built along one side to sit on, was the only furnishing.

I broke some kindling, produced a match and soon had a cheery fire going. I then sat back and once again, became entranced by the swiftly moving water.

Thinking back, it was a dangerous situation. The creek, swollen by a huge, spring runoff, tore at the bank with relentless fury. It snatched any vegetation not rooted down plus tons of assorted junk earlier heaved into the channel for one reason or the other. More than once, a sweeper from a tree limb would precariously scrape the shack as it passed by on its way to the lake.

But, even with the deep, rushing water roaring inches from my feet, I could not seem to pull myself away from the scene.

And, as the morning slipped away, I continued to stare at the malstrom of brown, rolling water. The power of the creek was awe inspiring.

Through the years, I have continued to be fascinated with the tremendous power of running water. I have come to respect, and sometimes even fear, its destructive capabilities.

The fall a few years ago was a perfect example. While steelheading, I was seductively coaxed downstream by the gentle caressing of the Manistee River on my neoprene waders until confronted by the absence of a shallow bottom.

I turned and struggled, but there was no way that I could push myself back upstream. I did the only thing a fool could do, throw my rod toward the bank and begin to swim. A few floundering strokes later my feet touched bottom and I was safe, but wet.

Canoes are a great way to feel moving water's power.

Take yours, or rent one, and spend the day floating idyllically downstream, you won't even have to paddle.

If you miss a particularly beautiful scene, you can turn the craft and with a little work plow back upstream. Canoe racers do it all the time for training.

Narrow the river's channel, throw in a couple of rocks and the velocity of the stream will increase. Now, if you want to head up stream, you may be able to if you can manage to seek out the slack water eddies hiding behind each rock.

Drop the gradient of the stream to eight feet a mile, increase the width to an average of 300 feet, measure the water's flow at 45.00 cubic feet a second and chill the temperature to 46 degrees and you have the Colorado River. Probably the most formidable body of moving water in North America and for sure, one of the most powerful.

Then why am I in a rubber raft, poised above the 15-foot drop of Badger Creek Rapids, the first, but certainly not the last, in the 279-mile stretch that lies before me?

Because I am fascinated with the power of running water. I only hope I will be able to survive it.

Report to the Caseville Community

By Frank Malosky, Caseville Mayor

A special meeting was held by the village council June 25, and Thomas Sheed was appointed as Caseville's new police chief, beginning July 3. Mr. Sheed comes from the Albion area. Council also passed two important resolutions, one to put a $3 per month charge on residential properties for recycling pickup, with the village picking up the cost of 75 cents per month per household. Recycling is due to start October, 1992.

Cove Sanitation was given a two year contract on garbage pickup. The first year will cost residents $7.25 per month and $7.45 per month the second year. After a public hearing at 7:15, council adopted the codified village ordinances. These were new ordinances and changes that were made in the past year. An ad was authorized to be run to bid for the position of Recycling Jobber. This will be a job bid position with no fringe benefits, consisting of picking up recyclables, processing, picking up leaves and brush, record keeping, and management of volunteer help. The village will provide all equipment, maintenance, fuel, and uniform shirts.

The village has two crew leaders who will receive $11.50 per hour the third year of the contract with regular employees receiving $10.50 per hour the third year. The treasurer's office help will receive $9.50 per hour the third year. Employees will also receive nine paid holidays, full hospitalization (unless the premiums increase over 10% in a year, then the employee pays 50% over the 10% increase), $2 for prescription drugs, and $10,000 life insurance policy. A $1,000 bonus was also authorized.

Council delayed accepting Riverside Drive as a public street, until the 100% landowners signatures can be verified.

STEAMWAY CARPET CARE
NEW STAIN RESISTANT CARPETS ARE GREAT...BUT THEY ARE NOT BULLET PROOF!

Contrary to many television ads, the new stain resistant carpets will still get dirty! Fresh spills usually clean up with water. Vacuuming is the best single thing you can do to extend the life of your carpet. However, eventually your new carpet will require professional cleaning. This should be performed by properly trained certified carpet cleaning technicians who know how to clean these new fibers without voiding the carpet warranty.

OUR TECHNICIANS ARE TRAINED TO CLEAN ALL STAIN RESISTANT CARPET WITHOUT VOIDING THE NEW CARPET WARRANTY.

Magic of Disney comes true for the Turner Family!

By SALLY RUMMEL

When the Steve and Emily Turner family of Pigeon took a family vacation to Disney World in July, it was a dream come true — only because the nightmare of their son's illness was just beginning to fade.

The dream was made possible through the Make-A-Wish Foundation, which provides "a wish" for a child suffering from a life-threatening illness and his or her family.

The Turners just returned on Tuesday from a six-day trip to Disney World in Orlando, Fla., staying at the Holiday Inn "Kids' Village," which is especially designed to house vacationing ill youngsters and their families.

Alex Turner, now age four and in remission from leukemia, was diagnosed with the illness in January, 1991, when he was 2 1/2 years old.

He began a heavy round of chemotherapy on Jan. 16, 1991, going down with his Mom every week to University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Side effects from numerous anti-cancer drugs, including steroids, caused him to lose his hair in the beginning of treatment and he still suffers from tiredness from often low blood counts, but his family considers him "cured" because the cancer has been in remission since 28 days after his first chemotherapy.

Blond, pink-cheeked and healthy looking, Alex no longer resembles a sick child, even though he won't be considered officially free of cancer until 1996, five years after his diagnosis.

He will undergo chemotherapy until March, 1994, after exactly 38 months of treatment.

All the worry and anguish during the past 1 1/2 years for the Turner family, which also includes older brother Jesse, age five and Eric, age three, vanished during the six-day trip.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation took Alex's wish — "I want to meet Mickey Mouse and his friends" — and turned it into a magical trip that focused on how Alex wanted to spend his vacation, with his family "coming along for the ride."

"Everything Make-A-Wish does is done in the interest of that ill child," explained Alex's father, Steve, age 29. "The rest of us just came along to have fun with Alex."

A "Give Kids the World" button, which identified Alex as a special visitor to Disney World, provided the Turners with a lot of "extras" that most visitors don't get when they visit Disney.

A volunteer welcomed the Turners at the Orlando Airport, holding up a sign which read "Welcome Alex Turner and family."

The Turners stayed in a specially equipped hotel called "Kids' Village," which can house up to 32 vacationing families with ill children at one time. The rooms are all wheelchair accessible and have facilities designed to make vacationing easier for families with special needs — even a pool with a wheelchair ramp that gives a wheelchair-bound child a chance to "swim."

Every day the Turners had breakfast and dinner provided at the Gingerbread House, a child-size fantasy made real by donations from Perkins Restaurants, Friendly Ice Cream and Domino's Pizza.

Every Monday morning all the Disney characters come over to the Gingerbread House and visit personally with the Kids' Village children after breakfast. And other fun activities are planned there too, including pool parties and special meals.

The Turners pretty much followed the itinerary provided by Make-A-Wish, but families can be as flexible as they want with the activities that are offered.

They visited the Hard Rock Cafe in Orlando, where they were dinner guests and were given free t-shirts as special souvenirs of their visit. They also dined at King Henry's Feast, a Medieval Theatre re-enactment in Orlando.

What was Alex's favorite activity? Riding on the train around the Magic Kingdom and the special attraction, "It's A Small World."

Emily Turner, who at 29 has developed more parenting patience and knowledge because of the special needs of her middle son and the needs of Jesse and Eric as a result of their brother's illness, says "We were just in awe of all that they did for us. The kids came first in everything, but we all had fun."

The only difficult thing to deal with was the excessive heat of the Florida summer sun, which pushed the thermometer up into the 90s, even hitting 99 degrees one day.

"The heat made Alex more tired than usual," said Emily, "but once they hit air-conditioning, all the kids bounced right back."

It was a 'hassle-free' vacation! Steve agreed and added he really enjoyed action-packed Universal Studios. The Turners also appreciated the loan of a video camera from Ken and Connie Smeader, which allowed them a chance to preserve the trip on videotape.

Now it's time for thank-yous from the Turners to the Make-A-Wish Foundation for a dream come true.

"It was a vacation that came with a heavy price," said Emily on a more serious note as she looked back over the past year and a half.

Now she hopes she can provide this opportunity for other children by sending Make-A-Wish a thank-you "drawn" by Alex, as well as photographs taken during the trip.

Words and pictures expressed from children are what corporations need to see when Make-A-Wish approaches them for large donations to fund the program," explains Emily.

Local persons wishing to help the Make-A-Wish program continue funding vacations for ill children may send donations to: Make-A-Wish of Michigan, 1028 E. Saginaw, Lansing, MI 48906.
