Something About Sidewalks.

They seem to be having considerable trouble in Ann Arbor over the sidewalk question.
Dr. Breaky built or repaired a sidewalk but not according to the requirements of the common council, and the city brought suit before Justice Pond to see which was right. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. The case will probably be appealed to the circuit court.

Regarding the case Col. Dean said to a Times representative: "I tell you there is a feeling all over the city against the council for the autocratic way in which they act over these sidewalks. They have a scheme and I have got onto the scheme, and it is to run out all of the tar walks and make people put down stone walks. Formerly they encouraged people to put down tar walks and keep them in repair, and now they want the people to take them up. I tell you the people won't stand it. No, sir."

There is certainly something wrong about the management of sidewalks. Who do the sidewalks belong to, or rather, who ought to build the sidewalks? We contend that the city or village ought to do it. The land in front of a man's property, that between his fence and that of his neighbor across the way, does not belong to him but to the village or city. The village or city authorities build and maintain the roadways, why not the sidewalks? They are used in common by everybody. The owner may use the walk in front of his place little, while his neighbor across the way uses it much; and that neighbor across the way not have a sidewalk in front of his place, though he be much more able to own and maintain one.

The village or city authorities pretend to control the sidewalk business; say when a man shall build or repair; of what width; whether it shall be constructed of boards, planks, tar, gravel, cement, brick or stone. They do not take into consideration the condition of a man's finances but if he does not do as they require they do it themselves and charge the expense up, to be spread upon the tax roll. This is all wrong. As the land belongs to the village or city they ought to build and maintain the sidewalks.

Frozen potatoes can be restored to palatability by peeling them and letting them lie in a cool place with plenty of cold water poured over them. In twenty-four hours all the sugar which has been formed during the freezing process will have been removed, and the potatoes can now be boiled in fresh water and will be found to be perfectly palatable.—Free Press. We intended to test this before we gave it to the ENTERPRISE readers but the weather is not cold enough—and our wife says that we are out of potatoes.

The Ann Arbor Democrat and other papers have a good deal to say about the unseemly haste displayed by some of the audience at the close of entertainments. There are several reasons why people are in such a hurry, one of which is to avoid the jam they are sure to get into if they wait to go out with the crowd. This is because of the inadequate facilities of exit furnished by most assembly halls. And this is a matter that ought to be more carefully looked after for safety and convenience.

Thompson's patent horse detacher is one of the latest devices for protection from runaway horses. By an ingenious arrangement the driver when he finds that his horse is getting away from him, can pull a string and the animal is detached from the vehicle.—Citizen. The vehicle then runs against a hitching post, his skull cracked and his clothes soiled while the horse stops and eats hay from a farmer's wagon.

Norvell Farmers' Club.
The first all day meeting of the season was held with James Hay at Evergreen Home on the 26th, with a good attendance.
The exercises began with the reading of some press clippings by A. R. Palmer, following which President Halladay read an extract from the report of a meeting of the south Jackson club, setting forth the alleged fact that farmers' wives are the hardest worked of any class of women in the country and very poorly supplied with household conveniences.

After some discussion it was moved by a lady and voted that the Norvell club does not endorse the sentiments of Mrs. Pike of the S. Jackson club, but emphatically denies their truthfulness.
After a full interchange of views it was decided to hold an institute or public meeting in Norvell on the last Saturday in this month, to which the neighboring clubs and the public generally should be invited. Arrangement and programme committees were appointed.

A recitation was then given by Mrs. C. J. Harper, closing with the sentiment, "Never gain selfish pleasure by another one's woe."
The subject of state taxation was introduced by H. A. Ladd. Taxation is necessary, and if not excessive, beneficial also. History teaches that governments must strive to do exact justice by all or they will perish. In the states a revenue is obtained by a tax on property and this falls most heavily on real estate. A large class of professional men, clerks and laborers pay no tax unless they have property. In theory it would be just that all should pay alike, but this is not practicable, but all should pay something. The only such tax now levied is the road poll tax and many escape that. Some with incomes of $10,000 pay nothing. Public expenditures must increase but perhaps not faster than the increase of property. In some lines expenses might be greatly reduced. A jury trial in civil cases is unnecessary and generally unsatisfactory. I would much rather trust the decision of a single honest lawyer than any court and jury now constituted. Instances were given to show the unsatisfactory and expensive nature of law suits. There is at present much grumbling about our roads, but it is not by those who do the work of keeping them in repair. All should be taxed to maintain good roads. It should be made a state matter but not a national one.

As it seemed to be growing late many declined to take time to make remarks on the subject. A. R. Palmer thought it easily possible for a government to be too penurious and economical. If a work is to be done at all it is best to expend enough to do it well. Nauperism and crime are heavy burdens and as has been said, the courts are a source of much expense. Is not particularly dissatisfied with the present system of road work, although in some cases much useless work is done.

W. E. Pease would endorse the paper in its statements regarding judicial expenses. When on jury in Washtenaw county one slender case was tried in which the expense for the jury amounted to $375 while the verdict rendered was for $1.
A. R. Palmer spoke of an increase of state revenues by indirect ways, and suggested a tax on inheritance. Also stated that his supervisor said that the taxable property of Napoleon township had been lessened $22,000 by the action of the mortgage tax law.

Some others spoke of the law, and Mr. Watkins said the fact is, it does not help anybody and ought to be repealed.
T. B. Halladay said that the tax on legacies in New York state worked well and yielded quite a revenue to the state and would undoubtedly do well here. The tax on the sales of intoxicating drinks is a help, and it must act as a restraint on the trade. We would stamp out the traffic if we could, but if we cannot then let us tax it.

After a little talk by R. D. Palmer and L. D. Watkins on the moral influence of our public schools, the latter thinking it more evil than good, the club adjourned.
Details of the projected institute will be published when perfected. It is proposed to have two sessions, morning and afternoon. The forenoon will be devoted chiefly to scenery.

Lenawee County.
A Tecumseh miller asked about the story of a load of wheat being hauled to Tecumseh, finding no buyers and being driven home unsold, an incident that has found no parallel in 40 years in Tecumseh. "We were all interested and excited in the failure, and were not accessible yesterday, and I guess one man did have to take home a small jag. But there were only about 20 bushels and $44 was all there was involved."

Miss Marion Weed charmed her hearers not only by her beautiful voice, but she showed such a high state of cultivation in her style and artistic finish that it places her without doubt in the front rank of American vocalists.—New York Herald.
Miss Weed sings with the New York Philharmonic Club at Tecumseh Dec. 14.

George Larwell, the gentlemanly and versatile editor and foreman of the Adrian Times, is a candidate for state oil inspector and ought to have it as he has been pouring oil on the troubled waters for a long time and is counted faithful and honest.
Speaking of O. P. Bills of Tecumseh the Evening News says: Besides having an alleged mesalee partner named Koch—pronounced Coe—the embarrassed banker has a case of measles and one of whooping cough in his family circle.

The safe in Wm. Hayden's globe mills at Tecumseh was blown open Sunday night and a package containing $100 in silver coin taken, but another one of $400 in bills was left.
Burglars entered the home of D. L. Whitcomb at Tecumseh last Sunday night and took a gold watch and chain.
Don't forget the lecture Friday night.

St. Nicholas For Young Folks.
John G. Whittier long ago wrote of St. Nicholas. "It is little to say of this magazine that it is the best children's periodical in the world." Edward Eggleston, the author of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," says of it: "There is not one of the numbers that does not stir the curiosity, inform the memory, stimulate thought and enlarge the range of the imagination." Founded in 1873, and from the first number edited by Mary Mapes Dodge, St. Nicholas is now entering upon its twentieth year. The most famous writers have contributed to its pages in the past but never has its editor been able to offer a better programme or a more distinguished list of contributors than for 1893.

There is to be a series of illustrated papers on "The Leading Cities of the United States"—the story of each city told by a prominent resident. Edmund Clarence Stedman will write of New York; Thomas W. Higginson, of Boston; New Orleans will be described by George W. Cable, and Baltimore by President Gilman of the Johns Hopkins university. Dr. Lyman Abbott will tell the story of Brooklyn, and other cities will be treated by other famous men. There will be articles on the world's fair and a number of funny pictures and humorous verses.

Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, the well known author of "The Bird's Christmas Carol," etc., will contribute the leading serial for St. Nicholas during the coming year. The November number opens with a three page poem by John G. Whittier, which has in it some of the most beautiful lines the good Quaker poet has ever written, describing the visit of a party of young girls to his home.

The School Journal says: "Place St. Nicholas in your household and you need have no fears for the lessons taught your children." The magazine is the greatest aid that the teacher and conscientious parent can possibly have. It entertains and at the same time educates and instructs. The subscription price is $3 a year. Remittances may be made directly to the publishers, The Century Co., 33 East 17th St., New York. We club it with the ENTERPRISE.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL. LESSON XI—DEC. 11—THE APOSTOLIC COUNCIL.

Golden Text: Through the Grace of the Lord, We are Saved, Even as They Are Saved.

Home Reading. M. Return to Antioch... Acts, iv. 23-37...

Introduction.—Not a great while after the return of Paul and Barnabas...

13. "And... James answered." This is James the brother of the Lord...

14. "Simon hath declared." See v. 15-17. "To this agree the words of the prophets..."

15. "Known unto God as all his creatures." The present call of the Gentiles...

16. "Wherefore my sentence is..." Without attempting to dictate to the apostles...

17. "For Moses said..." This verse assigns a reason for the proposed restriction...

18. "But, John, plain plumbing..." The other brethren, being so accustomed to the Jewish belief...

19. "Of course, Motherly ways..." The other brethren, being so accustomed to the Jewish belief...

20. "I have said..." The other brethren, being so accustomed to the Jewish belief...
