Unionville seeks water

Unionville Village Council members are renewing efforts to secure funding to update the community’s water system. Gordon Lyons, marketing coordinator for Municipal Indus-trial Glass-Lined Storage Tanks Inc. of Lake Odessa, outlined a proposal for a water system improvement project at last week’s Unionville Council meeting.

"The proposed project calls for a $4,000,000-gallon storage tank and an eight-inch main from the well to the tank, plus two fire-flow pumps at a cost of $250,000," said Village Clerk Harvey Niedrich. "We will eventually probably accept this, but we are going to apply for grants to try to fund it."

Lyons Engineering of Lansing is helping the Village apply for state grants. "We are working on grants right now. We want to get this thing going as soon as possible," said Niedrich.

Applicants for a $500,000 state grant to fund upgrading the water system were dead last fall. The Village is trying to meet Michigan Department of Public Health drinking water regu-lations.

According to Niedrich, there aren’t any problems with the

Lecznas to open Caseville’s Butter Block

By AMY HEGED

The Caseville Butter Block Meat Market has spent the last 30 years building a reputation as one of the area’s top places to get fresh, locally raised, meat. Now, on the eve of its re-opening, owners Dave and Kathy Leczna are planning to bring something new to town.

Opening Saturday, March 16, the Butter Block will not only offer fresh meats, but also a wide variety of cheeses and other products. Customers will also be able to purchase meat in particular cuts of meat, plus have their cuts wrapped for free.

Dave Leczna says, "We know the quality is important to our customers and they have told us they want a place to get fresh, locally raised meat." He adds, "We’re excited to be able to offer products that are both fresh and affordable." Kathy Leczna adds, "We’ve been working hard to get everything just right, and we can’t wait to share our products with the community."
Some people realize what's important in life

Now and then, you must take the time for meaningful conversations with a friend or family member about what's truly important in life. Other times, such dialogues are not possible, and important conversations cannot take place. In such cases, try to reach out to someone who cares about you and ask them what you can do to make your life more meaningful. This will help you feel less lonely and more connected to those around you.

Some people may find it hard to express their thoughts and feelings to others, but by asking questions and listening to others, you can learn a lot about what matters to them.

Yours From the Trainers

by Wei Rennan

We're here to help you find your way in life. If you can define and understand... your life's important in life... We've sometimes spend most of our time trying to pile up one's wealth or rise in the ranks of corporate material goods... when a happy, meaningful life is actually made up of all these various elements, even in a small town.

Ice fishing, part II

Dear Reader:

I am a 25-year-old writer who has researched the topic of fishing for my latest book. In this letter, I will share some of my findings on the subject.

I have been studying fishing for over 10 years and have visited several fishing spots around the world. Fishing is not only a great way to relax and enjoy nature, but it can also be a rewarding hobby for those who are interested in the outdoors.

I have learned that fishing can be a great way to improve your mental health and reduce stress. It can also be a good way to make new friends and enjoy the company of others.

I am excited to share my findings with you and hope that you will find my work informative and enjoyable.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]

Jenny Wheeler searches Thumbs first Star State Degree since '52

By JERRY HEIDEN
Jenny Wheeler was plenty of honests shots at her FFA with the Thumbs this summer. At the district convention, she just might come home with the highest prize of all—the Star State FFA Degree.

Wheeler's the one of Pigeon's, already received State Degree last year. She's been able to compete for the Star State Degree. More than 250 applicants will be judged for the FFA Degree, and out of those judges of many members, she's been tentatively selected to compete for the highest award.

Wheeler said she's been working with another team of Pigeon's, including sisters Wendy and Lisa, as well as pupils and other team members. Her project, a market hog, has grown steadily over the past four years and is now ready for the competitive stage.

Wheeler's been involved with the FFA for about 10 years, beginning in 1979. She's been active in the chapter, state, and national levels, and has held various leadership positions. She's currently serving as the state's Vice-President of the FFA.

As a member of the Thumbs, Wheeler's been involved in various community service projects, including the annual FFA hog show. She's also been active in the local FFA chapter, serving as chapter president and holding various office positions.

Wheeler will be attending Michigan State University next year, majoring in animal science with an emphasis in livestock management. She's planning to continue her involvement in the FFA and its related activities after college.

Wet, sloppy fun at Caseville’s Shandy Days

by SALLY RUMFEE

Any number of odd ball events are planned for this weekend at Caseville’s Shandy Days celebration. That’s what coordinator Linda Schaudt and the committee feel will attract the most attendance. The weather forecast for today indicates a 90% chance of rain, so that means the second major event will be held indoors. The Shandy Days activities will be divided into two parts.

Saturday’s heavy growth of mud and the Shandy Days activities will continue, weather permitting. If the rain holds off, Schaudt says the town has plenty of activities planned for rain or shine. Summer set on M-142

John and William bundle their small group of friends for the last part of an afternoon ride to see if they could reach the other side of Swichmore Dam without getting caught in a storm. So far, so good. They manage to reach the dam and then continue on their way.

The context

Tethered pantomimes by land and was relished with the old friends. That one of the most memorable moments of the trip was driving through a downpour and being drenched to the skin. They managed to laugh about it and headed back home.

Your Vote of Confidence was greatly appreciated at the Sebewaing 'Primary Election'

All agreed this would be a good time to live up on an afternoon ride and they set off on another trip, this time with the hope of reaching a nearby town and admiring the scenery along the way.
