your three partners, all likewise smoking. There they stand on the bank, looking into the ground-slucice. There is no "good morning" or other greeting.

WORKING THE STREAK. We stand in a row, allowing sufficient room between each for swinging the pick. We are undermining the bank, the water running at our feet and between us and the bottom of the bank.

THE HARD PAN. But "hard-pan" is our foe; "hard-pan" is the essence of bricksbats. Its consistency is about that of chalk. It seems the finest kind of sand cemented and pressed together.

Sunday Papers in Boston. The Boston Advertiser is to publish a Sunday edition. It is told that at the beginning of the war there was but one Sunday paper in Boston, and that it had no telegraph dispatches.

Professor John Stuart Blackie has enlisted with all his soul in behalf of the Highland crofters. At a recent meeting in London, he said that he had resigned the Greek chair at Edinburgh and he found something immeasurably better in aiding the crofters.

A New York millionaire confesses that a man who has $2,000,000 has all the money that for any personal good or pleasure he can spend. He states that at a dinner attended by a number of millionaires he was surprised how generally his view of this subject was accepted.

Florida built nearly 250 miles of railroad last year. The Tulleries was coined into a medal and presented to Victor Hngo. The famous chestnut tree on Mount Arma measures 210 feet at its base.

Rev. Robert Curtis, of Lowell, says: "It is very characteristic of Boston that politicians consider ignorance of anything whatever something to blush for, as if everybody in Boston ought to know everything that can be known."

Princess Victoria, the second daughter of the Crown Prince of Germany, is betrothed to Prince Leopold, the hereditary Prince of Anhalt. The Princess is 17 years old, and the Prince is eleven years her senior.

Summer: Tourist Dictionary. ANT. A lively insect, found only in the country, where it exists in a state of excited uncertainty.

CREAM. A pale blue fluid, composed of aqua pura, peroxide of hydrogen and some other substances. Used to astonish berries and frighten rebellious coffee.

EGGS. A spheroidal body, containing the germ of a new individual of its species, in a stage of growth or less development, as the case may be and sometimes is.

KEY. A sharp and staple by means whereof you can fasten your bed-room door on the outside and then climb in through the window.

MEADOW. A place out of which you are ordered every time you venture into it. Before the long grass is cut the farmer orders you out. After the mowing is done the Durham bull talks base every time you look over the fence and you don't want to go in.

PHILLO. A long-not too long-narrow sack, or case containing a handful of feathers at each end and nothing in the middle. Said by people who never tried it to be an excellent thing to rest the head upon while sleeping.

YARE. Any green thing that can be dried and made into a most horrible, nauseous and bitter tea. Believed to possess wonderful medical virtues.

What an "impression" is? "Ah, I have an impression!" exclaimed Dr. McCosh, the President of Princeton College, to the mental philosophy class.

There is a movement in Cleveland, as there is in Chicago, to establish a Manual Training School similar to the flourishing school in St. Louis.

EUROPEAN TRAVEL. In these days everybody wants to "go abroad," from the respectable "Mr. Gill," who is so "ill," to the country school-mistress, the sore-throated minister, and the perennial bride and groom.

Now, the outfit. A steamer chair for each person, and two moderately large trunks for the four. Arriving in Liverpool, you will leave your trunks there with your heavy wraps and everything carried merely for steamer use.
