LOCAL ITEMS.

We have been witnessing in our endeavors to procure local items to interest our readers, and come to the conclusion that no item of importance had escaped our notice, but the Detroit Tribune has a reporter (?) who probably writes for five dollars a year or less. His last effort reads as follows:

Henry Goodyear will remove the old hotel on Exchange Place and erect the coming spring a large and commodious one, four stories with basement. Mr. G. D. Unterkircher will also remove the Odeon Hall block, and erect on its site a large hotel with stores, public hall, etc. Orson Sweetzer sells a worsted yarn to W. Bowers, of Sharon, and a span of horses were taken from Mercy Pierce's barn, which he found next day near Clinton. The Democrats near Sharon are holding meetings, to prepare for the spring election, and they have opened two new saloons in Manchester for recruiting purposes. Strenuous efforts are being made to extend the circulation of the LaCrosse Democrat, to the exclusion of the Free Press and other Democratic weeklies, which have less of the satanic ring. Wm. M. Brown has reopened the farmer's mill. P. S. Reynolds has been shipping hay—paying $8 for much and $20 for clover. Offers of $12.50 have been made for loads for house use.

Most of these items appeared in our paper four and six weeks since. Messrs. Goodyear and Unterkircher contemplate building three story with basements, at some future date, and we have no doubt but some scoundrels took the robe and horns last fall. The Democrats of Sharon have organized, but we cannot learn that they have started a saloon in our village for any purpose. A new saloon has been started (see advertisement) and we understand that the proprietors have been tramped up, by Gen. Grant, to respect Nasby, Lucy Stone, the New Constitution—and say nothing to reporters. The LaCrosse Democrat is not a welcome visitor in every dwelling, and we sincerely believe it never will be, to the the exclusion of respectable journals. Mr. Brown runs the farmer's mill always has, and always will. J. S. Reynolds pays $2 (cash) for wheat and $8a10 for hay. He thinks hay at $20 a ton would spoil—the purchaser.

If the Tribune wishes fresh, reliable items of our city, we advise them to donate the Daily now sent to their reporter, to some poor widow or orphan, and clip items from the Enterprise.

For the Enterprise.

Mr. Editor.—As you allowed a Manchester not long since, to offer some Advice as to the management of the Enterprise, may it not be fair to presume that you will also allow a Sharonite to make suggestions to the citizens and readers of your growing metropolis, the city of Manchester.

Seeing that rapid and large strides are being made in population, in building also, the useful as well as ornamental, commercially as well as for more private use; is it not very important that they establish, organize, and put into good running condition, a regular, full-grown, and well-manned and well proportioned Board of Trade. Possibly this "sign" may not have been conceived even by its first ones; and again, possibly they may not only appreciate the kindly advice, but nevertheless, it is very kindly given.

The importance of such a move being made and fully consummated, will, I think be presented, even by its slightest ones, when they shall consider how little they are to be sold in the purchase of a few of the needfuls of this life, i. e. a pound of butter, or a dozen of eggs, a donkey's load of wood or hay, to say nothing of other items too numerous to mention. And then the way that such an institution would toss up the business energities of the people to love the settings and transactions of a board of trade reported in the Enterprise. And further, what a star of importance it will give to men to be regularly and daily "on change" where fortunes are easily made and sometimes are proportionally lost.

We trust (seriously, of course) that the good people of your growing burgh will take these random thoughts of mine, consider into all due consideration, and so establish a mode of action for all commodities, from a bunch to a bushel of potatoes, that they may not be taken undue advantage of by the upper stratum" whose cell and sweat, daily oppo ite, with the means of keeping their mental machines in good working order.

Yours for Progress, SHARON.

WOMAN.

Oh! woman's heart is busy bake,
And when it's kneaded, rolls out flat;
It then proceeds to cutting and shape
The crusts for the outside those may try.
Like try, where it grows the most
To want as ever nothing pays;
Like lay, too, 'tis found in other
You can't get a touchline thing.

Oh, woman's love! its theme is easy
Short, cold or crook'd, but it burns
While those who writing say.
Now rear from its idol name
Its emotions in a flame or flame,
The hearty closed their weight is down;
A load its weapon bee-hearted
Of woman's love; there's danger there.
Its sweetest place on which to rest,
Is unrivaled and cold aching breast.
Its type is tender as clouds, be part
Is a pillow, a bridge, heart.

LITERARY.—On Tuesday evening, after the usual exercises, the President appointed a committee consisting of Messrs Couch, Torrey and Wells, to act as judges to decide the merit of the debate between J. D. Corey, the appointed critic for the evening. A general idea of the benefits of railroad grants and their evil results, were advanced by the debaters, after which the President charged the jury in a very affective speech, which concluded in the usual manner, by the decision in favor of the negative. The subject for discussion next Tuesday is as follows:

Resolved, That Radicalism as opposed to Conservatism is and has been most beneficial to mankind.

Aff—G. E. Palmer, J. W. Scott and Prof. Olney.

Neg—J. D. Corey, I. Bloomer and James McLean.

Essay by Miss Viola Gordon.

PERSONAL.—Joseph Frost has secured the services of a sexton (little shaver) from Ford's, and rumors say he will be obliged to waxe as heretofore. Our village can now boast of the best, the largest and the smallest barbers in the State. Call and see them.

LEAP YEAR.

Custom has assigned to every fourth year, a place of significant importance in establishing it as a year of opportunity for gay ladies to become gallants, and has authorized them to speak for themselves in the all important matters which interest those of a certain or uncertain age, more nearly than any other. Now is the appointed time for popping the question, and for doing all manner of things contrary to law and the usual custom of man and womankind.

The first day of January, it is probable all well-informed folks are aware began leap-year. During that year the ladies claim the privilege of "popping the question" to bashful swains, although they are trying to do it, always get a fit of what is called the buck ague about that interesting time. We don't speak from experience in this matter, for we never have been there, but get our knowledge direct from those who have. This city, like all other towns of its size and pretensions, contains its share of ambitious and well to do youths, who are anxious to pay the board and buy the clothes for some pretty young lady "as long as they both shall live," anxious to feed one of the adorable gender in order that she may sit at the head of his table, and sew his shirt buttons on and it is to be expected that there are also young ladies who are just as anxious to fill such situations. We hope these gentle damsels will not neglect the opportunities thus offered them. Remember it comes, like a Presidential election, only once in four years.

THE OLD OKEN BUCKET.

The Old Oken Bucket was written by Samuel E. Woodworth, while yet he was a journeyman printer, working at an office on the corner of Chambers and Chatham streets, New York. Near by, in Frankfort street, was a drinking house, kept by one named Malkoy, where Woodworth and several partners, friends used to resort. One afternoon the liquor was super-excellent. Woodworth seemed inspired by it, for, after taking a draught, he set his glass upon the table and, smacking his lips, declared that Malkoy's rum was vile was superior to anything he had ever tasted.

"No," said Malkoy, "You are mistaken, there was one which in both our estimation far surpassed this as a drink."

"What was that?" asked Woodworth, dubiously.

"The draughts of pure, fresh, spring water, that we used to drink from the old oken bucket that hung in the well, on our return from the labors of the field, on a sultry day in summer."

The rear drops glistened for a moment in Woodworth's eye. "True! true!" he rejoined, and shortly after quitted the place. He immediately returned to the office, grasped a pen, and in half an hour the "Old Oken Bucket," one of the most delightful compositions in our language, was ready in manuscript to be enshrined in the memories of succeeding generations.

THE BENEDICT ROBBERY.

Hearing Set of Sunbeam $250,000 Bonds—Examination of the Accused.

Yesterday morning, and this morning, the examination of John Benedict, charged with the robbery of $250,000 worth of Sunbeam Coal Company bonds, was continued before Justice Dowling, at the Tombs Police Court. Mr. Benedict is a young man, and has been a resident of Brooklyn for some years. He is a son of Mr. John Benedict, the well-known banker of Wall-street, and is himself a member of the firm of Benedict & Co., bankers, of No. 5 Nassau-street. The bonds which he is charged with stealing were the property of the Sunbeam Coal Company, of which Mr. John Benedict is President. The bonds were stolen from the safe in the office of the company, in the building No. 49 Wall-street, on the night of the 17th of December. The bonds were all of the denomination of $1,000 each, and were payable to bearer. Mr. Benedict, Jr., was arrested on the 19th of December, and was committed to the Tombs in default of bail in the sum of $50,000. Subsequently, bail was reduced to $25,000, and on the 31st of December he was released from custody. The case was brought before Justice Dowling yesterday morning, and was adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock. The Court-room was crowded with spectators during the entire session of the Court yesterday, and the proceedings were listened to with the most intense interest. Mr. Benedict, Jr., was present, and was accompanied by his father, Mr. John Benedict, and by his counsel, Mr. Howland. Mr. Howland, in opening the case for the defense, said that he would show that the bonds were not stolen, but that they were taken by Mr. Benedict, Jr., with the knowledge and consent of the President of the Company, Mr. John Benedict, and that they were taken for the purpose of raising money to meet the pressing demands of the Company. He would show that Mr. Benedict, Jr., had been authorized by his father to raise money on the bonds, and that he had done so. He would show that the bonds were not stolen, but that they were taken with the knowledge and consent of the President of the Company

Home Resources.

A delegation of young men, belonging to the Detroit Y. M. C. A., are holding class meeting of exhortation and prayer in prominent Saloons at Ann Arbor, Jackson and other towns. This is a novel way of advancing the cause of religion; heretofore crime and sin have been all bound to hold high carnival, while men and money were lavishly spent to convert foreign heathens.

Times are changing. Religious people are awake, and have commenced to work upon home-made material. Town, County and State Conventions have been held, and "home mission" is the watchword among religious people.

What is the cause of this sensation? Take a seat in the cars and watch the newsboy. "Have a Police Gazette, Sir?" boldly pictures this number." He readily disposes of his stock of obscene pictures and reading. "Have a Dime Novel? Modern—version number." The boy informed us that it was impossible to supply the demand for the miserable specimens of literature. The 10 number in his round will not allow them to sell. Upon their cars—a step every road should adopt in a holy minute. The "White Fawn" is an obscene exhibition which far surpasses the black crook. It is drawing large houses at the east, and will soon congregate west to demoralize wherever any witness it.

Charity balls, that cause the poor to blush, are the all absorbing topic in our cities. One held last week at Chicago, should have received a visit from the Detroit "Free Press" reporter young men and women. A fund from Boston, a frog-green silk dress from Paris; two hundred dollars for the use of diamonds; it was a great abandonment and variety of dress; at a charity ball; when real liberty enough to foot a cause, etc. Do these people belong to a church? Have they children to educate?

Things at our National Capitol need a few daily exposes from more anybody. We read of a prominent Congressman, who was a Grand Templar one year ago, making his appearance a few days since at the breakfast table, Will rise Hotel in his night shirt, at 10 A. M. Another was taken home in a hotel cart: as their is too cabbage six days to overcome a prolonged debauch. The President can not pray for Congress, and Congress can not Pray for the President—both depend upon the negro. Parson Brownlow says "If this is the land of the Nation, for God's sake what is the rail."

People are losing confidence, and confidence looming the people, RAISE as high gold is on a tear, labor is begging at the door, crime and sin are increasing, a grand political campaign approaching—and—young men have commenced to pray at corners.

Home of Liberty.

We visited Napoleon on Tuesday last, to witness the Evening Exhibition of Mrs. A. V. L. Cole's class in Elocution. Fifteen ladies and four gentlemen comprised the class. The Home of Liberty was produced in fine style, Mrs C. sustaining the character of "Goddess of Liberty."—Elocution is unquestionably her forte and the class exhibit flattering testimonials of on Saturday last. Those wishing proher ability as a teacher. The characters were sustained as follows:

Ortolot by Miss J. Vanblyck.
Occident by Miss M. Mills.
Italy by Miss L. Kilmer.
Greece by Mrs. P. B. Kinner.
France by Miss Alice Vanblyck.
England by Mrs. G. W. Gallup.
Scotland by Miss E. Greene.
America by Miss N. Colgrove.

Generally speaking Amateurs are not very particular in regard to costumes. Occident was faultless; the others appropriate, with one or two exceptions. The bonnie lassie "Coming Thro' the Rye" could only be improved by adopting the beautiful highland costume. The National Hymn, will be well sung by France as soon as she gains sufficient confidence to control her voice. The Star Spangled Banner was neatly rendered by America. Tableau was beautiful, so was the red-light; but the "smudge" completely demoralized the audience and performers, and the curtain dropped upon the most rediculous coughing scene imaginable. Sheridan's Ride, by Imogene (years old) was indeed a masterly effort. Hail also a Song—Nora O'Neil by J. E. Freeman, readily won the applause of the audience. A floor solo by Mrs. Hascle of Adrian, a comic piece by a lad, two scenes from King Henry VIII. and the exhibition concluded by Mrs. Cole's conception of The Muster. Music by J. D. Dewey's string band, of Adrian. We understand this lady intends to visit our city in a few weeks, with her class and orchestra, assisted by Miss Graves. M., Emerson, and others, assist. A programme to all friends of Elocution Music, etc., Come to Manchester Feb. 11th and 12th.
