Entered at the Postoffice in Manchester as Second-class matter.

We solicit correspondence and news items from the surrounding towns.

Anyone desiring to become a regular or casual correspondent, or news gatherer, will please write us for instructions and stationery.

Every communication must contain the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

We must not be held responsible for sentiments expressed by writers.

If you have any business at the Postoffice, please make the request that your notice be published in the Manchester Enterprise. Such a request will always be granted.

Changes in display advertisements are made on the order of their respective offices, and cannot be positively promised unless handed in at least upon the Tuesday before the desired insertion.

All articles for publication should be addressed MANCHESTER ENTERPRISE, Manchester, Michigan.

THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1887.

At Wolf Lake.

Leaving the sanctum sanctorum and the rest of the ENTERPRISE office in charge of our able assistant last Saturday we gathered together the "press gang," and seated under Brenner's canopy top, behind his new team, we started westward in search of a day of pleasure.

It needed but one shout to bring John Nestell, who was in peaceful and absolute possession of "Wildwood," to the door. He was just sweeping out, having finished doing the dishes after partaking of a sumptuous breakfast. We were made welcome at once and told that there was nothing about the place too good for his Manchester friends.

After what seemed to us like a long drive, we were content to seat ourselves on the broad, shady porch of the cottage and view the beautiful lake and its surroundings. The water lay like a mirror, reflecting green trees and high bluffs on the opposite shore, its glassy surface broken only by the occasional leap of a hungry bass or pickerel in pursuit of his breakfast, or by the splash of the pleasure-seeker's oar. This is one of the prettiest locations on the lake, as it takes in Little Wolf and the greater portion of the big lake, as well as Akin's landing, about a mile across the lake, the cottages, etc.

These grounds are also nicely shaded, and as there are numerous springs of clear, cold water handy by, they are very convenient for picnicking parties.

There is one thing lacking to make this place one of the most popular of all the summer resorts in Southern Michigan, and that is a good hotel.

After dinner Mr. Nestell invited us all to take a ride upon the beautiful, staunch, fast running steamer "Wildwood," and it was the unanimous vote of the party that it was the most delightful ride they had enjoyed in many a day.

"Wildwood" is practically a new boat, neatly painted and equipped. She is 44 feet in length, 12 feet wide, and can seat comfortably about 90 persons.

Our first stop was at Akin's landing, where we went ashore to shake hands with our old friend Charley, partake of one of his famous lemonades and view the beautiful grounds. He had a party there from Jackson and one from Grass Lake, and yet he managed with the assistance of his son, Thede to wait upon all and oversee the building of a large dining hall near by, which will, when done, be presided over by Gent Hay.

A number of cottages are being built on this side of the lake this season we learn, and it must some day be a popular resort.

Returning to the steamer we passed down the lake through the outlet and into and around Alcott lake, thence back into Wolf, around Little Wolf and back to the landing, a distance of about 12 miles, and we must say that it is not only the longest but the prettiest steamboat ride we have ever taken in Michigan.

The fare is only 25 cents and we don't believe any person who visits the lake this season will miss taking the trip.

Of course we had to try our hand at fishing, but it was not a good day, the fish had all gone away from home and the biggest ones we caught got away. However, if you had smelled our frying-pan the next morning you would have known that we got enough for a mess anyway.

Thanking Mr. Nestell for his kind hospitality we returned home and not a mishap nor even the much expected fisherman's luck occurred to mar the pleasures of the entire day.

The 50th anniversary of the University of Michigan is being celebrated at Ann Arbor this week. Never before have so many of the alumni of the university gathered together as on this occasion, coming from the east to the far west.

WAMPLER'S LAKE.

Mrs. Hattie Woodward closed her school in this district last Friday.

James Moore has sodded the yard in front of his house, set out shade trees and otherwise improved the appearance of the place.

D. Smith has moved the building that he has used for a bar-room, on the west side of his house, and will put on an addition of about 10 feet for a hall.

Washtenaw County Items.

J. F. Vogel has been appointed postmaster in Freedom, in place of Fritz Eckert, and the office is now in the center of the township.

The regular meeting of the Washtenaw pomological society will be held next Saturday. The committee on transportation will give a full report. The coming fruit crop and its disposal will be discussed and there will be an exhibit of fruit.

SHARON.

Mr. Kirkwood is building an addition to his house, to be used as a summer kitchen and wood house.

Work on the Center church will be completed this week, but as the paint will not be dry by Sunday, it was decided to have the Children's Day exercises at the Gillett church.

Miss Minnie Ayres closed the spring term of school in the Pierce district last Friday. She started for Battle Creek and Kalamazoo Wednesday, where she will spend several weeks visiting friends.

BRIDGEWATER.

Maud Poucher, of Franklin, is visiting at Kuel Johnson's.

Fred Luckhant, of Lodi, is spending a few days at X. Baur's.

Mr. & Mrs. Joe Seckinger, of Manchester, visited friends in town last week.

A. J. Hough went home to accompany the base ball club of Manchester to Saline, Tuesday.

Miss Cynthia Kiser, of Adrian, and Miss Kirtie Seckinger, of Manchester, were guests of Mrs. Frank Riedel last week.

Fred Poucher drove over to Franklin Sunday to see his father, who was kicked by a horse and quite seriously injured, last week.

James M. Kress claims that he had 35 fleeces of wool stolen from his granary, and other farmers throughout the county, complain of having had wool stolen.

IRON CREEK.

Richard Green and Geo. Greenman now have their new barns finished.

Miss Fannie Mattison and Miss Lord, of Grass Lake, visited in town last week.

The school in the Nichols district held a picnic at Sand Lake one day last week.

Mrs. Matthews and her son and daughter of Clinton, spent Saturday at J. P. Lays' farm.

Mrs. W. R. Moon and daughter of Hillsdale, are the guests of Mrs. J. H. Nelson this week.

Mr. & Mrs. Samuel Remington started for Dakota last Tuesday, which will be their future home.

The schools of the Iron Creek and McMahon districts held a union picnic last Friday in L. M. Baldwin's grove, which was a success. The rhetorical exercises were very fine. The day will be long remembered by the juveniles in attendance.

NORVELL.

Miss Esther Bancroft went to Clinton last Thursday.

Mr. & Mrs. Adelbert Orderway, of Clinton, are visiting friends in town.

Uncle Royal Randall, of Clinton, is visiting old acquaintances in this vicinity.

Mr. & Mrs. Will Orr, of Tecumseh, were the guests of Mr. & Mrs. John Kay over Sunday.

Miss Gracie Rhead has been visiting Orosso friends and returned on Thursday last, accompanied by Miss Bessie Palmer.

Wm. Jones, who was reported as being hurt last week by tipping over with a load of hay, had three ribs broken and his lungs injured. It was thought for a few days that he would not recover but at last accounts he was better.

The crack base ball nine of Clinton, were up here and played our boys on Friday last, and if we had not given them chicken for dinner so that they would "fowl" in a critical time, they would have had better news to carry home to their manumas. The score stood 17 to 16 in favor of Norvell.

The school examination at the church on Tuesday, a notice of which was given in the ENTERPRISE, was a grand success. The day being pleasant, there was a very large attendance. Visitors were present from Grass Lake, Brooklyn, Napoleon, Manchester and Clinton, who were interested in our common schools. The programme was successfully carried out, and the exercises were very interesting, the singing being highly appreciated by all. The basket picnic dinner in the grove near the church added much to the pleasures of the day. Cards of honor were awarded as follows: Reading Whitney Watkins; writing, Dennis Donahue; arithmetic, Cora Halladay; spelling, Nellie Yarrington and Manne Hall. There is much credit due our township superintendent, Rev. W. L. Palmer, for creating so much interest in our schools, having spent time and money without expense to the township.

The 20th annual reunion of the survivors of the old 18th infantry will be held at Tecumseh August 26. The 25 anniversary of the muster-in at Hillsdale, in 1862, occurs on that day.

Jackson County Items.

Among the graduates at the university from Jackson county, is Arthur Covell, of Napoleon.

A. P. Cook, of Brooklyn, received $7,200 damages from the Michigan & Ohio R. R. for injuries received in 1885.

The races at Jackson last week were a great success. The number of people on the grounds last Thursday was estimated at 3,000.

James G. Raymond, of Grass Lake, reports that he sheared a flock of 36 sheep this spring whose average was 12 1/2 pounds each of well washed wool.

Miss Florence Cook, of Brooklyn, finished her school studies last week at St. Agnes' seminary, Albany, N. Y., and took the first prize for scholarship, as well as first for music. She is now visiting in New York city. Citizen.

Mrs. W. P. Heaton, wife of the editor of the Jackson Courier, and another woman, assaulted Mr. Corbett, a representative of the Citizen, last Friday, with a horse-whip, on the street. The trouble originated from some scandalous articles that have been circulated in the Detroit papers.

Lenawee County Items.

Mrs. Adolt Wheeler, of Adrian, is making a collection of the different species of wild flowers growing in Lenawee county, and has already about 170 varieties, not including herself.

Yesterday afternoon the drill at the experimental well on Railroad street, was down about 1,200 feet, with indications of the presence of crude oil everywhere. As the work progressed during the evening, oil commenced to flow into the well. The petroleum is similar in character to that found at Findlay, and the drill which is still going down, is undoubtedly close to a large supply. Rumors that the well had been boarded up are without foundation, but the progress made so far is convincing evidence that we have an excellent field beneath us.—Adrian Times.

The Trouble With Old Virginia.

Gen. Imboden, the noted Confederate leader, is in the employ of the treasury department as an expert on the subject of the natural resources and transportation in Virginia. He has just completed an exhaustive report on the manufactures and trade of the Old Dominion. Randolph Tucker, after reading Gen. Imboden's report, told a story which, he said, explained why Virginia had not "made more progress in business."

"One day in the house," said he, "Drugg of Wisconsin told me the secret of our backwardness. He said that in war time he was marching toward Culpepper, and on the road met an old clergyman. The poor fellow was ragged, unshaven, and terrible seedy. Bragg stopped him and asked how far it was to Culpepper."

"Two miles, sir," said the minister. "Well," said Bragg, "is it much of a town?" "No; it is not a very big town," replied the clergyman; and then, with a brightening of the eyes and a proud stiffening of his long, thin frame, he added, "But, sir, Gen. Washington once had his headquarters there."

That, to Mr. Tucker's mind, shows why Virginia does not go ahead. She clings too closely to traditions and memories of the past.—N. Y. Sun.

Newspapers for the Poor.

So nervous and irritable has the czar become that the contents of the troubles must never be mentioned to him in any way. In order to obey his wishes in this respect, the very newspapers he reads have to be specially prepared. He now receives no other papers but those expressly printed for him; the very best penny magazines of old, containing at best a few inoffensive dispatches, the rest being made up of society gossip and theatrical notes, and in other parts of the Caucasus, the exploitation of the mineral riches of the district is being successfully pursued entirely by foreigners. The immense coal deposits in the neighborhood of Samtred and the sulphur pits in the district of Akhalzich are already in the possession of Frenchmen.—Novo Vremya.

The Pope's Four Tiaras. The pope's four tiaras, or tiaras—there are no less than four of them—are among the most interesting of the crowns of more recent date. The triple crown is worn by the pope only on extraordinary occasions. Ordinarily he wears a common bishop's mitre. The tiara was originally a plain pointed cap, but Pope Harmsdas added a crown in the year 524. Boniface VIII. added another at the beginning of the fourteenth century, and John XXIII the third, a score of years later. The three, together represent the ecclesiastical, civil and judicial supremacy of Rome. A mound and a cross of gold surmount the triple crowns. The handsomest of the four at the Vatican is the one presented by Napoleon to Pope Pius VII in 1805. Its three golden rings are studded with precious stones. At the apex is an emerald said to be worth alone 16,000 francs. The value of the whole crown is estimated at fully 200,000 francs.—New York Mail and Express.

Locals on 4th page. Mrs. Rowe went to Milan this morning. This has been a poor week for fishing. Very little wheat comes into market now.

Class Day and Graduating Exercises of the Manchester Union Schools on Thursday Evening, June 23d

We have often heard it said that Manchester's pride was in her schools, and we are unwilling to deny it. Twenty years ago the central building was erected and that we have always had a successful school is evidenced from the fact that over 80 young men and women have graduated and received diplomas from the school board, many of whom have continued their studies and graduated from the university or normal school and have become members of different professions, useful and valuable citizens.

It seems as though each graduating class strives to outdo the preceding one in decorating the hall, surely we have never seen it look more beautiful than it did that night. The stage had been extended the full width of the hall, was carpeted and at the front was arranged banks of water lilies and extensive bouquets. A stand of flowers was placed at one end and a ladder, extending from the floor to the ceiling in the center of the stage was made of exquisite flowers.

or thoughtful, that to graduate, from the latin word gradare, means simply to take a step. It is true, however, you have finished the course adopted and approved by our school board. The course you have completed here was arranged with a view to the broadest cultivation of mind possible in a school of this kind.

You have delved here and there. Your minds have been directed through many channels, you have attempted to climb the many mountain tops of knowledge. In pursuance of your studies you have gained discipline; power to hold the mind in one direction. This is concentration of energy, a thing which, when once gained and properly applied leads on and up the ladder of fame where worth and eminence sit, enthroned in their purple robes of crystallized power.

THE BANQUET

Was given on the first floor of the Good-year Hall Block. The tables were neatly spread and a suitable collation was served. While the company lingered at the festive board toasts were given and responded to as follows:

"Our Union School. -As the years roll by may her benign influence increase." Response by PROF. PHILLIPS. "The Manchester Alumni Association, the crowning glory of the Manchester Union School."

Roll of Honor.

- In addition to the number usually given, who have either been absent nor tardy during the month, we give also a few who have been neither absent nor tardy during the year. The school year of '86 and '87 is gone. The teachers have well earned their rest and the students by their good behavior well deserve their vacation.

Zell Baldwin and sister Maud, accompanied by Miss Fannie Haynes, of Grass Lake, are attending the normal and university commencement exercises this week. We were pleased to receive calls on Friday afternoon from a Chelsea printer, whose name we did not learn, and also from W. R. Birham, of the Clinton Local office. Boys are in the habit of playing on the framework of Exchange Place bridge. One young fellow fell and sprained his ankle quite badly last Sunday. This should be a warning to the boys.

Miss Julia Conklin has been engaged to take charge of the second primary department of our union school the coming year, all the other teachers having accepted their invitations to remain. Now that the wood season is over Messrs. Burtless, Schmid and Hulbert will again devote some time in preparing leases of land for the purpose of boring for oil or gas. In view of the fact that oil has been struck at Adrian and Jackson, it is very likely that we will be equally as successful, so let us lend a helping hand and secure a boom for our town.

Following is a list of clips of wool bought by Mack & Schmid at Manchester, weighing 1,000 pounds: Peter Cook.....1,298 Van Gieson Brox, unwashed.....1,636 Marvin Cooley.....1,553 John English.....1,373 Geo. Heimendinger.....1,347 James Kress, unwashed.....1,156 Richard Green.....1,151 Adam Riedel, Sen.....1,102 Christian Frey.....1,081 Michael Kirk.....1,027 It has been reported here the past week that the Lake Shore R'y Co. was about to trade the Ypsilanti and Lansing branches for the Jackson, Lansing & Saginaw division of the Michigan Central. The report, if true, will be welcome news to Manchester, as by such a change trains will likely be run through from Toledo to Saginaw, putting us on a through line, also if the Central controlled the Ypsilanti and Lansing branches it would likely make a through line of them, thus giving us more trains to Detroit. Whether there is any truth to the rumor or not, or if the above is a correct statement of it as first told, we know not, but give it as told to us, for what it is worth. John Moran and a number of our citizens went to Ann Arbor on Tuesday to attend the exercises of the literary department of the university. The oration was delivered by Thomas Moran, of this village, and it was pronounced a splendid production. Manchester feels proud of her son who has proven himself worthy of so high an honor. The oration was published in full in the Detroit dailies. The Tribune of June 29th, in their report of the literary exercises of the university says: "Mr. T. F. Moran is scarcely more than a youth in years. His face is beardless and his general appearance juvenile, but there was no suspicion of childhood in the manner in which he acquitted himself. He had been elected by his classmates to deliver the class oration. His Prince Albert coat was buttoned closely and there was a slight flush on his cheeks as he stepped forward and placed his hand on the little desk. The desk was fragile and swayed slightly. The boom of the Prince Albert coat. The subject of Mr. Moran's oration was 'Retrospective Research in Social Reforms,'

Prof. Phillips called the audience to order by announcing a piece of music, an anthem, "Clap your Hands," which was sung by Miss Perkins and Gieske, and Messrs. Case and Phillips. It was nicely rendered and the audience did clap their hands. Rev. John Patchin offered prayer which was followed by a salutatory by Frank Dorr, which was very good indeed. Maud Baldwin then read the class poem which was entitled "The Bouquet of '87," which was illustrated by the use of different varieties of flowers. "The Class History," was read by Allie Lazell, and was quite interesting, though the class had done no great amount of mischief, at least she did not "give it away." The combined ages of the class is 107 years, weight 765 pounds and height 32 feet. They have been instructed by 38 different teachers.

"The quartette then sang 'Water Lilies,' which was followed by the 'Class Prophecy,' by May E. Teeter, in which she seemed to see after a lapse of many years, the different members of the class scattered far and wide, some in foreign lands, but all happy in their pursuits. The class song was composed by Nettie Taylor and was sung by the class, or by many of the members as had their voices with them. This closed the programme of the class day exercises.

"Landlordism in America" was the subject of Will Kirchgessner's oration, which opened the exercises, and we must say that he handled the subject in good shape and won the applause of the audience. "Ben Hur" was the subject of Allie Lazell's essay and "Air Castles" was the name of one by May Teeter, both of which were well delivered and won hearty applause. "Come o'er the Moonlit Sea," was sung by Miss Minnie Perkins and Prof. Phillips and then Frank Dorr delivered an oration on "Money," a very pleasing and satisfactory subject to have and which was well appreciated. Nettie Taylor then read an interesting essay on "Government," which was followed by an essay, or rather an oration, by Maud Baldwin. Will Kirchgessner then delivered the "Valedictory" in a few feeling and well-chosen words. This was followed by the presentation of the diplomas by Prof. Phillips, who said: "In the presentation of these diplomas it is not my purpose, nor is it fitting that I should indulge in high sounding periods or flaunt the colors of spluttering eloquence. On occasions like the present the mind seems unusually active in the reception of all good impressions, hence, I may be pardoned if I present to my co-workers here the senior class of '87 a few parting words explanatory of graduation. Unfortunately there is prevalent in the minds of many an opinion which has, in the past become only too popular—that the term graduation signifies to finish. Happily, however, for us an opinion of more recent birth, the truth of which has never been doubted by the true educator

There had been some delay in getting arrangements completed for this reunion and as there was no extended announcement in the ENTERPRISE, the people were slow to turn out to the entertainment, however, there was a very respectable audience assembled when the president, A. F. Freeman, called upon Rev. Patchin to invoke the divine blessing. The exercises were then opened by singing an anthem, "O, come let us sing," which was beautifully rendered by Miss Minnie Perkins, Mrs. Eva Spafard, Messrs. Phillips and Case, with May Bodine as organist. This was followed by an oration "Ireland's History," by our rising young orator Martin Cavenaugh. Next came a quartette, "Come where the wild flowers bloom," followed by a poem by George S. Rawson, of which it is needless for us to say much for all who know George will say at once, "of course it was good." He writes in a somewhat humorous strain and speaks so clearly and frankly that he gets and holds the attention of his audience. Another quartette was followed by an essay, "Are the good old times mythical," delivered by Miss Marie Kirchofer, and we must say that it was a splendid effort and justly merited the hearty applause she received. Next came a duet, sung by Mrs. Eva Spafard and Miss Minnie Perkins, which was very pretty. The "History" was read by C. W. Case and it was very interesting, even to those who have heard the history from year to year, because he sandwiched in some original ideas and spiced it up with a good bit of humor. The closing song, "our choir," was splendidly rendered by the quartette. The audience was dismissed with a benediction.

The Alumni Reunion. The eleventh annual reunion of the Alumni Association of the union school was held at Good-year Hall on Friday evening, June 24. A business meeting was held at 9 o'clock in the morning, when the members of the senior class who had graduated the previous evening, were received into the association, the election of officers held and other business transacted. The meeting was one of the most interesting ever held, and the older members feel pleased that the interest is not dying out.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEVES.

Wheat will be ready to cut in a few days. The hay crop is being gathered in splendid shape. We are pleased to learn that our university boys have graduated with high honors.

There will be a regular communication of Manchester Lodge, F. & A. M., on Monday next. A large party of young gentlemen and ladies are talking of going to Wolf Lake picnicing on the 14th.

Macomber Bros. have a change of advertisement this week, to which we call the attention of our readers. The university boys borrowed the democratic torches from our boys, to use in their parade on Monday night.

Our base ballers went to Saline Tuesday and played the nine there. Score, 47 to 27 in favor of Manchester. C. E. Lewis has a change of advertisement this week, in which he says he has received a large invoice of shoes, etc.

The report of the Norvell farmers club is crowded out this week, on account of school reports, etc. It will appear next week. A party of fishermen went to Fay's lake and camped out over Sunday, but caught hardly enough fish to eat while there.

At the last teachers examination held in Saline, Miss Allie Lazell, of this village, was found to be the best reader examined. Our Little Ones and the Nursery for July has arrived and its attractive illustrations and pretty stories will be sure to please and delight the children.
