dwelt before me, the least edifying topics.

"Twenty-nine, ain't you?" she persisted in her raspingly distinct voice.

"Twenty-nine," corrected "Cindy" briefly.

"Bless the world," commented her sister-in-law. "I was married and had four children when I was twenty-eight."

"You wouldn't want to, 'Sally,'" said Cindy, quietly. "I don't 'low to pine away right off, nor yet to set in the 'sun, like little Sallie Water, keepin' an 'erwin' for a young man."

The square low-ceiled kitchen of the substantial, two-story farm house was all in trim for Thanksgiving preparations.

"Now, honey, jest go ahead," said Aunt Della, bustling around in a state of apron and hair in a wither of one-ideaedness.

"I'm going to take away the fire-board and clear out the old fire-place. There's nothing like a fire-place to roast guinea chickens in front of."

"By what you like," said Aunt Della, "I'll just go to smoke, so whenever you'll just get in the stove, 'tis best shut up so long, folks has forgot it's there."

"It's more a likely he has found some one else to love," she said, cooingly. "I signed again, as she began taking up the ashes."

"Cindy looked down at her Newport, ornamented with a great dam across the top."

"How nice!" said Dolly, with frank enthusiasm. "I do love to have dinner all ready when I come home from church."

"I'm glad to hear that," said Cindy, smiling. "I'll be sure to have it all ready for you."

coat, plunged into the kitchen, and before Cindy knew where she was, she found both her hands being energetically shaken, and Caleb like lightning down at her startled face, with twinkling brown eyes.

"I just thought I'd find you here," he declared in a loud, brisk, cheery voice. "I shot right over—left them freight fellows a mauling my baggage around like smoke—didn't keef for anything so I got to see you, Cindy. I've been wanting to come ever since I heard you was married to that rummage feller, 'n' never got to till now, 'cause, you see, I wouldn't have come no better off 'n when I left."

"No," said Cindy. "I reckon you'd say it in the fire of it, 'n' there ain't no use in wastin' a good ring as I see. But, Caleb, kin you really 'n' truly love me yet? I'm older than what I used to be."

"An' a heap better lookin'," responded Caleb, "you used to be a looker, 'n' yer hair 'n' eyes was just what I needed now, for the feller was gettin' low, 'n' one can see the dark spots where the coal was burnt to cinder, and if more caloric didn't come soon from somewhere our people wouldn't have to go up into the arctic regions to freeze to death."

"Reckon 't wouldn't hev spoiled our thanksgiving if 't had," answered Caleb. "Dummk's Monthly."

A Denial of Penn's Indian Treaty.
The romantic story that William Penn, soon after his arrival in Philadelphia, assembled the Indians in his own domain...

"There's no," said Mr. Westcott, "one shred of evidence to bolster up this story about the origin of the gray."

"In the State records, at Harrisburg, there is, however, a letter from Penn to the Indians, dated the 12th of the 17th century."

"I'm glad to hear that," said Mr. Westcott, "I've given early credit to the Penn treaty story, which has been since strengthened by West's great picture."

Oiling Wagon Wheels and Other Wood Work.
Mr. Allen E. Smith reports to the Farmer's Review an experience in oiling wagon wheels and other woodwork.

"I have a wagon of which six years ago the felloes shrunk so the tires became loose. I gave it a good coat of hot oil, and every year since it has had a coat of oil or paint, sometimes both."

"Is your family well?" "Splendid health, sir." "I asked you how was health down there."

"I said an old man who had paid a visit to my house and hadn't sick since. He died."

A View of the Comet.
The comet is a wonderful show and it takes a power of faith to believe what the astronomer says about it.

The comet is a wonderful show and it takes a power of faith to believe what the astronomer says about it. My folks wanted to see it, and so I got 'em all up in time yesterday morning, and they took little Jessie in my arms and we pattered over the snow, where there was a clear light, and peeped it to our satisfaction.

"No," said Cindy. "I reckon you'd say it in the fire of it, 'n' there ain't no use in wastin' a good ring as I see. But, Caleb, kin you really 'n' truly love me yet? I'm older than what I used to be."

Youthful Criminals.
The London World, in an article pleading for the introduction of corporal punishment, gives the following sketch of some types of youthful criminals:

"Let the sceptic take the morning papers for two days and call from them examples for himself. Here is a pretty story for him—one about a little boy of eight years. He is already a liar and a thief. Several times he has tried to commit arson. Let his parents bring home any pet animal—dog, a cat, a parrot, and straightway he tortures it to death with revolting cruelty."

"No," said Cindy. "I reckon you'd say it in the fire of it, 'n' there ain't no use in wastin' a good ring as I see. But, Caleb, kin you really 'n' truly love me yet? I'm older than what I used to be."

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.
—Rosetta Day, aged 110 years, and a native of Virginia, is an inmate of the Washington almshouse.

Judge Nelson, of the Brooklyn City Court, who presided over the Beecher trial, is about retiring from the bench on account of having reached the disqualifying age of seventy.

Captain E. R. Ames, the only son of the late Bishop Ames, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died near Baltimore recently. He had been insane for several years from the effect of a sun-stroke.

While at Alexandria Bay President Arthur sent his shoes down to the beach. One of the little darks who officiate as bell-boy at the hotel put the leathers on and triumphantly said: "I've stood in the President's shoes."

A Michigan woman made a claim for a fourth interest in an Irish estate valued at $50,000, but failed to establish it, and is grateful for the $1,000 which the heirs have sent her to pay the cost of her efforts.

Mrs. Hilda Gilbert-Lawson-Everett-Sanders, nee Davis, of Providence, who has become a widow five times, announces that she will marry no more. Her heart is all scarred up with sad experiences.—Providence (R. I.) Journal.

A man who was too old for military duty at the breaking out of the war of 1812 is still living near College Mount, Mason County, Mo. His name is Robert Gibson, he is now 110 years old, and he recently rode in a wagon eight miles to church.

Archbishop Purcell is one of the oldest Roman Catholic prelates in the world. Recently he celebrated the forty-ninth anniversary of his consecration as Bishop, which took place in Baltimore in 1833. No one of the prelates who took part in the ceremony is now living save Archbishop Purcell himself.

Dr. Dresson, a Roman Catholic, was married in St. Louis to Miss Dunca, a Presbyterian, and, in order to satisfy their religious scruples, two marriage ceremonies were performed by their respective pastors. This is not countenanced by the Roman-Catholic official journal of the diocese, and it says that the Doctor has made a "gross mistake," and a league with the devil for the sake of a Protestant wife.—N. Y. Sun.

An exchange thus puts a pleasant little story in a nutshell: "Lieutenant Squires, of the Seventh United States Cavalry, who has been sojourning at Fort Yates, D. T., for the past two months 'on duty with his company,' has left with his family for Chicago, where a comfortable berth awaits him—courtesy from General Sheridan to Miss Fargo—at whose solicitation the change from cold Dakota was made. It will be recalled that Lieutenant Squires married, while at the 'Art School' in Annapolis, Miss Fargo, a millionaire.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A Little Nonsense.
—New parlor maid: "Here's a letter, ma'am, if you please." New mistress: "Pray, ma'am, are you accustomed to see letters handed on a tray?" "Yes, ma'am. But I didn't know you was."

A new color is called "four o'clock." If it's the color of a man's nose as he goes meandering home about four o'clock in the morning, it need be a mighty brilliant shade of red.—Boston Post.

—Mr. Minin: "Send a visitor, Emma has been waiting for you." "Oh, no, Lee," said the dear little Emma. "It's because I've papa's hair that he has to wear a wig."

Frank Wilson of Jackson has gone to Chicago to exhibit at the fat stock show. Frank has been an exhibitor at that show since its first organization and successful in getting a full complement of premiums.

The Chicago Inter Ocean, in an article on the opening of a fat stock show at that city, says: "Mrs. Annie Newton, of Pontiac, Mich., is the only lady exhibitor, and she shows a credit to the show and the state of Michigan."

At the last meeting of the Norfolk Farmers Club, held at Hay's place, the feeding pumpkins to hogs, and backed up with following statistics: "Twenty pigs and one pig weighed September 30th, 1,744 pounds, fed ten loads of pumpkins and they weighed October 30th, 2,132 pounds, making a gain of 388 pounds in 30 days, which at 3 cents per pound the price of the legs at that time, would give $236.40 for the gain of pumpkins. The old pig gained 44 pounds, the twelve pig 344 pounds, an average of 29.33 pounds in 30 days. The legs had been fed on pumpkin one week previous to the experiment."

From the Michigan Crop report of November 1st, we learn that there was in Holland, Jackson, Lenawee and Washtenaw counties the same average of wheat per acre as was: Holland, 40.70; Jackson, 42.50; Lenawee, 43.19; Washtenaw, 37.84.

Any one who desires life of the valley below the water, should now take dumps of the following roots and put them in rows and place them for a week or two in a dark cool place and the growth of roots has commenced and will be a warm room where they will flourish. These roots will keep them well watered and when the flowers appear give them all the sunshine possible.

How School Girls are Made. Terrestrial and celestial globes were more thought of few years ago as a school accessory than they are today. The globe is now a necessity in every school, and the globe is now a necessity in every school.

Washburn County Items.

The Democrat thinks that Washburn county folks can't leave their clothes on the line...

The next meeting of the pioneer society of Washburn county will be held at Dexter, Wednesday, December 6th.

George Cook, a fifteen year old lad of Sable township, has been sent to the reform school for three years for petty theft.

There was a Piquette social at the residence of J. S. Kirk Tuesday evening.

A. H. Perry of Sharon reports raising 2,500 bushels of corn on 1 1/2 acres of land. That's not a bad showing, and next year we hope he will go into the corn country.

Truman R. Goodspeed of Tupper, had an attack of appendix last Tuesday
while in the judge's probate office at An Arbor, and died at 6 o'clock.

He was president of the Western Michigan
Insurance Company, and was a greatly respected citizen of his town.

Win, Smith, the young man who stabbed Frank Miller at Brooklyn, has been admitted to bail.

The mission band of the First Baptist church of Jackson are to give a Thanksgiving dinner to the poor of that city.

Mr. Rhea, the celebrated French actor, will appear at the Jackson opera house Friday evening, December 15th.

Brooklyn's highly sensitive musical ear couldn't stand the racket and so has allowed her band to disband. It is "auspicious."

It is stated that A. F. Lawrence who has left Grand Rapids two years ago and invested $800 in Dakota land, has now disposed of it for $4,000 cash.

It is said that the cost of factories of Jackson employ 300 girls and will want double that number about the beginning of the new year, 1883.

The Jackson Guard has adopted Miss Mary Wolcott, a rising young actress, who began the study of her profession in that city as "Daughter of the Regiment."

The contractor on the new county house for Jackson county claims to have lost between $2,000 and $3,000 on the job. The Jackson contractor claims to have lost $2,000.
