GOV. JOHN T. RICH.

THAT IS THE NAME OF THE MAN WHO WILL GRACE

The Executive Chair of Michigan After January 1, 1893, He Having Been Chosen by the Republicans of This State.—The House and Senate.

Michigan is slow. Fearfully slow. Al least the matter of election returns. Nevertheless it is known that Hon. John T. Rich is to be the next Governor of our beautiful "Peninsular Alma."

LAKE MARINE HORROR

THIRTY-ONE PEOPLE LOSE THEIR LIVES

By the Foundering of the Steamer Gilcher and the Schooner Ostreich near South Manitow Island.

The huge steel steamer, W. H. Gilcher, foundered in the recent big gale, off South Manitow Island, or near the Foxes. The Gilcher was sighted by the Westover near Mackinac and seemed to be laboring hard with wind and wave and this was the last seen of her. After the storm wreckage began coming ashore on the islands and mainland, Capt. Corbett, of the schooner Wankesha, reports that he saw the steamer's lights for sometime and they suddenly disappeared. There can be no doubt that the Gilcher went down as some of her wreckage has been identified.

The Gilcher was owned in Cleveland and was a duplicate of the steamer Western Reserve, which went down in Lake Superior some months ago. The Gilcher was, excepting the Pope, the largest carrier on the lakes. She was valued at $200,000, insured for $100,000. She was commanded by Capt. L. H. Weeks, a man of the highest standing in marine circles, reputed for fearlessness, skill and good judgment. Capt. Weeks lived at Vermillion, Ohio, and leaves a family. The first mate was Capt. Ed Porter, of Lorain, Ohio, who formerly sailed the schooner, Three Brothers, and later the Thomas P. Sheldon. He was sailing master of the big schooner, George. He leaves a wife and one son who is about 20 years old and married. Porter himself was about 57 years of age.

She carried, all told, 22 men. Sidney Jones the chief engineer, was from Marine City. The steamer W. H. Gilcher left Buffalo with a cargo of coal bound for Milwaukee. She passed the straits, was sighted by the Westover and was never seen again.

Wreckage from the schooner Ostreich is also coming ashore at the Manitow. The crew of six men and a woman have been undoubtedly lost. This boat, some people think, had a collision with the Gilcher, which resulted in the loss of both vessels. The wreckage of both is not far apart. Until the wreck of the schooner can be found this idea will be entertained of her by many.

SENSATIONAL SHOOTING.

A Jackson Man Shot Through the Head—His Wife Attempts Suicide.

Bert Tingley, aged about 32, was fatally shot at Jackson, though whether it was a case of murder or suicide, is not yet known. The police are working on the case on the supposition that it may be murder. He was shot through the head. He is now unconscious and can live but a short time.

Tingley lived with two women, one his wife, the other is paramour. They are two hardened females, who appear to care little for the fate of the wounded man. There is a suspicion that one of them did the shooting. Tingley's wife took two spoonfuls of acetone with suicidal intent, but her stomach was pumped out and she will recover.

The women declare Tingley did the shooting. There has been considerable friction between these women. One shared Tingley's apartments while the dead man's other flame slept on the floor above. The La Monte woman, who is supposed to be his wife, says Tingley has been ill for a long time. She was awakened, she says, by the report of the pistol. She says she retired about midnight and was aroused when the shot was fired. Tingley, she declares, had threatened to take his life.

Will J. Reynolds, aged 23, was arrested in Toledo and brought to Adrian to answer to the charge of kidnaping his 13-year-old step-sister, Lydia Baker. The youthful couple disappeared and went to Toledo, where they soon procured a license by perjury and were married. The furious father went after them the following day, but was unable to find any tracks of the young people whatever, so the police were notified and located them at a boarding house. Though only 13 the girl is well developed and pretty and would readily pass for 17. Reynolds defied the officers and created quite a sensation when arrested, but his bride broke down completely when taken to police headquarters and willingly returned. The prisoner will be tried for kidnaping and possibly perjury.

NEWS OF GENERAL NATURE FROM MANY SOURCES.

Canadians Becoming Alarmed Over the Exodus of Their People to the States—American Locomotives the Heat.

At a meeting of the Young Men's Liberal Conservation association at Toronto, Ont. Monday, the president, in the course of his inaugural address, said: "We should try and solve the problem as to why thousands of people are leaving this country every year and going to the United States. It is an information that the habit of emigration that no less than 4,000 have left this city during the last year, left all that was near and dear and went into foreign exile. There is no concealing the fact that we are being annexed in job lots every week and there is not a voice against it. There is a 'hot' and cry raised by revenue patriots at after-dinner speeches and some stomp-bursting political speakers on the stump against annexing our mud, but not one word is raised by our politicians, by our patriots, or by anyone to the United States concerning the brains and muscle of this country in job lots. Evidently mud comes higher in Canada."

A HUMAN VAMPIRE.

A Portuguese Sailor Murdered Two Companions and Sucked Their Blood.

Deputy United States Marshal Williams, of Cincinnati, has removed James Brown, a deranged United States prisoner from the Ohio penitentiary to the National Asylum at Washington. The prisoner fought like a tiger against being removed. Twenty-five years ago he was charged with being a vampire and living on human blood. He was a Portuguese sailor and shipped on a fishing smack from Liverpool to the coast in 1857. During the trip two of the crew were missing and an investigation made. Brown was found one day in the hold of the ship sucking the blood from the body of one of the sailors. The other body was found at the same place and had been served in a similar manner. Brown was returned to Boston and convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged. President Johnson commuted the sentence to imprisonment for life. After serving 15 years in Massachusetts he was transferred to the Ohio penitentiary. He committed two murders since his confinement. When being taken from the prison he believed that he was on the way to execution and resisted accordingly.

FATAL RAILWAY WRECK.

Thirteen Persons Killed and Many Seriously Injured by a Collision.

A railway accident occurred near Thirsk, in Yorkshire, England, in which 13 persons were killed and a large number injured. The express train which leaves Edinburgh every evening for London was running at full speed as it approached Thirsk when ahead of it appeared a heavily laden goods train. The engineer of the express train reversed his engine and put on the brakes, but the momentum of the heavy express was too great and it crashed into the goods train, making a most terrible wreck. The carriages caught fire and were destroyed. The scene at the wreck was pitiable. Some of the bodies taken out of the debris had been burned beyond all semblance to humanity. The clothing had been destroyed and in some cases the jewelry worn had been melted by the intense heat. This will render the identification of the dead in some cases extremely difficult, if not altogether impossible.

TO MAKE A REPUBLIC.

That Seems to be the Desire of a Powerful Element in Spain.

The populace of Granada were greatly disappointed at Queen Regent Christina's refusal to visit that city with King Alfonso after great preparations had been made to receive them. The feeling of disappointment changed to one of anger, and a large mob went to the city and destroyed the handsome triumphal arch that had been erected. They set fire to the petro offices and stood by while they burned. Then the mob proceeded to the stand that had been erected for the use of the royal party during the unveiling of a statue of Columbus and completely destroyed it together with a platform built for the public use. Finding no other mementoes of the Columbus celebration on which to vent their anger the crowd went to the houses of the leaders of the conservative party and assailed them with stones, smashing the windows and doing other damage.

ARTIFICIAL RAIN EXPERIMENT AT WASHINGTON.

For nearly a week rain-making experiments were conducted by the agricultural department at Fort Meyer, across the river from Washington. Two of the new explosives that were being tested promise well. One is roselite, a powder resembling in appearance moist brown sugar and smelling like fresh concrete. It is the invention of Dr. Roselle and is made by mixing one part to seven of chlorate of potash and asphaltum oil. It is one of the safest known high explosives to handle and can be exploded only by means of a detonating fuse. It ranks above dynamite as a high explosive. The other explosive is intended to take the place of the rather expensive oxygen-hydrogen balloon. It is a vast paper bag 30 feet long and five feet in diameter, filled with carburetted vapor, which explodes with enormous energy and is likewise cheap to prepare. The experiments were successful. The party across the river practically satisfied itself of the value of the new compounds and "broke up camp" and left for San Antonio, Tex., where attempts on a gigantic scale will be made to shake rain out of the clouds on the dry Texas prairies.

A SEXTON'S STRANGE SUICIDE.

Mrs. Hanna Himmelf on the Highest Beam in the Church Belfry.

For the first time in the history of Trinity Catholic church, of Milwaukee, there was no second service last Sunday. The reason was caused by the discovery of the body of George Janke, the sexton, hanging high up in the church spire after the congregation had filled the church. The greatest excitement prevailed for a time after Father Conrad discovered the congregation that the explanation that something terrible had happened. Janke had been sexton of the church for five years. He rang the bell for service the night before at vespers and that was the last seen of him. When Fr. Conrad found that his robes had not been laid out for service as usual he inquired for Janke and not finding him a search was immediately inaugurated. The searchers finally climbed to the belfry where they found Janke's dead body hanging on the highest beam. Fr. Conrad was notified and immediately dismissed the congregation.

THE DEMONSTRATION DIDN'T DEMONSTRATE.

Twelve hundred people were concentrated in and about Trafalgar Square London last Sunday to watch the gathering of unemployed workmen who proposed to hold a great demonstration in the square. Instead of the vast throng of the unemployed that was expected, not more than 200 persons were present at the time set for the meeting. The affair was a complete fizzle. A few red banners and a few mottoes were seen. Among them were two readings. "The Power of the Rich is the Oppression of the Poor" and "Unemployed Demand Your Rights." The crowd, if it could be termed a crowd, was chiefly made up of well-dressed spectators, who gathered to see what would be done. Workingmen, unemployed or otherwise, were conspicuous by their absence. A number of speeches of the usual Socialist stamp were made, but excited little if any interest.

ARCTIC EXPLORER DEAD.

LIEUTENANT SCHWATKA, THE HERO OF ARCTIC AND ALASKAN EXPLORATION FAME DIES IN A STRANGE MANNER AT PORTLAND OREGON.

Lieutenant Frederick G. Schwatka, who made his name famous the world over by commanding the expedition to the Arctic region in search of the remains of the lost Sir John Franklin party, is dead at Portland. The lieutenant was found by an officer lying on the street at 3 o'clock, in the morning. By his side was a half-empty bottle of laudanum. He was in a comatose condition and was immediately removed to the Hotel, then to a city physician. As he did not improve he was removed to a hospital where he died. The lieutenant was in the habit of taking from 15 to 20 drops of laudanum to relieve stomach trouble and it is supposed that he took an overdose by accident.

Frederick Schwatka was born in Galena, Ill., the old home of General Grant, on Sept. 29, 1849. He learned the printer's trade which he followed until 1867 when he received an appointment to West Point. He graduated with honors in 1871 and served in the Third Cavalry for six years. In 1878 he organized a search party to endeavor if possible to discover the fate of John Franklin and sailed to Chesterfield Inlet and thence went by sledge to King William Land and became injured to the life of the Esquimaux. On the journey he found many graves of members of the Franklin party and also papers and relics that helped to explain that which had been hidden for 30 years. Schwatka's discoveries practically settled that Franklin died June 7, 1847. Schwatka's sledge made a journey of 3,250 miles from April 1, 1879 to March 4, 1880. Schwatka next made a tour for research in Mexico but has made himself famous for his explorations in Alaska. He followed up the Yukon River through a region never before traveled by white man. In 1886 he conducted another expedition to Alaska. Lieutenant Schwatka has received a great many medals for his discoveries and had become widely known as a lecturer and a writer.

Pierson's Unpleasant Reception.

Rev. Mr. Pierson, the ex-Detroit clergyman, had a novel kind of installation in Spurgeon's temple at London. One of the factors in the church who do not want Pierson because of their doubts of his soundness on the question of baptism, arose in the middle of the services and asked him if he was an immersionist. After a tough struggle with him, in which some of them went down on their knees, but not in prayer, Mr. Pierson's friends ejected this inquisitive person, because, as the dispatch says, the "immersionist's wind gave out." After the disturbance was over, Mr. Pierson announced that he meant to make hot work for the devil in the tabernacle this winter.

Finally he took a revolver and shot himself through the head, dying in a few minutes. The wife, who is in a delicate condition is crazed over the tragedy.

Gambling Caused His Death.

George Roberts, a commercial traveler, killed himself with laudanum at Orville, Ont. He was a prosperous commercial traveler, but a confirmed poker player. He mounted a horse and rode away from the habit, but it had fascinated him. After losing his situation and becoming penniless, he decided to end his life. He left a letter praying those who had won his money to see that he had a decent funeral.
