THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1894.

THE BROOKLYN FAIR.

The Third Annual Exhibition—A Large List of Entries but a Very Rainy Week.

The stockholders of the Brooklyn Fair Association have but little respect for the weather clerk because he sent rain to spoil the fair. Of course we needed the rain but why not have sent it last week, it certainly would have been better for the farmer, and just a little more convenient for them. It is a wet day that the ENTERPRISE man gets discouraged.

The fair grounds are about a half mile south of the business part of the village, which is reached by one of the finest roads we have ridden over in some time. The grounds are conveniently laid out, well fenced and watered, and supplied with good stables for horses, stalls for cattle, sheep and swine; a building for showing carriages, wagons, etc.; a fine, large floral hall, a building for ladies waiting and toilet, and a substantial and ample grand stand, commanding a full view of the half mile track which is said to be one of the fastest in Michigan.

The officers of the association are N. G. King, President; O. R. Culver, Secretary; W. S. Culver, Treasurer, with an efficient board of directors. P. W. Aldrich is General Superintendent and the various departments are under the superintendency of capable men. No intoxicating liquors are permitted on the grounds and no gambling or games of chance are allowed. The Episcopal society have a restaurant on the grounds where the wants of the inner man can be supplied at a reasonable price.

Tuesday the first day was spent by exhibitors in getting articles and stock in position and they were considerably belated on account of the rain. The attendance was small and exhibitors went to bed thinking the fair would prove a failure but Wednesday morning came with a bright, smiling sun and their hearts grew warm and their faces brighter.

A glance at the secretary's books showed a larger number of entries than last year, they being very full in every department, especially so in regard to stock. There were 150 horses entered, 91 besides the speed horses. There were 75 entries of cattle and sheep and hogs in proportion. Among the prominent horse breeders mentioned were N. C. Crupch, of Liberty, and Vaughn of Jackson. In cattle there were A. P. Cook, of Brooklyn, Merchant Kelley and Field of Columbia. In sheep, Kinney and Sheeler of Cambridge and Bartlett of Columbia.

Floral hall it is said never looked so beautiful as now, indeed the display in household fabrics, fancy goods, plants and flowers, vegetables, cereals, organs, hardware, sewing machines, etc., is very good and far exceeds our expectation. The rain came down just after dinner and wet the ardor of the most sanguine, putting a stop to everything excepting the miniature river seen running in every direction. There was to have been some good trotting, but all bets if any were made, were declared off and the steppers were re-blanketed and put to bed, all on account of the rain sir. And while we are speaking of the rain let us say that it prevented the ENTERPRISE man from making his usual tour of inspection, but he will be seen before the close and will give a full account next week.

Hillsdale Democrat. There are 1,160 insane persons in the two State asylums in Michigan, and besides these there are many hundreds in county asylums, poor-houses, and private retreats. There will be no trouble in filling the new State asylum now being built at Traverse City, and, if the idea of caring for all the insane by the State prevails, it will perhaps be necessary to build a fourth asylum.

Freel Ackerman, a seven years convict at the prison was discharged last Tuesday, as his time had expired but he refused to go, stating that he had kept track of the time and knew he had another year to serve. He is undoubtedly insane.

It was intended to have all the children home once more, perhaps for the last time; All were present except Doctor Emmet, who was called away on an urgent case just as he had started for Bridgewater.

Lenawee County Items.

Forest fires have been raging in the woods near Riga, Lenawee County. A heavy rain on Monday checked them.

Ben Farmers' boot and shoe store at Adrian was broken into Sunday night and the safe blown open. What money it contained was taken, but the amount was not large.

A few days ago Asa Day of Adrian fell in his room, while dressing, and broke one of his legs, and from this injury with his extreme age death resulted on Sunday. He was 91 years old.

Times. The water has not resumed flowing at the mineral well, and the drill is being kept in operation night and day. There is no gas escaping from the well at present, and the water which fills it nearly to the surface is perfectly clear and tasteless. The well is certainly an interesting problem.

The woman who wants to look utterly flat and silly in the eyes of all common-sense people has only to pin a sunflower to her left shoulder. It answers just as well as if she carried her tongue hanging out.—Free Press.

It is said that people of the northern towns in the state wont believe that there was an earthquake last Friday. They think it was only a spell of Michigan ague that the folks down here fell.

From Baldwin.

WILLIAMSTON, MICH., SEPT. 20, '94. Friend Blosser. It has been some time since you have heard from me, and I think I will write you a short letter.

I have been a sort of a "wandering Jew" as it were since I worked in Pontiac, skipping all around the state. Have been at work during the latter part of the summer at Vassar, Tuscola county, in the Times office; good place but slow pay.

Vassar is quite a pretty little place with a population of about 1,600, on the Cass river, 21 or 22 miles east of Saginaw, at the junction of the Bay City division of the M. C. R. R. and Pt. Huron & Northwestern R. R. The place has two print shops, the usual quota of dry goods houses, groceries, etc., usually found in country towns; also a woollen mill employing perhaps 25 men, boys and girls. It was at one time a lumbering town, but the pine has been exhausted and farming is the principal occupation now.

Gen Logan passed through Vassar about a week ago en route to Port Huron from Bay City. He made a ten-minute speech at the depot. I did not hear him; too democratic to go to the depot.

At present I am at home, and by the way we had an earthquake here last Friday. The shock that was felt in Ohio, Indiana and southern Michigan extended away up here. It was quite severe here, causing lamps to fall in some instances, and lasted two or three seconds I should judge.

I find that business in the trade is slow all over the state, but all have hopes of a revival after election. M. J. BALDWIN.

Jackson County Items.

The Citizen says the wedding epidemic has struck that city with a vengeance.

Exponent. A gang of railroad carpenters are rebuilding the stock yards at the depot.

Frank Blackman, a carpenter of Jackson, fell from a building last Wednesday and fractured a rib.

The celebrated Indiana orator, General Jasper Packard, will address the people of Jackson next Thursday evening.

Five prisoners were received at the prison at Jackson last week; three from Lenawee county and two from Calhoun.

The assembly hall at Jackson is decided as the most suitable place for holding the Circuit trial as the court room lacks sufficient seating capacity.

The advent camp meeting at Jackson this week is the largest ever held in the United States by that denomination. There are nearly 300 tents on the ground.

Citizen.—H. Watkins, an insane person of Norvell township, who was sent to Kalamazoo a week ago, was not admitted to the asylum, and will be returned to Jackson.

The Brooklyn Exponent man rises to ask why it is that a girl with pretty dimples can't pass a man on the street without biting her under lip so far as to make them show.

The clearing of the Portage river, in Jackson county, it is said, will lower Portage lake several feet, which will drain a large area of marsh, and heretofore worthless land and make it valuable as meadow and plow land.

Ypsilanti Sentinel The daily paper is supposed to be the picture of daily life. Alas, for daily life, if this supposition were correct. The daily paper is little else than the story of murder, rape, suicide, robbery, arson, defalcation, and unclassified crime. In the treatment of other matters, it is frivolous, capitious, unjust and vilipendous. Such daily life as the daily pictures, alone, would be hell on earth, and consume itself. It only continues because belief it flows a broad and deep current of honest, law-abiding, serious, God-fearing daily life, which the paper does not reflect and of which it knows nothing. The daily paper catches the froth, foulness, and filth of daily life.—That is all.

It is said that air staked lime is a sure remedy for weevil in wheat in the granary, and we advise those whose wheat is infested with the plague to try a liberal use of the harmless remedy.

The depositors of Loomis' suspended Adrian savings bank have held a meeting and propose to demand that a receiver be appointed to find out what there is in the concern.

Due to the efforts of president Phipps Parsons and the officers of the state fair, no liquor was sold upon the grounds during the fair, nor was any gambling tolerated.

The new proprietor of the resuscitated Adrian Record, having made quite a good daily, now proposes to issue a weekly also.

Gen. Butler makes a tour of Michigan shortly. He will be in Jackson on the 4th of October, and address the people.

Misfits for Men.

"Misfits are partly a fact, partly an advertisement," remarked the clothing dealer. "It isn't a very original idea, but with whom it has been a feature for many years. There are misfits and misfits. Sometimes a cutter makes a serious mistake, and a coat or trousers cannot be used by the customer; but the mistake must be a very bad one which a good tailor can't fix up. Misfits of this sort are hard things to dispose of, as you'll have to wait a long time before you'll get a buyer to suit. A fellow, a stranger, orders a suit, pays a deposit, and goes away and never comes back. The courts say you've got to hold it for what it will bring. This happens much oftener than you think. Sometimes it's a man who is tight, sometimes it's a gambler or crook who's made what they call a 'winner,' but more often it's a visitor to the city who suddenly finds he's spent nearly all his money and has just got enough to reach home with. Now and then a man of this kind will come in, make a clean breast of it, and want us to divide the profit."

"Do you ever divide?" "Not too often. Supposing a man orders a twenty-five-dollar suit, and pays twelve dollars on account. If he comes back and pays the balance our profit is, say, six dollars. If he don't come, and we sell it as a misfit, we won't get more than sixteen or eighteen dollars for it, and then have to wait some time before I could get a buyer to suit him three or four dollars back and call it square. Not many do come back, however, and they are chiefly gamblers who are out of luck, and have got to have some money."

"Why are so many misfits of queer colors?" "That's another point. Every year there are some enterprising makers or manufacturing houses that will start new styles. Sometimes they make a hit and do very well. One Broadway house last year got hold of a neat plaid pattern and sold it don't know how much of it. After an article catches the public fancy, especially if it's imported, it takes time for a rival house to get the goods in, and the goods in the market. But just as often the venture fails, and then we misfit dealers buy up the unsalable stock. Now there's a good green-and-red suit which cost eighteen dollars to manufacture. The colors were too loud, and nobody would buy it. I got it very low, and am selling it for fifteen dollars. And so far as style and quality go, it's as good as a twenty-five-dollar suit. Sometimes, too, we buy at auctions and assignees' sales but we don't often get good chances for bargains."

"Then misfits are all new clothes?" "They ought to be, and all here are, but some dealers buy second hand clothes slightly worn, fix them up, and then sell them as new. There are a great many suits who wear a suit only a short time and then give it to one of their servants. A suit like that is almost as good as new. Clean them, sponge and press them, and only a tailor can tell them from a brand-new article."

"There's one particular about 'misfits.' They demoralize a customer. If he can't get something already made to suit him, he won't enter a substantial, but wants a bargain, something cheap and showy. Before I went into misfits I had a number of customers that bought fine imported goods. But now-a-days it's all changed, and all they care for is a cheap article. There ain't so much money in the business as there is in the regular trade, but it's a good deal livelier.—N. Y. Sun.

Babies in Madison Square.

I think I will go and take a glance at the sweet babies at Madison Square. Perhaps the greatest infant in fact just alluded to and the offspring of the languid Vere de Veres we may be able to strike an average which shall restore peace to our perturbed spirits. I don't know that the babies are any prettier, so far as flesh and blood go, here among these little aristocrats—in fact, it's likely they have not the abundance of dimpled flesh which characterizes beauty in young babyhood. No, Nature has shown no favor again here. Dear old mother, she is not to be bribed nor corrupted. She alone is undefeatable, but I am not one of those who scorn the aid of dress, always in an appropriate way—even for little children, and dress and Kate Greenaway have made most fascinating pictures of these enchanting little creatures. No wonder men and women as they cross the park on their way to their offices stop for an instant to gaze on some sweet vision of beautiful babyhood. Certainly the revolution Miss Greenaway has created in children's attire she deserves something more than the mere success her talents have received in imitation, but here the beauty of the copy-right law comes. Miss Greenaway would have made a large fortune, and with perfect honesty, had she been able to control the sale of her books. I was told by an English bookseller that she only received a small sum for the first edition in London, and yet hundreds of thousands have been sold in every country. The book has been translated into every civilized tongue.—Indeed, Mr. Sarony told me to his astonishment he was offered in Spain a year ago a hundred-chiefs with Greenaway pictures on them, and meantime this friend and beautifier of our little children, who has not only done so much for them in outward grace, but has been the means with her charming book of giving them homes and delight, must be satisfied with the scant reward a knowledge of her fame may be to her.—N. Y. Cor. Chicago Tribune.

The following smart remark was made by a seven-year-old boy of our acquaintance. The doctor had come to prescribe for his sister, and suggested that the little boy might also take some of the medicine, as it would do him no harm. "Now," said the little fellow, manfully, "there's nothing the matter with me, and you ain't going to run up a big bill against papa on my account."—Oil City Derrick.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS.

The cider mill boometh. There was a rainbow at sunset last evening. There was an interesting game of polo at the rink last evening. Notwithstanding the low prices farmers are marketing their wheat. The roller skating mania is called zampillarotism, and its catching too. We are willing to sell the sign we asked for last week. We've had rain 'nuff. A committee are making arrangements for a skating party to be held at the rink Wednesday Oct. 1st. Charles Sandford's butter maker has gone home and Charley will run the creamery hereafter. There will be a regular communication of Manchester lodge No. 148 F. & A. M., on Monday evening next. We would call the attention of our citizens to the new advertisement of Green & Green, this week. A solicitor for the Michigan state gazette or business directory, was in town a few days ago and was well patronized. Teachers examinations will be held at Union School hall to-morrow, Friday, in consequence of which there will be no school. We are in receipt of Vol. 11 of official records of the war of the rebellion, for which we are indebted to Hon. Edwin Willits. It is estimated that the business improvements in this village this season will foot up over $10,700, and the season will see over $4,900 worth of improvements in residences. The union temperance meeting at the presbyterian church Sunday evening was attended by a good sized congregation, and seemed to be thoroughly appreciated. The speakers were Revs. Wallace, Saxton and Munger. Peter Neise, of Freedom, brought 11 ears of corn to our office on Saturday that for size are hard to beat. There were six ears of smut-nose and five ears of white dent. The latter weighed 57 pounds. He will try for the garland stove at Kingsley's. Our Little Ones for October is at hand, brimful of good things for the children. Now that the evenings are getting long and cold the little folks will need something to amuse and instruct them in the house, so why not subscribe for this favorite magazine at once. You'll never regret it. We have received a ticket to the 34th annual fair of the Hillsdale county agricultural society at Hillsdale next week. That society persists in having one of the finest exhibitions in the state, and as a special train on the Ypsilanti branch will run there, we have no doubt but that a good many of our readers will go. A telephone message was received Saturday afternoon from Fred Barrett, of Charlotte, stating that he and Harry Sulikris missed the train and consequently could not keep their engagement here at the rink. It was a great disappointment to Mr. Bierman, who had taken special pains to advertise the boys. The October Century contains an interesting sketch of the well-known and eccentric artist, Rosa Bonheur, together with her portrait, several views of her studio, and some of her well-known paintings. Many other illustrated papers are of great interest, while the "open letters" contain much that is significant and timely. The young people will hail the October St. Nicholas with delight, as it is fairly running over with bright instructive papers and pleasing illustrations. An historical, critical and practical article on "Slang" and an anecdotal account of the government school for "Indians at Carle Place, Pa., contain much that is of interest to young and old alike.

PERSONAL.

Miss Nettie Severance is visiting relatives in Jackson. Mrs. George Smith is spending the week in Ypsilanti. Will Youngmans, of Jackson, is visiting his parents in town. J. G. Palmer, of Norvell, made the ENTERPRISE a call Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. John Tracy are visiting relatives in Jackson this week. Dr. Utes, of Lansing, has been spending a few days in town this week. Mrs. Sam. Davis went to Ashtabula, Ohio, last week to visit her parents. Miss Stella English is visiting friends in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti this week. Mrs. Dr. E. M. Conklin, of Tecumseh is spending a few days in town, this week. Richard Mahrie, of Chicago, has our thanks for a copy of the Evening News. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merithew visited relatives in Liberty last Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. McCollum, of Ann Arbor, has been visiting at Wm. Severance's for several days. Mr. J. A. Hayton, of East Saginaw, is again giving instructions in skating at the rink this week. Mrs. Jas. Yerdon returned home from New York where she has been visiting for several weeks. W. H. Pottle returned from New York last Friday evening, where he has bought a large stock of goods. Among the strangers in town last Saturday were George Hulbutt, of Norvell, and Milo Uptake, of Sylvan. We understand Bert Rowe, of Sharon, is going to run a skating rink for his uncle, up in Alma, this winter. Davis went to Bridgewater on Saturday afternoon to try his camera on the Palmer family, and it did not break it. Arch. Gordanier, late of this village, who is now in the grocery business at Clare, is a new subscriber to the ENTERPRISE. We learn that John D. Van Duyn, who has been sick for several months, has been taken to his sister's, Mrs. Amos Dickerson's. Mrs. E. M. Scott goes to Toledo Saturday, where she will be joined Monday by Miss Myra Spafard. They will then start for New York. Mr. Mahrie went to Detroit yesterday to get material for starting a tailor shop. His old friends will be glad to see him in his former business again. Miss Emma Hoy is visiting her brother Frank at Fort Wayne, and from there she intends to go to Kalamazoo and Chicago to spend a few weeks. R. K. Fellows, who has been managing the affairs of his father's estate in Sharon the past summer, returned to his home in Elkhart, Ind., on Saturday. Among those who take in the fair at Brooklyn this week from Manchester are Jas. Yerdon, Chas. Robinson, Harvey Anthony, Geo. Nisle and Mat D. Blosser. Albert Case, brought to the ENTERPRISE office an ear of corn which presents quite a curiosity. It is a large ear from which nine smaller ones are growing. Frank McGinn, our jolly telegraph operator, has been to the Junction and will continue to go there the coming winter, as his wife will remain with her father until spring. Vanderbilt Review. Mrs. Geo. H. Miles and Fred left yesterday on the City of Cleveland for Detroit and Adrian where they will spend two or three weeks visiting friends. Messrs. Moran, McMahon, Cavanaugh and Wheelock have entered upon their second years work at the University. We understand that Fred Kotts will enter the Dental department next week. Congratulations are in order for Dr. and Mrs. Ben. Conklin, of Elk Rapids. It's an eight-pound boy. We have noticed that our Dr. Conklin starts suddenly when he hears the word "grandpa." Our friend and former townsman, A. D. Perkins, of Hillsdale, came here to visit friends over Sunday. His wife has not returned from Elk Rapids, where she has been with her sister for several weeks. Fred Kurfess, jr., who has been away from this village two or three years, came home on Monday for a few days, visit. He makes it his home at Louisville, Ky., and is firing on an engine with good prospects of getting to be engineer soon. Mrs. Chas. Kingsley, of Manchester, attended the late pioneer meeting, and while there met an old friend of her younger days, Mrs. L. Davis, whom she hadn't seen before since 1842, a period of 42 years. And what is singular, she recognized her at sight.—Courier. The friends and acquaintances of Mrs. Ira Watkins, were very much shocked to hear last Sunday P. M., of her death. Wholly unexpected the news came, causing grief and a deep sympathy for her husband, who after so short a married life, is left without a companion. Her illness unexpectedly took a serious turn, and suffering much she passed away on Sunday, Sept. 21st leaving her little babe to battle motherless with life's storms. The funeral occurred on Tuesday P. M. and a large concourse gave every evidence of genuine sympathy with the family, so suddenly called to mourn. Mrs. Watkins was a member of the Manchester Baptist Church, and she was by her most highly esteemed. The funeral services were conducted by the pastor, who spoke of the divine tenderness and approachableness of Christ to all sorrowing and suffering ones, as illustrated by the thronging to Jesus, when the poor woman pressed her way to him, and touched the hem of his garment. A long line of carriages followed her remains to the Norvell cemetery, where Mr. Watkins' deceased friends are buried. Pottle & Lewis handed us the copy for a change of their advertisement too late for change this week. They announce the arrival and opening of the finest selected stocks of seasonable goods and general dry goods and carpets they have purchased yet and we all know that Mr. Pottle has excellent taste and judgment in the selection of goods. Look out for their advertisement next week. Our citizens will have the pleasure of listening to one of the best republican speakers in the state at Goodyear Hall next Tuesday evening Sept. 30th. We refer to Hon. Thos. W. Palmer, of Detroit, U. S. Senator from Michigan. The committee have invited the celebrated Adrian Glee Club to be present and enliven the meeting with songs and that ought to be inducing enough to fill the hall. Mr. Palmer is a very witty speaker and ladies and gentlemen of this vicinity will undoubtedly be well entertained if they go out to hear him. Anyone who thinks that Michigan is behind hand in matters that are all the style is way off the track. If New York could afford an earthquake Michigan certainly could, and so we had one of course. Last Friday afternoon a little before 3 o'clock people in this vicinity noticed a peculiar rumbling, accompanied by several quick successive jars or shocks; that made the windows rattle and in many cases caused doors to swing open, hanging lamps to vibrate and pictures to swing out from the wall. It was too quickly over with to cause great fright, but we hear that in several adjoining towns the people had good cause for fear as it seemed as though the ground had quite lost its equilibrium. Prophecies say there'll probably be another shaking up within a week, but we don't think there's any cause for alarm; for perhaps earthquakes don't shake but once in the same place, especially when a new country is being shaken up for the first time. The fact that the October issue of Outing is the opening number of Volume V, is in itself an evidence of success and growth on the part of this magazine that is very satisfactory to all who believe in the vigorous out door life which it exemplifies and illustrates. The October number is varied and bright in its attractions. Maurice Thompson contributes a delicious sketch, "Browsing and Nibbling," in which the reader gathers, with him, "the savage sweets of primal things." The frontispiece is an illustration of this sketch, by Smedley, and is charming in spirit and detail. The opening chapters promise well both for the reader's interest and the author's growing reputation. "On and off the Lancaster Pike" is an entertaining description of this famous highway running out from Philadelphia, and is packed full of information of value both to wheelmen and the general public. It is from the pen of Jay Howe Adams, and is handsomely illustrated. "A Bicycle Tour on the Continent," a well-written paper by C. H. Vinton, gives picturesque notes of a ride across France to the Rhine. Frederick A. Ober, the well-known writer on Mexican topics, contributes a humorous sketch entitled, "A Search for the Border Ruffian," and George M. Newhall pleasantly discusses the game of cricket as played in America. Horseback riding, yachting, and timing races, afford topics for other interesting and valuable articles. Of the poems, that entitled "To a Dandelion," by Frank D. Sherman, is the most striking. A new feature introduced this month, is the publication of out-door songs, with music. "A Song of the Wheel," the words by Charles E. Pratt and the music by George J. Maus, appears in this issue, and will be followed next month by "A Yachtman's Song," the words and music by L. F. Abbott.

Committee on claims and accounts reported favorably on the following bills, which report was upon motion accepted, the bills allowed and ordered paid as follows: C. C. Bloomfield & Co. $ 7 76 S. H. Perkins 8 75 John Moran 15 00 E. B. Norton 50 00 J. H. Kingsley 34 40 motion to adjourn prevailed. ED. E. ROOT, Village Clerk. Washtenaw County Items. Milan wants a town hall. Ground for the new catholic school at Ann Arbor has been broken and work is progressing favorably. Rev. E. W. Miller, of Clinton, will preach at the Bridgewater town hall next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. The editor of the Ann Arbor Register would not make a good fashion editor; he can't tell an old hat from a new one. John Porter, a lad of 15 years has been sent to the reform school at Lansing, for stealing a ride on the cars at Ann Arbor. C. M. Hubbell, of Ypsilanti, exhibited at the state fair last week a ton and a half of vegetables, and received the premium of $75. Robert Howard, janitor at the university, while repairing the roof of the main building last Wednesday, fell from the scaffold and broke his wrist. Billington, the Ann Arbor correspondent of the Evening News, who struck that old man with a club, has been arrested on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. The October meeting of the Washtenaw Pomological Society will be omitted on account of the County Fair. A fine display of fruit and farm and garden produce is expected at the fair. Allen P. Bentley, of Ypsilanti, has secured letters patent upon an improvement in fish plates for railroads. The device, which does away with bolts, nuts and the necessity for drilling holes, will be tested on the Central. The officers of the Washtenaw county fair at Ann Arbor are making a big effort to have a better fair than ever before, next week. $728 in special speed premiums have been offered for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Gen. Alger and a number of big republicans will be on the grounds on Wednesday, and Thursday Gov. Begole and a heap of democrats of great fame throughout the state will be there, and they like the other exhibits will be worth seeing. Perhaps it would be a good thing to have congregational singing in all the churches, but first catch your congregation; a few dozen people scattered around in a church built to hold two hundred can't raise a deafening melody to save 'em. It is often stated that one-half the interest of church services depends upon the singing. Then if the congregations are to do the singing why don't more folks go to church? The Grass Lake News was five years old last Thursday, and Mr. Owen, the editor, has concluded to stop publication for a couple of weeks in order to thoroughly canvass the town on a soliciting and collecting expedition.
