"Oh, give me a home..."

By MARK RUMMEL

Sebewaing native Bill Jungel has a growing hobby and part-time job—he operates a bison (or buffalo) ranch near his home in Tuson, near Cadillac, in Northern Michigan.

Jungel's hobby is a large one literally, since he and partner Carl Bruneau, Jr., bought 15 yearling bison in January, 1993. The herd has grown to 30 in the first year and should approach 100 head by end of summer, giving the part-time ranchers plenty to do.

The bison are profitable when slaughtered, since a full-grown animal is about 50% meat on its 1,500 lb. live weight frame. Buffalo meat sells for $4.00 per pound for steaks — and it has less fat and cholesterol than chicken," Jungel says.

Plus, the hide can be sold, as can the bison. The bison for meat and even the skulls. Bison don't need a barn, since they roam free over several hundred rolling acres on Jungel's land. The partners have fenced in nearly 200 acres, and have future plans to add even more space.

Jungel laughs when he explains how he got started in "bison farming."

"I'm not a farm kid, " he says, as he grow up in Sebewaing town. I wasn't even in PFA. But I wanted to try raising one buffalo for meat. When I found this land, I learned it was good for bison, and it's just kept growing."

He still keeps his day job as an American Airlines lineman, but he smiles while talking about "Scoutkum" — an 1,800- lb. favorite — and the other bison.

They eat hay, corn and some minerals and seem to like the harsh winter months. "They're very efficient, more efficient than beef. They're kinds become good friends." They're fast animals, too — they can run faster than a man and have jumped six-foot fences. "Think they couldn't outrun a horse," Jungel says.

He and wife Mary moved to the Cadillac Area for America in 1982, after working in Elkton and Bad Axe. They have two daughters, Bridget 17 and Heather 9.

TO THE DEATH: In 1846, Michigan became the first state to abolish capital punishment. Today, 13 other states also have no death penalty — Alaska, Hawaii, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New York, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Vermont, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Walkers aid needy folks

Needy Thumb residents will enjoy warm homes next winter thanks to the participation in a February fund raiser.

The Human Development Commission's 1994 Walk-for-Warmth fund raiser has raised about $9,100,000 for residents in Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac and Lapeer Counties. Volunteers collected pledges and participated a walk to raise money for HRC heating programs.

Elkton trash rates rise 6%

Elkton residents will be paying a bit more for garbage pickup and recycling this summer.

Elkton Village Council approved a 6.7% increase in garbage and recycling rates at last week's regular meeting. Rates rise by $3.75 per quarter to $170 per quarter, beginning with the July billings, according to Village Clerk Janet Sanis.

Waste Management Midwest-Michigan of Almont is in the third year of a five-year contract with the village for waste hauling and recycling, and the contract allows rate hikes if waste management's costs increase.

The council also approved an $1,000 contract with Dixon Engineering, Lake Odessa, for inspection of the village's water tower. Dixon will inspect the exterior and interior of the tower and report the findings to the local Public Works Committee.

Hayes UM hosts 'Scott Free Friday'

BY MARY DOPPER

For several folks, Friday’s tax deadline was a good reason to take a few hours off from work to enjoy some free entertainment. But one Hayes UM campus department decided to take advantage of the occasion.

The Christian performing Quartet Scott Free was doing a rare appearance at St. John’s United Methodist Church, including Hayes UM students as part of the program.

On Friday, April 22, Hayes UM Campus Minister, Tim Vickers, will host a Scott Free Quartet featuring Scott Free Quartet performing a song, "The Night Before Christmas," as a gift to the students for their hard work and dedication.

The Quartet, which is made up of four members, will be performing their usual repertoire of Christmas music.

The event is free and open to the public, and will be held at St. John’s United Methodist Church, located at 123 Main Street, Haynesville, Arkansas.

Music aid now available

A. E. Schenuer, of Monticello, Arkansas, has developed a new program that provides free music lessons to students in need.

The program is available to students in grades K-12 who are enrolled in public or private schools.

The program is funded by a grant from the Monticello Area Foundation.

The program includes free lessons in piano, guitar, and voice.

For more information, contact A. E. Schenuer at (501) 622-5431.
