LOYAL AT LAST.

A Tale of Love and Adventure in the Late Civil War.

BY BERNARD HIGSBY... "I tell you it is no use writing. I must go myself and see if I can't drill some common sense into this foolish young woman's head."

Martha sighed. "Do you think Harry hears from her as often as he used to do?" she asked presently.

THE FIRST AFTER THE BARRAGE BELL, DANIEL.

When Captain Winthrop found himself one of the hundreds pouring out of the gateway of the Central station in New York...

It was mid-afternoon when he arrived, and he stood first at the door of his hotel, and he set boldly out for East Sixty-third street.

It was a pleasant-looking, middle-aged woman who was sweeping the door-step as he approached.

"Does Miss Prohibition live here?" the Captain asked, mopping his brow with a handkerchief.

"Well, perhaps, Daniel; for after all, God may not take quite such a hard view of the rebellion as you do."

"Yes, you, but the boys! Walter is the only one who is left of them. Lionel died at the Grays."

"There, there! That will do. Still I should have thought that Walter, with his strong Southern sympathies, would not have allowed his sister to carry her head in the land of the Philistines."

"Daniel Winthrop, I am ashamed of you, Walter could not help her. He is learning the law at Richmond and is a poor boy, it is as much as he can do to help himself."

"But how do you know that?" she asked. "Yes, it is as much as he can do to help himself. I am sure you are going to do well, Daniel!"

"I'm going to New York to-morrow, Martha. He had said he was about to depart for Jerusalem. Mr. Winthrop could hardly have manifested greater consternation."

young dog has been making me the bug-bear all this while!" And quite forgetting the young lady who was hurrying her preparations up-stairs...

"Come at once to the Grand Union Hotel, New York. Reply!" Then he sheepishly returned to the lodging-house...

That was the same glad, trustful look in his face the old man had missed for many a day, and his heart thrilled with joy to think that at last there was no barrier between him and his boy Harry.

It was a very quiet wedding, for the Captain insisted on his taking place at once in New York. He argued that for many a day, and his heart thrilled with joy to think that at last there was no barrier between him and his boy Harry.

There were more and more of the Orchard Farm. From far and wide the guests had come by boat and carriage; under the big apple trees long lines of tables were spread with snowy cloths and laden with the choicest viands...

"I think I am glad—my, I will say I am sure I am glad, Captain Winthrop." For an hour they talked; yet not a word did the wicked Captain say of the object which had brought him to the city...

"The dead past is burying its dead pretty fast, boy. I did not think I could be ever so grateful to God as I am this moment to see the blue and the gray blended in such a friendly way..."

"She is mine own, and I am rich in having such a jewel. As twenty souls, if all their souls were pearls, the water nectar and the rock's pure gold."

Indian jugglers are famous not only for their tricks, but for the apparent ease and openness with which they perform them. Dr. Norman Macleod describes his own futile attempts to discover how one of their most celebrated feats was accomplished...

"I'm going to New York to-morrow, Martha. He had said he was about to depart for Jerusalem. Mr. Winthrop could hardly have manifested greater consternation."

Then I fixed my eyes on his strip of clothing with such intensity that it was not possible it could be touched without discovery, and bade him go on, feeling sure that the trick could not succeed.

Satisfied with our applause, he went on with his incantations. After having said a little, to give his plant time to grow, he again lifted the basket, and the plant was now two feet high.

Apparently delighted with my surprise, the juggler stood up laughing, when one of his companions checked a pebble at him, which he put in his mouth...

Faith Not the Only Panacea Found Outside the Pharmacopoeia—Queer Remedies. The beneficial effects of faith have probably come under the observation of us all when it has become a question of a change of doctors.

Another great remedy that set people agog some two hundred years ago was the earth bath. Establishments were opened all over Europe where the patients were covered up to their necks in loose, dry earth, and thus planted were supposed to be cleansed of every infirmity and impurity known to human nature.

On a Mental Drunk. There is another kind of intemperance raging in our midst which injures and eventually kills many people, who die of respectable, though painful, diseases, on a mental drunk.

Some time ago the man who fires a certain newspaper clipping bureau's circulars through the mail saw a notice of a newly issued cheap edition of Dr. Johnson's "Rasselas," and he immediately wrote to "Samuel Johnson, LL. D. care of, at Glasgow, Edinburgh," enclosing circulars, and stating that the bureau would be pleased to furnish him with a copy of the "Rasselas."

A Good Reason. They were talking about elevators. "There is an elevator in my flat, but I never use it," said one.

INVENTION AND DISCOVERY. A Vast Sea of Distinction Between the Two—Notable Instances. Two words which glibly enough fall from the lips of the average man in a careless sort of indiscriminate as if they were synonymous.

COMMUNICABLE DISEASES. A Subject of Vital Importance to Communities—Precautions. Disease can be divided into various groups. Of these none, upon the whole, are so formidable as those termed communicable diseases.

The electric telegraph was never discovered; it was consistently invented. Countless devices and methods were designed, tested, thrown away—to be afterwards revived, many of them—new appliances and systems laboriously worked out, the midnight oil unsparingly sacrificed, until at last a perfected and practical system and apparatus were given to the world.

It is hard to say whether the dynamo was invented or discovered, considering its prototype, the magneto machine. The probabilities are it was an accidental discovery. The arc light was a discovery pure and simple.

THURSDAY, OCT. 25, 1888.

The big warblers in the neighborhood of Milan can now get their war paint cheap as a paint man has been discovered in that vicinity.

A Saginaw candy-maker ate one dozen bananas in 10 minutes on a wager, and now wants to bet that she can eat 10 dozen in 40 minutes.

We learn that assistant general manager Gallup, of the Lake Shore Railway, died suddenly at his home in Cleveland, on Monday evening.

Grand Rapids talks of a new greeting paper, also of a new one, and says that the towels more than it needs a new newspaper—Journal. Of course the printing office will need at least one towel.

A clever counterfeit of the Canadian bank of commerce $10 bill is in circulation. The shading of the word "ten" is lighter on the counterfeit. Look out for it. The best way is to take no Canadian bill at all.

The Richmond Review has taken a decided stand against the custom of printing cards of thanks from afflicted families on the occasion of deaths. Scantling—Adrian Times. Yes so we say yet we keep on doing it.

Senator Palmer, president of the Michigan agricultural society, says he does not want the state fair permanently located at Detroit, but that he will endeavor to make it a "circuit" exhibition, and hold a fair each autumn at some of the large cities of the state.

Congress adjourned on Saturday. The session was an extraordinary one, lasting 321 days or 19 days more than the previous session. In the senate 3,641 bills and 116 joint resolutions were presented and in the house the figures ran up to the unequalled figure of 11,598 bills and 230 joint resolutions.

The Michigan supreme court has recently decided as unconstitutional that section of the game law which provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to have in his possession any game with intent to sell, during any portion of the year in which it is unlawful to kill such game in the state of Michigan.

During the state fair the swine breeders of Michigan met at the Hotel de France, in Jackson, and organized the Michigan state swine breeders' association; its objects being to advance the breeders' and growers' interests. Quincy McBride, of Barton, is secretary while all breeders should send 50 cts, and become members.

Miss Julia Snell, of Tecumseh, received the appointment of typist in the war department at Washington, at a salary of $480 a year, but declined to accept it.

The people of Adrian are trying to raise the Adrian street goods works on by raising enough money to pay off its indebtedness—$8,600. A Ft. Wayne man will then manage the establishment and run it to its full capacity.

The case of the Farmers' Bank of Grass Lake vs. John M. Quinn has been decided by the state supreme court in favor of the bank. This decision confirms the sale of certain real estate owned by John M. Quinn on which the bank held a mortgage.

There are to-day in the five states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, more than 50,000 schoolhouses in which schools are maintained from three to 10 months every year. The value of these buildings, with the grounds, is considerably over $50,000,000, which is more than one-half that of all other public school property in the union.

Set a pitcher of water in the apartment, and in a few hours it will have absorbed nearly all the respired gases in the room. The water, which will become purer, but the water utterly filthy. The colder the water the greater the capacity to contain the gas. At the ordinary temperature a pint of water will absorb a quantity of carbonic gas one and several times as much as the water at 60 degrees Fahrenheit. The capacity is further doubled by reducing the water to the temperature of ice. Hence, the water kept in a room for awhile is unfit for use.

Ministerial Convention.

The ministerial meeting and Sunday-school convention of Monroe district Michigan-conference of the evangelical association was held in Ida, Monroe county, from the 15th to the 18th of October.

Various essays on religious topics, both practical and theological, were read by the members, which were of great interest to all who were present, especially the following:

"Sin, its nature and origin."
"The scope of human redemption."
"Are the sacraments essential to salvation? Or, why not?"

"The design and mode of christian baptism, and who are proper candidates?"
"Is the result of our ministerial work within the bounds of the Michigan conference commensurate with the outlay?"

"The pioneer ministers of the Michigan conference, their work, and their present relation to the conference."
"The clear and comprehensive manner in which those essays were treated, showed forth both intelligence and hard study of the course of the Michigan conference."

Attention was also paid to Sunday-school work. Short addresses were delivered upon the following topics:
1. The aim and design of the Sunday-school.
2. The qualification of teachers.
3. The most appropriate literature for our Sunday-schools.
4. Sunday-school festivals and how to be enjoyed.

Spicy discussions followed upon each one, and the time devoted to this grand work proved to be very profitable for all Sunday-school workers who were present. The evening was occupied with preaching services.

The last evening was devoted to address upon children, Sunday school scholars and parents, interspersed with singing by the Ida and East Rainville Sunday schools. Thus ended this profitable and blessed convention. H. VOZKREK.

Jackon County Items.

A Jackson county farmer recently had 20 sheep killed by dogs.

The Jackson printers have been denied their demand for an increase of wages. Their employers could not afford it.

A Jackson physician, of large experience, declared that he has never known a red-headed girl, in view of which the red-haired girls of Jackson can smile with unwarmed hearts at the white horse joke.

Cupid is making Jackson headquarters this fall, and ere the robins nest again, if there is anything in the rumor, the army of Jackson's marriageable beauties will be materially reduced.—Citizen.

The Standard coal mine, on the Gaiger farm, has been closed, and the Carter Bros, Jones & Richards will shut a shaft near by where the mine has been abandoned. They have secured a mining lease.

A Henrietta, Jackson county, man found the skull of an elk with gigantic horns in the Parage river, one day last week. The horns measure over four feet in height, and the skull bones were sunk into the bed of the river. As no elk have been known in this part of the country for the past 30 years, the specimens are considered rare relics.

Lenawee County Items.

Senator Jones, of Detroit, will speak at Tecumseh on the evening of Oct. 26th.

It appears that E. J. Collier, of Adrian, has built a new house the past year, has moved to Detroit.

The dwelling of Dan Preston, in Franklin, burned last night. Loss about $800. Most of the household goods were saved.

Miss Julia Snell, of Tecumseh, received the appointment of typist in the war department at Washington, at a salary of $480 a year, but declined to accept it.

The people of Adrian are trying to raise the Adrian street goods works on by raising enough money to pay off its indebtedness—$8,600. A Ft. Wayne man will then manage the establishment and run it to its full capacity.

The Quest.

There was a man here,
Who dwelt in a house by the sea,
When the water danced for joy,
And the wind was glad and free.
But he said: "I will find a quest,
For the call of the world, I know,
Is the little brown house,
That sits on the hillside lone."
I will travel east and west,
The world's horizon I'll see,
And when I have found the best,
Dear mother, I'll come for thee.
I'll come for thee in a year and a day,
And joyful will I be,
From that little brown house,
That sits on the hillside lone.
This old brown house,
That sits on the hillside lone,
So he traveled here and there,
But never content was he,
Though he saw in his mind most true,
The central home there be,
His mother's room from the sea or sky,
The little brown house,
That sits on the hillside lone,
Under the apple-tree.

Washburn County Items.

Nearly, the Saline chicken breeder, is shipping live poultry to New York by the car load.

A. P. Smith, a homeopathic medical student at Ann Arbor, committed suicide by cutting his throat. He formerly lived at Bath.

Mr. Dr. Chandler, of Saline, daughter of Joseph Kim, of Clinton, died yesterday, of meningitis of the heart. The funeral will be at Clinton, Friday, at 3 P. M.

The democrats will have a grand mass meeting at Ann Arbor, next Wednesday. Delegations from every township in the county are expected to be there. The Manchester delegation will take the band along.

The old Saline manufacturing company's foundry and machine shop has been turned over to E. W. Wallace, as receiver, and he will proceed to re-organize the same. A new inventory was taken, Friday, by E. M. Dennis, the mechanic.—Observer.

Prof. Hogan, the aeronaut, of Jackson, made his last and most dangerous and startling parachute drop of the season at Stafford Springs, Conn., far, on the 19th inst. The day was dark at night, and he was fast approaching as the aeronaut left the earth perched upon his dangerous steel. When fully 4,000 feet from terra firma he swung himself loose, hanging to the "chute" which was let out and opened or fell with him. Like a shot from a gun Mr. Hogan fell, and fully half the distance had been traversed when the chute filled and checked his downward flight. The professor had given up all hope, and his feelings upon knowing that he had escaped violent death can scarcely be imagined. He landed in a marsh, sunk in the mire more than 100 feet, and was rescued by a party of searchers and brought back to the city, amid yells of admiration from the thousands of spectators.

C. J. John, of Topeka, Kan., has contracted with Manitoba parties for the only herd of domesticated buffalo, outside of his famous herd, in the world. The herd numbers 91 head, including eight half-breeds, and the consolidated herd will number 150 head. The half and three-quarter buffalo are a new race of cattle, and Mr. John says they will surpass the world in the coming season, for robes and meat, as they require no shelter or feed except the range of the prairie.

Mr. John has completed the organization of a stock company, with a capital of $200,000, which will establish an extensive ranch in Finley county for the propagation of the buffalo.

The annual rough game of foot ball between the topnotchers and freshmen classes of the Michigan Agricultural College, this year commenced last Saturday afternoon. There were 143 freshmen and 83 sophomores—the former were successful in the first bout, but dark coming on they concluded to adjourn the fight for two weeks, and by that time the wounds will be healed and the boys in shape for a hard struggle.

For Sale.—Property consisting of a house, Barn and 100 Acres, situated corner of Boyce and Clinton streets, one of the very best locations in town. Easy terms. Address Jennie L. Moore, Ypsilanti, Mich., or equipte on the premises.

Send the ENTERPRISE the balance of the year so friend. It will cost you only 25 cents.

We learn that Miss Nettie Severance is visiting in Brooklyn.

We learn that Rev. O. F. Winton, of Addison, has broken up housekeeping and that his wife is in Ann Arbor.

Hon. Chas. R. Whitman, of this city, is doing excellent service for his party throughout the state, and is in great demand. If the democrats do not carry the state this fall it will not be his fault.—Ann Arbor Courier.

Township treasurers should remember that the ENTERPRISE is prepared to receive their orders for tax receipts. We have a very convenient form and bind the receipts in substantial books at 50 cents a hundred. We will send samples on application.

Mrs. L. F. Keyes, a student at the normal, at Ypsilanti, while returning to her boarding place late one evening last week, was assaulted by a man who attempted to force her into a room. She resisted, and the man fled. She reported the matter to the police, who are searching for the offender.

Crop Report, October 1st.

The returns this month indicate that the wheat product of Michigan the present year amounts to 23,581,504 bushels. The average yield per acre is 15 and 67-100ths bushels.

Much of the area covered by the canvass made by correspondents is doubtless included in the returns taken from the threshers' records.

The wheat product as above estimated is about 858,000 bushels greater than the crop of 1887, and more than 4,000,000 bushels less than the average annual product in the nine years, 1878-86.

The canvass made by correspondents in the southern four tiers of counties furnishes data for the following statements:

One farmer in each 100 raised less than five bushels of wheat per acre, 12 farmers in each 100 raised five to 10 bushels per acre, 27 farmers in each 100 raised 10 to 15 bushels per acre, 34 farmers in each 100 raised 15 to 20 bushels per acre, 18 farmers in each 100 raised 20 to 25 bushels per acre, six farmers in each 100 raised 25 to 30 bushels per acre, and two farmers in each 100 raised over 30 bushels per acre.

The average yield per acre of wheat raised on corn stubble is returned at 12 and 69-100ths bushels; on wheat stubble, at 12 and 82-100ths bushels; on oat stubble, at 14 and 6-100ths bushels; and on summer fallow, at 18 bushels.

Wheat sowing this fall has been somewhat delayed owing to dry weather, which has also prevented in some cases the proper preparation of the soil.

The total number of bushels reported marketed is 1,290,237, of which 328,973 bushels were marketed in the first or southern tier of counties; 354,812 bushels in the second tier; 198,452 bushels in the third tier; 270,499 bushels in the fourth tier; 104,615 bushels in the fifth and sixth tiers, and 37,881 bushels in the northern counties.

At 63 elevators and mills, or 18 per cent. of the whole number from which reports have been received, there was no wheat marketed during the month.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed in August and September is 3,731,968.

The yield per acre of oats in the southern four tiers of counties is 36 and 48-100ths bushels; in the central, 39 and 87-100ths bushels; and in the northern counties 18 and 58-100ths bushels.

Barley averages 28 and 3-100ths bushels per acre in the state.

Corn is estimated to yield 62 bushels of ears in the southern, 64 in the central, and 56 in the northern counties. These figures indicate an average for the state of about 31 bushels of shelled corn, or four bushels more than the average in the nine years, 1878-86.

The severe drouth and frost have greatly injured this crop. Some of the correspondents report it to have "dried ripe," and many of them that it was cut early to save the fodder.

Potatoes are about three-fourths of a full average crop. Late potatoes are of good quality and fair size. The area in potatoes was above the average, and had the rainfall been average in amount and well distributed, the crop would have been the heaviest ever grown in the state.

Of winter apples there is two-thirds of an average crop.

The September report of the United States department of agriculture says the general average for winter wheat is 12 bushels per acre, and for spring wheat slightly over 10 bushels. The quality is much below the average, which will still further reduce the supply.

The crop is from 395,000,000 to 405,000,000 bushels. The crop of 1887 was 456,329,000 bushels.

The department estimate of the average yield for Michigan is 145, more than a bushel less than the state report gives it.

From estimates of the British India crops it appears that the area under wheat in 1887-88 was nearly 1,000,000 acres less than the supposed normal area, while the product, on the other hand, was over 2,000,000 bushels more than the supposed normal output.

The quantity of wheat exported in 1887-88 is stated at 676,908 tons, which are equivalent to 25,271,232 bushels of 60 pounds—the smallest export since 1880-81.

The large falling off in the export as compared with the two preceding years is attributed, to a short output, not only of wheat but of other food crops in northern India, both in 1885-86 and in 1886-87.

From an examination of the facts and statistics connected with wheat production and export the conclusion is drawn. That whenever there is a material surplus of food grains in the country the Indian export merchants can send wheat from India at a price which will enable them to compete at the lowest prices which have yet ruled in Europe; but that when the surplus is small they are unable to answer to a demand even when supported by a rising price in the English market.

The heaviest export from India was for the year 1883-86, when it reached 33,328,638 bushels of 60 pounds.

THE FALL OF JERICHO.

LESSON IV, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, OCT. 28.

Text of the Lesson, Josh. vi, 1-16—Commit Verses 15, 16—Golden Text, Heb. xi, 30—Commentary by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

When the power of the Lord was seen on behalf of His people, then the hearts of their enemies failed them and there was no spirit left in them (v. 1). Because there is so little of the power of God manifest today on behalf of His people, by reason of their unbelief, therefore the enemies of God are rebellious and despise His people.

As soon as the nation had crossed the Jordan and entered the land Joshua caused to be circumscribed all who had been born since they had left Egypt, and then they kept the passover for the fourth day of the month; thus, with the approach of Egypt rolled away, and living in obedience to God, they were ready to go up and possess the land, overcoming all obstacles. They had also eaten of the fruit of the land, the manna having ceased, and thus they were strengthened for victory (v. 9-12). Another most interesting and important incident is recorded in the closing verses of the fifth chapter, as a last preparation for their moving forward. Joshua, by Jericho, sees a man over against him with a drawn sword in his hand, and approaches him with the question: "Art thou for us or against us?" The answer is: "I am captain of the host of the Lord am I now come." Will Joshua submit to be ruled over and dictated to by another, or will he assert his dignity and reply that he himself is captain of this host? Blessed servant of the Lord, he falls on his face and worships and says, in such a manner, and with such a voice, "Jericho was straitly shut up." As if to say, you cannot enter here, nor think to scale these walls, for we are too strong for you. But there was one house in the city from whose window hung a scarlet thread and in which was gathered a company of those who feared and trusted in the God of Israel, a blessed household of faith and precious sure token of the scarlet line. (See II, 18-21; v. 22-25.) This present evil world is as certainly doomed to judgment as was the city of Jericho, and although it may shut itself up in its fancied self security, the time draws near when it shall be said of the people: "The Lord hath broken down their towers and shut their doors about them; he hath hid himself as it were for a little moment, until the indignation be overpast; for, behold, the Lord cometh out of His place, to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity." (Isa. xxvi, 30, 31.)

In the days of Noah, the world was being covered with water, perished, but this present world is reserved unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men. (II Pet. iii, 6, 7.) In the days of Noah they were self indulgent, absorbed in business, and comfortably settled in the right course of the world, the judgments threatened. So also was it in Sodom in the days of Lot, and just so was it in Jericho.

"See, I have given into thine hand Jericho," thus said the captain of the Lord's host to Joshua, and this captain was none other than the Lord Himself, His followers: "The glory which thou gavest me, I have given them" (John xvii, 22); and who says to us: "All things are yours; ye are my witnesses; go ye, therefore; lo, I am with you." We have only to thankfully receive, gladly enjoy and hasten to possess fully the land of our inheritance, that thus we may glorify God and honor His name. We have no right to see or fear difficulties of any kind, for He who is with us, whose we are and whom we represent is the Lord God Almighty, maker of heaven and earth, the Lord Jesus Christ, once dead but now alive forevermore, having the keys of Hades and of death.

If as believers in Christ we do not enjoy the riches of His Grace while we wait for the riches of His Glory, what can it be on our part but pure unbelief? And are we not thereby false witnesses, and guilty of great ingratitude?

Here are instructions clear and simple for the seven days, and the result of their obedience, is plainly stated to be the fall of Jericho, not by their power or might but by the direct hand of God. The men of war, numbering over 600,000 (Num. xxvi, 51), were to compass the city once a day for six days, and on the seventh day they were to do it seven times; seven priests, each with a trumpet of ram's horn, were to precede the ark of the covenant, blowing their trumpets, the armed men going first; but until the seventh time on the seventh day there was no sound of a human voice to be heard (v. 10), nothing but the sound of the ram's horns blown by the seven priests who marched before the Ark.

6-11. As the Lord commanded Joshua so he commanded the people; nothing added, nothing left out; he was simply God's mouth piece, God's obedient servant, and God's will walking in His way. The central object in the great procession was the Ark of the Lord and the only sound was that of the seven trumpets; "So the Ark of the Lord compassed the city, going about it once." Thus they did the first day and returned and lodged in the camp at Gilgal. The place of rolling away the reproach of Egypt, keeping the passover and submitting to the glorious Captain, is the only place to start out from each morning and return to each evening; the flesh reckoned dead, "not I but Christ"; the blood cleansing Jesus Himself satisfying, and our bodies being sanctified into His each day and hour; this is the starting place in the morning and the resting place in the evening, and as we go forth each day it is to bear the Ark and blow the trumpet, or like God's three hundred let the light shine and blow the trumpet; in other words, bear Christ's cross, curving and coming forth. His praises as Redeemer and King.

12-14. "And the second day they compassed the city once and returned into the camp; so they did six days." Just the same order of march, just the same solemn procession, the blowing of trumpets the only sound heard, and the same return to Gilgal without apparently any result; but they were obeying God, and the result was sure in His time.

15, 16. "Shout; for the Lord hath given you the city." If the people of Jericho watched these strange doings with either increasing or decreasing interest, there must have been some excitement when on the seventh day, instead of returning to camp, they began to compass the city the second time; and when the tidings spread within the city that they were starting the third time, and the fourth, and the fifth, we can almost imagine that by the time the real war about to start the seventh time all Jericho was alarmed and cried the walls to see what would be next. At the appointed time the people shouted with a great shout (v. 20), the wall fell down flat, and except Rahab and all who were with her, every one and every thing in Jericho perished. All was accomplished as God had said.

The Boundary Line Posts. The iron posts that mark the northern boundary line between the United States and eastern Canada are at every cross road that leads into Canada, and designate, as the Indians say, the "Land." They stand about the ground about three feet, and have four sides, on which appear the following inscriptions: 1. "Boundary, Aug. 9, 1842." 2. "Albert Smith, United States Commissioner." 3. "Treaty of Washington." 4. "Lieut. Col. I. B. Estcourt, H. B. M. Commissioner."—Frank Leslie's.

Deutsch-Amerikanischer Gratulant.

"The Deutsch-Amerikanischer Gratulant" contains a standard compilation of friendly letters, to-wit: Congratulations, Birthdays, New Year's days, Weddings and other occasions; letters of acknowledgments, accounts of travels, petitions, letters of consolation, recommendation and remembrance, complaints, regrets and invitations, etc., etc., including a well chosen selection of autograph papers in the German and English languages, collected and arranged by Hefflich.

The title of the above work indicates sufficiently its purpose and contents. There is no lack of similar books, but they are all printed in Germany and calculated for German customs and relations. Therefore their contents are unintelligible and worthless for the use of the American youth.

This standard compilation of letters is marked out very advantageously over similar books in as much as each class of letters is preceded by general introductions, outlines and hints as to the manner of composing the different letters. It would be an impossibility to give for each occasion a letter. But the instructions given in this work will enable any one to compose correctly.

Most of the letters are from the well known collections of Rammeler, while the poems are selected from Schellhorn's editions, all of which offer comprehensive ideas for composing letters, etc.

(As the English types are more easily read by the American youth than the German types, and as a great many Americans understand only the English types, we have printed the above in roman letters.)</
