Fly kites Saturday at Port Crescent

By AMY HEIDEN

There's nothing quite like a colorful kite skating through the air to welcome back spring — and the skies over Port Crescent State Park will be full of them this weekend.

To help celebrate the 75th anniversary of the founding of Michigan's State Park Commission, Port Crescent State Park is hosting a Kite Fly and a Trunk Flea Market at the day use area on Saturday, May 7.

State Park Manager Roy Elie and his staff, who also oversee Sleeper State Park near Caseville, have planned a day of fun for kite-lovers.

Free registration begins at 11:30 a.m., and the competition begins at 12:30 p.m.

"It will be a low-key competition," Elie said. "We just want people to come out and have fun."

There's a variety of categories in the under 14 years and over 14 sections. Categories include the oldest kite flyer, the youngest, the best-looking home-built kite, the 60-second sprint, the longest-tailed kite to fly, the smallest and largest kites to fly, and the most colorful kite to fly.

And there will be prizes for both categories, sponsored by statewide sponsor Pepsi and local merchants. Plus there's free kite to the first 100 kids who come.

For those who like to see some real skill in kite-handling, there will be demonstrations before and after the competition.

And since Smokey the Bear, who warns campers to help prevent forest fires that could destroy campgrounds, is celebrating his 50th birthday, he'll be making an appearance, too.

Food will be available at the park, Elie said, and clowns will be there to do some face painting.

And if you don't have a kite, the park is also sponsoring a Trunk Flea Market in another parking lot.

If you've been cleaning out your garage or basement and have some unneeded items, call the state park office to register, load them in your car and bring them to the park to sell from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Lots of space is still available, Elie said, but pre-registration is required.

Although registration for the events is free, a motor vehicle permit is required for any vehicle entering the park.

To register for the Trunk Flea Market or for more information, call the State Park office at 856-4411.

Port Crescent State Park is four miles south of Port Austin on M-25. Watch for day use park signs.

Dodge is 'citizen of year'

The Sebewaing Rotary Club has selected William Dodge, USA Schools Superintendent, as the recipient of its first annual "Citizen of the Year" Award.

A banquet in his honor has been set for Saturday, May 14 at Sugar Creek Restaurant in downtown Sebewaing. All people wishing to honor Dodge are welcome to share in this occasion.

For reservations, call Dalton Coe at 883-3530 or 883-9208 or Rev. Terry Weavil at 674-8787. Deadline for reservations is Wednesday, May 11.

Phone upgrades coming

The information superhighway will make a big detour this summer, bringing fiber-optic service to the Thumb.

Ameritech says it plans to spend about $13.7 million in mid-Michigan to upgrade communications to state-of-the-art fiber-optic lines and add digital communication technology to enhance clarity, reliability and computer data transmissions.

Local fiber-optic line installations are planned for:

Sebewaing	$273,900
Unionville	$53,100
Fairgrove	$47,900
Bay Port	$20,100
Bad Axe	$366,800

Other nearby upgrades are Vassar $170,900, Mayville $117,200 and Reese $77,900. Ameritech will also install underground fiber optic service in Bay, Saginaw, Midland, Isabella and Clare counties.

By replacing the current copper wire service with fiber-optics, callers will have the capacity to simultaneously and instantly transmit sound and images, since copper wire transmits at a much slower rate.

This is the "information age" and the installations pave the way for the next generation of communication technology — interactive videos, video telephones and the ability to send massive amounts of information instantly, Ameritech says.

Watershed grants awarded

About 31 Watershed Action Grants have been awarded to non-profit organizations, schools and local governments in the Saginaw Bay watershed area, including the Thumb.

Those in the Thumb include: a grant of $707 to USA High School and a grant of $887 to USA's FFA chapter, plus $1,850 to Kingston High School and $791 to Caro High School. Plus, the North Huron FFA Agri-Science Department will receive $2,600 and the Huron Audubon Club will receive $1,200.

USA, Kingston and Caro schools will use the money to test and evaluate water quality, educating students about the causes of water pollution and its sources.

North Huron will use the money to develop an on-site aquaculture system, which would maintain fish and biota found in the watershed to allow students to do research based on the aquatic life of the watershed, the Watershed Council says.

The Audubon Club plans to develop a slide presentation about the Pinnebog River for public showing, to encourage the value of preserving and improving water quality.

Lakers' Ben Krebs wins first Hueschen Science Scholarship

By AMY HEIDEN

Finding the money to send a son or daughter through four years of college can be a frustrating process for parents. Tuition, books, lab fees, dorm fees—it can all add up to some big bucks.

Ben Krebs' parents won't be struggling with those worries this fall when he goes off to Michigan State University. Krebs learned Friday that he is the first winner of the Gordon W. and Loyse B. Hueschen Scholarship.

Founded by the Hueschens earlier this year at Laker High School as a way to help a student study the sciences at MSU, the scholarship provides full tuition for four years, including room and board and book fees.

It's estimated the scholarship is worth $40,000 in today's dollars.

Krebs, the son of Mark and Kathy Krebs of Caseville, will be attending MSU this fall, but he hasn't decided exactly which science field in which to specialize.

"I haven't decided whether it will be engineering or biology," Krebs said.

"I like science because it deals with the environment and there's all sorts of new things you can discover. Maybe I'll be the one to find some new things. And in science, you can make things better for people and I'd like that."

The announcement of the award stunned Mark and Kathy Krebs, who never dreamed that their emphasis on science and math during their son's school years would pay off in such a big way.

"We pushed our kids towards math and science because we were both kind of weak in those areas," Kathy Krebs said.

"We both had to work all the time while we were in college and it was tough at times."

"There's no way we could have afforded MSU without this scholarship."

Laker High School Principal Lisa DiCamillo said Krebs was selected from among four candidates on the basis of science and math grades, college test scores, and a 300-word essay about the student's future educational and career goals.

Sally Beers earns her own award!

By MARY DRIER

A new American Cancer Society - Michigan Division award has been named after — and awarded to — a special Sebewaing lady.

The Sally Beers Award was announced at the spring Cancer Council meeting April 21 in Lansing.

Named after Huron County American Cancer Society President Sally Beers of Sebewaing, the award recognizes outstanding volunteer contributions to the Cancer Society during a person's lifetime.

And besides having the award bear her name, the 84-year-old Beers was also selected as its first recipient!

She has single-handedly raised more than $1 million over the years for the local Cancer Society, mostly through the sale of locally famous "Sally's mums."

She is an avid gardener and thinks nothing of planting 1,400 fund-raising mums in her garden next to her home south of Sebewaing.

"Sally is a very special person — a very special volunteer. It gives me great pleasure to present the Sally Beers Award to her," said Kathy Horton, area director of the American Cancer Society.

sure to present the Sally Beers Award to her," said Kathy Horton, area director of the American Cancer Society.

"The Huron County Unit of the American Cancer Society would not be the same without her, and we are thankful to have her on our side in the vitally important fight against cancer."

Beers missed the original awards presentation at the spring meeting in Lansing because of hospitalization following surgery.

Her son Warren Beers and sister Marian Brown accepted the award in her place. She is recovering nicely at the Huron Medical Care Facility in Bad Axe and is anxious to get home — to plant her next mum crop for the 1994 Cancer Society campaign.

She has been a fund-raiser volunteer for the Huron County Branch for 45 years and has served as its president for 30 years.

It was because of her extraordinary commitment, the award was named after her, Horton noted.

SALLY BEERS of Sebewaing receives the first Sally Beers Award from American Cancer Society's Kathy Horton.

Her crusade against cancer is a personal one done in memory of her late husband, Ford Beers, her mother and sister, all of whom were cancer victims.

The American Cancer Society is a nationwide community-based voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives from cancer, and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education and service.

Octagon barn aid now being sought

By MARY DRIER

Efforts to save Tuscola County's octagon barn are taking a new shape.

The Thumb Barn Octagon Committee was scheduled to attend Monday's Gagetown Village Council meeting to seek local support in saving the barn.

The committee hopes to save the unusual 72-year old barn built near Gagetown by the late James Purdy. The barn has eight sides, is four stories tall, has about 300 windows, several gables and dormers, and is topped by a cupola.

The "round barn" covers about 12,000 sq. ft. at 6948 Richie Road east of Gagetown, near the Tuscola-Huron line.

"We want to get them to go on record in supporting effort to save the barn," said Rose Putnam tourism chairman for Tuscola 2001 Inc.

"Also, we are getting together a fact-finding committee to do a presentation to the DNR to help fund efforts to save the barn and to give back some acreage around the house and barn at its present

Also, the Saginaw Bay Watershed Council will receive $1,143 to purchase river monitoring kits, allowing schools and nature centers to participate in water quality monitoring throughout the watershed.

In addition, the Michigan Sea Grant Extension will receive $2,000 for "Bay Days" for educational excursions on Saginaw Bay and Charity Island.

Funds are from the Saginaw Bay National Watershed Initiative, funded by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

"The goal of these grants is to help restore and protect the Saginaw Bay watershed," said Gov. John Engler. "The funds are 'action' grants. They encourage local involvement of people to positively affect the entire watershed."

"Projects like these are essential to the Saginaw, Bay City and Thumb Area by educating visitors and providing family-oriented recreation," said Con. James Barcia (D-Bay City).

As we see it

Sales tax rules were already confusing...

Michigan residents have had about three days to begin getting used to our new 6% state sales tax rate, and we'll all be pondering these changes for months to come. Imposing a tax on good purchased at retail price may seem simple, but the actual practice can be confusing, as Detroit Consumer Affairs Director Esther Shapiro points out.

For example, food is exempt from Michigan sales taxes, but just where and how you order it can change its taxability. So, you pay no tax on food you buy in a market, but you're taxed if it's cooked for you and eaten in a restaurant.

Shapiro uses an example to remind us how confusing this can be: Pick up a prepackaged pound of cheese and a package of sliced lunch meat in one section of a grocery store, then stop at the deli counter to order a ham and cheese sandwich, wrapped to take out. None of it will be eaten on the premises, but the sandwich will be taxed, while the other two items aren't!

The reason? The sandwich is prepared food, intended for immediate consumption, while the pre-packaged items aren't.

Meals served in fast-food stores, where food may be consumed either on or off the premises, are also taxable. And remember, you can buy a pound of coffee and pay no tax... but a cup of hot coffee will cost you an additional 6% state sales tax!

Shapiro is paid to watch out for such things, and explain them in layman's terms for people like us. Here's one more dandy:

Pick up a 25-lb. bag of dry dog food, retail price $8. You have a $1 manufacturer's coupon, and it's double-coupon day at your store — so you get $2 off and pay $6. But since the $1 manufacturer's coupon is a rebate to the store (and not to you), its tax passed on the consumer... so you pay 6% sales tax on $7 — or 42¢ since dog food isn't people food and is taxable.

Remember, Shapiro says, that services are not taxable, but parts are. Putting soles or heels on your shoes requires payment for both property and service. Thirty-five percent of the repair price is considered taxable, all at the new 6% rate. Your auto mechanic can charge taxes on parts, but not on labor.

So we can see there have been and still are inconsistencies in our sales tax system, but Shapiro says the state would be in serious financial trouble without the new 6% rate. So that's meant to be comforting, we suppose.

Shapiro inspires us by reminding us that our "ultimate purchase" — your coffin, urn and grave marker — are taxable to your heirs. But not the cemetery plot: that's real estate and is non-taxable!

Horsin' Around

My Mother's days

The theme this weekend will be Mother's Day, with thoughts of flowers, candy, fine dining and the beloved ladies that brought us all here. But at this time of year I often reflect - with mixed emotions - on all my Mother's days.

My Mom is one of the last of those (insert your own adjective here) '50s moms who happily sewed, cooked, canned, pressed, laundered and scrubbed from dawn till dusk every day... but she certainly didn't start life as a Stepford wife!

She had a life back in the late '40s, and a career that would rival the dreams of many aspiring career women of today! She had money, men, a figure, high-style, ambition, fringe benefits and a car.

And when we ask her why she traded all that for marriage and children, she replies what any child secretly hopes their parent will reply. Not that she "had" to get married, not that she "had" no other options in her life, nor that it was all an alcohol-induced accident.

No, she replies that she wanted to. That she loved babies. That she longed to have children.

But the debt I owe my Mother for the gift of life goes beyond that of my older brothers and sisters, I believe. Honoring my Mother is especially challenging for me when I hear of babies being found in trash cans, teenagers finding themselves with unwanted pregnancies, or adopted children struggling with their identities.

You see, my Mother actually struggled to have me.

And she was 40 years old! I was her fifth child! I made her sick! I was nearly miscarried several times! I was three weeks overdue! I weighed over 10 pounds... and I needed surgery on my head!

Who would want such a child? Who would struggle through such a pregnancy? Who would suffer to cling to such a bothersome little fetus?

My Mom did. See what I mean? What a guilt trip! So how do you simply say "Happy Mother's Day" to someone who suffered selflessly just to see you born? The annual, time-honored phrase somehow fills flat!

Ich denk oeffters wie unser Lifetime solch grosse Differences gebracht hat.

Da wir in die lower Grades in Immanuel Schule waren gab es immer noch 10 oder 20 Horse Sheds hinter die Schule. Die waren noch dort von lang before Autos kammn. Meiste Sheds waren herunter ge-pulled vor wir in die Schule waren, aber Ich kann die remaining Sheds gut remembern, und wie wir up die Walls ge-climbed sind, und in die Heu Mangers ge-hided haben.

In das front of die Sheds war eine hinged Tuer, so about 18 Zolle hoch und 6 oder so Fuesse lang. Der Team Owner konnte die hinged Tuer auf-openen wenn es warm war, oder konnte Sie zu-hooken wenn das Wetter kalt oder drafty war.

Wir haben die Sheds ge-used fuer fortis, da wir Cowboys-und-Indians ge-played haben. You hear about consumers cutting back on meat purchases in favor of more vegetables and fruits, and the home magazine and feature media make a great clamor about it. No doubt, some folks are switching back and forth, so a good variety of recipes for most foods is probably more interesting and even, in some cases, healthy.

However, the latest reports of the Michigan meat industry, as listed by the Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service, show 1993 beef and pork cash receipts up, cattle and calf up 11% and pork marketing up 5%. Nationally it's a similar story—up, up and up. Then, factor in the huge increases in poultry and turkey consumption and it would appear that the meat industry is in good shape—which is good news for agriculture "all around the farm"...

Recollections Of By-Gone Days

by George Keim

DEAR EDITOR:

Well, I'm still at the Gunden's Home Sweet Home and am getting very good care and food. I do a bit of reading and like to sit on the porch and watch the cars go by.

We had some turkey sandwiches for supper and I had to think that turkeys are one of the dumbest fowl there is, when they're small.

In 1935 I decided to work in Iowa for my cousin. Jobs were very hard to get here in Michigan. In Iowa, people gave a hired man $40.00 a month, while in Michigan, they only got $18 to $20.00.

I was in Florida and drove my Model-A Ford through Illinois and visited my uncle John Keim and then drove to Iowa. It was in March and Iowa was very muddy that time of year.

My cousin had to pull my car into his place with the horses.

He was going to raise turkeys and needed a hired man. He gave me $40 a month.

I helped build his broiler houses. I'm not much of a carpenter, but I got to saw a few boards and pound in some nails.

Well, he got 4,000 young turkeys and had some oil brooders for the turkeys and oil lanterns for lights.

But those turkeys were too dumb to eat, so we had put the feed on paper 'til they were smart enough to eat.

It was my job to clean the brooders and fill the lanterns and thin the wicks and light them at night and blow them out in the morning.

When they were half grown, they were put out on the range. They didn't have to have much fence because they wouldn't fly on anything over five feet high and were too dumb to go under them.

Every day we watched for some crippled ones. They weren't sick so we just butchered them and my cousin's wife knew how to fry them. So I had lots of turkey to eat. I helped take care of the turkeys because when it rained, you had to get them apart so they wouldn't pile on top of each other.

In the daytime if they got scared, they'd also pile up on each other and you had to get them off the pile.

People made from $1.50 to $2.00 apiece profit, so raising turkeys wasn't too bad. In the Depression I had a chance to get into it, but I decided to come home and get a job in the canning factory for 30¢ an hour, so I did all right.

It says in Proverbs that "sleep to a weary man is sweet." Well, I'm getting my share of sleep the last while and it's still sweet, even if I don't work anymore.

Thanks again for your prayers and cards.

Sincerely yours,
GEORGE KEIM

He DID it!

"... All things were created by Him, and for Him. And He is before all things, and by Him all things consist." Col. 1:16

Does it seem to you that the world around you is "going down the tube"? Are the wrongs overwhelming the rights, and does our future look more grim and foreboding than a few years ago? Is your confidence in yourself, your job, your country—even your church—more shaky than in the past?

Survey after survey tells that Americans are less hopeful and more fearful of what lies ahead than anytime in the past half-century.

Certainly the lost jobs, reduced benefits, broken marriages and criminal activities force an uneasy feeling on us all.

When we think of all those problems facing the world in general and us in particular where can we find any hope?

Surely not by our own wisdom or personal strength. Yet we have the greatest reason on Earth to be more than hopeful—we can be sure!

"The same God who created this world, the sun and moon and stars, is still in command. He caused the sun to "rise" this morning at the precise point He ordained.

The same Jesus Christ who lived and died and rose again for mankind is still our Lord and our God. He is our future, held firmly in His powerful hands.

The almighty Triune God is our's. We are sustained by Him. With Him upholding us, how can we fear anything, or anyone?

"The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms." (Deut. 33:27)

PRAYER: You alone are all we need, O God, help us see that always. Amen.

LJH kids start play with a bang!

By SALLY RUMMEL

The Laker Junior High School performance of "The Wizard of Oz" last weekend set a new standard for performance not usually accomplished by sixth, seventh and eighth grade students.

That was the impression most theater-goers had when they left the Laker auditorium after the three-day run of the first musical performed by Laker Junior High students.

"We already have a date set and an idea for next year's musical," exclaims Laker Drama Director Mike Terrill, who's clearly pleased with the positive public reaction to this first-time effort.

While Terrill is used to accolades for the winning performances turned out consistently by his high school thespians, his expectations at the junior high level were not as high as he pins on his high schoolers.

"I didn't expect them to do nearly as much in the line of 'performing' as they actually did," says Terrill.

"With high school students we work hard on timing, voice announcements and the mechanics of a good performance."

"What we found at the junior high level is that what the students lack in 'polish,' they more than make up for in enthusiasm, and that's what made it fun for the audience to watch."

Terrill also enjoyed the extensive involvement of junior high parents, with whom he credits much of the success of the production.

"The moms were just angels," he says. "All of the moms helped."

Parents helped in making costumes, applying make-up, helping backstage, and overall providing support for the production.

"One of the moms took a bunch of students to a professional production of 'Wizard of Oz' and that was a really good learning tool for the students, in providing a standard for their own performance," explains Terrill.

"It also helped greatly for costuming, as parents made many of their children's costumes and were able to see what they should look like and what colors to use."

Terrill also was able to use a lot of high school help in this junior high production, making it a real learning experience for the students involved.

The Laker High School pit band added another touch of "professionalism" to the junior high performance, as did the complete support of the Laker Administration, adds Terrill.

"We got a first-rate performance because we got first-rate support," he says. "They didn't treat this junior high theater project any differently than a high school production, as far as time and effort expended on sets, programs, promotion, etc. It gave a standard for the kids to push towards."

With over 14 years experience of dress rehearsal nightmares and pre-performance jitters, Terrill said junior high parents experienced it all for the first time the evening before opening night.

"When you sit through the dress rehearsal and hear the missed lines, the wrong timing and all the other pre-performance mistakes, you really wonder how they're going to get up on stage and present it to the public," admits Sue Meyersieck, mother of Adam Meyersieck, one of the Munchkins.

"Then on opening night, you just hold your breath until it's all over—then the feeling is one of total relief!"

She also noted that every one of the four performances was totally different from the other, with regard to the amount of ad libbing, timing, etc.

Terrill takes the routine disaster of most dress rehearsals in stride, knowing that it almost always comes together on opening night.

He feels the success of this first junior high production is the perfect stepping stone to even better theater at the high school level in coming years, with such excellent training in junior high.

"The kids really did do a wonderful job," he says, even himself a little surprised at that level of quality coming at such an early age.

"We let the kids perform it their own way and their enthusiasm really won the audiences over," he says proudly.

Cast in starring roles were Kim Gascho as Dorothy, Nathan Gulash as Scarecrow, Matt Buehler as Tin Man, Darin Keim as Cowardly Lion, Heidi Eichler as Good Witch, Allison Nim as Wicked Witch of the West and Craig Terrill as Wizard of Oz.

Student directors included Christa Keim and Danielle Damen and Musical Director Jill Collison.

Baccalaureate planned May 22 for Laker '94 grads

By AMY HEIDEN
For many years, the Elkton-Pigeon-Bay School District held a baccalaureate service for its graduating seniors. But because of legal challenges across the nation to holding what many felt was a religious service, Laker Schools dropped the program several years ago. Now, a growing number of students want those traditional baccalaureate services and — if the schools can't officially sponsor them — the seniors figure they can do it themselves. And that's exactly what some members of the Laker Class of '94 are doing. They're holding their own baccalaureate service on Sunday, May 22 at 2:30 p.m. in the Laker High gym. Christa Keim and Imagene Aguilera are part of a group of about 15 seniors who are working on organizing the baccalaureate, and they stress the effort is totally student-led. Both call themselves committed Christians and both are active in school and church activities. "Our friends are all excited about it and they're totally for it," Keim says. "Some of the kids didn't know what a baccalaureate is. We explained it's a service set up with Bluewater Thumb Youth for Christ, and any funds left over after meeting expenses will be left in the account for a baccalaureate service next year, if students decide to hold another, Aguilera says. The service will include a "memory time" for seniors and parents, who will share their memories of the class as a whole, a community band, a performance by the "Cornerstone" teen singing group, prayers for the students, and speeches by Laker teachers Mark Weidman and Gordon Murphy. A group of senior will sing, and several local pastors will also speak. "This isn't to replace graduation and we won't be wearing caps and gowns," Keim says. "We did this all on our own time and the decisions were all left up to us."

The Laker seniors join a growing list of students who are holding their own baccalaureate services. Last year, USA High School seniors sponsored such a service, and this year, Harbor Beach High's seniors will sponsor their own service, among others locally.

Both sides glad strike over

By AMY HEIDEN
After eight weeks of walking a picket line, workers at Pigeon Manufacturing Co. are back on the job after ratifying a new three-year contract April 23. Members of United Paperworkers International Union Local 7320 walked out on March 2, after negotiations on a new contract broke down. Negotiations had centered on pay raises, vacation pay, and health insurance changes.

The new contract calls for a $1 per hour pay raise for skilled trades workers in the first year, a 75-cent raise the second year and a 25-cent raise in the final year. Cost-of-living allowances are paid in the first year, then folded into the workers' pension plan in the second and third years.

Production workers' wages will be frozen in the first year, and a COLA will be paid. Those workers will receive a 25-cent per hour raise in the second and third years, and COLAs will be folded into their pension plans in the final two years of the contract.

In addition, the workers will keep their Blue Cross health insurance coverage, but will be included in a Preferred Provider Organization — and any increase in cost will be split evenly between the company and the worker. Workers voted unanimously to accept the new contract, according to union Region 9 representative Pete Gawne. "The members feel the contract is satisfactory," Gawne said. "They're happy to be back at work."

Pigeon Manufacturing Plant Manager Tom Smith echoed that sentiment, saying he's glad the workers are back. "Everybody in management and the staff is glad they're back," Smith said. "We had some people working 80 hours a week trying to keep up with production."

Sixty-five union members were affected by the strike, and the plant was kept operating with a skeleton staff of about 18 probationary union members, management staff and workers hired in to replace the strikers. Those newly-hired workers were laid off, something they expected, Smith said. "I told them coming in that I wouldn't guarantee them a job the next day," Smith said. "They knew that coming in the door."

Smith said that once Simplified Employment Services, a company hired by Pigeon Manufacturing owner Anthony Barclay to make personnel decisions, left the bargaining table, negotiations went smoothly. "Took over the last two days of negotiation and it was settled in less than 20 hours," Smith said.

Because the company has lost its contract with truck manufacturer Navistar, as many as 15 workers may be laid off. But Smith is hopeful that another company may place more orders and those workers won't be laid off. "We're writing our schedules now," he said. "We have to catch up with our production. Job security looks pretty good right now."

"Things may turn around and we can bring those people back."

where we can mention God if we want to.

"Graduation is a ceremony sending me off into the world and a baccalaureate would be the blessing on that."

The two seniors said the ceremony isn't mandatory for the graduating students, but they hope that parents and the public will support the students' efforts.

Because the event isn't school-sponsored, the students organizing it must pay to rent the gym.

They've received some donations from local businesses, but more is needed to defray the expense of printing invitations, postage and the rest of the rental fee. A special account has been

Newest Detroit Lion is Bay Port's Tom Beer!

By AMY HEIDEN

Lots of high school and college football players dream of turning professional after school, but most don't make it anywhere near a professional team.

Bay Port native Tom Beer is one of the lucky few whose dream has been fulfilled, as he was drafted by the Detroit Lions in the seventh round of last week's National Football League draft.

Beer, a 1987 Laker High School graduate, was a three-sport star during his high school years, then went on to Saginaw Valley State University.

But he left college before the first semester was up, then spent over two years working on his father's commercial fishing boat.

Once he realized his future wasn't to be found in fish, he signed on at Wayne State University and walked on the Tartars football team in 1990.

At Wayne, Beer made a name for himself on defense, being named three times to the All Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference team.

He led the Tartars in tackles the past two seasons, and was named a NCAA Division II All-Star linebacker. Last season he had 110 tackles, including school-record 17 tackles for losses.

The Lions weren't the only ones interested in the 6'3" 237-lb. linebacker.

Teams like Cleveland, Buffalo and Green Bay also tested Beer for their teams, but the Former Laker and Wayne Tartar (and now Lion) TOM BEER

Lions drafted first. The team took Beer in the draft rather than waiting till he became a free agent.

Beer's first test for the Lions came this past weekend, when he attended a mini-camp, learning the team's defense and what's expected of him as a player.

And he says he realizes that being drafted doesn't necessarily mean he'll make the team, but he knows he has a good chance of signing later this summer.

"I have speed and strength," Beer said. "I don't think they have someone like me. I can cover the pass and I can hit."

Beer already has signed with the Lions and received a signing bonus, and if he makes the team, he'll make the league minimum of between $108,000 and $125,000.

He's the first Tartar to be drafted since quarterback A.J. Vaughn went to Atlanta in 1968, 26 years ago, so that's another achievement.

"Everyone's goal in college is to play pro, but not until the last year has it really become a goal for me," Beer said.

"It's been crazy the last few days. The other night, it seemed like I was on the phone for six straight hours. But it's been a lot of fun and I can't complain."

He's the son of Tod and Connie Williams of Bay Port.

Daughters work with parents

By AMY HEIDEN

It's one thing to watch Mom or Dad go off to work every day, but it's quite another to find out what they really do while they're at work.

And to help girls find out exactly what their parents do for a living, companies across the country allowed parents to bring their daughters to work last Thursday as a part of "Take Our Daughters to Work Day."

Pigeon's Scheurer Hospital was one of those companies which welcomed its employees' daughters — and in the kitchen, three generations of mothers and daughters were busy preparing meals for staff and patients.

June Dunn, a 24-year dietary department worker, and her daughter Cathy Haley, a 19-year employee, welcomed Cathy's daughter Kelly to their workplace.

Although Kelly Haley had been in the kitchen for short visits, this was the first time she'd actually had "hands-on" experience doing what her mother and grandmother.

During her work day, she frosted a cake, helped her grandmother grind meat, baked cookies, made coffee and best of all, washed dishes after lunch.

Kelly was one of 10 daughters to visit their parents at Scheurer Hospital.

The "Take Our Daughters to Work Day" was devised by the Ms. Foundation for Women in New York as a way to encourage girls to seek careers.

The day is a way to help teenage girls raise their self-esteem and show them the variety of jobs in which they could find a career. It's estimated that between two and three million children accompanied their parents to work across the nation, sponsors say.

SOON, THE FRONT FACADE of Thumb National Bank's Pigeon office will look normal again.

Workers from B & M Glass of Caseville and Pigeon Lumber were busy installing new glass in the front of the building. The window was destroyed when a car crashed through it early on March 23, after failing to make the T-type intersection of Main Street and Michigan Avenue.

HERE, Ron Terwilliger of Pigeon Lumber and Andrew Crane and Ben Willenberg of B & M Glass make repairs to the window.

Caseville's Depner creates 'Blues'

Caseville filmmaker DANIEL DEPNER

By SALLY RUMMEL
Daniel Depner, son of John and Ruth Depner of Caseville, is a 1994 Film and Video graduate at Grand Valley State University.

During the past six months, Depner has been working on his latest production, titled "Huron County Blues."

In the spring of 1958, the UFO scare hit Huron County.

Farmers, housewives and school children lived their daily lives in fear, as numerous eye-witness sightings of a mysterious "little blue man" were reported in remote stretches of the county. "Huron County Blues" recalls the forgotten memories of this bizarre alien invasion and investigates the cause behind this nationally publicized incident.

"This is not just an entertaining documentation of a historical event, but more importantly, a colorful illustration of the folks who live in a small town, farming community and their relationships with one another," says producer Depner.

"Huron County Blues" will be shown to the public free of charge on Saturday, May 14 at the Elkton Civic Center at 7:30 p.m. and again at 9 p.m.

Donations will be accepted to help cover the cost of building rental.

Depner invites the public to take a look back in time.

HCCCC tries to make better 'Thumb' impressions

By SALLY RUMMEL

Did you know that there are no roads leading to the Thumb?

Just take a look at any map sponsored by the Michigan Travel Bureau, and you'll see that the Thumb must be an unreachable destination... because no roads lead to it.

That huge omission led five members of the Huron County Council of Chambers to visit Tom Altemus at the Michigan Travel Bureau in Lansing recently, to let him know THERE IS a Thumb Area — and THERE ARE roads to get here.

According to Tammy Claer-hout at the regular meeting of the Huron County Council on April 19, Altemus assured the group that M-53 would point visitors to the Thumb on the next production of the state maps. Claerhout of Sebawaing is HC4 President. Altemus also was receptive to positive information about Huron County, because his only knowledge about the county was the negative publicity he has heard about the problems with the PA59 "pillow tax" group and the impending lawsuit.

"He knows a lot more about Huron County now," assures Claerhout, "and applauds the efforts of our county on our 'fax bax' service and other state-of-the-art services available through our EDC office and visitor's bureau."

Claerhout also reported on success of the "Service First" employee seminar held in April, with other dates following in May and June. A total of 36 workers attended and reported excel-members were matched during the first quarter of 1994. The Primary Partners program matches Lutheran Brotherhood members' gifts of $25 to $100 per year to participating Lutheran elementary schools.

TOURING AT HOME: Representatives of local Chambers of Commerce became better acquainted with Sebawaing, when the Sebawaing Chamber of Commerce hosted members of the Huron County Councils of Chambers on Tuesday, April 26.

Pictured here, the evening included a bus trip to see the proposed improvements on the Muellerweiss Park downtown, as well as the proposed $1.6 to $2.6 million harbor project at the present site of Pitcher Park.

Almost 50 Chamber members representing Chambers of Commerce from Pigeon, Bay Port, Caseville, Bad Axe, Harbor Beach, Port Austin and Sebawaing heard comments from Sebawaing Chamber President Steve Langford, Mayor Dave Wineman and Harbor Commission representative Phil Dast.

The Huron County Council of Chambers will be taking turns twice a year visiting each member community, according to President Tammy Claerhout. Pigeon will host the next event on Wednesday, Sept. 14, showcasing the newly-completed senior living complex Country Bay Village and the Scheurer Hospital/Medical Arts complex.

Colwood Bank's last customer!

Leonard (Lenny) Dillon, 64, of Unionville shows a money pouch he has kept for 60 years from the former Colwood Bank which is in the background.

A story about the banks closing in the April 19 Newsweekly's Memory Lanes column caught Dillon's attention.

"My dad and I were the last customers the bank had before it closed," said Dillon. "I remember Claude Andrews was the banker here and he told us that as soon as we left they were closing the doors for good. Sure enough when we came back through it was closed."

The banks in Colwood and Bach both closed May 4, 1934. Dillon, who lives next door to the bank, is the son of Elva and the late Leslie Dillon.

According to an article in The Pigeon Progress at that time, the banks were closed by a vote of the stockholders "on account of changes in the banking laws and the banking outlook for the future the stockholders do not feel the banks could be profitably operated."

The banks were private institutions owned by the late Louis Bartholomy of Bach, Claude Andrews of Caro and Frank Bach of Sebawaing. MARY DRIER PHOTO

Gagetown election state inquiry finds 'misunderstanding'

By MARY DRIER

At least one Gagetown Village resident was denied the right to vote in Gagetown's Village Election in March — and possibly more — according to findings of the State Elections Bureau.

Examination of the March 14 election began because the Bureau received complaints from residents who believed they were qualified to vote but weren't allowed to cast ballots, although they were able to vote in the state election the next day.

The original letter, written by an anonymous 36-year-old resident, prompted Sue McRill, regional representative with the State Election Bureau, to meet with village attorney Tom Abbey, former village clerk Elery Sontag and former Deputy Clerk Madeleine Sontag.

"As a result of that meeting I am satisfied that the error which unfortunately resulted in the removal of the complaint's name, as well as others, from the village's voters' registration roll, was the result of a misunderstanding," said McRill in a letter to the complainant.

Under state election law city, township and village clerks review voter records each December to identify residents who have not voted for five consecutive years. Once identified as an inactive voter, a card is mailed informing them of a notice of cancellation. To remain registered, written notice needs to be returned to the clerk.

"For the purposes of identifying a voter whose registration falls into this category, a search of the voter registration records maintained at all levels must first be carried out.

"The registration of a voter who participates in federal, state, township or school elections are not subject to cancellation simply for failing to participate in village elections," said McRill.

Voting regulations are complicated and officials receive written instructions and access to an 800 number to help them.

"The process requires cross communication between clerks. Regrettably, when the letter (of regulations) was received by election officials in Gagetown, voters registration records were removed from active status based on an independent review of voter participation in the village elections only," said McRill. "Since the voters involved were not provided with advance notice of action take, the error was not detected until after the election."

McRill is working with township and new village officials to update and correct voter registration records. "Everyone who was removed as part of the December purge process by Madeleine (Sontag) have been returned to the proper place," McRill said.

"When the records were turned over to the new clerk, the work had already been done so I have no way of knowing how many had been pulled and put back in."

"After the meeting, Madeleine put them back once she realized what was wrong."

She said the errors were honest mistakes.

"Nothing dishonest ever took place," she said. "I did the best I knew how."

Elmwood Township Clerk Elaine Seibel estimates about 100 voter names were added in the updated records. Gagetown is in Elmwood Township.

"There are a lot of village people who are on my records who have never exercised the right to vote in the village election," said Seibel. "There were about 100 who evidently never exercised their right to vote in the village."

"We are bringing the (village) books up to date so they balance with mine."

A primary responsibility of clerks is keeping up to-date records and not taken lightly, McRill noted.

However, State Election officials will continue to probe the election.

"The matter remains under internal review to determine if further inquiry or investigation is warranted. There is no deadline as to when this review will be completed," said Bradley Wittman, of the State Election Bureau.

Thanks A Million!

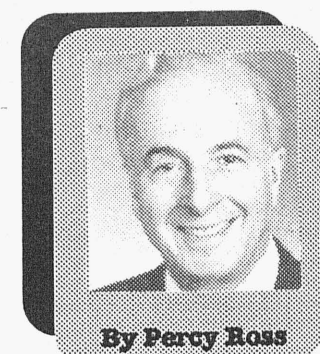

This request stands on its own merits...

DEAR MR. ROSS:
I'm the mother of four and I also take care of my sister's four children because of her head injury.
I, myself, was born disabled.

I was told my mother was given Thalidomide while she was pregnant with me in the '60s.

So, my mother was left to raise her children alone—no father of mine wanted the burden of raising a child with one leg missing and the other with a club foot.

But on Jan. 17 one of my biggest fears came true. We were awakened by what sounded like a bomb.

By Percy Ross

The night before I had taken off my artificial leg in the bathroom and then crawled around checking the children, tucking them in, etc.

But an earthquake! No, I was not ready.

The children were all crying. My husband, who is also disabled, put the children on the bed with me and went to look for a light because it was pitch dark. All he could find were candles.

We didn't smell gas so we hoped it was OK. The back laundry room toilet had exploded and water was everywhere—all over our clothes.

There were cracks on the outside walls and the tremors kept coming, so we got a ride from a neighbor to a safe location for a few days to calm the children, along with ourselves.

We soon ran out of money—it was all we had! We had to return to our mess and our spoiled food. The Red Cross did give us some food but no clothing because we had the clothing on our backs.

So now we wash our clothing at night and hope it's dry by morning. We have lost so much.

It will take me forever to save up enough to replace what eight children and two adults have lost.

I know I'm very lucky and I'm grateful we're all together and alive. Our refrigerator still works although it now freezes everything from milk to the eggs.

I know I'm in need of a lot, but if you can't help that's OK. I feel a little better just getting it off my chest. Writing you has been good therapy. — Mrs. S. W., Oxnard, CA

DEAR MRS. W.:

I once complained about having lost a pair of shoes, until I met a woman with only one leg. Honest.

Before reading your letter this morning, I came to learn that my shoemaker had inadvertently given my shoes to another person. I'll probably get them back, but at the time I felt a little inconvenienced.

Then I read your letter. A little voice in my head said, "Get down from your Ivory Tower, Percy."

That's exactly what I've done. After sending you a handsome check for your needs, I went home and gathered up nine-tenths of my shoes and donated them to charity.

Thank you for the wake-up call and my best wishes to you and your family.

DEAR PERCY ROSS:

You can run but you can't hide from me. I'm your worst financial nightmare.

I need clothes, a college education, a good paying job and a nice house. All I have now is a low paying, dead-end job. I live in a one room efficiency apartment. I have nothing to look forward to except perhaps getting out of this hick town.

I need a mentor and a benefactor. My father died when I was young and my mother did a poor job raising me. If she had done a half way decent job I wouldn't be writing you.

Percy, I need to know you'll be there for me. — Mr. F. S., Olathe, KS

DEAR MR. S.:

Your needs may be many, but you're really lacking only one thing: MOTIVATION.

Get it and as a bonus, you'll also end up with self-esteem and pride. Good luck.

DEAR MR. S.:

Confidential to Mrs. P. in G.J.: If you want to live to see tomorrow, you better pick up and leave your husband today.

I've sent $1,000 to a "Safe House" to be held in your name, which will ensure quick passage to another state.

So gather a few clothes, get the kids and get out of that abusive situation—right now. If you don't do it for yourself, at least do it for your six children. Your next hospital stay could be in the morgue. Don't wait another minute and God's speed be with you.

Pigeon District Library Corner

PRESCHOOL STORY HOUR

The Story Hour theme for Tuesday, May 10 will be about "Trees, Flowers and Agriculture" with the story, "Let's Talk About Trees and Flowers."

Story Hour consists of stories, fingerplays, flannelgraph activities and creative movement.

Sessions are appropriate for independent listeners age three to five who are invited to attend either the 9 or 10:30 a.m. sessions.

MOTHERS' DAY

Three years after the death of her mother in May, Miss Anna M. Jarvis arranged to have her church in Grafton, W. Va. dedicate a Mother's Day Service in her mother's memory.

Because her mother loved cultivated carnations, everyone in attendance was given one of these flowers. The carnations became associated with the day, red blooms worn to honor mothers who are living and white honoring those who have died.

Of course, many churches hold services honoring motherhood, preserving the spirit of the day as envisioned by Anna Jarvis back in 1907.

TOY TIME

The toys available for lending have been carefully selected to fit a child's interest and abilities. Some selections are available for every age up to five years.

The experience of learning to enjoy borrowed materials and returning them to share with others will provide an excellent introduction to the library and will hopefully encourage each child to use the library as a resource.

A two-week check-out is available for these toys.

CAN'T FIND A BOOK?

Have you checked the library shelf for aperticular book or audiobook and fine it never seems to be in?

Although this is frustrating, there is a reason and a solution to this problem:

Books on the bestseller lists and popular audiobooks, for example, are often returned to the library, checked-in, shelved and checked-out again within a few hours.

But the library staff can help you acquire materials that are off the shelves. All you have to do is fill out a reserve card, then a reserve is placed on the item you have requested.

The circulation staff will notify you by telephone when the materials you have requested are available.

Books and other material reserves are kept for a limited time at the desk and may be picked up there.

Remember, if you ever have difficulty finding materials you are looking for, stop at the desk.

SOCCER SOURCES

Whether you're a coach communicating the fundamentals to youngsters, or the youth player learning the techniques, there are lots of soccer sources at the Pigeon District Library.

VIDEOS: The Graduated Soccer Method: Fundamentals & Techniques (Vol. 1, 2, 3) for boys and girls, age seven through 14.

BOOKS: Warm Up For Soccer; Lammich, Step-by-Step Soccer; Spindler, My Life & the Beautiful Game-Pele, Coaching Soccer-Laufer.

THINK ABOUT IT

"Take Time"

Take time to WORK: It is the price of success.

Take time to THINK: It is the source of power.

Take time to PLAY: It is the secret of perpetual youth.

Take time to READ: It is the fountain of wisdom.

Take time to be FRIENDLY: It is the road to happiness.

Take time to LAUGH: It is the music of the soul.

Take time to DREAM: It is hitching your wagon to a star.

TAKE TIME TO LIVE!

WINSOR TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE NO. 94-1 DANGEROUS BUILDING ORDINANCE

An Ordinance to promote the health, safety and welfare of the Township of Winsor, by regulating the maintenance, alteration, health, safety and improvement of dwellings; to define the classes of dwellings effected by the Ordinance, to establish administrative requirements; to establish remedies; to provide for enforcement; to provide for the demolition of certain dwellings; and to fix penalties for the violation of this Ordinance.

THE TOWNSHIP OF WINSOR ORDAINS:

Unlawful Conduct.
(1) It is unlawful for any owner or agent thereof to keep or maintain any dwelling or part thereof which is a dangerous building as defined in subsection (2).

"Dangerous Building" Defined.
(2) "Dangerous Building" means a building or structure that has 1 or more of the following defects or is in 1 or more of the following conditions:

(A) A door, aisle, passageway, stairway, or other means of exit does not conform to the approved fire code of the village.

(B) A part of the building or structure is damaged by fire, wind, flood, or other cause so that the structural strength or stability of the building or structure is appreciably less than it was before the catastrophe and the building or structure does not meet the minimum requirements of this Ordinance or the building code of the village.

(C) A part of the building or structure is likely to fall, become detached or dislodged, or collapse and injure persons or damage property.

(D) A part of the building or structure has settled so such an extent that walls or other structural portions of the building or structure have materially less resistance to winds than is required in the case of new construction by this Ordinance or the building code of the village.

(E) The building or structure, or a part of the building or structure, because of dilapidation, deterioration, decay, faulty construction, or the removal or movement of some portion of the ground necessary for the purpose of support, or for other reason, is likely to collapse partially or completely, or some portion of the foundation or underpinning of the building or structure is likely to fall or give way.

(F) The building or structure or any portion of the building or structure is manifestly unsafe for the purpose for which it is used.

(G) The building or structure is damaged by fire, wind, or flood, or is dilapidated or deteriorated and may become an attractive nuisance to children who might play in the building or structure to their danger, may become a harbor for vagrants, criminals, or immoral persons, or may enable persons to resort to the building or structure for committing a nuisance or an unlawful or immoral act.

(H) A dwelling, because of dilapidation, decay, damage, faulty construction or arrangement, or otherwise, is unsanitary or unfit for human habitation, is in a condition determined by the health officer to be likely to cause sickness or disease, or is likely to injure the health, safety, or general welfare of people living in the dwelling.

(I) A building or structure is vacant, dilapidated, and open, leaving the interior of the building exposed to the elements or accessible to entrance by trespassers.

(J) A building or structure remains unoccupied for a period of 180 consecutive days or longer, and is not listed as being available for sale, lease, or rent with a real estate broker licensed under article 25 of the occupational code, Act No. 299 of the Public Acts of 1980, being sections 339.2501 to 339.2515 of the Michigan Compiled Laws. This subdivision does not apply to either of the following:

(a) A dwelling as to which the owner or agent does both of the following:
(1) Notifies a local law enforcement agency in the township that the dwelling remains unoccupied for a period of 180 consecutive days. The notice shall be given to the local law enforcement agency by the owner or agent not more than 30 days after the dwelling becomes unoccupied.

(b) Maintains the exterior of the dwelling and adjoining grounds in accordance with this ordinance or the building code of the village.

(i) A secondary dwelling of the owner that is regularly unoccupied for a period of 180 days or longer each year, if the owner notifies a local law enforcement agency in the township that the dwelling will remain unoccupied for a period of 180 consecutive days or more each year. An owner who has given the notice prescribed by this subparagraph shall notify the law enforcement agency not more than 30 days after the dwelling no longer qualifies for this exception. As used in this subparagraph, secondary dwelling means a dwelling such as a vacation home, hunting cabin, or summer home, that is occupied by the owner or a member of the owner's family during part of a year.

Notice.

(3) (A) Notwithstanding any other provision of this act, if a building or structure is found to be a dangerous building, the enforcing agency shall issue a notice that the building or structure is a dangerous building.

Contents, notice of hearing.

(C) The notice shall specify the time and place of hearing on whether the building or structure is a dangerous building. The person to whom the notice is directed shall have the opportunity to show cause at the hearing why the hearing officer should not order the building or structure to be demolished, otherwise made safe, or properly maintained.

Hearing officer; filing of notice with officer.

(D) The hearing officer shall be appointed by the township supervisor to serve at his or her pleasure. The hearing officer shall be a person who has expertise in housing matters including, but not limited to, an engineer, architect, building contractor, building inspector, or member of a community housing organization. The enforcing agency shall file a copy of the notice that the building or structure is a dangerous building with the hearing officer.

Notice in writing; service.

(E) The notice shall be in writing and shall be served upon the person to whom the notice is directed either personally or by certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to the owner or party in interest at the address shown on the tax records. If a notice is served on a person by certified mail, a copy of the notice shall also be posted upon a conspicuous part of the building or structure. Not less than 5 days after completion of the hearing, the hearing officer shall render a decision either closing the proceedings or ordering the building or structure demolished, otherwise made safe, or properly maintained.

(B) If the hearing officer determines that the building or structure should be demolished; otherwise made safe, or properly maintained, the hearing officer shall so order, fixing a time in the order for the owner, agent, or lessee to comply with the order. If the building is a dangerous building under subsection (2)(J), the order may require the owner or agent to maintain the exterior of the building and adjoining grounds owned by the owner of the building including, but not limited to, the maintenance of lawns, trees, and shrubs.

(C) If the owner, agent, or lessee fails to appear or neglects or refuses to comply with the order issued under sub section (4)(B), the hearing officer shall file a report of the findings and a copy of the order with the legislative body of the township not more than five days after noncompliance by the owner and request that necessary action be taken to enforce the order. A copy of the findings and order of the hearing officer shall be served on the owner, agent, or lessee in the manner prescribed in subsection (3).

(D) The legislative body of the township shall fix a date not less than 30 days after the hearing prescribed in subsection (3) for a hearing on the findings and order of the hearing officer and shall give notice to the owner, agent, or lessee in the manner prescribed in subsection (3) of the time and place of the hearing. At the hearing, the owner, agent, or lessee shall be given the opportunity to show cause why the order should not be enforced. The legislative body of the township shall either approve, disapprove, or modify the order. If the legislative body approves or modifies the order, the legislative body shall take all necessary action to enforce the order. If the order is approved or modified, the owner, agent, or lessee shall comply with the order within 60 days after the date of the hearing under the order. In the case of an order of demolition, if the legislative body of the township determines that the building or structure has been substantially destroyed by fire, wind, flood, or other natural disaster, and the cost of repair of the building or structure will be greater than the state equalized value of the building or structure, the owner, agent, or lessee shall comply with the order of demolition within 21 days after the date of the hearing under this subsection.

(E) The cost of the demolition, of making the building safe, or of maintaining the exterior of the building or structure, or grounds adjoining the building or structure incurred by the township to bring the property into conformance with this act shall be reimbursed to the township by the owner or party in interest in whose name the property appears.

(F) The owner or party in interest in whose name the property appears upon the last local tax assessment records shall be notified by the assessor of the amount of the cost of demolition, of making the building safe, or of maintaining the exterior of the building or structure or grounds adjoining the building or structure by first class mail at the address shown on the records. If the owner or party in interest fails to pay the cost within 30 days after mailing by the assessor of the notice of the amount of the cost, the township shall have a lien for the cost incurred by the township to bring the property into conformance with this act. The lien shall not take effect until notice of the lien has been filed or recorded as provided by law. A lien provided for in this subsection does not have priority over previously filed or recorded liens and encumbrances. The lien for the cost shall be collected and treated in the same manner as provided for property tax liens under the general property tax act, Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, being sections 211.1 to 211.157 of the Michigan Compiled Laws.

(G) In addition to other remedies under this act, the township may bring an action against the owner of the building or structure for the full cost of the demolition, of making the building safe, or of maintaining the exterior of the building or structure or grounds adjoining the building or structure. The township shall have a lien on the property for the amount of a judgment obtained pursuant to this subsection. The lien provided for in this subsection shall not take effect until notice of the lien is filed for recorded as provided by law. The lien does not have priority over prior filed or recorded liens and encumbrances.

Judgment; enforcement against assets of owner.

(5) (A) A judgment in an action brought pursuant to subsection (4) (G) may be enforced against assets of the owner other than the building or structure.

(B) The township shall have a lien for the amount of a judgment obtained pursuant to Section (4) (G) against the owner's interest in all real property located in this state that is owned in whole or in part by the owner of the building or structure against whom the judgment is obtained. Noncompliance with order; Misdemeanor.

(6) A person who fails or refuses to comply with an order approved or modified by the legislative body of the township within the time prescribed by this section is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment for not more than 90 days, or a fine of not more than $500.00, or both.

Blessed Mother statue unveiled on Mother's Day

By SALLY RUMMEL

When St. Roch Catholic Church in Caseville formally dedicates a statue of the Blessed Mother on Mother's Day this Sunday at 9 a.m., there will be one man in the congregation who will likely shed tears of great pride.

That's because he is the artist who hand-carved the statue himself — living and breathing its every changing facet as he worked on it daily for more than four months at his home on Sand Point.

Now the Blessed Mother statue will take center stage at the Caseville church during the month of May — the month of Mary — then will move to her permanent home at the front of the church near the altar.

"It has been a work of love," says Jerome Galante, 69, who has worked as a carpenter all his life and a wood carving hobbyist, too.

"I've made lots of decoys and carvings of all kinds and even built my own house three times, but I've never done anything like this statue ever before."

"When I look at it, I can't quite believe that I carved her."

The statue of the Blessed Mother stands three feet high and is placed upon an oak pedestal that Galante also built. Also included is a wooden rosary which he also crafted.

According to St. Roch priest Fr. Dennis Kucharczyk, the project started when members of the congregation began to miss some of the Catholic heritage which was destroyed, when the meeting of Vatican II in the early 1960s discouraged the use of statues and other images in Roman Catholic Churches.

After Vatican II, many churches got rid of their statues and the St. Roch church 30 years later has felt the void left by their absence.

Galante felt very honored to be asked by his fellow members at St. Roch to try his hand at crafting the Blessed Mother, but also lay awake many a night, worrying about the project.

For guidance, he visited the statue of Our Lady of Guadalupe at St. Francis Borgia Catholic Church in Pigeon, and felt spiritually renewed in handling his artistic call.

"I know I had Divine help in making this statue," says Galante. "It changed my whole feeling about my religion."

Fr. Dennis adds that no one can work on a statue of this kind without becoming a changed individual.

"I know when she (the statue) leaves Jerry and Katy's home, they will be very lonely for her," says Fr. Dennis.

"The statue has been a real focus for them and neighbors have come by daily to see how 'she's' doing."

The first hurdle Galante had in making the statue was finding the bass wood he knew was the right wood to use, because of its semi-hard, semi-soft nature. He finally found it at Weber Lumber in Reese, then had to have it run through the mill, the pieces laminated together, then put in a press to keep it tight.

As a finished statue, he estimates it weighs about 70 lbs. He carved the body first, using drawings he made from other statues of the Blessed Mother he had seen before. The only change he made from his original drawing was to add a slipper-type shoe to her feet, rather than keeping her barefoot.

The St. Roch Ladies' Society donated money to pay for the lumber for the pedestal, and an anonymous donor from St. Roch donated money to pay for the lumber, from which the statue itself was created. But it was artist Jerome Galante who gave the gift of time and love to creating the Blessed Mother. He estimates it has taken between 200 and 300 hours to carve her.

While Galante's Sand Point home will miss the daily work of lovingly carving the Blessed Mother, Fr. Dennis sees this as the beginning, not the end, of additional projects for Galante.

"I am so very pleased and proud of the work he has done," he says. "We have some other projects in mind that will tap his talents even further."

The St. Roch congregation cordially invites the public to attend the dedication service at 9 a.m. this Sunday morning.

Cold opener

A brutal northern Michigan wind battered the small camper where I and my new-found buddy cowered from the rapidly deteriorating weather.

The tiny propane furnace, touted by the salesman when I bought the rig, was doing a pitifully poor job of keeping the camper above freezing. But the expectations of tomorrow's trout opener, and a little medicinal swamp water did wonders to perk up Eric and me.

I had met Eric last summer on the same river. He had been fishing downstream with his trusty Golden Retriever Sam, and caught up with me halfway to my parked car.

We chatted, exchanged some flies (I made out like a bandit), and then he begged a ride for himself and his wet pooch.

We had fished several more times that year and had planned to meet for this year's opener.

Earlier that evening, Eric had conned a couple of fellow campers to follow him downstream so he could post our truck and then be shuttled back to the campsite.

Our plans were to hit the river early in the morning, fishing from the canoe until we encountered a hatch or a hot spot.

But from the whine of the wind and the groan of the heater, tomorrow might be a fruitless day. The wind had died sometime during the night, and we woke to a clear, but very cold dawn. Breakfast was a hurried affair and Eric soon left to load his canoe while I built some man-sized sandwiches for lunch.

We both wore neoprene waders covering our long-johns and polypropylene jackets beneath our fly vests. Even with this foresight, I knew we would be in for a long, cold day.

We turned the nose of the canoe into the river's current and plowed forward through an eerie mist rising from the surface.

Since it was Eric's canoe, he had taken the stern which left the bow, a prime fishing platform, for me.

We dragged a chain to keep our speed at a fishable pace and Eric used a small, steel-tipped pole in place of a paddle to maneuver the craft.

I fished the left side of the river, casting over the bow, while Eric poled with his left hand and threw his streamer along the right hand bank.

I was accustomed to cold trout openers and although I continually scanned the air just above the river's surface for insect activity, I knew that if trout were to be caught today, we would have to dig deep in the river for them.

For that reason, I fished a black Marabou leech pattern. The streamer is tied on a 2/0 hook with some lead wire for weight.

The body is composed of black dubbing, seal fur is best, with a couple spins of Krystal Flash to give it some sparkle.

■ Researchers have discovered that during periods of low and high tides, animals such as fish seem to lose much of their natural caution. These periods are referred to as Major Periods and last approximately an hour.
■ Later, it was determined that about midway between the Major Periods there was frequently an intermediate period of somewhat shorter duration, which are referred to as Minor Periods. The inclination of the moon's orbit to the Equator also affects Solunar Periods and, in extreme cases, there will be only one Major or Minor Period for the date.
