Frederick Heidt a well-to-do German farmer living in Warren township, Macomb county, after spending the day in drinking at a saloon two miles from his place started for home; his horse ran away and he was thrown into the ditch, where he was found by his wife and son-in-law, Rudolph Wir-When they attempted to assist gan. him he made an assault on his wife with the butt of a whip stock. Upon reaching home Heidt began to abuse his daughter Minnie, aged 22. The girl says that he drew a razor on her and threatened to kill her as he had done many times before. She secured the weapon, but he became so violent that she was afraid he would do her harm. She went to the woodshed, procured a gun and returning to the kitchen took deliberate aim at her father, who was sitting in a chair at the time, and fired, the charge strik-ing him in the head and killing him Heidt was 57 years of age and his wife is 55. The coroner's jury in the inquest returned a verdict of justifiable homi-cide, finding that his daughter Minnie shot Heidt in self defense. Minnie is a bright and remarkably good-looking girl. In the neighborhood she is a favorite and all sympathize with her.

A Cowardly Wife Murder. Jacob Welsh, aged 50, a stationary engineer of Grand Rapids, had a quarrel soon after breakfast with his wife and daughter, the latter aged 18. He left the house and did not return until evening, when he was very drunk. Without a word to his wife, he drew a revolver from his pocket and firing hit her in the neck. The daughter, hearing the shot, slammed the door and fled screaming out of the front door. The father pursued, but was unable to overtake her, and returning to the house, found that his wife was still alive and conscious. He lifted her from the floor, and placing the revolver to her head, fired again, and then left the house. Mrs. Welsh died the next day and the murderer was locked up. The anti-salon league at Grand Rapids intends to make complaint against the saloon eeper who sold Welsh the liquor which made him drunk. They claim that the saloon bondsmen are liable and that they can be held to provide for the children of the dead woman. This will serve as an excellent test case of the law under which they propose to work.

Convict Curiey Assaults Another Keeper Convict Wm. Curley made a desperate assault upon Keeper Gus South vick at Jackson prison. When the keeper came to take away Curley's breakfast dishes the convict leaped against the door, knocking Southwick down. Curley then leaped upon him and began to stab him with a big needle used in sewing brooms. Not-Benu, ind., mane three unsuccessing at- withstanding a score of wounds the Curley back into his cell and locked the door. He then summoned help and was taken to the hospital where Dr. Gibson dressed the wounds, some o which are very serious.

This is the third assault Curley has made upon his keepers within three years. His first victim was Foreman McCleary in the stone shop whom he nearly killed with a chisel; next Deputy Warden Northrup and several guards were badly injured in a riot in the shirt factory, led by Curley, Hunt-ley and Boote, for which Curley had 10 years added to the sentence he was al ready serving.

Special Commissioner Calhoun Finds Serious Condition of Affairs Throughout Cuba-Gen. Weyler's Claim That the War is Over Denied.

Matters in Cuba.

While the resolution to recognize he Cuban insurgents as belligerents is being held up by the national house of representatives after being passed by the senate matters are coming to the surface at various points which are sure to bring a crisis very soon. Mr. Calhoun, the special commissioner sent to Cuba by President McKinfey, has been looking about during the delays in the Ruizease and is gaining a general insight into the condition of affairs en the island. He already has discovered that Gen. Weyler's talk of Cuba being pacified is not based on fact. There is not a province in Cuba that is in a peaceful condition, and the Spanish pickets have warned Calhoun who, in company with Consul-General Lee, took a ride out of Havana, that it was not safe to venture away from the city more than 15 miles. Consul-General Lee's report that the war is no nearer an end than two of large appropriation bills which were years ago, and that there is no pros- not brought in until within a few days pect of either side triumphing so long as one can dig sustenance from the ground and the other borrow money, fully proved to Mr. Calhoun's satisaction. The poor people who have ocen driven from the country by Gen. faction. Weyler's orders have been seen by Commissioner Calhoun and their terrible miseries he will relate to the President upon his return. At Matanzas alone he saw 4,000 starving reconcentradoes, and was told that 3,000 more had just been driven into the overcrowded small towns of the district, where their plight was hopeless. Gen. Lee and Mr. Calhoun, with their interpreter, went from hut to hut questioning women and children whose feet and ankles were so swollen and discolored as to present a shocking appearance, due to a dropsical affection caused by thin blood and lack of nourishment. All said that they had been without food for periods varying from 12 to 72 hours, and their appearance showed that they told the truth. It has been openly stated in Washington that the discoveries made by Mr. Calhoun, the special commissioner sent to Cuba by President McKinley, are so horrible that they cannot be printed, but will be related to the President as soon as Mr. Calhoun arrives in Washington, which will be in a few days, as he has already sailed from Havana. It is also positively asserted on good authority that the President will take action suitable to the circumstances very soon after receiving this report.

THEIR LABORS ENDED. The State Legislature Coses Its Session

for 1897-8 if -The weary grind of the Michigan legislature for the years 1897-8 has finished after five months of labor and the newspaper correspondents and the Senators and Representatives and lobbyists and pluggers and clerks and messengers and, and ---- Well, all the rest of the crew which has been battering away at making and unmaking laws through warly half a year, more or less to the advantage or disadvantage of the people, have gone home apparently satisfied with their work and are ready to again become just ordinary citizens if ----Gov. Pingree recently threatened that unless the legislature did something to make railroads, corporations, etc., stand a larger share, and more just share, as he believes, of the taxes of the state that he would call them to rether in special session for that purpose and see if they'd dare neglect "the people's interests" then. -There's where the "if" comes in.

Two days before the adjournment of the legislature Gov. Pingree sent a message to both the House and the Senate calling attention to the numerous bills of greatest importance which were being allowed to die without any effort being made to act upon them. He also objected to the passing of the time set for adjournment, thus preventing proper and intelligent investigation of them. The governor. therefore, asked that the session be extended at least two weeks that the bills mentioned might be disposed of and the appropriations investigated. When the message was received the Senate and House each had a bitter fight over it. The House passed a resolution making the day of adjournment June 14. The Senate refused to concur and so they had to "let the old cat die" died on May 31, as had already been scheduled. An examination of the records show that 360 House and 141 Senate bills were passed. Two years ago there were 365 House and about 260 Senate bills. The much-talked-of antagonism between the governor and Senate may not account for the entire falling off. but that it does for a good proportion of it there is no doubt. The number of their bills on the Pingree program as an-id the nounced in the inaugural message, which fell outside the Senate breastworks were both numerous and important, while the number of Senate bills which perished at the hands of Pingree Leutenants in the House vould also make a fair sized volume.

The appropriations of the legislature for 1897-8, as reported in the prepared by the House committee on ways and means and the Senate finance committee will be $4,377,398, providing the governor signs all the appropriation bills which were passed. This is a saving of $705,059 over the taxes imposed on the state by the preceding egislature for the two years 1895 and 1896. To this saving may be added the estimated increase in returns from the railroads under the Merriam bill. which is placed by Railroad Commissioner Wesselius at $155,684, and it gives a grand total of saving in taxes to the people of $86),743 over 1895-6. The tax rate for the two years 1895-6 was 41/4 mills on the dollar. The approximate be, 3.9 mills on the dollar, or really been saved. There has been an apparent cut of about $500,000, but this is more than covered by the fact that two years ago $600.000 propriated to make up a deficiency in the state treasury due to unpaid taxes. Some saving has been made in special appropriations, however

The closing scenes of the legislature, with the exception of the mere formalities, were very noisy and almost disgraceful. The evening session of both Senate and House was devoted almost entirely to horse-play, songs were sung, foolish speeches were made for and against more foolish fake bills, and the Representatives finally broke up the session by throwing books, papers, files of legislative journals, etc., at each other. They then went over to the Senate and assisted that body in indulging in a similar boyish fracas. The only gentlemanly proceeding of resolutions of esteem to President Dunstan by the Senators.

The small amount of land that is redeemed by lowering or draining the lakes is not commensurate with the amount of food-producing conditions that are thus destroyed. This may be a valuable hint to farmers, who have so long suffered from the low prices of wheat and corn. At all events the farmer with a fish pond is enabled to agreeably vary his own diet.

ness of the wall a secret corridor starting from one of the angles of the building, and which must have been used as a means of communication between the upper room and the vault, and also traces of an exterior staircase which has since been destroyed. In 1543 Francois I., when he fortified the town of Landrecies, utilized this solid fortress as a foundation for one of his bastions, and it was given the name of the "Bastion du Chateau." It was doubtless at this time that the dungeon was mutilated and put in the condition in which it has just been discovered. In fact, Messire Martin du Bellay, Seigneur de Langey, the lieu tenant of the king, tells us in his "Memoirs" (1543), after speaking of "Memoirs" (1543), after speaking of the construction at Landrecies of "trois gros coulleverts," "that for the fourth 'coullevert' we found an old turreted 'chateau,' which was filled in FOR SALE SY PAINT BEALERS EVERYWHERE. with earth and upon which we built our bastion." I should think you could do most of the cooking your-The majority of women know all about those things."

"Yes, Arthur," said Mrs. Hartman, faintly, "and I intend to learn, too. I'll get up a breakfast one of these mornings that'll surprise you.'

"Well, you can't be too quick about it," replied Mr. Arthur Hartman. When the baby was two months old they discharged the cook. Mrs. Hartman had learned to prepare such dainty, tempting dishes that her husband would allow no one less skilled to cater to his delicate stomach. The Hartmans did not keep a nurse g'rl. Mr. Hartman didn't know enough to take care of her own children wasn't fit to be a mother, so his wife administered catnin tea and broiled steak at the same time and washed dishes between the tantrums of the Hartman son and heir. Neither did they keep a maid. A maid was so apt to let the dust accumulate on chairs and mantels, Mr. Hartman said, and if there was one thing he disliked more than another it was dust. His wife was the most thorough sweeper and duster he had ever come across and it hurt him to the quick to think of entrusting such important duties to another. Rose Hartman was too thoroughly onscientious to do anything in a baifhearted manner and it wasn't long until she had developed into a model housekeeper. Mr. Hartman admitted that and was very proud of her. The asel stood untouched in the corner in those days, the plano was never opened unless they had company and Rose's sweet voice was hushed except when crooning lullables to the baby. She was very pale and thin, too, but Mr. Hartman never seemed to notice that. But then he spent a good many evenings away from home and perhaps he had no time to give heed to such trivial

On those evenings when he went out calling he generally came in about 10 o'clock. But one evening it was almost 11 when he turned the key in the lock and walked into their little sitting room. His wife was still up, for the baby had been ailing and fretful and all the mother's art had been powerless to soothe the little fellow. Mr. Hartman heard the low, fitful crying before the door was fairly opened, but it did not disturb him that night. A happy, selfsatisfied smile played round his lips and he sat down opposite his wife and communed with himself for several minutes in contented silence. The baby fell asleep at last. The cessation of the mournful cries brought Mr. Hartman to

It made me feel like a different man. Shall I carry the

His wife bowed low over the little form in her lap. When she drew her cold hand across the boy's forehead it shattered a globule of something that glistened and sparkled like a diamond. OLD-TIME SINGING SCHOOL. It Is the Fad to Reproduce It To-

Day. In the old colonial days when the great and the great-great-grandmothers were young the singing school was well-established institution, writes nal. It was usually held in the village schoolhouse, the schoolmaster often figuring as the singing master. Thither at regular intervals through the long winter months tripped the or voices in unison with the strong tenors and bassos that those same airs, even the very gowns they wore would at some distant day be reproduced for the benefit of an appreciative audience. Yet it may be safely asserted that with the exception of the colonial tea the old folk's concert is the most popular of the old-time entertainments. The success of an undertaking of this ort depends largely upon the adaptability for her office of the person having the affair in hand. She must of necessity have an accurate conception of the manner in which these entertainments were conducted in our grandmothers' day. She must also become thoroughly imbued with the spirit of that olden time.

PLEA FOR THE BIRDS

Destruction is Endangering th Forests and Orchards

A plea for the birds is being widely disseminated in the form of a circular which contains earnest words from Mrs. Caroline B. Hoffman, local secretary of the Massachusetts Audubon society. Mrs. Hoffman tells the often told story of the mother heron which must be killed when brooding to obtain the white aigrette which is her decoration at that time, and of the cruelty of sacrificing the mother bird and her lit tle ones for the gratification of feminine vanity. The Florida heron, she says, is annihilated. She bases her plea in this circular more particularly upon the practical grounds of the great injury to plants and forests by creatures so useful in destroying insects She says: "Already in the southern lands of Europe are the forests perishing in a frightful manner, and not less are the orchards in danger, for against the increase of injurious insects there is no remedy when the little birds ar missing. And no land in the wide world is safe against this horrid de-Quoting foreign criticism of bird decoration, she continues: How foreign lands think and write about it a newspaper from Tokio, Japan, will best show. It says: "It is not enough that the Europeans compress themselves with steel and whalebone they also demand for adornment our beautiful and useful birds." She con cludes: "Equally guilty of this barbarous custom is every purchaser of these birds, martyrs unto death. May these words meet with the right reception; may women at length reflect and acknowledge that there is something better, nobler, more to be desired, than this foolish style, which is bought with the blood and life of creatures fostered by the God of love. May American women come to the front and be the fruit trees, are crying out to be deliv-

Competent witnesses testify that all over our country. within a generation, birds have diminshed in a most rapid manner, and the injurious insects have made headway in the same degree. Setting aside all sentiment, the destruction of forests, orchards and fields ought to be sufficient to deter women from indulging in this murderous practice."

TOMBSTONE BROWN'S ORGAN. One of the Most Unique Products of the West. One of the most fin de siecle products of far western "wild and woollysm" is "Tombstone Brown." Brown had been alternately hobo or tramp printer, according as climate and opportunity dictated, but he finally drifted to California and ar chored in Mendocino and Lake counties, where he be gan to take notice in matters social and political, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat. Brown managed to scrape together a little money, and one day he came over the "grade" from San Francisco with a brand new second-hand wagon on which were loaded a press, a few fonts of type, ink, rollers and bundles of paper. Brown gave it out cold that he was going to start a paper, but said that the whole of society was so blank rotten that he wouldn't mingle with it. He drove on through town and off down into the bottom of a p'cturesque canyon, where he staked out his horses and began writing the first issue of his paper. He was the whole staff in himself. When it came to setting the matter up in type Brown discovered that he hadn't bought any imposing stone and Mary E. Estes in Ladies' Home Jour- with something of old Ben Franklin's "savoire faire" the editor made a quiet sneak into a graveyard and selecting a not overprosperous gravestone he carried it off to the perambulating printing office. The stone episode got ou nas with their escorts. Little did they on him and here? his name of "Tomb imagine as they lifted up their sweet stone Brown." But Brown was not in the least worried, and turning the title to account named his journal "Tombstone Brown's Organ," and he soon made the county how!: "Brown's Organ" had a front seat in every issue that showed above the grass, and when one canyon got too warm he would hitch up and print the next issue a "little farther on." The title of the paer, drawn and engraved by Brown himself, showed a gigantic tombstone crushing to earth the emblems of opposition. The paper soon had a great vogue, but "Tombstone" could not stand success, and when last seen was

WISE ADVICE TO HUSBANDS.

Those Who Have Ailing Wives Will do Well to Accept It.

Do not wrangle and quarrel, and finally rush into the courts and try to get a separation from your faithful wife; but just stop a moment and think! who was even-tempered and amiable, and all that was lovely when you married her, has changed. Now she is peevish, irritable, jealous, discontented and miserable—in a word, she has uterine disorder of some kind. Law is not the remedy for this condition, she needs medical treatment, her uterine system is at fault.

My advice to you is, sit down and write a letter to that friend of women, Mrs Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., state fully and freely the whole case to her and she will honestly advise you what to do. Give your wife that chance, good man! If you do not wish to write about your wife, bring her a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, watch its effects, you will soon see the beginning of the improvement; then get her another and keep it up until she is restored to you, the same lovely woman you married years ago. Following we relate the circumstances of a case of this nature. Mrs. MELVA ROUTON, of Camby, Ind., says: "I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it to be of great benefit to me. The doctors said I had womb trouble. I had the headache all the time, also a terrible backache, was nervous, cross and irritable. I looked so pale that people would ask me what was the matter. I suffered in this way for about four years, until one day about in despair my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I commenced its use, and much to every one's surprise, it cured me. It has completely changed my disposition for the better also, Several of my neighbors, knowing what the Pinkham medicine has done for me. are taking it, and are much pleased with the result."
