ABOUT THE YOUNG PEOPLE.

INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE.

Johnson’s Question—Mrs. Varsity Problems, A Girl City City Girl.

My name is "Vicky," and I am a city girl. I have just turned eighteen years of age, and I am a college student. I have been living in the city for most of my life, and I have a lot of friends there. I am interested in literature and art, and I enjoy reading and painting in my spare time. I am also active in my community, volunteering for various causes and participating in local events.

What are some common interests and activities of city girls like me?

I have a question about antique furniture. I have inherited a large collection of antiques from my deceased uncle, and I am not sure how to appraise them. I have heard that there are experts who can help with this, but I am not sure where to find them.

Can you recommend any resources or experts who can help me appraise my antique furniture collection?

THE LADIES HOME COMPANION
To the editors of The Ladies Home Companion:
I received the first volume of "The Ladies Home Companion," a copy of which I purchased last winter, and have been using it ever since. I am writing to express my satisfaction with the publication, and to request a renewal of the subscription for the coming year.

The articles in the magazine are of much interest to me, and I find them very useful. I particularly enjoy the articles on cooking and gardening, and I am glad to have the opportunity to read them each month.

I am also pleased with the illustrations, which are well done and help to make the reading pleasant. I think the magazine is well worth the price, and I am looking forward to receiving it each month.

Sincerely yours,

THE VACANT CHAIR.

In the last number of the Manchester Enterprise, we had a letter from a man named Jones, who had been a resident of the town for many years, and who had recently moved to a new place. He took the opportunity to write a letter to the editor, stating his reasons for leaving the town, and expressing his regret at the departure of several old residents.

In the Mayflower, a man named Smith had written a letter to the editor, expressing his concern about the condition of the schools in the town. He mentioned that the schools were in a poor state of repair, and that the teaching staff was inadequate. He urged the town council to take action to improve the situation.

The same issue of the Manchester Enterprise also contained a letter from a man named Williams, who had recently moved to the town from a neighboring state. He expressed his admiration for the town and its people, and declared that he was happy to have found a new home.

In the Mayflower, a man named Brown had written a letter to the editor, expressing his concern about the condition of the town's water supply. He mentioned that the water was often turbid and undrinkable, and that the town council should take action to improve the situation.

The same issue of the Manchester Enterprise also contained a letter from a man named Thomas, who had recently moved to the town from a neighboring state. He expressed his admiration for the town and its people, and declared that he was happy to have found a new home.
