BT-YFC Auction Saturday morning

By AMY HEIDEN

To continue its ministry to local teens, Bluewater Thumb Youth for Christ officials rely on a few major fundraisers and the benevolence of its supporters.

At no other time during the year do those necessities converge so well as they do at the annual Youth for Christ Benefit Auction, set this Saturday, July 23.

Executive Director Ken Smeader and his staff have been kept busy in the past weeks cataloging all the items donated by Youth for Christ supporters. Smeader says that this year's catalog of auction items is one of the best ever, and he hopes last year's final figure of $35,000 is surpassed.

That money goes to maintain Youth for Christ's mission of bringing the message of Christ to local teens. The organization sponsors breakfast clubs at local high schools, the spring Breakaway trip to Florida, and many other activities designed to give teens an alternative to a troubled life.

Sports items have proven to be popular auction attractions, and this year, several nice packages will be offered.

Some lucky buyer will wind up with a suite at Joe Louis Arena for five games of the Detroit Red Wings, while another lucky bidder may purchase a VIP package for four at a Detroit Lions game.

Up for bids are four 35-yd. line Lions vs. San Francisco 49'ers tickets and a parking pass, and tickets to the Michigan State University vs. Notre Dame football game.

Golf lovers may want to bid on golf packages at Elk Ridge in Atlanta, MI., or a package at Bird Creek in Port Austin.

For someone who collects sports memorabilia, limited edition sets of Chris Webber basketball cards are on the sale bill, as well as Shaquille O'Neal cards. And golfers will want to take note of several sets of King Par golf clubs that will go on the auction block.

For those with an appreciation for fine furniture, the auction will offer a selection of oak furniture from L.J. Gascho Furniture, including an oak hutch, lamp table and a double pedestal oak table and chairs.

A few years ago, someone had the idea to auction off dinners and those have proven to be highly popular.

This year's offerings include a tailgate party for 12 before the Laker-Cass City football game, nine holes of golf and a

Sebewaing Summer Rec. parade is July 28

The Sebewaing Parks and Recreation Program has the answer to children's' standard summer refrain "There's nothing to do."

The village is offering a summer creation program this summer with a special "animals on parade" program planned from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, July 28, for children ages four to seven years old.

The event includes a picnic, crafts, games and face painting.

"We will provide the wagons and each child should bring their own favorite stuffed animal," said Diane Conden. "We will provide balloons and such for them to decorate the wagons.

"We hope to march in the downtown area, but it will depend on the weather and what is going on."

There is a fee to participate. It is necessary to register by Thursday, July 21, to participate. Registration is done by calling Conden at 883-3717 or Sally Elston at 883-3787.

Pigeon turns down rezone

After spirited debate at a public hearing, Pigeon Village Council last week turned thumbs down on a rezoning request that would have allowed Pigeon Manufacturing Co. to expand its die storage west of its plant.

Robert Spence, who owns a 10-acre plot on the northeast corner of John and Hartley Streets, had sought to have the parcel rezoned from residential to industrial, to sell the land to PMC. The company wanted to expand its die storage area to receive more work from General Motors. PMC recently hired nine new workers and had plans to hire about 40 more if the sale went through, Plant Manager Tom Smith said.

But 38 neighbors of the plant were adamant in their opposition to the plan, saying they believed the area would become an eyesore and lower their property values. They were also skeptical of Smith's promises to fence the area and build eight-foot earth berms to hide the stored dies.

Pigeon Village Clerk Janet Heckman said Council and the Planning Commission are looking into other possiblities for PMC's storage problems, including storing dies on the land between PMC and Huron Casting, Inc.

"The Council is trying to work with the both of them and trying to find a happy medium," Heckman said.

Owendale bids opened

Owendale Village Council members opened five bids Wednesday for the proposed replacement of the 81-year-old water tower plus several water main upgrades.

$35 million in Tuscola flood damages reported

By MARY DRIER

Although the sun has been shining the last few days, heavy rains earlier this month have taken a heavy toll on agriculture and property.

Tuscola County officials are busy tallying up an estimated $35 million in flood damages to homes, roads and crops caused by recent storms.

On Friday, U.S. Congressman James Barcia (D-Bay City) and other lawmakers made an aerial tour of the area.

Hardest-hit areas are Tuscola and Gratiot Counties, with damage also in Huron, Bay and Midland Counties.

Heaviest damage in Tuscola County was in the Mayville, Caro, Millington, and Vassar Areas.

Crop damage is figured at $10 million, but is expected to go higher, and a dollar figure on drain damage hasn't been finalized.

"We have asked the Governor for a declaration to declare a disaster area here," said Tuscola Emergency Services Director James Jashinske.

State officials met with local units of government last Wednesday and toured the county to assess damage damage — a step necessary before Gov. John Engler would approve the designation, which provides state funds for repairs and low-interest rebuilding loans.

Heaviest damage is in the Mayville, Caro, Millington and Vassar Areas.

"A ball-park figure is that we have about $395,000 worth of damage to roadways of some type at 150 sites," said Tuscola Road Commission Secretary Jim Miklovic.

He hopes to have most repairs done in the next few weeks, but larger projects will take longer. Also, speedy service will depend on now soon and if state and federal money arrives to fund repairs.

Tuscola Equalization Director Ed Karr is tallying minor and major home damage. He has counted 103 homes in the Cat Lake Area near Mayville, 122 homes at Shay Lake near Kingston and about 400 in the Caro Area have been found so far — and the number is expected to increase.

Last Friday, the Cass River at Vassar measured 15.84 feet and as of Wednesday had dropped to about nine foot.

"I've had people call say they have had over $8,000 in damage to their place. It's tough to say what that will be. Ed (Karr) is working on that now," said Jashinske.

"I'm not sure on the amount for the drains. I suspect that figure will be a pretty high one too, but I don't have those figures yet."

Karr wasn't prepared to give a dollar amount on the homes damage.

Tuscola residents who homes sustained major or minor damage should contact Karr at 673-5999 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., if they haven't already reported or been surveyed for damage.

Give blood Aug. 4 in Caseville

You can make a difference by donating blood during the American Red Cross Blood Drive in Caseville on Thursday, Aug. 4.

The drive is at the Caseville Eagles Club from 2 to 6:45 p.m.

You can make the difference to an accident victim, ill person and surgical patient by taking about an hour out of your busy schedule to donate blood, organizers say.

Due to component therapy, one unit of blood can be separated into parts which can be used to treat four patients.

Giving blood is a completely safe and relatively painless procedure, they add.

The entire process takes about an hour; actual donation is less than 10 minutes. Healthy persons ages 17 and older are eligible to donate blood every 56 days.

steak dinner for seven, a summer beach party for 10, and dinner at the Heritage House in Chesaning and a night's stay at the Bonnie Mill Inn.

One of the more unusual dinner offerings is a progressive dinner for 24. Smeader says diners will be picked up by bus in a central location, then bussed to area homes for the different dinner courses.

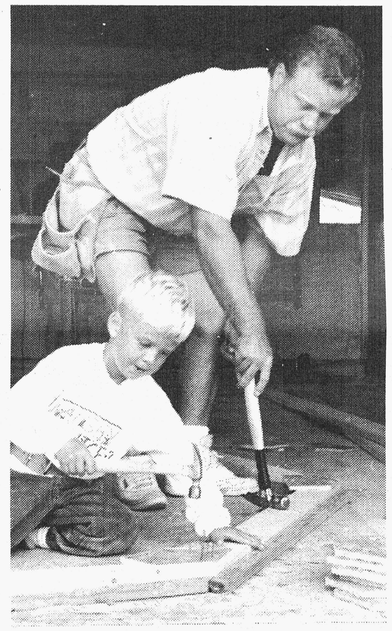
Pioneer Seed has donated hot air balloon rides, where the successfull bidder and friends will be treated to a bird's-eye view of Huron County aboard a hot air balloon.

And of course, to start off the auction in the morning, the traditional peanut butter pie will be offered.

Katie Albrecht started that tradition years ago, and while it's not certain that she'll bake the pie this year, Smeader guarantees "there will be peanut butter pie."

The 16th Annual Bluewater Thumb Youth for Christ Auction gets underway Saturday at the Pigeon Recreation Park, with the bake sale starting at 8:30 a.m. and the auction set for 9:30 a.m.

Barbequed sausages and hamburgers, plus fresh fruit pies will be available for hungry bidders. R Dale Wertz of Great Lakes Auction Co., and Virg and Herb Albrecht of Albrecht Auction Service will serve as auctioneers.



ABOVE, YFC volunteers, mostly from Pigeon River Mennonite Church, were busy this past Saturday constructing one of the Auction's main attractions, the utility barn.

Organizer Dwight Gascho, shown above right on ladder, says its "probably the 24th or so barn we've built" for the Auction, and he again headed the construction crew working at his house.

DESK-CLEARING: ■ Pigeon's own Virginia Leipprandt was the subject of a huge page one photo in Saturday's Bay City Times, recognizing her recent election as president of the Michigan Association of School Boards. (See Newsweekly of June 28, page 6 for the whole story.) Congratulations!

■ Saturday's Bay City Times also carried the sad story that Bay City's Made Rite Potato Chip Company has been sold, as another small guy gets squeezed out by the big guys. You'll still be able to buy Made Rite chips, but they'll be made in some other state... and 55 production people are on the streets. Plus, local potato farmers are wondering if they'll be able to sell their whole crop. What a world...

■ We didn't mention the recent closure of the Ypsilanti Press, a daily newspaper that closed earlier this month. There just wasn't enough of an ad base in Ypsi to keep that 100-plus year-old paper going. Another community voice gone...

■ Finally, some good news: "Endless Summer" performed as part of this year's Pigeon Band Shell entertainment Thursday night — and these guys (and girls) are truly outstanding! Three instruments and five voices spelled GREAT music!

Howard. "We should know their findings by the end of the week. Then we will meet with representatives of Farmers' Home Administration and make a determination whose bid we will accept."

Howard said believes the Council may call a special village meeting before the next regular meeting slated for Tuesday, Aug. 9, to award the contract as soon as possible. Replacement of the tower was expected to begin two years ago, but has undergone several delays as the project itself was revised, to erect a standpipe instead of a water tower.

"We have an elevated water tower now and we were going to go with the same type of design, but when we found about the benefits of a a standpipe we changed," said Village President Walter Howard, Jr. "A standpipe is like a glass-lined silo. There is about 75% less maintenance with them." That saves about $25,000 in maintenance costs over several years.

Total cost of the project is about $595,000 which includes replacing some six-inch waterlines, 20 new fire hydrants and new shut-offs where needed, for the 108 Owendale water customers. — By MARY DRIER

Laker leaders get 3% hikes

Raises were handed out at last week's Laker Board of Education meeting, to six administrators. Four principals, the buildings and grounds supervisor and two counselors received three-percent pay raises. Depending on their salary, they will receive between $900 and $1,800 extra annually.

Trustee Clare Swartzendruber, who was re-elected last month, was sworn in at the reorganizational meeting.

Yvonne Bushey was again elected as the board President, while Burt Keefer will be Vice President, Dr. Richard Lockard will remain as Treasurer and Jane Christner will again serve as Secretary. Swartzendruber was also selected to represent the board at the Huron Intermediate School District.

In other business, the Laker Board:

■ Authorized Supt. Robert Drury to seek permission from the Dept. of Treasury to borrow up to $499,000 in anticipation of receiving state aid. The money will be used for general operations.

■ Set monthly meetings for the coming year for the second Monday of the month at 7:30 p.m. in the board room in the secondary complex, with three meetings in the winter held at each elementary center. — By AMY HEIDEN

Cass City senior project breaks ground

Local developers soon will break ground for Homestead at Northwood Lake, a full-service senior community in Cass City.

Pigeon Area developers S&H Enterprises, The Financial Source, Inc., Edward Foster and Richard Hensel head up the community. Birkey Design Group, Inc. of Denver, CO is designing the living space, Hensel Associates of Goshen, IN will coordinate construction and The FOURMIDABLE Group of Farmington Hills will manage and market the community.

Both the Birkey Design Group, Inc. and Hensel Associates also are involved in Pigeon's senior community, Country Bay Village.

In addition to duplexes ranging from 1,200 to 1,500 sq. feet, a variety of apartments will be offered, with a number of services available, according to Harold Deering, president of S&H Enterprises. Residents will have access to on-site amenities such as a beauty salon, health club and social activities.

Phase one, consisting of 46 units of one and two bedroom apartments and duplexes will begin construction Aug. 1, to be completed by Spring, 1995.

Elkton extends sewer area

Elkton Village Council last week gave its approval for the Elkton Missionary Church to tap into the village's sewer lines. But that approval is contingent on church officials obtaining permission from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for the hookup.

The Missionary Church currently has its own water supply and its water usage would be metered, with sewage fees based on water usage, according to Mayor Pro-tem James Jaworski. The church would also be responsible for all costs of tapping into the sewer system on the north end of the village.

Council also approved a request from Active Industries, Inc. to establish an Industrial Development District. Establishing the district will give the company the option of asking for tax

As we see it

How honest ARE we?

This little story may seem incomplete, but we heard it on the car radio, and since the introduction wasn't completely heard, we never did find out who said it. The story came over WJR, Detroit 760, about 12:20 p.m. last Thursday. It concerned that question "how total is total honesty?"

The speaker described his wife's taxi ride from an airport to the city, and this is what he was telling: The taxi ride cost $30, and after reaching the destination, the driver asked his fare, "How much do you want me to put on this receipt?"

"Why, $30, of course, that's what it was," came the answer.

The taxi driver stared at the woman passenger, saying something like this, "I've driven taxis for x-number of years, and you are the first, the only, passenger I have ever had who asked for the actual amount to be put on the receipt," (presumably for tax records or expense account reimbursement). The driver couldn't believe it!

So, is it true that honesty among us Americans is that rare? That it took a taxi driver many years to find a totally-honest passenger?

Evidently, Americans are ready to beat their government, or their company, or their employer or anyone else, out of their money, probably figuring that any company, or any government that large, can deserve to lose a handful of bucks anytime, everytime.

Have we actually sagged that far into the sea of greed and dishonesty that people expect it in any, even all, of their dealings?

What does that say for added costs to the price of any product or service we purchase? Is "kickback," or "overcharge" such a common occurrence that it's expected, that neither side even bats an eye at the happening?

While traveling from Nigeria about 20 years ago, I sat next to an American road builder who was leaving that African nation in disgust.

"I can't put up with the 'dash' anymore," he said grimly. (That's what they call it over there, 'dash').

The roadbuilder continued his tale to me: "I got 'dashed' every day, many times, in each and every transaction." Then he told of how, in the 200-mile jeep trip from a road building camp to Lagos, no fewer than 9 huge trees had been cut down at intervals ahead of him, blocking his route.

Unless he paid 'dash' to work crews along the way to saw up the fallen tree that obstructed his way, he couldn't pass. At one point, with a chain saw he carried in his jeep, he decided to cut up the offending fallen tree himself.

No sooner had he begun, when rocks began to fly in his direction, then a rifle slug slammed into the tree next to him, and he decided he'd rather pay another round of 'dash' than to let his bones rot in the Nigerian forest.

"They weren't playing softball," he emphasized. "They were playing hardball. I knew I couldn't change the system, so I decided to get out."

Perhaps the Americans haven't quite reached the point of hustling 'dash' money with a rifle, but how far is that from filling out a false tax return or grabbing a few more bucks from the expense account with a ball point pen?

Think about it.

Can someone help support this Indian student?

By Fred Gnagey
Sebewaing

Some people know of my interest in India and the Gospel work there. Now an urgent need has come and I don't know where to turn, so I'm writing this letter in hopes someone or several people would help fill this need.

The need is for $50 per month for two years of x-ray study in college for a fine young Christian man, 19 years old. He is the son of the Evangelist whom we support the best we can—but there is not enough for college.

Is anyone interested?

Please contact me and I will show you how you can send the money yourself, so you know where it's going. Or we can make whatever arrangement you wish.

One more thing: To our anonymous donor out there—a great big hug of appreciation for the help you send each month. Souls are being saved in the village of Pondicheery in the State of Tamil Nadu, where four gangsters accepted Christ and reports of more conversions are coming in.

It's a seven-hour drive from L. Joseph's home and he wants very much to put other evangelists there. This would only cost $30 per month for one evangelist to serve full time.

Anyone interested to support an Evangelist?

Please call or write me at 684 E. Main, Sebewaing.

Looking for Interlochen help

By Anne Eichler
Laker Choir Director

This is an open letter to the community:

I need your help, interest, and a few minutes of your time. To display my respect for your time, I shall get right to the point.

Laker Junior High School has again had an SATB (soprano, alto, tenor, bass) quartet earn a place in Michigan's State Honors Choir. As a result of their excellent musicianship, they have all been invited to attend Interlochen Music Camp for two weeks in August.

This is a special honor because they don't even need to audition like other Interlochen campers. Cost for the camp is $650.

Some of the quartet members need financial aid in order to attend Interlochen, and I am pleading with you to help provide this financial aid.

Please give this matter your most serious consideration. Interlochen Arts Academy is an incredible experience that will challenge and enrich these students' lives, musically and personally.

Thank you, sincerely.

Pigeon needs those jobs!

By Richard Kundinger,

TO THE RESIDENTS OF PIGEON WHO ARE FOR PROGRESS:

The employes of Pigeon Manufacturing would like to thank the Village Council member who voted for progress on Monday, July 11. Neal Eichler was the only member that had the foresight to improve the economic growth of our community.

Pigeon Manufacturing had asked the council to rezone a parcel of land from residential to industrial. This rezoning would have enabled the company to secure over $7 million worth of work from General Motors. It would have allowed a third shift, about 25 to 30 new jobs, which would have increased the payroll substantially.

Because of the action of the majority of council members, Pigeon Manufacturing had to give up the contract. This means a loss of jobs and revenue. Can Pigeon, a struggling community, afford this?

The village council's job is to make decisions that will benefit the town and the people that work and live there in a positive way. Did the majority of our town leaders do their job on July 11? The employes of Pigeon Manufacturing are wondering. We think not!

We've got LOTS more Phone Forums than space available, but here's a sample of what you've told us this week. Please keep in mind that political comments are welcome, but we're watching them with SPECIAL interest since people complaining about incumbents are usually candidates/or/representatives of candidates who want that job themselves!

M.K. of Pigeon: Don't ever fire Kate Pickering, because I've only made it to page 5 of The Newsweekly and, once again, she's brought tears to my eyes. I love her writing. So, be sure to keep her on your staff. Thank you.

M. of Sebewaing: I'd like to know, as a taxpayer and resident of Sebewaing Township, what is going on with our ambulance personnel? If there are eight people who have asked for a temporary leave of absence, there is obviously a story that is not being told. If it was one or two people, I'd guess it was a conflict of interest with one. But this seems greater than that.

• • • • • •

J. of District 1: Granted that the incumbent is a good neighbor, but District 1 needs effective representation from somebody who will attend township and village meetings, and then work with local boards and councils. Visiting in Bad Axe doesn't do it. We need our Commissioner to meet with us, and know what we want and need.
(Hmmm — I'll bet you've got a recommended replacement??)

• • • • • •

From E. of USA School District: Gov. Engler and the State of Michigan have lowered our taxes like they promised. Don't let the USA School Board wipe that away by beating us into a higher tax so they can brag (you voted it yourself, we didn't do it." With the millions we owe for building the new school, let them cut some fat out of the budget.

• • • • • •

Sportsmen in Sebewaing: This is a response to Sebewaing Little League Board: The pigtail and junior league umpires were not trained. They were asked who taught them umpiring and their response was "no one." The coaches don't respond because the umpire has the say and everyone wants to be a good sport! A good umpire and coach will have their total attention on the game, and not what the fans are saying.

• • • • • •

D.F. in Sebewaing: I see the trash company changed our pick-up day, and told us about it on a postcard. That's fine, but then they put a 29¢ stamp on the postcard, when it could go for 19¢. Why don't they save that money, and lower our rates, instead of wasting it!

• • • • • •

From Sebewaing Chamber of Commerce: In answer to several Phone Forums re: the Sugar Festival Parade judging, we would like the public to know that there's always the possibility the same parade entry might win year after year, because there are different parade judges each year. They have no way of knowing which entries were winners last year, so each entry is judged fresh each year.

Also, each entrant chooses the category it feels is the most appropriate. If you want specific guidelines that the judges use for judging entries, contact Parade Chairman Steve Langford.

Re: Bingo and Ball Games: The Festival Commission chose Country Line Dancing because of its popularity, and there was no other space in the covered pavilion or park for these other events this year. Sometimes it's good to skip a year to revitalize interest, too, and we're looking at the possibility of Bingo next year, getting a larger tent and perhaps closing off a street.

Anon. wife from (area): I assume most people have their minds made up about O.J. Simpson's guilt or innocence. The defense has shown me nothing that might make me believe he didn't murder Nicole. So based on what I've heard so far, I think he did it. But whether he did it or not, I think he's scum for beating his wife. A fitting punishment for men who hit their wives would be public caning. Men who batter their wives or girlfriends aren't fit to live, the cowardly bullies.

Yarns From The Thumb

by Walt Rummel

■ We've passed mid-July and we're heading full speed for August. It's TUESDAY, JULY 19, and we've seen more than our share of heat, rain and mugginess. Today is Day No. 200, leaving exactly 165 in the rest of 1994. On this day in 1865, Charles Horace Mayo was born in Rochester, MN, one of the "Medical Mayo Family," founders of Mayo Clinic and Mayo Foundation. He died May 26, 1939... Other birthdays, former football star/actor Roosevelt "Rosey" Grier is 62 ...

■ WEDNESDAY, JULY 20, starts the four-day Ann Arbor Summer Art and Street Fair, a favorite for thousands of Michiganders... On this day, 50 years ago, several German generals attempted to kill Adolf Hitler when a bomb in a briefcase was set off in Rastenberg. The bomb was left just six feet from Hitler, but was moved — and killed four, but not Hitler. A large number of officers, including Field Marshall Erwin Rommel and Count Claus Stauffenberg, were execu-ted... Twenty-five years ago today, in 1969, Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin, Jr. landed their lunar module on the Moon, the first humans ever to touch that celestial body... Tiger/Red Wings owner Mike Ilitch is 65 and actress Diana Rigg is 56 ...

■ Celebrating Independence from The Netherlands, Belgium crowned its first King, Leopold I, on JULY 21, 1831 ... About 5,000 are expected in Luverne, MN, tonight to eat 12,000 hot dogs and gulp down barrelsful of orange drink at the annual Hot Dog Night—all free of charge... American short story writer and novelist Ernest Hemingway, would be 95 today... Other birthdays, actor Don Knotts 70, U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno 56 and violinist Isaac Stern 74 ...

■ About 20 of us were grade school boys 60 years ago this week in A.E. Scheiwe's camp near Port Crescent, when we saw a newspaper and read that Public Enemy No.1 John Dillinger had been shot to death by the FBI outside Chicago's Biograph Theater... There'll be a Full Moon tonight ... Precisely 618 years ago today, the Pied Piper of Hamelin piped all the children out of the town and into a hole in the mountains, never to be seen again. He had rid Hamelin of its rats, but city fathers refused to give him the promised payment, and hence, the mystery. Some historians think the event occurred in 1284 and that the young people left willingly to depart the homeland for colonizing in other parts of Europe ... Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas is 71 today and Mother-of-the-Kennedy-Clan Rose Kennedy is 104...

■ The Perseid Meteor Shower begins tonight, SATURDAY, JULY 23, and will last about a month. The peak of the shower will come around Aug. 12-13. On clear nights from 20 to 50 may be seen in an hour... actress Gloria DeHaven is 69...

■ On JULY 24, 1701, Antoine Cadillac landed on the site of Detroit, in the service of Louis XIV of France. Fort Pontchartrain du Detroit was the first settlement... Amelia Earhart, American aviatrix, who was lost on a flight in the Pacific on July 3, 1937, was born JULY 24, 1898 ... About 7,500 bicyclists from all over the U.S. are expected to take part in a weeklong pedaling trip across Iowa. To enter for 1995, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to RAGBRAI, Box 622, Des Moines, IA, 50303... comedienne Ruth Buzzi is 58 today...

■ Allied forces had landed more than a million troops and 60,000 tons of supplies within a few days after the attack on Normandy Beachhead, but they were confined to a small area for weeks. After sustained carpet-bombing, gaps were blown into German lines, and by JULY 25, 1944, Allies penetrated, outflanked and bypassed Nazi units. That date seemed to be a turning point as Allies advanced over the French countryside ... On JULY 25, 1909, French Flier Louis Bleriot took off from Calais and landed in a meadow near Dover, England, concluding the first international overseas flight. He did it in a 28-hp monoplane ... Greetings to JPR and DGRC ... Other birthdays today, Louise Joy Brown, 16, the world's first known test tube baby, born in Oldham, England...

■ We won't see it with the naked eye, but astronomers around the world are waiting for the appearance of Shoemaker-Levy 9, according to UM Astronomer Richard Teske. The "pieces" which make up Shoemaker are described as about 20 fragments of a shattered comet that will plunge, one after another, into the colorfully-banded clouds of Jupiter, starting July 16. Those pieces of comets are lined up, Teske says, "like cars on a highway, ready to make their death plunge into Jupiter's atmosphere."

The observations by astronomers will give valuable new knowledge about Jupiter, which is the largest plant in the solar system. As they pass into the Jupiter orbit, the comet fragments will become brilliantly hot, releasing as much energy as 100,000 thermonuclear hydrogen bombs.

If one of those comet chunks were to hit central Michigan, it would excavate a crater 25 miles in diameter, devastating the Lower Peninsula and probably destroying all life between Lakes Michigan and Huron. Not to worry, he adds, as the chunks would disintegrate in Earth's upper atmosphere. It would generate a powerful burst of air, but would not dig a crater ...

■ The bulging envelope in the mail box looked impressive. "Open Immediately," it screamed, adding "For Addressee Only!" But, under Postal Notice it stated, "No need to forward..."

Recollections Of By-Gone Days

by George Keim

DEAR EDITOR:

I guess I'm getting back at myself for what I bragged about a while ago. I used to say I'm the only one of 10 children who can get around on my own power.

Well, I guess I'm over that now. I can still get around with a walker or two canes, but it doesn't go very well or very fast.

I've got one brother yet down in Indiana in a nursing home. He's 91 years old and I know I wouldn't be able to see him very often anymore.

So last Friday, my daughter (who is here from the Netherlands) put me in the car and we took off for Indiana.

We got there in good time and stopped at my nephew Kenneth Kauffman's place for awhile. We stopped for supper at a restaurant.

After a good visit, we went to my niece's place one night and had breakfast, then went to see my brother Alvin.

He knew I was coming and we were very glad to see each other. He isn't able to get around real good, but he and his wife are both there and it's a real nice place to be.

We sure had a good visit, talking about old times and our father, the late J.B. Keim. We had dinner together. Both of us got sleepy, but we still had a very good visit.

He had attended the Snell School while he was here, and also the Decker School. Of course, he asked about all his pals... and there are very few left anymore.

Then on Sunday forenoon, we talked again, this time about the old merchants in Pigeon, like old G.V. Black and Bill Schriber and old Dr. Wurm the veterinarian and other people who've been gone a long time. We had a long talk about history, too.

My brother had left here in 1920 — so we had a lot of catching up to do.

We started home before dark and when we got to Birch Run, they told us not to go home through Frankenmuth, so we came home through Bay City.

It was a nice trip, but the sad part is we are getting old and maybe won't see each other again on this earth.

You can read that the old men shall dream dreams and the young shall see visions.

Well, we old men dream about what we had done and the young have visions of what they will do.

Sincerely yours,
GEORGE KEIM

•TALK ABOUT JOB PRESSURE: Did you hear about that poor Columbian World Cup soccer player who was shot and killed for making what amounted to no more than a simple "mistake on the job?" (Of course he was shot outside his hotel in none other than good old Detroit, where athletes are regularly whacked and attacked!)

Anyway, makes me appreciate the simple tongue lashings I get now again for errors I make in my work!

•MY LITTLE HELEN: Progress has been slow with my new filly. She is so head-strong and defiant! The other day I set her feed bucket in her manger, and with one swift movement she picked it up in her teeth and flung it across the stall. Made me think of my favorite scene from "The Miracle Worker."

Well, I'm no Ann Sullivan to be sure . . . but I refilled the bucket, plunked it in front of her, stood there and made her eat every bite like a civilized lady!

•O.J. - NOT JUST FOR BREAKFAST ANYMORE: Sometimes, I wish O.J. Simpson would have killed me . . . then I wouldn't have to look at his long, sad face everywhere I turn! My advice for people contemplating the slaughter of their loved ones... please just shoot or poison them, so that we don't have to admire at your decapitating prowess on T.V!

•I WOULD LIKE TO THANK: All the kind Newsweekly readers who took the time to tell me personally how much they enjoyed my recent father's day column. I've never enjoyed so many kudos! (Blush blush!)

•PIECE OF CAKE: It seems that the traditional summer-time desserts are ice cream and in-season fruit pies. Well! Where does a person have to go around here to get a decent chunk of sinfully evil devil's food chocolate cake? (Short of baking my own, I mean.)

•WEATHER OR NOT: It's hot. It's cold. Then it's hot again! It's dry. It's wet. Then it gets even wetter! Seems the only thing we can accurately predict this summer is that the sun will rise in the morning, then eventually set again in the evening. (And even then - wise men tell us - we should not count on that too much!)

•FAIR WEATHER: It'll be time for the Huron Community Fair again before you know it - Aug. 7 through the 13 to be exact, so that means time is running out for you to finish those 4-H projects and polish those FFA animals!

•AND LASTLY: It's nearly Farmers' Festival time as well, so keep your schedule open next week to enjoy all the fun and festivities the hard-working festival organizers have in store for you in beautiful downtown Pigeon! There's never a dull moment, and plenty of happy memories will be available for the making and taking!

Huehner raisen auf die farms

Recently haben wir Glass Eggs in Huehner Nests discussed, about was Sie accomplishen sollten. Etliche longtime Freunde haben replied, und Emma Schmischke hat explained das Hens haben oft dieselbe Nests ge-used fuer egg-laying, und so haben Farmwives die Glas Eier in empty Nests ge-placed zum die Hens into mehrere Nests zu coaxen.

In Spring brauchten Farmers und Farmwives broody Hens fuer Eier setzen und hatchen, so wenn Sie solch eine Hen fanden in ein Nest, so wollten Farmwives doch die fresh Eggs aber Sie wollten die Hens nicht disturben. So, haben die Farmwives die frische Eggs genommen aber haben Glas Eier replaced, so das die Hens nicht aus Ihr broody-Mood gingen. Das hoert sich pretty tricky an, aber Farmers muessen immer ein Step ahead of alle Andere sein, und das ist Ihr Idea about Glas Eier.

Hannah Tanton Ist auch eine ex-Farmgirl, und Sie hat Ihr Ideas geben about Glas Eier, die wir auf ein andersmal discussen werden.

Beide Ladies sind well-acquainted mit fruehe Jahre auf die Farm, und wir haben interresante Discussions about Eier Crates, und Huehner drinking Fountains und Feeders, und leg Bands, und Eier Testers und even Incubators. Das ist Information das alle Farmers wuessten, aber Heute wird es neue News sein fuer unsere Readers.

Das war da Farmers self-sufficient waren, und Sie haetten comfortably auf die Farm bleiben koennen, Week after Week. Aber dann haetten Sie sehr wenig social Life, und das waer gar kein Fun gewesen.

Emma kamm von eine Familie mit 5 Brueder und 5 Schwestern, und Sie hat viele gute Memories von Ihr Kindheit.

Several Wochen zurueck hat Sie gelesen about den Starling der unser Haus auf-ge-messed hat da er inside ge-trapped war.

Continues at bottom of next column, please

Dann verzaehlte Emma about ein Starling der in Ihr Haus kamm durch ein Fireplace. So, naturally, war er ganz mit Soot ge-covered, und naturally, jedesmal da der Starling gegen eine Wand, oder Ceiling, oder Curtain, oder Furniture geflogen ist, hat er schmutzige, greasy soot Stains hinterlassen.

Das war eine Mess, sagte Emma, und das glauben wir!

Die Moral in die Geschichte ist das even though Zeiten changen durch die Jahre, doch hoffentlich gibt es immer Etliche die die alte Zeiten remembern werden.

For years I have been a reader of The Sebewaing Blade. One of the main reasons I subscribed to The Blade was because I enjoyed so much reading the Hanswurst column, to which I could relate so well (My mother saying, "Hast Du Den Kitchen floor aufgesweept?").

Lately I have not seen the column and just want you to know that I really miss it. Please do not tell me that you have discontinued it.

C-ville controls water plant; new member needed

Caseville's water plant won't be under the control of a private company after all.

The Village Council, by a 4-1 vote, last week killed the idea of having McNamee Operation Service operate the water plant. Caseville Village Manager Gary Kuckel had proposed letting McNamee operate the plant, in order to save money on operating costs.

But numerous residents spoke out against the plan, and some Council members mentioned that other cities and villages who privatized their water plants had not had good results. The plant would not have been sold, but simply operated by a private firm.

Instead, Kuckel said the village plans to hire another person to be trained and licensed to operate the plant.

Also by a 4-1 vote, Council defeated a proposal to create a special assessment district for sidewalk construction on the east side of State Streeet, from West Street to the village limits. The negative vote came after an earlier public hearing, where some residents spoke out against the plan. Property owners in the special district would have paid half the cost of building the sidewalks if it had been approved, according to Village Treasurer Shelley Stirrett.

Council accepted the resignation of Councilman Ray Jordan, who joined the board about a year ago to fill a vacancy created by the death of Bob Schoenberg. Jordan also served on the Downtown Development Authority.

Stirrett said Council is seeking applicants who want to serve out Jordan's unexpired term. Those applications are available at the Village/Township offices on Main Street and must be returned by Aug. 2 at 4 p.m.

Saginaw Bay offers some of the best walleye and perch fishing in the world... and 125 more boaters will soon have easier access to the bay's bounty thanks to a new harbor in Sebewaing.

Sebewaing Harbor Commission received word Wednesday the last of the permits for the harbor at the mouth of the Sebewaing River have been approved.

Next step is to advertise until January for an owner/operator of the harbor and to make that selection in mid-January.

Then, a proposal evaluation period runs until Jan. 19 on the construction portion of the project. From Jan. 19-25, Sebewaing Village Council will review the plan and take action.

In February, the state Department of Natural Resources will approve the developer and then the contracts can be let in March, as final engineering plans are done.

Preliminary plans call for full-service harbor with a place to fuel boats, plus restrooms and showers and a harbor-master's office, said William Kauffold, chairman of the Sebewaing Harbor Commission.

If all goes according to schedule, the harbor will be partially done by late next summer, with completion in the spring of 1996.

When the harbor is completed, it will offer easy access to some of the best walleye fishing anywhere, at a very opportune time.

Last month the DNR completed its largest-ever walleye release with a total of 1.27 million fingerlings planted in Saginaw Bay.

In about three years, the fingerlings will be 15-inch walleye — and ready for some fine fishing action and (hopefully) tasty eating.

When finished, boaters looking for dockage will no longer have to drive through town looking for a place to park their boats.

Since the original project efforts began seven years ago, the harbor has been expanded to a 125-slip marina from 71 slips at first. Projected cost of the harbor is $1.75 million with most of the money coming from DNR grants.

"It all takes time to get the permits and we wrote for grants for most of the funding for the project," said Kauffold.

"We had to purchase some land and we had to do the design work and get all of the permits cleared.

"It's all starting to come together. It's been a long haul."

The harbor will compliment Sebewaing's efforts to make itself a mecca for sports enthusiasts and tourists.

Sebewaing Village Council will hold an 8 p.m. public hearing Monday, Aug. 15, regarding the proposed closing of a portion of Davis Street to allow for the construction of the harbor.

A-F considers new building

Voters in the Akron-Fairgrove School District may go to the polls this fall, to decide on a bond proposal that would house all students at one central site.

School officials are scheduled to attend a Preliminary Qualification Conference in Lansing today (Tuesday).

Area residents formed a Citizens Bond Committee in March to study district needs and make a recommendation to address the ravages old age has reeked on school facilities.

The committee recommended the district hold a bond election to fund construction of a new elementary facility at the same site as the junior/senior high school and to do renovations to the junior/senior high school.

The Fairgrove Elementary building is about 50 years. The Akron Middle School building is about 57 years old and the High School is over 30 years old.

Tentative plans call for a bond election in late September requesting a $7.8 million bond proposal for 25 years.

"The district has a terrible need to do a preventative maintenance program, rehabilitate its facilities and address space needs," says Supt. Kenneth Tahfs. "We need to upgrade the High School, especially our heating. It is an all electric school and it costing us between $8,000 to $9,000 a month in the winter. Also, we have to meet the American with Disabilities Act in making our schools barrier-free."

The Elementary School has about 150 students, the High School about 300 and the Middle School 190. Although there are only 750 students in the district, having adequate space and facilities is an issue.

At the Fairgrove school, students have to eat at their desks because there isn't a cafeteria. The facility doesn't have a library, a place to hold assemblies or physical education classes. In addition, high school students are bussed to the Akron building for physical education classes.

A friend remembered

No matter how often it happens, it still is a shock when someone we know and love dies very suddenly. It happened again recently as a neighbor was found dead at her cottage one morning.

She was a lady I've known all my life, although we only became neighbors a few years ago. She lived in the rural area of my home town and many times stayed at our house if something special was going on at school. When our parents went away for a few days, she was often our sitter.

One of her favorite "Bery kids" stories involved my younger brother getting Dad's deer rifle from the locked gun cabinet and chasing a neighbor boy up a tree. The gun wasn't loaded, but it was a scary time. She talked him through that situation and saved what could have been a Grant Street shootout.

I'm sure she used that diplomacy in handling many classroom situations throughout her long and dedicated teaching career. A comment overheard at her funeral—"parents always wanted their kids in her classroom."

Shortly before her death, she revelled in telling me of her recent birthday. A son arranged for a limo to pick up her and three friends. They rode in style to the Detroit area and spent the day shopping at rummage sales. She laughed and laughed as she recounted the treasures they purchased. She said they should have had a stretch job as they had that baby jammed full. It was the best birthday she'd had in a long time.

And as it turned out, it was her last. Another reminder, to live and enjoy every day. Life is too short to be miserable if misery can be avoided.

By MAVIS PECHETTE

Coffee, rolls, and a shot-gun start began the day when women golfers of Scenic Golf and Country Club entertained the ladies of Verona Hills Golf Club. The morning was followed by a lovely luncheon.

Scenic President Virginia Pacific welcomed the guests and Verona Hills President Ruth Knoll responded and invited them to be guests at Verona Hills next summer.

Golf Committee Chairman Barbara Binder awarded prizes. Low gross winners by flights from Verona Hills were Becky Lyons, Janella Long, Pat Wisner, and Mary Jane Zurek.

Scenic winners were Jeanette Rowe, Dorothy Beachy, Pat Schweniger and Bea Anklam. Knoll had low net for the visitors. Low net for the Scenic golfers was Peg Leipprandt.

The best putters were Rita Otto of Verona Hills with 30 and Lois Anderson with 27.

Championship and first flight golfers competed on #7 hole for closest to the pin. Mavis Pechette of Scenic won this with a shot that was 8 inches from the cup.

Second and third flighters had a contest at #11 hole and Wisner had the closest shot there.

Chip-ins were recorded by Pacific, Lucy Repke, Lois Drury, Harriet Collins and Millie Schuette, all of Scenic.

Pechette did make that 8 inch putt for a birdie and Lyons had two birdies.

Door prizes went to Jodi Joseph of VHGC and Flo Robinson of Scenic. Raffle prizes were won by Marge Underhill, Merrie Watchowski, and Koz Hoeh of the host club.

Betty Taormina and Bernie Dekker won pinochle prizes. At the bridge tables, Pacific and Pechette were the winners.

My view from here:

Recovering from a fire

By TONI WATTERWORTH

About 10 years ago, we lost our home and most of our material possessions to a fire. It was devastating, to say the least.

There is no way to describe the feelings of the loss and emptiness that followed, although we were fortunate to have our lives and health.

We slowly rebuilt our lives. Many people donated clothes, household goods, and money, which we sorted through.

Some clothes fit and others were the wrong size, outdated or only good for rags.

Many things needed washing, dry-cleaning, or sewing - all three difficult to deal with, since we no longer had a washer, dryer or sewing necessities — and our money had to be budgeted for all our needs.

We started accumulating things to furnish another dwelling. Some things needed cleaning or fixing, while others weren't usable.

After filing an insurance claim, we had to wait for the payment on it. It was depressing to list all the possessions that were destroyed, knowing how long it had taken to accumulate them and that many things were irreplaceable.

It's also impossible to remember everything you owned, since many things coming to mind when you go to use them — or see something similar to one you once had.

After staying at my Mother's and Step-father's house for two-weeks, we bought a small mobile home and moved in.

It was furnished in All-American hodge-podge, but it was great to get back to semblance of normal living.

It was difficult to find any place to live that didn't have a flight of steps or was not too expensive. We didn't want to sign a lease since we planned on moving back to our former location when it was replaced.

About seven months later, we sold our mobile home, moving back to our former location. It was another home that I decorated and we lived in for about a year.

Then, FHA notified us we had been accepted on their program to buy a house. We were ecstatic!

We've had our home for about eight years. It's as accessible as we can afford to make it on a fixed income, plus making improvements when it's possible.

My advice to anyone who has their own home is to have replacement insurance and videos of their home and possessions.

It's a girl!

Born to Craig and Lori Yanke of Sebewaing, a daughter, Brandie Nicole on Wednesday, July 6, 1994 at Bay Medical Center, Bay City.

She weighed 7 lbs., 14 oz. and measured 19 inches long She was welcomed home by her brother Tyler.

Paternal grandmother is Jane Yanke and maternal grandparents are Karen and Bill Thede, all of Sebewaing.

Great grandparents are Florence Thede of Sebewaing and Don and Marian Strieter of Unionville.

Police said about 2,000 pounds was released in the incident, causing some crop damage in the immediate area.

Special Viewpoint:

The world is beating a path to this new school!

By State Senator JACK WELBORN

Although the past is often referred to as the "good old days," some would look back at the last century as a time of deprivation.

After all, people in the 1800s existed without automobiles, television and indoor plumbing, for example. For most of the century, they didn't even have electricity or telephones.

However, the generation which would grow up and invent the conveniences that we now take for granted was rich in commodities that are often in short supply today: Faith, hope, ingenuity and opportunity.

The spirit of that era, when America was growing from backwoods infancy into the industrial and technological leader of the world, was conveyed by 19th century philosopher Ralph Waldo Emerson in a phrase that has become synonymous with the opportunities of free enterprise: "If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mousetrap than his neighbor, though he builds his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

I am reminded of those words when I see the response to what is being built by a one-room school district in rural Ionia County.

School District #3 of Berlin and Orange Townships is not located in the woods, but with one teacher and 21 students it is far removed from the 20th Century public education establishment.

Inspired by charter school legislation signed into law by Gov. John Engler last December, School District #3 (which I am proud to say is located in the Senate District I represent) is building what promises to be one of the most innovative, successful schools in the country.

This new school — called Noah Webster Academy — was the first school chartered under the new legislation, which was drafted to encourage innovation and increasing opportunities in public education.

The new academy will open Sept. 1 — but already the "world" is beating a path to its door.

When news of School District #3's pioneering charter school first broke, Noah Webster Academy was anticipating 200 to 300 students. A short time later is was reported that 435 children were enrolled, and enrollments were coming from all over the state.

I recently called the academy for the latest figures and learned that enrollment was up to 900 and still growing.

Noah Webster Academy is combining the best of early American values with the best of modern American technology.

"Patriotism will be encouraged; evolution will be taught as a theory, not a fact; and parents' values will be taken into account in the choice of literature to be studied," according to an article in the April 26 Detroit Free Press.

David Kallman, an attorney who represents the new charter school, is not afraid to say, "We'll be instilling virtue with a conservative approach."

Judging by the academy's rapidly-growing enrollment, there is a strong demand in Michigan for the old-fashioned values that guided our country during its period of greatest achievement.

Noah Webster Academy is a public school, so there is no tuition or admission fee. Out of the $5,500-per-student that the school will receive from the state, it will provide each student's family with computer equipment and textbooks.

With the computers, the students will access information and interact with their teachers. Student achievement in the basics, such as math, science and reading, will be measured by standarizing testing which meets requirements of the State School Aid Act.

The combining of old-fashioned values with modern technology may be the biggest reason for the popularity of Noah Webster, but there are many reasons to be excited about this bold new venture.

It is the perfect system for encouraging parental involvement, something all educators agree is vital in motivating students to do their best. The school will provide support and training to the parent volunteers who work directly with their children/students.

Noah Webster is open to students of all ethnic, social and religious backgrounds, including those with special education needs, from all over the state.

Transportation is no problem because the school comes to the students in their homes, via computer.

Curriculums for Grades K-12 will be developed, tailored for special needs and goals, and taught by the best available teachers in the state. The academy is offering above-average salaries to attract them.

It can afford to focus its resources on teachers and programs for students because it will have a streamlined administration and a minimal need for support staff.

A portion of each $5,500 student allotment will go into a post-secondary scholarship fund — and students can take their accumulated portions with them if at some point they decide to leave Noah Academy to attend a different school.

The Governor, by promoting and signing the charter school legislation, and Noah Webster Academy, through its innovative home school approach, are not only encouraging education, they are revitalizing it and expanding educational opportunities for everyone in the state.

It is no longer necessary to just curse the old system. A candle of opportunity has been lit, and the public is beating a path in its directions.

Minute Mystery

The case of the artist's accident

"My name is Tom Randall," says the voice on the phone to Inspector Gordo. "I'm a friend of Philip McLean's. There's been a horrible accident at his studio!"

Fifteen minutes later, Inspector Gordo is looking at the body on the floor in front of an easel, next to a huge puddle of bright red paint. Over McLean's right temple is a gruesome, bloody wound.

The world-famous sleuth Gordo notes the victim's immaculate dothing: powder blue sport coat, elegant maroon tie, snow-white shirt, light gray slacks, and tan shoes—even the soles are spotless.

An unfinished color illustration rests on the easel.

Tom Randall begins, "I hadn't seen Phil for several months, since just before he got married. I'll tell you about this now, since you're sure to find out about it. The girl he married used to be engaged to me. There was some bad feeling between Phil and me, but it all got smoothed over."

"Suppose you tell me how this happened," Inspector Gordo says.

"I had a sudden impulse this afternoon to pay Phil a surprise visit, to let him know I didn't bear any grudges. When I came into the studio, he was painting, his back to me. I guess he didn't hear me come in. Then when I spoke, I must have really startled him. He dropped that paint on the floor, and as he turned around quickly, he accidentally stepped into the paint, slipped, and hit his head on the corner of the easel!

"The blow, combined with the fact that he had a weak heart, must've done it. I called you as soon as I got over my shock. I only wonder how Betty will feel when she hears the story!"

"Story is right!" Inspector Gordo snaps. "I want you to tell me the truth!"

Why is Inspector Gordo doubtful of Randall's story?
(See answer elsewhere on this page)

Minute Mystery answer:

IPhilip McLean had stepped in and slipped in the red paint, as Randall claimed, some of the paint would have at least been on the soles of his shoes. But they were spotless. Also, it's very unlikely that an artist who was working with paint would have been dressed the way McLean was.

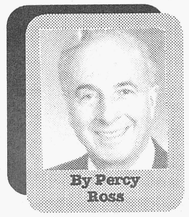
Quit taking the 'fair' out of welfare



ROSS MAN:

I'm all done asking you nice like. I've written you once a week for two months and you ignore me.

I'm going to bring a discrimination suit against you if you don't answer me this time.

Do you have some sort of hang up about helping me and my kids because I'm on welfare? Do you think I'm getting all that I should?

My old lady took off on me with some pimp so I can't look for work. We're living in a cockroach-infested dump and the kids whine all day long about when "momma is coming home." I can't take it anymore, so I sent them to live with my sister.

You're so high and mighty giving your money away, then why don't you help me? I need it worse than the people you've helped out. Heck, I've got five kids. Your thinking is screwed up and I'm the victim. — Mr. J. D., Chicago, IL

DEAR MR. D.:

Your kind fascinate me. Where is it written that just because I'm giving my money away that you're entitled to any portion of it?

Well, I've decided to one-up you.

I'm sending you $500 and just as soon as I receive the cancelled check back from the bank, I'm phoning the welfare department in your city.

Knowing that your benefits will probably be cut for a month, just how quickly will you be going on that spending spree?

$$$$$$

DEAR MR. ROSS:

A year ago my boyfriend loaned me $450 so I could get my car fixed. I absolutely had to get it fixed so I could get to and from work. Since I borrowed the money I've only been able to pay him back $100.

I wish with all my might I'd have been more determined to pay him back in full because now he's dumped me.

My friends say I should walk away leaving him holding the bag, but I'm not that kind of person. He's demanding payment in full and I've already received several abusive phone calls.

I'm a single parent with two children and I can't just cough up $350. If you'd lend me the money, I promise I'll be more timely in paying you back. — Ms. G. P., Columbus, GA

DEAR MS. P.:

I admire your sense of responsibility in wanting to pay back an ex-boyfriend who severed the relationship. It doesn't give him a license to badger you, but he did loan you the money in good faith and you need to repay the loan.

Consider it paid-in-full with my no-strings-attached forthcoming $350.

$$$$$$

DEAR MR. ROSS:

Just when it seems like my life was getting in order, after months of bad luck and tough breaks, the final blow has struck.

I'm starting a new job next week — a job I really want and have waited for. My unemployment benefits have run out and I'm late on my rent. My landlord is working with me, so I won't be thrown out into the street.

My '87 Dodge, however, is overdue for registration. I'd continue to chance it, but my new job is a sales position which requires I have a properly running vehicle, complete with current registration.

With late fees it runs $236. My friends and relatives run the other way when they see me coming, because I've borrowed money from them and they're afraid I'm going to ask for more.

Just this one last hurdle, Mr. Ross, and I'll be swimming downstream with the rest of the fish, once again. — Ms. L C., Chatsworth, CA

DEAR MS. C.:

There was a time in my life that friends would cross to the opposite side of the street to avoid meeting me. You guessed it — I was flat broke and no one wanted to help me. It's a horrible feeling, isn't it?

Forget about swimming with the rest of the fish and just go about holding your head high, because I'm sending you $236.

On down the road, remember where you've been and be the first to help out someone else.

State park tales

By Duane Guenther

In 1919, the legislature of the State of Michigan created a 10-member State Park Commission whose duties were to acquire land and accept grants for purpose of creating and maintaining recreational parks.

The idea of state parks was really nothing new, as Mackinac Island State Park was established in 1895 and Fort Michilimackinac was added in 1909.

Since the mid-1800s, Michigan had been a popular playground for the wealthy of the Eastern and Midwestern states — and state politicians were quick to realize that the state's precious resources would fast diminish if something was not done to protect them.

This year, as Michigan celebrates the 75th anniversary of its State Park system, we should take time to thank those visionaries who had the foresight to set aside the many jewels we have come to accept as ordinary.

Anyone who has traveled throughout the United States will be quick to report that Michigan State Parks ranks as the finest to be found anywhere in our country.

At last count, the State Park Directory listed 96 state parks and recreational areas. These facilities will play host to more than 23 million visitors each year.

They are located in some of the most beautiful areas of our state and if you haven't sampled them yet, you are really missing out.

Coming from an outdoor-oriented family, and having fallen in love with camping at an early age, I have had the opportunity to sample many of our state parks.

Certainly, I have not visited all 96 of them, but, the other night, while reading the names in the directory, I could not help but recall special moments of some of those I have come in contact with.

Who could forget Fort Wilkins, our northern most park in Copper Harbor? It was there that Sweetwife and I found out how uncomfortable sleeping in a Ford Maverick could be.

We would have been better off in the green umbrella tent, but a sow black bear had decided that our campsite suited her a mite better.

And speaking of bears, after a hard days backpacking in Porcupine Mountain Wilderness State Park, my then-12-year-old-son and I carefully studied the height of the claw marks on the log cabin that was to be our home for the night.

Later, in the cabin, he leaned over my bed and said, "Bears can't get in this cabin, can the Dad?"

I reassured him, but throughout the night the hair on the back of my neck stiffened each time the clapboard shutters banged against the windows.

I remember the "oohs" and "aahs" my family members emitted while gazing through the glass bottom raft at Palm Book State Park.

They, as I, were amazed at the clarity of this 40-foot deep natural spring, and were more amazed when they found that the only way back to shore was to pull hand over hand on the cable attached to the raft.

There was the night at Fayette State Park we got rooked into buying green wood from a couple of teenagers who jumped the ditch with their pickup and dodged the park ranger in order to make a couple of bucks.

And another night, when my two sons and I slept (or should I say tried to sleep) on the beach at Wilderness State Park — only to be kept awake by pounding propellers of each passing lake freighter.

We have fallen asleep to the strains of classical music while camping at Interlochen State Park, kept awake by traffic at Traverse City State Park, marveled at the towering monarchs at Hartwick Pines State Park — and battled the biggest mosquitoes at Wilson State Park.

We have traveled 10 hours to make camp at the Presque Isle River Unit just north of Wakefield, and 20 minutes for an overnight stay at Sleeper State Park near Caseville.

We have hiked the sand dunes at D. H. Day (before it became a National Park) and canoed the waters of the Rifle River Recreation Area.

In our years of camping, we have stayed in National Parks, federal forests, State Forest campgrounds and private camping areas.

While I do not consider myself an expert, I do know when I've found a good campground — and, take my word, you can't beat our Michigan State Parks.....

Tip: For trophy fish work your baits slowly. Best bet is early in the day.

■ Researchers say that during periods of low and high tides, animals such as fish seem to lose much of their natural caution. These are referred to as Major Periods and last approximately an hour. Midway between the Major Periods there are frequently shorter peaks called Minor Periods. The inclination of the moon's orbit to the Equator also affects Solunar Periods and, in extreme cases, there is only one Major or Minor Period for the date.

Sebewaing Village Council will hold an 8 p.m. public hearing Monday, Aug. 15, to discuss the proposed closing of a portion of Davis Street as part of the construction for the new harbor.

The proposed closing would begin at W. Sebewaing St. and go to the former Robert Putnam property which was bought for the harbor project. Davis Street is a dead-end street.

Since the original project began seven years ago, the harbor has been expanded to 125 slip marina from 71 slips.

The projected cost of the harbor is $1.75 million with most of the money coming from grants DNR grants.

Area residents can send written comments to the Sebewaing Village Clerk, Municipal Building, 108 W. Main Street, Sebewaing, before the meeting date.
