Hunting for Heiresses.

Italy is swarming with nobility, whose principal business it is to marry American and English heiresses. The nobles of Italy are, as a rule, poor as church mouse. Count's. The woods are full of them. You couldn't throw a stone without its descending upon the head of a count, and one couldn't put very heavy stones to a much better use. They rather prefer an opera singer or a celebrated actress to an American fortune hunter. The worst of them can marry an Italian nobleman at any time, who will be the most accommodating of husbands so long as he is provided with money enough. And when she tires of him completely and is fixed in her position, he is to be taken rid of quite as easily as he was taken on. As in the case of marriage, it is only a question of money—a certain sum paid down, and he consents to leave her to herself and her last fancy. They are a most complaisant set of men. It isn't necessary to inherit the title at all. You can buy it if you choose, with a castle and mor-gaged estate thrown in. A real nobleman, an English nobleman, who can show descent from a long line of robbers, is not sought after. The mustach-ed Italian nobleman, the mustach-ed, beribboned fellows who are trying to trade their titles for the means to turn the stomach of almost anybody's sense. Old Jones, with his oil-smelling dollars, is a prince beside them. His money is honestly earned, at all events, and he has done it. The world comes to him. The fellows were created for as much a mystery as the use of mosquitoes or rattlesnakes.

A Ghastly Floating Funeral.

The night of our arrival, says T. B.

Aldrich, in his new book, was one of those unearthly moonlight nights that belong to Italy. The Arno, changed to a stream of quicksilver, flowed swiftly

through the stone arches of the Ponte

Vecchio under our windows, and lurled

so very narrow that you saw only a hand's breadth of amethystine sky between the tops of the tall buildings.

Standing in the middle of the thoroughfare, I could almost touch the shutters

of the shops right and left. At the upper end of the street, which was at least three-quarters of a mile in length, the overhanging fronts of the lofty houses seemed to meet and shut out the dense moonlight. In the desperate struggle which took place there between the moon and the gloom a hundred fantastic shadows slipped from coign and cor-nic and fell into the street—below like besiegers flung from the ramparts of some old castle. Not a human being or a light was anywhere visible. Suddenly I saw what, for an instant, I took to be a falling star in the extreme distance. It approached in a zigzag course.

It broke into several stars; these grew larger; then I discovered they were forces. A low monotonous chant, like the chant of a choir of demons in an opera, reached my ear. The chant momentarily increased in distinctness, and as the torches drew nearer, I saw that they were carried by fifteen or twenty persons marching in a square, in the middle of which was a bier supported by a number of ghastly figures. The procession was sweeping down on me at the rate of six miles an hour; the training flapped in the wind caused by the

Does Mining Pay?

George W. Peck, in a recent letter from Denver, says: Mining, like Mormonism, is liable to be overdone. If there was a dog whistle inserted in every mining hole in Colorado, that has never panned out a cent, and a steam fog whistle inserted in every hole that has paid enough to speak of, and all should blow over, the dog whistles would drown the fog whistles by a great majority. If all the abandoned mining holes in the hills had voices, and could tell the days of hard work, days of suffering and starvation, of the nights of sleeplessness, and dreams of gold never to be realized, of the weary steps homeward on empty stomachs, of the poor, deluded fellows who came here believing that gold could be got anywhere,

those voices would make new comers pay attention. If the trails over the mountains and across the snow, could tell of the heavy hearts that have been over them, and could picture the thoughts of home and loved ones that the pilgrims have indulged in, as with bruised feet they plodded along towards the mirage Colorado, and of the places where tired and heart-broken men have lain down to die, there would not be so many people getting crazy over mining.

But probably I have said enough to show that I am not much mashed on mining; and if these few words shall lead any man who has decided to put a few hundred dollars into a wild-cat

Ypsilanti: The "code" prevents physicians from advertising, but when an item reads that Dr. So-and-so succeeds fully in doing something, Dr. What's-his-name steps up and desires a correction made; it was he who did it, and So-and-so only assisted.

The Adrian Times exposes an attempt recently made by G. P. Rustin, a Washington sharper, to defraud a widow of Adrian, who had a pension claim pending. He pretended to be a clerk in the pension bureau, and wanted to act the part of a "confidential friend."

Ex-postmaster Clark, of Ann Arbor, whose accounts were $21,900 short, has offered his bondsmen 100 acres of land, a printing office and a store building, if they will make good the deficiency. They decline to do so, and give him ten days in which to raise the cash. Michigan Farmer.

There is no legal bar against a man's marrying his mother-in-law, yet we seldom hear of a man doing such a thing. If it should be forbidden by statute a certain number of persons would be crazy to do just that foolish thing. Such is the attractiveness of forbidden fruit. There is an old story of a French woman who said that the only regret she felt about ice cream was that "God had not made eating it a sin." It lacked nothing but the indescribable flavor of forbidden fruit.

An exchange is afraid that the much abused, but useful toad, is threatened with extinction in all cultivated fields, where food crushers and cultivators of various types are used. The exchange argues that the toad is as useful in its place as the implement of tillage which is driven over its back so thoroughly, and thinks that if a garden is without toads it will pay the owner to purchase them for stock, for although the modern toad is without "the jewel in his head," still he has a capacious stomach in which there is always room for one more food-destroying bug or worm.

WAMPLER'S LAKE.

Mr. Gilles of Onondaga, is house hunting in this vicinity.

A. L. Smith & Tracy commenced threshing last Tuesday.

J. B. Wells of Clinton, who has been west for the past twenty months, has started for home.

There are about 150 teachers present at the teachers institute which is being held at Tecumseh.

Frederick Warde, the tragedian, will appear in "Virginius" at Adrian, Saturday evening, August 25th.

There has been no wool shipped from Clinton this season, and the News wonders if the wheat market will be as dull.

The Tecumseh correspondent of the Adrian Times says that twenty lone maidens have taken the Putnam cottage at Sand Lake, and are having a lovely time in their loneliness.

The Adrian Times reports the result of the Adrian scientific exploration in the ancient Indian mound in Cambridge township and says: By far the most peculiar feature was the lower jaw, which had lost five teeth long before death. Between the right incisors, or front teeth, a white stone of about the thickness of the neighboring teeth had been inserted and bent the teeth.

Jackson County Items.

Clarence, a 12-year old son of S. S. Heywood of Jackson, was drowned last evening.

An apple tree on the old Charley Brown farm, near Norvell, is said to be in full bloom.

Capt. Nathan Dean, one of the earliest pioneers of Jackson county, died at his home near Parma, Monday night.

Someone left a jar of pickles on the Grass Lake News editor's front porch lately. He is a pretty sharp fellow now.

Tank Kee, the Chinese lecturer, gave such satisfaction at Grass Lake that he has been engaged to deliver his fall course of six lectures there late in the fall.

J. C. Deye of Jackson, has sold his promising young horse "Harry Vilas," to W. K. Thorne of Newport, R. I., a brother-in-law of W. H. Vanderbilt.

The fifth annual farmers picnic of Jackson county, will be held at Clark's lake, August 16th. An address will be delivered by Judge Johnson of Jackson.

Latham Cassin, an old and hitherto respected citizen of Jackson, has been arrested for stealing money from the news depot of L. S. Moore, whom he had been in the habit of assisting voluntarily in his business.

About half the female population of this village were out on the street last Saturday evening chewing gum, on a regular gum bum, as it were.—Brooklyn Exponent.—We wonder how they can bear to chew such amusement.

A well in Tompkins township, Jackson county, which has been repeatedly cleaned still gives out a putred odor. Some of the water was recently analyzed and it has been decided that probably some antediluvian monster is deeply imbedded in the drift formation, as the water is heavily charged with products of decomposition of animal matter.

The Grass Lake village school house has been considerably repaired this summer. New floors have been laid throughout, and new and improved seats and desks have been put in the high school and grammar departments. They are to heat the building by a furnace costing $3000. The building is to be thoroughly painted, grained and kalsomined. The entire outlay will be about $10,000.

Ann Arbor has a colored lawyer, named E. B. Thompson.

CLUB PICNIC.

The Southern Washtenaw and Norvell Farmers Clubs will picnic at Sand Lake and have a big cat on Friday, Aug. 17th.

At the last meeting of the Southern Washtenaw Farmers Club a committee was selected to make arrangements for the annual picnic, and the Norvell club was invited to join in the festivities. The committee suggested that instead of having a basket picnic we go to some hotel at Sand Lake and have them get up a good dinner. The project received favor from the first and the Norvell club being unanimously in favor of it, appointed a committee to meet the committee from the S. W. and make arrangements. Consequently on Saturday last Jas. Hay of the Norvell club and Frank Spafard and Mat D. Blosser of the S. W. met at Sand Lake and made arrangements with Mr. Putnam, proprietor of the new hotel on the south side of the lake, for accommodations of the members of the two clubs and such friends as they may wish.

It is expected that about 80 persons will be in attendance if the day is favorable, and it is to be hoped that nothing will occur to mar the pleasure of the occasion.

Each member will be provided with as many tickets as he needs at 40 cents each, and no one will be admitted to the dining room without a ticket. This will prevent outsiders from intruding and will give the members and their guests an opportunity of listening to the toasts, etc., without unobtrusiveness.

There are plenty of row boats on the lake which are hired for 25 cents each an hour, or 50 cents a day.

There are good stables for horses supplied with hay and grain which will be furnished at moderate prices.

Capt. Hullbut, an experienced sailor, has a fine large sail boat in which the most timid need have no fear to ride. He will take you across the lake for 10 cents, and we hope all will avail themselves of the opportunity as it will add much to the pleasures of the day.

Should any prefer to stop at Charley Adam's on the north side of the lake, they will find ample accommodations for their horses and plenty of good dry row boats with which to reach the south side of the lake or Mr. Adam will signal the sail boat to come after them.

There are large shady groves near each hotel in which people are allowed to roam at their pleasure and the sloping beach offers excellent opportunities for those who desire to bathe.

The committee have done everything to make the day one of pleasure and hope that there will be a large turnout from both clubs.

Should Friday the 17th prove to be a rainy day the following day has been selected for the picnic.

Washtenaw County Items.

The steam heating apparatus in the Episcopal church, at Ann Arbor, will cost about $1,500.

The annual meeting of pioneer society will be held in Ann Arbor the first Wednesday in September.

The Democrat says it will take 200 tons of coal to keep the court house and county farm people from freezing this winter.

During the past winter the Workingmen's Aid Society has paid out over $700 in relief of their members and families. That is good work.

Ypsilanti: Thos. Fitzsimmons of Jackson, was in the city this morning, on his way to Bridgewater, where he will visit his wife's parents.

We are in receipt of the premium list of the 35th annual fair of the Washtenaw county agricultural society, to be held at Ann Arbor, Oct. 2d to 5th.

Memorial services of the late Mrs. J. C. Wortley of Saline, who was killed in the railroad accident at Carlson, N. Y., will be held at the M. E. church in Saline next Sunday morning.

The Leader says that on July 1st, N. H. Johnson of the town of Dexter, commenced weighing the milk of a six year old cow, and in ten days she gave 332 pounds of milk. Next!

The Saline Observer thinks that the Clark Bros., of that village, made the earliest purchase of this year's wheat of any one in the county. They bought and stored a lot last week Wednesday.

Ypsilanti: Ben. Joslyn informs us that he is negotiating for a startling exhibit at the state fair, being no less than the explosion of his balloon in mid-air and a descent by means of a parachute.

The County Board of School Examiners will hold an examination at the court house in Ann Arbor, on Friday, Aug. 24, 1888, for the special accommodation of those who wish to begin their schools early.

The County Teacher's Institute will be held this year at Saline, from August 27th to 31st inclusive. It will be conducted by Prof. C. H. Thomas, of Saginaw, city, assisted by Prof. Haynes, of Hillsdale, and Mrs. Ford, of Detroit.

As Louis Emmer, of Bridgewater, was going into the field to work a few days ago, in passing by a swamp he observed a large black racer lying on a log, and not daring to attack him with a club, fear the snake would get away, he went to the house and got his gun and shot it. The snake measured nine feet and five inches in length.

Gus. Weis of Freedom, had two barns burned Thursday afternoon. There were 24 tons of hay in one and between 300 and 400 bushels of grain the other. Insured in the German Washtenaw Ins. Co., $100 apiece on the barns and $500 on the grain. A neighbor had a small stack of wheat near by, which was also burned. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

WEDDING BELLS.

About 60 guests were assembled at the old homestead of the Rowe's, in Sharon, on Tuesday morning, August 7th, to witness the ceremony of uniting Miss Emily Alice Stringham of Ann Arbor, and Dr. F. E. Dresser of St. Ignace, in holy bonds of matrimony. Mr. & Mrs. Everett of Chelsea, Mr. & Mrs. Fred Rowe of Missouri, Mr. & Mrs. Whitney, Mr. & Mrs. Chas. Dresser, Mr. Woodward and daughter, Miss Young and Mr. Adams of Brooklyn, and Dr. Bessie of Manchester, were among the many guests. At 12:30 Rev. Condit, of Manchester, entered the spacious parlors accompanied by the bridal party and the happy pair were soon made one. They were supported by Miss Florence Woodward and Mr. Ara H. Palmer of Brooklyn. The presents were numerous and very fine.

The happy couple leave on Monday for their future home, St. Ignace, Mich. Thirty-nine years ago the father and mother of the bride were married at the same homestead.

The editor acknowledges the receipt of some fine wedding cake and joins in wishing the happy couple joy and prosperity.

Burdette and the Editor.

The New York Graphic says that one day when Bob Burdette was in New York—Hawkeye Burdette, I mean—he went to the Evening Express office and met the then managing editor Chamberlain. Concealing his identity, Bob told a touching story of his struggles in a country newspaper office, and his desire to try his hand at the metropolitan grind. Mr. Chamberlain received the modest applicant with great dignity and no encouragement. Finally he asked for samples of the ambitious countryman's literature. Bob handed him one of his unpolished sketches, done in his happiest vein. "A person who writes such rot as this," calmly and jellily explained Mr. Chamberlain, "can never hope to succeed in journalism. He should get a job of hoeing corn." The joke did not look half so funny to Mr. Chamberlain as it did to the always genial Bob, after the managing editor discovered who his visitor really was, and the more particularly that at that time the Express was copying conspicuously from Burdette's Hawk eye contributions.

A curious exhibition has lately been given in the north of London. It consisted of nothing but an array of eight ends collected during seven years, zig-zagging up and down the metropolitan thoroughfares. The enterprising collector reckons that in this time he has traveled nearly 12,000 miles on foot, and has picked up 600,000 pieces of cigars, averaging an inch and a half each. He is said to have valued his stock thus literally composed of odds and ends at 1,500 pounds.

A railroad company in Ohio has adopted a new system of timetables. The hours are numbered from one up to twenty-four, the latter being midnight. The other night one of the railroad officials went home at four before midnight, and which his wife demonstrated with him to be wrong in at such an unusual hour, the station agent, "Why, my dear, that is just twenty-four, not twelve. Look you know he was pretty good."

A German paper, in translating Yankee Doodle, says: "The word doodle signifies a lazy scoundrel, a hummer."

Statistics show that the growth of the State of Kansas is yearly increasing beyond the consumption.

A. N. Meals, of Moberly, Mo., recently sold a circus man a cow weighing over 8,000 pounds.

Sugar made from beets is only two-thirds as sweet as that made from cane.

The Kansas City Journal says that within five terms, covering 15 months, St. Louis courts have granted 1,000 divorces.

Tucson means adobe. The Papago Indians gave the city that name from the clayey soil about it, used for building.

Montana is so infested by bears that the authorities pay $24 for each scalp taken. Montana has 80,000 inhabitants.

When traveling on a railroad it is said that lying with the head toward the engine will sometimes remove a headache.

Mr. Beecher tried an incubator and got twenty chickens from 500 eggs. He is ashamed to venture into the poultry-yard again.

The genius who made "blood" oranges by injecting aniline into them with a sharp-pointed syringe, has been detected and the game spoiled.

Lord Randolph Churchill purposes showing that the Khedive of Egypt was the real author of the massacre at Alexandria.

There is a great deal of rottenness in Massachusetts outside of Fowebury if, as stated, there are 10,000 divorce cases in the courts of that State.

A Portuguese physician reports that he has cured seven cases of hydrophobia by simply rubbing garlic into the wound and giving the patient a decoction of garlic drink for several days.

The coming servants will not be foreigners, but American Indian girls from government schools. This will the Indians once more rule the land they once possessed.

If tears of sympathy were selling at a million dollars a drop we wouldn't give two cents for all that will be shed in behalf of McGeech and his fellows.

A New York colored man has brought a suit for damages—$250 is the sum mentioned—for 8 ounces of blood removed from his arm for transfusion purposes.

Hot Springs, Ark., with all its welling springs, complains of the quality of the water furnished by the water company. It tastes and smells, it is tainted and unhealthy.

The fishermen at Cogsville, Oregon, have raised a fund sufficient to employ men during the next two months to shoot sea lions. They are said to prevent the salmon from running up the rivers.

The Baltimore American says: "It has been proved that a Jersey cow can give twenty-five and one-quarter pounds of butter per month. The question isn't whether she can, but will she? That's what we want to know."

The first apple tree raised on the Pacific coast, from seed sent out on a Hudson Bay Company's ship to Vancouver in 1826, is said to be still standing on the Government reserve near Vancouver.

The reason why the bitterness of Matthew Arnold's tongue, when speaking of America, has recently turned to sweetness, may be found in the fact that he is coming here to lecture and rake in a few American dollars.

Up to 1876 the standard capacity of freight was 20,000 pounds. In 1877 a few were built to carry 30,000, and since 1879 the standard cars, both of the East and West, have been built to carry 40,000 pounds.

The water of the holy well at Mecca has been found, on analysis, to contain 579 grains of sulfur matter to the gallon, and is seven times worse than the sewerage of London. This explains the prevalence of cholera among pilgrims.

While cleaning a Baptist meeting house in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, recently, the sexton found in the loft about two bushels of shells of hickory nuts which the sexton had deposited there last fall for winter use.

A Brooklyn Heights girl, disguised as a maid-servant, was chased the sidewalk of her father's residence with the hose for the sake of getting a chance to turn the water on a duder who insisted upon making love to her.

President Eliot of Harvard, mailed a circular to the parents and guardians of all the graduates inquiring whether they had daily morning prayers in their own households. He received 741 replies, and five men out of every seven said they did not.

It is said that a certain gray-haired old beggar in New York is a lady who was once engaged to be married to Justice Salmon P. Chase, and who became a fortune teller after her engagement was broken. Her name, it is ascertained, is Lucy E. Malcom, who was once a very beautiful woman.

Hubert O. Thompson, New York's Commissioner of Public Works and most active politician, is the son of Cephas G. Thompson, the well known artist; his brother Jerome is also an artist, his mother was a near relative of Anna Cora Mowatt Ritchie, and he himself gained a name as a portrait painter before he became a politician.

A pleasant little story comes from Georgia. A young man of Macon, while camping out with a party of friends, was heard to snore in his sleep. "For heaven's sake, stand aside! that picture will kill you!" It was afterward ascertained that his snore, at about the same time narrow-escaped being killed by a falling piece under which she was standing at her home.

Mr. Page McCarthy, who figures as the second of Elinor Beirne in the last lamentable divorce case, is the gentleman who killed young Mordcau, of Richmond, in a duel just after the war. About a year ago he challenged Congressmen Knickerbocker, but Mr. Knickerbocker, who was a near warm-hearted general fellow, and the last person who would be suspected of duelistic proclivities.

General Pleasanton says the only mistake General Crook made during his last campaign against the Indians was in not leaving the captured hostiles in the care of the Mexicans, who would have given them a pleasant passage to the happy hunting grounds and relieved the Cabinet of the embarrassment of determining what must be done with the slaughtering wretches.

Hints on Sleep.

The question of chief importance to most people in this overworked world is how to get a good night's sleep.

In the first place, people should have a regular time for going to sleep, and it should be as soon as can well be after sunset.

People who sleep at any time, according to convenience, get less benefit from their sleep than others, getting sleep becomes more difficult, there is a tendency to nervous excitability and a tendency to nervous depression.

The more organized people are, the greater the difficulty and the danger from this cause. The first thing in order to sleep well is to go to bed at a regular hour, and make it as early as possible.

The next thing is to exclude all worry and exciting subjects of thought from the mind some time before retiring.

The body and mind must be let down from the high-pressure strain before going to bed, so that nature can assert her rightful supremacy afterward.

Another point is, never thwart the drowsy impulse when it comes at the regular time by special efforts to keep awake.

The drowsiness is the advance guard of healthy, restorative sleep. Sleep is a boon which must not be tampered with and put off, for if compelled to wait, it is never so perfect and restful as if taken in its own natural time and way.

The right side is the best to sleep on, except in special cases of disease, and the position should be nearly horizontal.

Finally, the evening meal should be composed of food most easily digested and assimilated, so that the stomach will have little hard work to do.

A heavy, rich dinner taken in the evening stimulates the system and interferes with sleep next to impossible.

Narcotics are to be avoided, save as used in cases of disease by competent physicians. The proper time, according to Dr. Corning, to treat sleeplessness is in the day-time, and it must be treated by a wise and temperate method of living rather than by medicines.

This is good common sense, says the New York Star, from which paper we copy, and doubtless a vast deal of debility, nervous derangement, and the insanity of our time would be prevented by more good, restful, natural sleep.

How He Won Her.

"I tell you, sir," indignantly exclaimed Colonel Webley, addressing a young man who aspired to the hand of his only child, "that I shall never give my consent to a union which I know would be unhappy."

"We love each other," replied young Balauff.

"Love is eternally blowed! So I could have said years ago, I was devoted to the woman I married, and she was devoted to me."

"You have lived happily with each other, have you not?"

"Happily!" the colonel contemptuously repeated. "I didn't have money enough to insure happiness."

"I am a man, must have money. His wife may be devoted to him, but if he fails to provide those little delicacies which make life so enjoyable to a woman, she will soon get tired of him."

"I am a young man of energy and good business capacity. I can work and earn money."

"No use in prolonging this conversation. I have told you that you shall not marry my daughter. I shall keep a close watch and if I see you here again, I shall act with violence."

"Well, colonel," said the young man with firmness, "the gentleman's re-uses have failed. I am compelled to adopt the last resort. Some time ago, before you suspected that I was attached to your daughter, you borrowed ten dollars from me."

"The colonel sat for a moment in deep thought. Finally he said, 'say, Bob, don't say anything about the ten dollars, lend me five more and take the girl.'"

A Wildcat Fishing.

When the wildcat fishes it is in this sort of way. He leaps from the bank on to a large stone or boulder well out in the stream, and, assuming a crouching position, waits with the admirable patience so characteristic of his kind for such a chance as a kind providence may send him.

Into that eddy a trout is sure to sail from time to time, partly to rest himself, and partly because it is a likely place for such insects and flies as happen to alight upon the stream to be carried by the surface of the water.

The trout that visits the eddy in order to enjoy a brief rest is safe enough while he is resting, for he is there without the movement of a fin, quietly lying on the gravel at the bottom, but in his first dash to the surface after a fly has alighted on his back, as a flash and with uttering a faint cat's mew, with his ready right paw, and in an instant, with the claws deep sunk in his speckled flank, the poor, foolish trout is flopping helplessly under his captor's whiskers on the top of the boulder.

If the cat is very hungry, and happens to miss his aim, he has been seen to dash, leaping into the stream, fairly falling in such a case to the nearest bank, and when he straightway begins to eat, beginning at the tail and eating it onwards, bones and all, till not a scrap of remains.

Fresh proof of the danger of inking an excited person's hands having lung diseases, have been given by a characteristic French experiment. M. Giboux took four young, healthy rabbits from the same litter, and kept them for 105 days in cages as follows: Two were placed in a cage where they were obliged to breathe the air expired from animals with consumption, twice a day for two hours, in a short time they became sickly, and, on killing them, they were found to have tubercles in the lungs. The other two breathed twice a day the same air, but disinfected by being passed through cotton wadding saturated with carbolic acid; these rabbits remained in good health, and were finally eaten by the experimenter.

Successful Book Agents.

"I have been told that there's a book canvasser who has earned $25,000 in a week. Is that so?" a San reporter said to Mr. George Washington Davis, who is in charge of the canvassing department of D. Appleton & Co.

"You may judge for yourself," said Mr. Davis, pulling out a memorandum book. "This firm has paid $20,000 to Mr. Samuel Collins since September last for his personal services in canvassing for one book, 'Artistic Houses.'"

"Is not that an exceptional amount?" "That is a large sum, but Mr. Collins has been a book canvasser for fifteen years, and has made a handsome income. He began at $10 a week. The book sells for $3.00 a set. One of our agents made $2,000 in one month selling Appleton's Cyclopaedia. Such men think it a poor week when they do not earn $100. One of our canvassers, named Rust, earned $1,248 in ten weeks selling the 'Art Journal.' Another earned $750 in a month selling 'The Gallery of British Art.' I could give you the name of a woman who has earned $357 in one week selling our books. There is Mr. Fowke, who has been forty years a book canvasser. I should say he averaged $10,000 a year by his personal sales. He has sold many sets of the Cyclopaedia. There is a lady who has just come in who earns $2,500 a year. I suppose there are fifty men in this country who are earning $100 a week as book agents."

"Of course, these are not the sort of men that funny paragraphs are written about. They are gentlemen who are good conversationalists. People like to hear them talk, and they know how to talk to the right people. They ride in carriages, dress well, and lose no time. They know thoroughly what they have to sell and how to sell it. We can depend on them to sell a given quantity."

"Could they take any kind of books and earn such wages?" "Probably not. The most money is made in selling expensive books. Publishers in this direction now. This firm put $500,000 into the Cyclopaedia before they got a cent back. They put $200,000 into 'Picturesque America' before they began to get their money back. That sells for $24 a copy. If we depend on the trade to sell it, we should have sold 8,300 a copy to make it pay. Agents sell books that could not be sold any other way. People will not go to stores to look for books, but when they see really good books offered in the right way they will buy. The best books are now published by subscription."

"Do you find women or men the best agents?" "Men. There has been some successful women agents, but they do not show the same perseverance as men."

"Do men often fail?" "Oh, yes. I try 3,000 people a year who think they can make good canvassers, and I think I am lucky if I get ten good canvassers out of the 3,000. It is like any other business, and requires brains, aptitude and perseverance. Mere brass and assurance will not do. A good book agent must be a pleasant person."

"How do you find them?" "They come to us. 'The most prolific source for good canvassers is men who solely after a business gain. Men who do not care for money, and have no capital but brains, often begin as book agents, and get a fresh start in life. Sometimes they keep at the canvassing only until they get capital to begin business again. Sometimes they keep on for good. The demand for good book agents is high, and likely to increase.'"—New York Star.

"The Barber Refuses to Talk." "I shall not indigne more to say," said the German barber near the Cooper Institute, while he was shaving the reporter yesterday, "unless something so ridiculous happens I can keep my mouth shut. I'm tired of talking. I'd advise natural. A barber is like a man you got him to talk for a sign. It's the sign of his indignation and a red doo mark to say. It's so strange for a barber to be all the time talking people like me as if I was a sort of a curiosity."

"I've almost such a hot vedder like dis a year ago ven you first came py my shop and began to make in der bar. I've volentary, but my indignation is so wild. If you look me some books to found out vich von of my business you vos, and I must say I vos surprised von I found it vos you yourselves. You are der first reborder I ever saw, and I never should had suspected you if I didn't found you out. I subscribed a reborder was some strange animal and a red doo mark to say. It's so strange for a barber to be all the time talking people like me as if I vos a sort of a curiosity."
