CHAS. F. HAYES, Supt.
Ann Arbor, Dec. 1, 1868.

Notice.—Number twelve completed the First Quarter of the publication of the Enterprise. We desire to settle all accounts January, April, July and September. A large number of subscribers have not paid. Friends it is impossible for us to give more than three months credit, and must ask prompt payment.

Snow.—We have had little snow, however, this sleigh, if not so heavily loaded, ships strong in fine style. The merry jingle of the bells drives dull care out of childhood, and every one seems in the best vein of sleighing. To the farmer and those who have heavy articles to move, it is indeed a blessing. Our enterprising livery proprietor, Watson English, has made preparations to accommodate all who wish a "good rig" at moderate prices. Give him a call and he will send you out in the latest style.

☞ Through the courtesy of Secretary, we are enabled to notice President Seelye's Lectures of "Thirty-three Days in Rome," delivered at Goodyear's Hall, on the 23d inst. Suffice it to say, that it was pronounced by all to be a grand success on the part of Mr. F., and we believe that the society just paid expenses, which is very good for a beginning.

Errata.—By some very inexplicable mistake, an erroneous notice of a Donation for Rev. J. Gordon Jones, Presbyterian minister, was given out at the Methodist Church last sabbath. The donation was not to take place as stated.

☞ Quarterly Meeting will be held at Sharon on Saturday afternoon, and Sunday morning next. Rev. Dr. Sawyer, President of Albion College, will preach at the Methodist Church, Manchester, at 11 o'clock P. M.

☞ The friends of Rev. J. W. Scott will please remember that his Donation visit will take place at the Parsonage, Thursday Evening, January 14th.

Mule.—Josh Billings the American Humorist will Lecture at Tecumseh Friday Evening, Jan. 15th. Subject—Mule. In order to accommodate those who wish to return on the Evening train.

Sunday School.—R. P. Crafts will commence his singing class, at the Methodist Church, Manchester, on Monday Evening Jan. 18th. Tuition, $1.00 for 13 Lessons.

New Saloon.—Geo. Sherwood & Co., have established an Oyster Saloon in one of the basements of Goodyear's Block. These enterprising young gents, have their rooms fixed up in fine style, and are dispensing the bivalves, served in a manner to suit the most fastidious. They also have the best Ale, Liquors & Cigars. The Billiard Hall is one of the finest in the State.

To Builders.—As the spring approaches, our citizens will be looking for material to build with. The opening of the Saginaw Rail Road will afford an excellent channel to procure lumber from the largest pinery in the world. Among our advertisements will be found those dealing in builders materials. Winegar, Smith & Co., of Grass Lake, offer special inducements. Miller & Webb of Manchester can supply the whole country with Nails, Glass and Trimmings, at prices that will give entire satisfaction.

Ma. Editor. Please call the attention of students in Arithmetic to the following solution and Analysis of Example 25, page 272 Robinsons Progressive Higher Arithmetic, by inserting the same in your journal.

Having sold a consignment of Cotton at 2 per cent, I am directed to invest the proceeds in city lots, after deducting my purchase commission, at 2 per cent.—My whole com. is $265. What is the price of the city lots. Robison's Ans. $6141.

$$\begin{array}{r} 265 \\ 20 \\ \hline 5)5300 \\ \hline 106 \end{array}$$

Ans. $6101

I multiply the $265 per centage by 20 because 2 per cent, is one twentieth of its base. And divide the base by 50 because 2 per cent is one fiftieth of its base. Other correct processes produce the same result, but this is a short and simple one and easily demonstrated. Robinson says to therefore commonsense. D. P. Rockwell

MANCHESTER, Mich.

A recent visit to our sister village of Manchester, has impressed us strongly with the conviction that it is destined at no late day to become a place of considerable importance, in a business point of view. Mr. Goodyear is just completing a three story brick block, which in point of architectural beauty and finish would do credit to much larger towns. It contains on the first floor two beautiful and capacious stores, one hundred feet from front to rear, one of which is being fitted up for our former townsman, Arthur Miller Esq., who has taken for his partner a Mr. Webb, of Saline, and engaged in a general hardware, tin, and sheet iron business. The other is to be occupied by the Wastell Bros., as a dry goods establishment. On the second floor, there are various offices, and among them, that of the Manchester Enterprise, conducted by one old friend, Geo. S. Goodrich. The third story contains a magnificent public hall, finely proportioned, admirably arranged, well lighted, and comfortably seated with chairs. The Manchesterians may well be excused for manifesting a little pride in their new Hall, and pointing the visitor to it, as an indication of the business enterprise and energy of the town.

But the achievement of which they seem to be proudest, is their new Union School building, which was not commenced until April last, but is now completely finished and occupied from top to bottom. It is constructed of brick, in the same size and style of arrangement of our own central building. Well may they be proud of it, for previous to its erection, the facilities offered to the young people of Manchester for a school education, were of the most meagre character. It is no wonder that the children, old and young, all attend the Union School. But from what we learned during our brief visit, we are inclined to the opinion that they are carrying the joke a little too far. It is well enough to have all the children go to school. We have no objection to either, on this prosperity of this arrangement. Indeed, we are decidedly in favor of making our schools free to all children, regardless of age, sex or color. But when in these zeal to magnify education entirely free to everybody and everything, they open the doors of their Union School to the very pigs in the street; we think they manifest an inclination to put it a little too thick. At least, we are doubtful if such an idea would go down here in our more refined Tecumseh society.

We believe in swine, but we don't believe in educating them in the same room, and on an equal footing with our sons and daughters.

And yet, this is precisely what they are trying to do in Manchester. Only a few days since, a Manchester pig, seized with a thirst for knowledge, very commendable of course even in a pig, determined to go to school. So he obeyed the warning tones of the school bell, sounded at the temple of learning, walked deliberately up the first flight of stairs leading to the second story, and finding the door open into one of the apartments, he went in. But he was not quite prepared for the tumultuous greeting he received from the boys. For the moment, books and slates were forgotten; while the pig, who was in a "parfect of knowledge under difficulties," astounded by the tumultuous applause with which he was received, and not knowing exactly what to make of it, paused for a moment irresolute, and then turned and ran towards the stairs. But he was in too much of a hurry, and tripping at the top stair, he went to the bottom in the manner which boys call "head over heels."

Thus ended the experiment of trying to educate pigs in common with our boys and girls.

We improve the opportunity, to warn all others of this kind, and everywhere, against the folly of trying the insane experiment, which was proved useless in Manchester.

Focus.—A Fur Muff, left at VanDuyn, Lynch & Co's. Drug Store. The owner can have the same by calling at the store and paying for this notice.

Social.—The Universalist Social will meet at Frank Sparford's, on Thursday evening of next week, Jan. 16th. Old and young are invited.

Peansonne Magazine.—The February No. is at hand. To say it is rate all it contains would occupy a column, therefore we willmay it has a Double, Colored fashion plate, a beautiful steel engraving and many superior wood cuts, patterns in Embroidery, Crochet &c. The reading is selected with much care and judgment. The "receipt book" which alone is worth the subscription, is continued. New music, hints on Horticulture, Equestrianism, and in fact, it contains everything to interest the household. Terms $2.00 per annum. Address

CHAS. J. PETERSON.
Philadelphia.

Removal.—Messrs. Miller & Webb have moved their stock of goods to the new and beautiful store in Goodyear's Block. It is visited by everybody, and they pronounce it the best store in the State. They are determined to keep a general assortment of Hardware and carriages and Jackson, Adrian and Ann Arbor. Call and price their stock.

Literary.—The meeting on Tuesday evening was largely attended. The subject was considered political, but ably discussed in a gentlemanly manner, and is to be continued the next evening. The declamatory by Mr. Pierce, place him on the List,any role as a speaker of promise. An original essay was announced for the next meeting.

James Vick.—We have received a beautiful catalogue containing a list of all the choicest flowers, fruits and vegetable seeds, grown and imported by Mr. James Vick, of Rochester, N. Y. It contains one hundred pages of very useful information, fine wood engravings and a beautiful colored plate. See advertisement in another column.

Lyceum.—At the meeting Tuesday evening last, the question was given in favor of the negative. The discussion was courteous. The original essay by Prof. Olney, on will publish next week. The subject to be discussed next evening is as follows: Resolved—That the Rail Road Land grants are against the best interests of our country. Affirmative Messrs Pelton, Scott and Hunter. Neg. Messrs. Broome, Howe and Robison.

Essay by Miss Viah Cowden.

The Union School scholars organized a Lyceum, on Tuesday evening. It is not their intention to meet on Tuesday evenings hereafter, as it will conflict with the Young Mens L. & L. A.

Sad Accident.—Alfred Pierson, one of the workmen in the employ of Messrs. Mills, while adjusting machinery on Tuesday last, caught his arm in the shafting and was revolved around with the shaft, breaking his left arm, and otherwise injuring him. Fortunately he was observed by his partner in time to stop the machine and thus save him from a terrible death. Dr. Lynch attends him and reports favorable of his recovery.

Personal.—Mr. and Mrs. I. Bloomer wish to express their thanks to their friends for the very liberal donation given them at the house of Mr. Parks in Sharon, on Tuesday evening the 14th.

☞ At the annual meeting of the Washtenaw Co., Agricultural and Horticultural Society, Calvin Wheeler Esq. of Salem, was elected President for the ensuing year, and Messrs. N. M. Schoonover, L. Davis, and J. T. Sweetzel, of Ann Arbor, were elected Recording Secretary, Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer. Five Vice Presidents and an Executive Committee of 22, representing the various towns of the county, were also elected.

☞ The Salt Lake Vedette says it has been demonstrated that Utah is just the place for cultivating the grape, the mulberry tree and the cotton plant, silk, wine and cotton.

THE EXPOSITION.

The figures of the Exposition look up brilliantly. Three millions of francs, or about $600,000, is the profit on the enterprise. Eleven millions of persons passed the turn-stiles—eleven millions to say nothing of the season subscribers, exhibitors, jurors and other dead-heads. There is now an embarrassment as to what shall be done with the money—an extraordinary question one would think, for France, where everything is regulated beforehand. But the State subscribed one-third of the money necessary for the enterprise, the municipality one-third, and the Imperial commission one-third; but there was no thought of realizing a profit. They hoped only to cover expenses, and all the economy of the Commission, which people called nonsense, looked only to this end. Each of the parties now refuse to accept its million, and the probability is that after paying them the interest on the money and the cost of the hundred lawsuits that are going to follow, some useful destination will be found for the money. The commission three supplementary days for the poor of Paris was 176,000 francs.

FEMALE ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

How education, as it is bestowed today, often accomplish great things! I answer, regretfully, no; too often the education of the present day offers no such advantages. In the first place, it commands vastly altogether. Our seminaries study and attentive reflection one most of all wanting in the training of girls, and the mode of life adapted by young women.

As Omnibus has said, a treatise upon instruction for girls and young women is still to be written. The subject is in no respect rightly understood, no durable fruit has yet appeared.

Labor is a faithful friend that adapts itself to the age and disposition of every being who takes it as a companion for life.

That women may learn to take habits of industry, it is incumbent on us to convince young girls that their education does not end with college and that their first half-dozen has not, like a bank check degree, the virtue of giving to learning its perfect consummation. At this age they have barely information enough to enable them to study themselves—learning-strings are no longer needed in their education—their eyes are open. They are simply capable of sustaining their studies, and of applying the pleasure of individual exercise. At a girl could be made to believe this, it would not be without future would be secured to her. But the present custom demands that she should study French and history until she is fifteen, to eighteen, pianoforting and drawing. Then comes a pied down, the great day to often dreaded of. She goes into society and marries, determined to leave work behind her in accordance with universal practice. This is one of the joys of marriage—to do nothing—and in the twenties a period most precious in a woman's life, a period of leisure, of leasure, and that fame that youth and happiness alone can kindle; expansion of soul, the illumined eyes of the heart, illumination comes needs, as St. Paul says, giving to each family, impress, inspiration, power. But it is; all must be lost, squandered, sunk in three early years, even happiness! Study would have a secret power to draw this young creature from the vision of life, and give her the calmness and recollection she so much needs, if merely to enjoy her blessings: but no, everything must be frittered away and destroyed.

Then follow years when the excitement of youth dies out, a void is left, beauty vanishes, ennui comes to take possession, there is nothing to dispute its sway. The children are in the midst of their education, and need no looking after. A mother who knows not the value of industry, is ever ready to excuse idleness in her children, and individual-ing this indulgence, before sons think very little of their mother when they grow up, and soon regard her as beneath them.

☞ The Pennsylvania Teacher says: The Little Corporal is the most entertaining publication for the young that we have ever examined. We cannot see how it possibly can have a superior, or if it could have, how the young folks could possibly wish for anything is ter."

The "Little Corporal" is a welcome visitor at our office. Terms, one dollar a year. Alfred L. Sewell, Publisher, Chicago, Ill. Great inducements are offered to those who wish to raise clubs, to all of whom a sample copy will be sent free if applied for during the present month.

Our Schools.—We paid a flying visit to the Union School this morning, and found everything in a flourishing condition. The rooms were warm and cheerful. We listened to the recitation of Arithmetic, and were well pleased with the practical demonstrations. The New text books require incessant study, not only by the pupil, but the Professor.—The other rooms contained the rencontres of Manchester at large, who are instructed by efficient lady teachers. The school Furniture, manufactured by Mr. Mitchell, of Ann Arbor, is the best in use. The desks and seats are intended to be occupied by one person only, iron frames and securely fastened to the floor; five sizes readily accommodates pupils of all ages 11 to useful and ornamental.

Mr. Editor. Please call the attention of students in Arithmetic to the following solution and Analysis of Example 59, page 272 Robinson Progressive Higher Arithmetic, by inserting the same in your journal.

Having sold a consignment of Cotton at 3 per cent, I am directed to invest the proceeds in city lots, after deducting my purchase commission, of 2 per cent. My whole sum is $265. What is the price of the city lots. Robison's Ans, $5141.

I multiply the $265 per centage by 20 because 5 per cent, is one twentieth of its base. And divide the base by 50 because 2 per cent is one fiftieth of its base. Other correct processes produce the same result, but this is a short and simple one and easily demonstrated. Robinson can is therefore unreasonable. B. F. Rockwell.

Married.—Jan. 15th, 1868, By Rev. I. Bloomer at his residence, Mr. T. S. Barker, to Miss Ella Patterson, both of Manchester.

A long life, plenty of friends and the best wishes of the printers. The above was a surprise party, that is, they surprised Mr. Barker, many friends who expected an invitation—and themselves. T. & E. at Home this Evening. No Cards.
