A LITTLE ELBOW-ROOM.

Good friend, don't squeeze so very tight!

There's room enough for two.
Keep in your mind that I've a right
To live, as well as you!
You're rich and strong; I, poor and weal
But think you I presume
When early this poor boon I ask.
A little elbow-room!

Tis such as you—the rich and strong

But thus it is on Life's round path—
"Self' seems the god of all!
The strong will crush the weak to death—
The big deroor the small!
Far better be a rich man's hound—

I'p Heart, my boy! Don't mind the shock
Up Heart, and push along!
Your skin will soon grow rough
Your limbs with labor strong!
And there's a Hand unseen to aid—
A star to light the gloom!
Up Heart, my boy! nor be afraid—
Strike out for elbow-room!
