THURSDAY, APRIL 7, 1922.

How easy it is for one benevolent being to diffuse pleasure around him and how truly it is a kind of a fountain of gladness, making everything in its vicinity to freshen into smiles.

Our attainments, our qualities, our value can be judged only relatively. It is only as they compare with those of other people or with some imaginative ideal, that they can be called strong or weak, good or evil, high or low.

There is no benefit so large but malignity will still lessen it; none so narrow which a good interpretation will not enlarge. No man can ever be grateful who does not know how wrong he is, or takes a good office for the wrong hand.

When Milton aptly but bitterly broke out in his character of a divine philosophy, not harsh and crabbed, as dull fools suppose, but musical as a Apollo's lute, 'two distinct feelings no doubt, swayed his mind, the one being that of a world of wisdom, the other of a world of wisdom's fountains, the one a sense of joy, the other a sense of duty, the one a sense of his own enjoyment, the other a sense of his own perfum.

We can have no hesitation in saying that the short story is a very important element in the fiction of the day. The best writers are putting some of their best work into this form, once deemed unworthy, if not perishable. We would be afraid to purchase any volume of really excellent stories, numbering from three to a dozen in a volume, have appeared within the last year, and that they have found many a sale in spite of the fact that many of them were reprints from the magazines. None can be doubted, for they continue to be published and the publishers are not likely to stop for any amusement or for the gratification of the author.

With the new school of train rules being made, the book is looking cozier and refined, and carry over a handsome shoulder a college satchel, we shall see 400 or 500 copies of these new books. The book dealer will undergo important modifications, in their descending along the pendulum rubber hose from the sky-scraper tank at which the engine is hooked, to the thirty throat to the window of the money car. The scene of great battles between robbers and gamblers will be no more. The scene of the remote Rockies and the Rocky mountains and the Rocky mountains near great universities.

The scene of great battles between robbers and gamblers will be no more. The scene of the remote Rockies and the Rocky mountains and the Rocky mountains near great universities.

This short story may be accepted as a factor in our literature, nor is its value to be undervalued. It is sometimes perhaps, a novel of the day, but it is not a novel. It is a story, and it is a story that is told in a way that is new and interesting. It is a story that is told in a way that is new and interesting. It is a story that is told in a way that is new and interesting.

Now, even physically, there are men born with such a lack of sensibility in their gustatory organs that a Crawford peach and a raw turnip are all one to them; just as there are men who are obtuse in the sense of smell, and to get equal satisfaction out of bell-trope and skunk cabbage. But it will never do to assume such congenital defects as the sole reason why so many good things go unappreciated in the world. If such numbers of strong heads and deep hearts have in all ages identified with the philosophy with green peas, beans and so refused to have their mouths puckered with it, it is but fair to ask whether the 'harsh and crabbed' way in which philosophy has been presented, is not largely responsible for the issue?

There means something more than the mere claims of poverty. Our expenditures were strictly limited by consideration of utility. If we built our houses only in such a manner as to be as comfortable as possible, we would have been controlled by the simple desire to see every dollar well expended and its productivity assured, the conditions of existence would be such, even for the poor, as to make life singularly unattractive. Art which could not be used for the sake of utility would be completely banished, and expenditures for amusement which could not justify themselves on the ground that they were needed to keep the mind in a happy, and hence healthy, condition, would be fairly termed wasteful.

PERSONAL.

Myrdere Harber is still very sick. Casper Raby visited in Lansing over Sunday.

Fred Field of Tecumseh was in town Monday afternoon. Earl Chase went to Jackson last Friday to visit his brother.

Mrs. R. L. Cope returned from visiting Detroit Friday yesterday. Mrs. D. Haarer of Orosco is visiting his mother here this week.

Mr. Amble of Brooklyn is visiting his mother here and today. Jacob Harster and Henry Kirshof were in Ann Arbor Tuesday.

Van Schreiner and Detroit visited in town on Sunday. Mrs. Freeman and Miss Pearl Davis of Chelsea visited in town on Sunday.

N. W. Hollis visited his daughter, Mrs. Frank Meyer, in Detroit last week. We learn that Will Hewart of Grand Rapids is prostrated with typhoid fever.

Dr. Hyndman of Norvell made a professional call in town Tuesday morning. Michael Reiter, who has been living on a farm near Brooklyn, has moved back here.

Mr. Chadwick of Tecumseh is visiting his daughter, Mrs. C. J. Robison, this week. J. H. Hollis left home for the west Tuesday. He will travel in Dakota and Iowa.

Spencer Case, who is weighing mail on the Michigan Central, was at home over Sunday. Edward Schneider went to Ann Arbor Saturday to see his wife, who is in the hospital.

Mr. & Mrs. Wm. Bartles attended the Hay-Kimball wedding at Norvell last evening. Fred Kemler left Monday for Detroit where he will engage in the cold-storage business.

We learn that Miss Mary Foster, formerly of this village, died in Detroit yesterday. Adam Schable will work the Berger farm south of town, for Wm. Bartles this season.

Miss Kate Haarer of Orosco is the guest of Miss Emily Gwinmer of S. First street. Mr. & Mrs. Elmer Cushman of Delhi Mills have been visiting at her father's, L. D. Watkins.

A. F. Freeman has been chosen a delegate to the republican state convention at Jackson on Thursday and Friday, April 14 and 15.

There was not a single case of tardiness in the primary department of our union school during the winter term. We had dancing races on Sunday and Monday afternoon at the school building. The day before yesterday was a very busy day.

The G. A. R. boys are making arrangements to attend the state encampment at Ann Arbor on the 19th, 20th and 21st. The mud is fast drying up, and the highway construction are out with their road machines leveling up the roads.

One can see a veritable sand storm if they will take the eye in the direction of the A. W. Case farm any windy day. Mr. Blagden did not return from Eaton Rapids with her husband on account of the sickness of their little girl.

Charles Rose, who had his foot crushed on the railroad a few weeks ago, walked up town Monday by the aid of crutches. Miss Abbie Chase visited in Jackson last week and on returning home on Saturday was accompanied by Mrs. Bert Chase.

Marcus D. Case, who is clerking for John H. Miller at Ypsilanti, came home on Monday to vote and visit with his family. Miss Mattie and Nora Rowe returned home from Ann Arbor last Saturday where they have been spending the past few weeks.

N. W. Holt went to Ann Arbor on Tuesday to attend the annual meeting and election of officers of the K. T. commandery. Michael Breener of Ann Arbor was in town last Thursday, Mike's Manchester friends were glad to see him.

Had the township been divided into two voting precincts by making Exchange Place in this village the dividing line and had both polling places in the village it would have given better satisfaction. In our advertising columns on the 4th page we found an advertisement for a new machine for crushing stone.

John Stueggler, section boss on the Jackson branch, was injured a week or more ago by the hand car running over his foot, is improving. Frank Hay of Brooklyn was in town last Friday. He had a bill which he claimed was a green goods dealer sent him, probably a bait, but he will not touch it.

LESSON II—APRIL 10—THE KING AND SO ARE

Dr. M. D. Blossom

THURSDAY, APRIL 7, 1892.

A HUMAN soul without education, is like marble in the quarry...

SURELY nobody can always know what is right. Yes you always can for to-day...

It would help to reduce the vast heap of needless nuisances with which the world is made unwholesome...

The United States has escaped Militarism, but military sentiment is vastly stronger in the community than it was thirty years ago...

It is quite possible to construct an argument to prove that education is actually the cause of crime...

COURTESY is not hypocrisy; it is humanity which we are bound to render to both friend and foe...

With all the affection that springs from association; with all the historic interest that still draws the savant and the saint to ground...

The completion of the railroad from Jaffa to Jerusalem in Palestine is one of the most interesting of modern events...

Lane's Family Medicine. Moves the bowels each day. A pleasant herb drink...

EVERY LADY IN TOWN Would prefer being caressed from being created on by the scissors of a knife...

CAMDEN, N. Y., Sept. 26, 1890. Having suffered from Dyspepsia and Constipation for several years...

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria...

It boots speak drive a peg in the center of the sole.

Mr. A. B. Laform, Boston, Mass., says: I ordered and distributed one dozen large bottles of Ely's Cream Balm...

How's This? We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any one of either that cannot be cured by taking Hill's Catarrh Cure...

Why continue the use of remedies that only irritate when Ely's Cream Balm, pleases out of application and a cure for Catarrh and Colds is had...

There is ease for those far gone in consumption—not recovery—ease.

There is cure for those not far gone.

There is prevention—better than cure—for those who are threatened.

Let us send you a book on CAREFUL LIVING and Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil...
