Scenic artists are at work painting several new curtains and wings for the theater hall, and when completed the stage will look first class again. The drop curtain will contain a number of advertisements arranged around a center scene.

Prosecuting attorney Kearney was in town yesterday as counsel for Elmer Clough, in a replevin suit brought by Henry Brotenwischer, his attorney being A. F. Freeman of this village. Justice Kelly reserved his decision for a few days.

The product of the cannery is better than that of last year. Chas. Sandford is running it in accordance with the demands and prices. The product now is about 1800 pounds per week. From every ton of cream they allow for getting 90 pounds of butter, less 20 tons of cream are handled weekly by the two teams.

Mr. Gardner had a large night-bloom ing cactus in bloom last week and there is another bud on the plant, we understand. These plants are so rare, bloom so seldom and waste all their beauty in one evening that it makes them an object worth seeing and neighbors are generally on the alert for several days in anticipation of the event.

Where extensive repairs have to be made or new walls built, we wonder that more of the cement waits are not put down. Undoubtedly if the ingredients are properly put together, this is the cheapest wall known. In the long run, and especially so considering the offer made by our common council to stand part of the expense, which we believe still holds good.

"It has leaked out that hackman Robison of Manchester has rubbed his vehicle with a new coat of paint. This will create some excitement as soon as it becomes generally known."—Argus. Don't you believe it brother Argusman. The Manchester bus, baggage wagon and the team are always in good shape, if you don't think so send over your best bus and team and try a dash with us.

The ice cream rally at the residence of Mr. & Mrs. H. Townsend on Saturday evening, was conducted in grand style, and notwithstanding the cool evening a large number were in attendance. The yard was decorated with flags and evergreens and lighted by electricity. An abundance of tables was provided and people were reminded of the event by the playing of the band. We hear about $10.75 were the receipts, and more cream might have been sold had they had it.

With the arrival of the present warm weather and the pecky flies, Bert Amesen sat the inventive apparatus of his anatomy at work to devise some way of preventing his collars from wilting and to keep the aforesaid pecky creatures from using his forehead for a recreation park. He finally hit upon the scheme of attaching a fan to his lathe, and thus by a little extra expenditure of mechanical energy he is now about the coolest man in town and also the busiest. Flies have no use for their former stamping ground and Bert thinks he is right "in it."

"If you want to have your olfactory tickled by the odor of sweet smelling flowers," observes the Manchester Enterprise, "visit the residence of H. L. Rose." If the Roses shouldn't be at home, visit the pond and get a whiff of the submarine browse that shows up from the shallows and salutes the nostrils with its separate and distinct smells. Complaint is made of the fifth-catching propensities of the pond weeds at Manchester. Since Neptune has placed his ban on the submarine lawn mower, why not turn a herd of carp into the pond? They would underbrush it in a season or two.—Argus.

August—the vacation number of St. Nicholas has reached our sanctum and been transferred to the household where it is the delight of our youngsters and the pleasure of the older ones. It is certainly an admirable magazine for young folks. Among its contents this time are: "The admiral and the midshipmate," "American bicyclers at Mount St. Michel," "Among the adventurous stories are: "How Meta saved the mill," "Natural history comes in for its share in "The Bears of North America" and "Glimpses of central park animals." Various poems, continued stories and stories of fiction are between its covers also. Price $3 a year.

Geo. Rhead of Ann Arbor was in town Tuesday en route home from Norvell, where he goes Mondays and Thursdays to look after his huckleberry marsh. He informs us that on Monday 125 teams were hitched in the grove adjoining the marsh and he calculates that at least 100 bushels of berries were picked. Never before was there so large a crowd in attendance or so many berries picked. Manchester people were right in it and being too early to enjoy Old Sol's warming rays were obliged to build a fire to thaw out after the morning ride. It is indeed an ideal place to go berrying. The marsh contains 35 acres and at the entrance is a fine little grove and a good well.

One cannot always judge a man by the clothes he wears, neither can he be judged by his facial expression. Yesterday we happened to be at the Lake Shore depot when a commercial man entered. We had noticed him before; he was tall, dark, neatly dressed. His features were sharply outlined, and his black mustache short cropped, making him look the picture of selfishness and indifference to others. He seemed to have no companions among other travelers. When he learned of the worthy cause in which Frank Maginn is engaged, he asked a few questions, took a coin from his pocket and said "Mark it stranger? Is that not charity pure and simple? Do not make your convictions of a man too strong from first impressions."

Four of our young men who have a craving for tanned cheeks and sunburned backs and the chance to tell big fish stories; also to sit more closely to mother earth while the stars beam brightly upon them through the holes in an A tent and to partake of a diet of pork and beans and other dishes which they cannot get at home and which undoubtedly no took but themselves would be able to compare to their signed liking, will go camping in the pleasant shade and delightful breezes of Wampler's lake on Saturday next, prepared to remain a week. When they return we perhaps will not know them because of so many sleepless nights. They will undoubtedly eat so many fish that the region mostly affected by a cucumber diet will be punctured by fish bones, and their own bones will be near the outer skin from sleeping on improvised beds. However they will come home much refreshed and rested, for a change is a rest. The party is composed of Chas. Youngmans, Elmer Silkworth, Fred Kalmbach and Homer Palmer.

The Sunday concerts at the Wampler's lake hotel are becoming more and more popular. Next Sunday the Brooklyn Quartette Band furnishes music.

Echoes From Ye Absent Editor.

A Trip through Canada, the White Mts. and New England. FRAYAN, N. H., July 22, 1894. DEAR ENTERPRISE:—We were so heartily in sympathy with the old song, "I love to steal awhile away from every number care," that the opportunity offered by the annual outing of the members of the Michigan press association was utterly irresistible. For several weeks the "Bulletin" of the press association had stimulated our desires as it set forth in plain but expressive words the beauties of a trip down the St. Lawrence to the White Mountains and the sea shore. Can you wonder then that we packed our grip and silently stole away?

As many of our readers are already aware, having read the accounts in the Galilee, the association met in Detroit on Monday July 12, where a business meeting was held. W. C. Sprague of The Collector, Detroit, spoke on "Ruts, the danger of getting into them and the difficulty of getting out." V. J. Teft of the Albion Recorder followed with a paper on "How to increase circulation." Marshall Pease sang "Only Once More" and "Here and There." Harold Jarvis sang "Mons" and "The Children's Hymn." Messrs. Chivers and McDonald sang "The Old Brigade." The meeting lasted a little more than an hour and the members retired to their hotels in order to obtain sufficient sleep.

A special train, consisting of engine, baggage car, a day coach and two Pullman sleepers left the Grand Trunk depot at 7:30 Tuesday morning. A stop was made at Mt. Clemens, then we sped on to Port Huron where we were allowed to inspect the entrance to the St. Clair tunnel erected by the Grand Trunk railway company—a description of which will be given in a later letter.

We were accompanied by Col. Wagstaff, the Michigan and western passenger agent of the road, who proved to be a very pleasant and companionable gentleman and he has done everything in his power to make our journey over his road as comfortable and pleasant as could be.

Mr. Jarvis, who is one of the finest tenor singers in the state, also accompanied us as far as Montreal, and his merry songs were greatly appreciated. We passed under the St. Clair river at Port Huron and continued by special train to Toronto, passing through what may well be termed the garden spot of Canada. The fields were bordered with hay and grain and every valley and hill-side was smiling with the radiance of happy homes.

The buildings were mostly of stone and brick, the roads were equal to McAdam's, being built of broken stone. Everything looked thrifty, though at places where we stopped people said they felt the depression of trade the same as we do "in the states."

The Grand Trunk is truly a great road and when we contemplate its great length, from St. John's, New Brunswick, to Chicago, Ill., with its splendid equipments, its commodious and costly passenger and freight houses, immense shops, etc., we must know that the wealth of English capitalists has not been spared in its construction. We arrived in Toronto where we were received by the mayor, city council and members of the press club, who gave us a drive about the city and a reception at the parliament building and Queen's hotel. But of this we must speak at length hereafter.

At Kingston the next morning we took the steamer for an all day's ride down the great St. Lawrence, past the thousand islands, through the various rapids and finally stopped at the city of Montreal, our heads swimming with intoxication of beautiful scenery of both land and water.

Again the members of the press of Michigan were made to feel at home in the hands of the city press club and city officials. The following day was spent visiting the wonderful churches, cathedrals, and in getting a bird's eye view of the city and river from the summit of Mt. Royal. It was with much reluctance that we left that city because we felt that we had not half seen it, but we will tell our readers what we saw in a special letter.

We again took our Pullman cars and on Friday morning saw the citadel of Quebec in the distance. Arriving opposite the city we took the ferry and were soon landed at the docks of the oldest city in the country. Stone buildings mouldy with age and rich in history were seen at every hand. The old fortifications where the french and english fought until they hardly knew which was master, are still standing and are occupied by the red-coat soldiery.

The falls of Montmorency, as beautiful a nature could contrive, were shown us, in fact the city was ours for the day, having been so generously and politely presented by the french Canadians who made us feel more at home, than the guests of the city. Did I say when we left other cities, we wept when we were forced to say good-bye to Quebec.

We arrived here Saturday in time for dinner, and here at the foot of Mount Washington we have already passed 24 pleasant and profitable hours as could be spent anywhere. We have seen the "Old Man of the Mountain" in Franconia notch, ascended Mt. Washington on the cog-wheel railway and passed to rest our overstrained eyes and weary brains, promising to give our readers, when time permits, as good a description of all as it is possible for us to give. We go from here to Portland, Old Orchard Beach and Boston, then home. Yours, MAT.

Remember Anderson & Co.'s Special Sale commencing July 21st and continuing only twenty days.

SHARON.

Miss Myrtle Yokom of Manchester was the guest of Miss Myra Smith last week. Masters Frank C. Conklin and Arthur F. Bailey were in town a few days last week. The brothers Geo. & Chas. By MAT D. BLOSSER. Notice to the Public. Advertisers wishing to change their addresses...

THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1934. The state's population has increased 57,648 in the past four years.

The Saginaw police department has a cow which supplies them with 12 quarts of milk per day. She was left by a man who was accused of stealing her.

When you hear someone say that an inch of rain will do the trick, you know you are right. An inch of rain means a gallon of water spread over a surface of nearly two square feet, or a fall of about 100 tons upon an acre.

The cranberry season is said to be the longest of any flower, but when it has withered it will not revive so well as the pansy. Have you ever noticed how like fresh-picked flowers the latter will look if placed in water even after withering them all day? They are then ready for another ride in your button-hole.

Although the art of ice cream making has been vastly improved in late years, and the range of flavors has become almost unlimited, vanilla, the old-fashioned favorite of all sorts of people, still holds its place in the esteem of the public. When an ice cream season must deal in hot flavors it always includes vanilla, and this flavor sells well, even when fresh fruits are obtainable as ingredients of ice cream.

No doubt the careful housewife has read this being looking for the carpet bag, but the knowledge that others are troubled with the same bug sometimes spurs them on to further search. Now is the time to look for them in the closets and under carpets. Turpentine is an excellent remedy, but as it is so easily carried about, be taken to the room dark and cool. Spray the drug wherever there is the bug are found.

It is said that newspapers wrapped around a cake of ice will preserve it much better than wax or blankets. The paper is usually eight or ten inches in thickness and takes place after it is wet through tends to keep the ice firm. We give this for the benefit of our many friends who go to the lake fishing and keep the fish in good order. Paper is an excellent article to wrap fish in also, as it prevents contact with the air and thus keeps the meat sweet and clean.

Washburn County. The county population figures for 1933 against 1932 are 10,909 in 1933 against 10,820 in 1932.

Ypsilanti city has rights to claim 6111 acre, which is 183 less than four years ago. The township has gained, however, 1,380 to 1,365.

An Arbor town has 1,101 against 1,188 in population four years ago. The city now possesses 11,071 against 9,431 in the same period.

Contractors will arrive in Ypsilanti this week to begin the repair on the street car line. They will dig the tracks from their resting places of dirt and rubble, fix up the trolley wires, and do all other work required to get the line in operation. The An Arbor street car line was not dead, but in a very pronounced state of coma. New cars of improved pattern will be used, their construction being new and their parts contract. It is hoped to begin running some time in September.

Some wonderful things occur in this town. "We only a few days ago that the contractor of the new bridge over the north carried it out at the Mill at crossing, gathered it to the bridge and dumped it into the river without injury to the contractor, the colt or the river. And now comes another well authenticated story with truth stamped in big letters across its face. On Wednesday evening John Cook of Washburn, has hired a horse of Washburn and was taking it and took it home and tied it to pasture for the night. Sometime during the night it broke its fastenings and went home by T. A. railroad, across two bridges and a cattle guard, and was found there in the morning unharmed. The horse's tracks along the railroad track gave its route dead way—Milton Leader.

Jackson County Items. The quality of timbers available from Grand Lake this has increased 20 per cent from 700 bundles per year—News. Regular examinations of teachers at Jackson county take place on the east side of the county building, on Friday, August 24 and Friday, Aug. 31 and 34 at 8:30 o'clock a. m.
