LITTLE ROBBY'S BLAMING.

Lack and More Luck.

When old Granny and I went to the field for wood, we found the little boy had cut the trees. We were surprised, and then we went to the river and fetched the wood, and then we went to the field and cut the trees.

The Tale of a Woman.

As the woman was going to the market, she saw a man in the street. She asked him if he had anything to sell, and he said he had a chicken. She asked him if she could have the chicken, and he said yes. She took the chicken and went to the market.

The Tale of a Doll.

As the doll was walking in the street, it saw a man with a dog. The doll asked the man if he could have the dog, and he said yes. The doll took the dog and went to the market.

The Tale of a Bird.

As the bird was flying in the sky, it saw a man with a fish. The bird asked the man if he could have the fish, and he said yes. The bird took the fish and went to the market.

The Tale of a Cat.

As the cat was walking in the street, it saw a man with a book. The cat asked the man if he could have the book, and he said yes. The cat took the book and went to the market.

The Tale of a Mouse.

As the mouse was running in the field, it saw a man with a hat. The mouse asked the man if he could have the hat, and he said yes. The mouse took the hat and went to the market.

The Tale of a Pig.

As the pig was walking in the street, it saw a man with a pie. The pig asked the man if he could have the pie, and he said yes. The pig took the pie and went to the market.

The Tale of a Cow.

As the cow was walking in the street, it saw a man with a cake. The cow asked the man if she could have the cake, and he said yes. The cow took the cake and went to the market.

The Tale of a Dog.

As the dog was walking in the street, it saw a man with a apple. The dog asked the man if it could have the apple, and he said yes. The dog took the apple and went to the market.

The Tale of a Duck.

As the duck was swimming in the river, it saw a man with a banana. The duck asked the man if it could have the banana, and he said yes. The duck took the banana and went to the market.

The Tale of a Fish.

As the fish was swimming in the ocean, it saw a man with a carrot. The fish asked the man if it could have the carrot, and he said yes. The fish took the carrot and went to the market.

The Tale of a Butterfly.

As the butterfly was flying in the air, it saw a man with a flower. The butterfly asked the man if it could have the flower, and he said yes. The butterfly took the flower and went to the market.

The Tale of a Bee.

As the bee was flying in the field, it saw a man with a honeycomb. The bee asked the man if it could have the honeycomb, and he said yes. The bee took the honeycomb and went to the market.

The Tale of a Spider.

As the spider was weaving its web, it saw a man with a spider web. The spider asked the man if it could have the spider web, and he said yes. The spider took the spider web and went to the market.

The Tale of a Lizard.

As the lizard was crawling in the field, it saw a man with a lizard. The lizard asked the man if it could have the lizard, and he said yes. The lizard took the lizard and went to the market.

The Tale of a Tortoise.

As the tortoise was walking in the street, it saw a man with a tortoise. The tortoise asked the man if it could have the tortoise, and he said yes. The tortoise took the tortoise and went to the market.

The Tale of a Snake.

As the snake was crawling in the field, it saw a man with a snake. The snake asked the man if it could have the snake, and he said yes. The snake took the snake and went to the market.

The Tale of a Chimpanzee.

As the chimpanzee was walking in the street, it saw a man with a chimpanzee. The chimpanzee asked the man if it could have the chimpanzee, and he said yes. The chimpanzee took the chimpanzee and went to the market.

The Tale of a Giraffe.

As the giraffe was walking in the field, it saw a man with a giraffe. The giraffe asked the man if it could have the giraffe, and he said yes. The giraffe took the giraffe and went to the market.

The Tale of a Lion.

As the lion was walking in the field, it saw a man with a lion. The lion asked the man if it could have the lion, and he said yes. The lion took the lion and went to the market.

The Tale of a Zebra.

As the zebra was walking in the field, it saw a man with a zebra. The zebra asked the man if it could have the zebra, and he said yes. The zebra took the zebra and went to the market.

The Tale of a Elephant.

As the elephant was walking in the field, it saw a man with an elephant. The elephant asked the man if it could have the elephant, and he said yes. The elephant took the elephant and went to the market.

The Tale of a Camel.

As the camel was walking in the field, it saw a man with a camel. The camel asked the man if it could have the camel, and he said yes. The camel took the camel and went to the market.

The Tale of a Rabbit.

As the rabbit was walking in the field, it saw a man with a rabbit. The rabbit asked the man if it could have the rabbit, and he said yes. The rabbit took the rabbit and went to the market.

The Tale of a Duck.

As the duck was swimming in the river, it saw a man with a duck. The duck asked the man if it could have the duck, and he said yes. The duck took the duck and went to the market.

The Tale of a Goose.

As the goose was swimming in the river, it saw a man with a goose. The goose asked the man if it could have the goose, and he said yes. The goose took the goose and went to the market.

The Tale of a Swan.

As the swan was swimming in the river, it saw a man with a swan. The swan asked the man if it could have the swan, and he said yes. The swan took the swan and went to the market.

The Tale of a Pelican.

As the pelican was swimming in the river, it saw a man with a pelican. The pelican asked the man if it could have the pelican, and he said yes. The pelican took the pelican and went to the market.

The Tale of a Seagull.

As the seagull was flying in the sky, it saw a man with a seagull. The seagull asked the man if it could have the seagull, and he said yes. The seagull took the seagull and went to the market.

D R Y  G O O D S !

Stock of Dress Goods:
Black and Colored Cashmeres.

Alpaca and Semper Item Mohairs!

Black GOOSE GRAIN SILKES.

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRESS GOODS!

WOOLENS!!

COTTON FLANNELS, Linen CRASHES

Sews and Mended Harness.

BANNER STORE!

On Railroad Street.

W. E. POTTS.

CLOTHING:

JUST RECEIVED!!

CLOTHING AND GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS!!

For Sale - By Order of Estate of Trimbull P. Sills and Contents, made to Order, at Short Notice, and from 10 to 25 per cent. Cheaper than any Merchant Tailor in town. A Full guaranteed or no sale.

LOCKWOODS'S FURNITURE ROOMS!

MATTHEWS, SPRING & CO.

W. H. POTTS

WIND MILLS.

IRON TURBINE WIND MILL

The Governor Wind Engine.

The banner store.

Now is your time to buy!!

JUST WHAT YOU WANT!!

Custom Shoe Shop.

24 ACRES OF LAND, LAKE, AND SHORE!

The GOVERNOR WIND MILL.

Boots and SHOES

TOILET BOOTS!

DRY GOODS!

HARNES & COLLARS

HOTEL FOR SALE!

CUSTOM SHOE SHOP

LAKE VIEW HOTEL

Watches, Clocks, Cylinder & Plain Watches.

The Governor Wind Engine.

W. H. POTTS

WIND MILLS.

W. H. POTTS

WIND MILLS.

THE GOVERNOR WIND MILL.

Boots and SHOES.

TOILET BOOTS!

DRY GOODS!

HARNES & COLLARS

HOTEL FOR SALE!

CUSTOM SHOE SHOP

LAKE VIEW HOTEL

Watches, Clocks, Cylinder & Plain Watches.

The Governor Wind Engine.