Seeing the Eclipse.

Our friend John, who lives over on the east side had read an item in the ENTER-PRISE that there would be an eclipse of the moon on Sunday night, so he made up his mind to see it. Just before bedtime he went out on the stoop to see how the "old shiner" appeared, and as he stood there he wondered if the man in the moon could see him. The atmosphere was somewhat hazy, he thought it was raining and that the eclipse would not come off on account of the weather, so he went to bed. About 12 o'clock the baby awoke. turned over, gave a yelp and a kick, and though it was dark as Egypt in the room John thought he saw stars, or the eclipse -the baby's heel hit him square in the right optic. He jumped out of bed, he afterwards confessed in a dazed condition, and sticking his foot into his wife's bustle which lay on the floor, and hearing the baby squalling at the top of its voice, supposed that a bull dog had attacked He rolled upon the floor, overturned the slop jar, and upset a rocking chair which fell upon him, striking him on the nose. Feeling the water from the jar and smarting under the blow, he thought himself getting the worst of it and cried out "mad dog! murder! take him off! kill him! Help, help!" This frightened his wife who knowing John occasionally took a "nip." thought him attacked with the jim jams, and Brooklyn, visited at James Kelly's, over rushed out to call the hired girl; but she stepped on a banana peel, and being in her bare feet it felt like a snake, so she gave a scream, ran back in the bedroom. and jumped upon the bed just as the hired girl, lamp in hand, arrived on the

The game at Clinton, last Thursday between the Clinton and Manchester teams, was not a pleasant affair by any means. The boys did not play such a game of ball as they usually do, and there seems not a friendly feeling existing between the two towns, but why we are at a loss to know. Certainly Manchester people have no ill-will towards Clinton, and it may be an outgrowth of-jealousy on their part, because the Manchester boys do them up every time. Clinton claims that the umpire "roasted" them, but we can see no reason for his doing so, he was from Milan and was chosen by the Clinton club to umpire the game. The score stood 13 to 7 in favor of Manchester.

The agreement was that Clinton should nay for our club's transportation, horse feed, and furnish supper for 11 men, but when the game was over not a man showed up, and the hotel proprietor denied that any arrangements had been nade for supper, so our boys came home and got their supper at the Goodyear.

ent manager Schmid the money to pay the expense, and regretted the trouble and aid that he did order the supper for them. A number of our citizens drove down o see the game and they cheered so lustily that the manager of the Clinton club ealled them "toughs." Our folks ought to know better than to smile after they cross the Washtenaw county line.

A Clever Fellow who is Making a Living by His Wits--Many Jackson Victims.

man, with a fluent tongue and ah attractive exterior, has been circulating about this city with a scheme from which he is netting a handsome profit. His stock in trade is composed of writing paper and envelopes put up in neat little boxes, each worth about 10 cents at wholesale He visits private houses, chiefly during the day when there are but few men at home, and tells his story to the women, who are regarded as gullible. He offers the box of paper for 50 cents, but has been known to take 25 cents when he could get no more. As an extra inducement he presents the buyer with a numbered ticket to a lottery, which he represents will have a drawing within a week or two at some stated place. Each ticket draws a prize, ranging from a barrel of flour to a sewing machine and a grand piano. He says the lottery is advertised in the city papers, and the winners of prizes will be announced in the Jackson papers the next day after the drawing takes place. This inducement rarely fails to catch a customer to whom it is presented. It looks like a great investment, and the clever young man appears so honest and gentlemanly that the ladies are apt to regard him as a public benefactor. He takes their money and leaves the box of writing material, but that is the last they see of him or his lottery. It has been stated that this fellow quotes The Citizen as a paper which prints his lottery advertising and vouches for his square dealing. If he has done so he i a greater liar than Ananias, for this paper knows nothing about him save what is mentioned above, and even that is con piled from the statements of persons wh have bought his stuff. Without doubt he is selling goods by means of false pretenses, and qualit to be interviewed by the family bulldoo the moment he comes into the yard.—Citizen.

AS TO THE TABERNACLE. TOOK OUT

LESSON V. THIRD QUARTER, IN-TERNATIONAL SERIES. JULY 29.

Text of the Lesson, Ex. xl, 1-16-Commit Verses, 1-3-Golden Text, Rev. xxi, 3.

1. "And the Lord spake unto Moses." How 1. "And the Lord space unto anosa." How often we read this sentence and how little we are apt to think of the meaning of it or of the "Thus saith the Lord" of the prophets, or the "I say unto you" of Jesus Himself, who was the Lord God of the prophets. We cannot give too much heed to the word of God, nor heed it too reverently; and unless we really hear God speaking to us in His word it will not profit us.

2. "On the first day of the first month."

It was the second year (verse 17 and just a year since the great passover night on which they left the land of bondage (xi, 2; xii, 4). That month was ever to be a memorable That month was ever to be a memorable month to them because of the great deliverance. Although it was the seventh month of their civil year, they were henceforth to count it the first month, for it was the first month of the first year of their history as a redeemed people. Every Christian has two birthdays, the day of his birth into this world and the day of his birth as a child of fixed.

(R. V.) God has delivered the nation from the bondage of Egypt and brought them unto Himself that they might be unto Him a peculiar treasure above all people, a king-dom of priests, a holy nation (xix, 5, 6), to make him a name (H Sam, vii, 25), and now make him a name (11 Sam, vii, 3, not now He will dwell among them by a visible presence in this tabernacle specially prepared for Him (xxy, 8). The tabernacle after some 500 years gave place to the Temple of Solomon, which, with some rebuilding, continued until Christ came the true tabernacle (Heb viii, 2); but He, being rejected by the nation, rejected them also for a time, and their tenple and city and land became a ruin and desolate because of their rejection of their king. When He shall return in power and glory to sit on David's throne and reign over the house of Jacob forever (Luke i, 33, 33), and to restore all things of which the prophets have spoken (Acts iii, 19-21), then there shall be a new temple according to Ezek, xl to xivili, and Jerusalem shall be a city of truth and peace and righteousness, and to it the nations shall go up from year to year to worship the King, the Lord of Hosts. (Zech. viii and xiv, 10.) Meantime, between the scattering and regathering of Israel, God is adding to the seed of Abraham from all the nations of the earth and building a temple of living stones (Eph. 11,19-22; I Pet. ii, 5; Gal.1ii, 29, which, according to our golden text and the When He shall return in power and glory to 29), which according to our golden text and the chapter in which it is found, will come down from God out of heaven, be a light to all the nations of earth, and the dwelling place of Christ and His saints in connection with this christ and his saints in connection what this earth when the kingdom comes.

3. "The ark of the testimony." The dimensions of all the vessels except the candlestick and taper are given in previous chapters; I can only briefly refer to the material, situation and significance of each. The ark, tabl and altar of incoses were each made of shittim or acacia wood, covered with gold, reminding us of the incorruptible humanity and divinity of Christ. The ark was the only ressel in the Holy of Holies, a room ten cubits long and wide and high, three sides of which were boards covered with gold; the fourth was the veil, a type of the body of Christ (Heb. x, 20); the celling was the beautiful curtains, and the floor was the earth. The cover of the ark, called the mercy seat or propitiatory (Heb. ix, 5, R. V., margin), was of pure gold, and out of it was beaten at each end a cherub overshadowing it. Over and altar of incouse were each made of shit each end a cherub overshadowing it. Over the mercy seat, between the cherubim, in this Holy of Holies, wes the place of the manifest presence of God. (Ex. xxv, 17-22.) The ark was made to contain the tables of testimony, and there they were kept. The people could not keep that holy law, but Christ, the true ark, kept it perfectly, and of Him it is written. "A body has thou prepared for med. "The table," on which was placed every week—every Sabbath day—twelve cakes of bread in two rows, with frankincense upon each row. (Lev. xxiv, 5-9.) The table and the bread and the incense all speak of Him.
"The candlestick" was made of a talent of pure gold (xxv, 39), and would therefore. each end a cherub overshadowing it. Ove of pure gold (xxv, 39), and would therefore be worth about $25,000. It was more like a lampstand than what we understand by a candlestick. Each of its seven branches held a lamp which every day had to be trimmed and filled with oil so as to burn continually before the Lord Christ is the light of the priest was to burn incense every morning and evening while he trimmed the lamps (xxx, 7.8), teaching us that although nothing that we do can be acceptable in itself because of our sinfulness, yet whatever is heartily done in His name with a sincere desire for His glory is made acceptable by the meense of His merits, which is ever a sweet perfume to God.

sweet pertume to God.

These three vessels, the table, the candlestick and the altar of inceuse, were in the holy place or first room into which the high priest went every day, but into the holy of holies he went only once a year.

6, 7, "The altar of burnt offering and the laver." These were the only two vessels in the outer court of the tabernacle; the first was made of wood covered with brass, and was just inside the gate of the court; it speaks to us of the God-man, our sacrifice for sin, and tells us that if we are unwilling to accept the blood of the Lamb as our ranto accept the blood of the Lamb as our ran-som, there is no possibility of our coming to God. The laver was made out of the brazer God. The layer was made out of the brazon mirrors of the women (xxxviii, 8), and contained water with which the priests washed their hands and feet, reminding us that he that is washed into blood) needeth not, save to wash his feet (with the water of the word), but is clean every whit.

the word), but sclean every whit.

8. "The court and gate." Curtains of fine linen hanging upon sixty wooden pillars standing in brass sockets, and kept upright by cords fastened to brass tent pins, formed a fence five cubits high around the court, which was 100 cubits long by 50 broad (xxvii, 16-18). The linen fence, the court gate, the pillars with their brass sockets, silver chapiters and books, the cords and pins, all speak to us of the rightcoursess, atonement and power of our Lord Jesus, and how we may become partakers thereof.

9-11. "The tabernacle and all its vessels anointed." A full description of the holy anointment oil is found in xxx, 22-33, and speaks to us of the varied graces of the Holy Spirit found in divine fullness in Christ. 12-15. "Aaron and his sons anointed." First washed, then clothed and then anointed; our sins forgiven, then clothed with the gar-sins forgiven, then clothed with the gar sins forgiven, then clothed with the garments of salvation, and then anointed with power to minister unto Him. If we realized our need of this power and waited upon Him more earnestly for this anointing we would be holier and happier people and more discibly Him. Whatever we may now enjoy of this service is, however, but a foretaste of the more glurious service when our golden text and the fulfilled.
