SAYS M'KINLEY'S MESSAGE TO

Notes Should not be Paid Out Without Getting Gold in Return-Reciprocity and Arbitration.

President McKinley's second message to a congress is in substance as follows: To the senate and house of representa-It gives me pleasure to extend greeting to the fifty-fifth congress assembled in regular session at the seat of governregular session at the seat of govern-ment, with many of whose senators and representatives I have been associated in the legislative service. Their meeting oc-turs under felicitous conditions, justifying sincere congratulations and calling for our grateful acknowledgment to a beneficent Providence which has so sig-nally blessed and prospered us as a na-tion. Peace and good will with all the nations of the earth continue unbroken. A matter of genuine satisfaction is the growing feeling of fraternal regard and unification of all sections of our country, the incompleteness of which has too long lelayed realization of the highest bless lags of the union. The spirit of patriot-ism is universal and is ever increasing in fervor. The public questions which now most engross us are lifted far above either partisanship prejudice or former tectional differences. They affect every part of our common country alike, and permit of no division on ancient lines. Questions of foreign policy of revenue, the soundness of the currency, the inviolability of national obligations, the improvement of the public service, appeal to the individual conscience of every earnest citizen, to whatever party he belongs, or in whatever section of the losed during July last, enacted importnosed during July last, enacted import-int legislation, and while its full effect has not yet been realized, what it has already accomplished assures us of its imellness and wisdom. To test its per-manent value further time will be repulred, and the people, satisfied with its operation and result thus far, are in no mind to withhold from it a fair trial.

Tariff legislation having been settled by the extra session of congress the ques-tion next pressing for consideration is that of the currency. The work of putding our finances upon a sound basis, dif-lcult as it may seem, will appear easier when we recall the financial operations of the government since 1866. On the bith day of June of that year we had out-tanding demand-liabilities in the sum of 1728,868,477 41. On the first of January, 879, these liabilities had been reduced to M3,389,485 85. Of our interest bearing bligations, the figures are even more striking. On July 1, 1886, the principal of the interest bearing debt of the government was $2,332,331,208. On the first day he Interest bearing debt of the government was $2,322,331,208. On the first day if July, 1833, the sum had been reduced to $55,037,100. Or an aggregate reduction of 1.747,294,108. The interest bearing debt of the United States on the first of December, 1897, was $347,385,520. The government money now outstanding (December) consists of $346,631,016 of United States botes, $107,733,280 of treasury notes issued by authority of the law of 1890, $334,963,004 of silver certificates, and $51,290,762 of itandard silver dollars.

With the great resources of the government and with the honorable example of the past before us, we ought not to hesitate to enter upon a currency revision which will make our demand obligations less onerous to the government, and relieve our financial laws from ambiguity and doubt. The brief review of what was accomplished from the close of the war to 1833, makes unreasonable and groundless any distrust either of our financial ability or soundness; while the situation from 1833 to 1837 must admonish congress of the immediate necessity of so legislating as to make the return of the conditions then prevailing impossible. There are many plans proposed as a remedy for the evil. Before we can find the type remedy we must appreciate the real evil. It is not that our currency of every kind is not good, for every dollar of it is good—good because the government's pledge is out to keep it so, and that pledge will not be broken. However, the guaranty of our purpose to keep the pledge will be best shown by advancing loward its fulfillment. The evil of the in guaranty of our purpose to keep the pledge will be best shown by advancing toward its fulfillment. The evil of the present system is found in the great cost to the government of maintaining the present system is found in the great cost to the government of maintaining the parity of our different forms of money, that is, keeping all of them at par with gold. We surely can not be longer heedless of the burden this imposes upon the beople, even under fairly prosperous consitions, while the past four years have demonstrated that it is not only an (x-bensive charge upon the government, but a dangerous menace to national credit. It is manifest that we must devise some plan to protect the government against bond issues for repeated redemptions. We must either curtail the opportunity for speculation, made easy by the multiplied redemptions of our demand obligations, or increase the gold reserve for their reamption. We have $500,000.00 of currency which the government, by solemn enactment, has undertaken to keep at par with gold. Nobody is obliged to redeem in gold but the government. The banks are not required to redeem in gold. The government is obliged to keep equal with gold all its outstanding currency and coin obligations, while its receipts are not required to be paid in gold. They are paid in every kind of money but gold, and the only means by which the government can with certainty get gold is by borrowing. It can get it in no other way when it most needs it. The government, without any fixed gold revenue, is pledged to maintain gold redemption which it has steadily and faithfully done, and which, ander the authority now given, it will tontinue to do.

The law which requires the government, after having redeemed, its United Stateshots, to pay them out again as current funds, demands a constant replenishment of the gold reserve. This is especially so in times of business panic and when the revenues are insufficient to meet the expenses of the government has no other way to supply its dedict and my face of the of interest than is now authorized by law.

I earnestly recommend, as soon as the receipts of the government are quite sufficient to pay all the expenses of the government, that when any of the United States notes are presented for redemption in gold and are redeemed in gold, such notes shall be kept and set apart, and only paid out in exchange for gold. This is an obvious duty. If the holder of the United States note prefers the gold and gets it from the government, he should not receive back from the government a United States note without paying gold in exchange for it. The reason for this is made all the more apparent when the government issues an interest-bearing debt to provide gold for the redemption of United States notes—a non-interest-bearing debt. Surely it should not pay them out again except on demand and for gold. If they are put out in any other way they may return again to be followed by another bond issue to redeem them—another interest-bearing debt. In my view it is of the utmost importance that the government should be relieved from the burden of providing all the gold required for exchanges and export. This responsibility is alone borne by the government without any of the usual and necessary banking powers to help itself. The banks do not feel the strain of gold redemption. The whole strain rests upon the government, and the size of the gold reserve in the treasury has come to be, with or without reason, the signal of danger or of security. This ought to be stopped.

If we are to have an era of prosperity in the country, with sufficient receipts for the expenses of the government, we may feel no immediate embarrassment from our present currency; but the danger still exists, and will be ever present, menacing us so long as the existing system continues.

I concur with the secretary of the treasury in his recommendations that national banks be allowed to issue notes to the face value of the bonds which they have deposited for circulation, and that the tax on circulating notes secured by deposit of such bonds be reduced to one-half of one per cent per annum. I also join him in recommending that authority be given for the establishment of national banks with a minimum capital of $25,000. This will anable the smaller villages and agricultural regions of the country to be supplied with currency to neet their ne

The Cuban Question.
The most important problem with which this government is now called upon to deal pertaining to its foreign relations concerns its duty toward Spain and the Cuban insurrection. Problems and conditions more or less in common with those now existing have confronted this government at various times in the past. The story of Cuba for many years has been one of unrest; growing discontent; an effort toward a larger enjoyment of liberty and self-control; of organized re-sistance to the mother country; of depression after distress and warfare, and of ineffectual settlement to be followed by of ineffectual settlement to be followed by renewed revolt. For no enduring period since the enfranchisement of the continental possessions of Spain in the western continent has the condition of Cuba or the policy of Spain toward Cuba not caused concern to the United States. The prospect from time to time that the westpress of Spain's hold upon the the weakness of Spain's hold upon the island, and the political vicissitudes and embarrassments of the home government might lead to the transfer of Cuba to continental power, called forth, between might lead to the transfer of Cuba to a continental power, called forth, between 1823 and 1880, various emphatic declarations of the policy of the United States to permit no disturbance of Cuba's connection with Spaln unless in the direction of independence or acquisition by us through purchase; nor has there been any change of this declared policy since upon the part of the government.

The revolution which began in 1868 lasted for ten years, despite the strenuous efforts of the successive peninsula governments to suppress it. Then, as now, the government of the United States testified its grave concern and offered its aid to put an end to bloodshed in Cuba. The overtures made by Gen. Grant were refused, and the war dragged on, entailing grat loss of life and treasure, and increased injury to American interests, bestides throwing enhanced burdens of neutrality upon this government. In 1878 peace was brought about by the truce of Zanjon, obtained by negotiations between the Spanish commander. Martinez de Campos, and the insurgent leaders. The present insurrection broke out in February, 1885. It is not my purpose at this time to recall its remarkable increase or to characterize its tenaclous resistance against the enormous forces massed against it by Spain. The revolt and the efforts to subdue it carried destruction to every quarter of the Island, developing wide proportions and defying the efforts of Spain for its suppression. The existing conditions cannot but fill this government and the American people with the gravest apprehension. There is no desire on the part of our people to profit by the m sortunes of Spain. We have only the desire to see the Cubans prosperous and contented, enjoying that nable right of man, protected in their t to reap the benefit of the exhaust-treasures of their country. Spain's Cruel Policy. The cruel policy of concentration was inaugurated February 16, 1896. The productive districts controlled by the Span-ish armies were depopulated. The agricultural inhabitants were herded in and about the garrison towns, their lands aid waste, and their dwellings destroyed. about the garrison towns, their lands alidwaste, and their dwellings destroyed. This policy the late cabinet of Spain justified as a necessary measure of war and as a means of cutting off supplies from the insurgents. It has utterly failed as a war measure. It was not civilized warfare. It was extermination. Against this abuse of the rights of war I have felt constrained, on repeated occasions, to enter the firm and earnest protest of this government. There was much of public condemnation of the treatment of American citizens by alleged illegal protracted judicial proceedings. I felt it my first duty to make instant demand for the release or speedy trial of all American citizens under arrest. Before the change of the Spainstr cabinet in October last, twenty-two prisoners, citizens of the United States, had been given their freedom.

For the relief our own citizens suffering because of the Conflict the aid of

Our Appeals to Spain. The instructions given to our ne r minis-ter to Spain before his departure for his post directed him to impress up n that government the sincere wish of the United States to lend its aid toward the ending of the war in Cuba by reaching a peaceful and lasting result, just and hot orable ailke to Spain and to the Cuban-people. These instructions recited the character and duration of the contient, the wide-spread losses it entails, the burdens and restraints it imposes upon us, with constant disturbance of national interests and the injury resulting from an indefinite continuance of this state of things. It was stated that at this juncture our government was constrained to seriously inquire if the time was not ripe when Spain, of her own volition, moved by her own interests and every sentiment of humanity, should put a stop to this destructive war and make proposals of settlement honorable to herself and just to her Cuban colony. It was urged that, as a neighboring nation, with large interests in Cuba, we could be required to wait only a reasonable time for the mother country to establish its authority and restore peace and order within the borders of the island; that we could not contemplate too indefinite a period for the accomplishment of this result. No solution was proposed to which the slightest idea of humiliation to Spain would attach, and indeed precise proposals were withheld to avoid embarrassment to that government. All that was asked or expected was that some safe way might be speedily provided and permanent peace restored. government the sincere wish of the United States to lend its aid toward the ending

It admits that our country is deeply affected by the war in Cuba, and that its desires for peace are just. It declares that the present Spanish government is bound by every consideration to a change of policy that should satisfy the United States and pacify Cuba within a reasonable time. To this end Spain has decided to put into effect the political reforms heretofore advocated by the present premier, without halting for any consideration in the path which in its judgment leads to peace. The military operations, it is said, will continue but will be humane and conducted with all regard for private rights, being accompanied by political action leading to the autonomy of Cuba, while guarding Spanish sovereignty. This, it is claimed, will result in investing Cuba with a distinct personality; the island to be governed by an executive and by a local council or chamber, reserving to Spain the control of the foreign relations, the army and navy and the judicial aministration. To accomplish this the present government proposes to modify existing legislation by decree, leaving the Spanish cortes, with the aid of Cuban senators and deputies, to solve the economic problem and properly distribute the existing debt.

In the absence of a declaration of the measures that this government proposes to take in carrying out its proffer of good offices is suggests that Spain be left free to conduct military operations and grant political reforms, while the United States, for its part, shall enforce its neutral obligations and cut off the ass.s:ance which it is asserted the insurgents receive from this country. Charges Against Uncle Sam.

Discussion of the question of the inter-national duties and responsibilities of the United States as Spain understands them United States as Spain understands them is presented, with an apparent disposition to charge us with failure in this regard. This charge is without any basis in fact. It could not have been made if Spain had been cognizant of the constant efforts this government has made at the cost of millions, and by the employment of the advantantative machinery of the nation at command to perform its full duty, excording to the law of nations. That it has successfully prevented the departure of a single military expedition or armed vessel from our shores in violation of our laws would seem to be a sufficient answer. But of this aspect of the Spanish note it is not necessary to speak further now. Firm in the conviction of a wholly performed obligation, due response to this charge has been made in diplomatic course. Throughout all these horrors and dangers to our own peace this government has never in any way abrogated its sovereign prerogative of reserving to itself the determination of its policy and course, according to its own high sense of right and in consonance with the dearest interests and convictions of our own people, should the prolongation of the strife so demand.

Recognition of Belligerency Unwise. is presented, with an apparent disposition

Of the untried measures there remain only: Recognition of the insurgents as belligerents; recognition of the independence of Cuba; neutral intervention to end the war by imposing a rational compromise between the contestants, and intervention in favor of one or the other party; I speak not of foreible annexation, for that cannot be thought of. That by our code of morality would be criminal aggression.

Recognition of the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents has often been canvassed as a possible, if not inevitable step, both in regard to the previous ten years struggle and during the present war. I am not unmindful that the two houses of congress, in the spring of 18% expressed the opinion by concurrent resolution that a condition of public war existed requiring or justifying the recognition of a state of the session the senate voted a joint resolution of like import, which, however, was not of like import, which, however, was one of the senate of the senate of the senative of seen the executive to see thy consider the conditions under which so provide the conditions under which so mortant a neasure must needs seen in propriant a neasure must needs seen in the house of the senation possessed whether the cuban insurrection possessed whether the full alone can demand the recognition of the ligerency in its favor. Possession of the sourced of the war by them according to the received code of war, are not less important factors toward the determination of the problem of belligerency than are the influences and consequences of the struggle upon the internal polity of the recognizing state.

The memorable message of December 7.

of the problem of beligerency than are the influences and consequences of the struggle upon the internal polity of the recognizing state.

The wise utterances of President Grant in his memorable message of December 7, 1875, are signally relevant to the present situation in Cuba, and it may be wholesome now to recall them. At that time a ruinous conflict had for seven years wasted the neighboring island. During all those years an utter disregard of civilized warfare and of the just demands of humanity, which called for the expressions of condemnation from the nations of Christendom, continued unabated. Desolation and ruin pervaded that productive region, enormously affecting the commerce of all commercial sations, but that of the United States more than any other by reason of proximity and larger trade and intercourse. At that Juncture Gen. Grant uttered these words, which now, as then, sum up the elements of the problem:

"A recognition of the independence of Cuba being, in my opinion, impracticable and indefensible, the question which next

"A recognition of the independence of Cuba being, in-my opinion, impracticable and indefensible, the question which next presents itself is that of the recognition of belligerent rights in the parties to the contest. In a former message I had occasion to consider this question, and reached the conclusion that the conflict in Cuba dreadful and devastating as were its incidents, did not rise to the fearrul nignity of war. It is possible that the acts of foreign powers, and even acts of Spain herself, of this very nature might be pointed to in defense of such recognition. But now, as in 'its past history, the United States should carefully avoid the false lights which might lead it into the mazes of doubtful law and of questinguide, of doing only that which is right and honest and of good report.

"The question of according or of withholding rights of belligerency must be judged in every case, in view of the particular attending facts. Unless justified by necessity, it is always, and justify, regarded as an unfriendly act and a gratuitous demonstration of moral support to the rebellion. It is necessary, and it is required, when the interests and rights of another government or its people are so far affected by a pending civil conflict as to require a definition of its relations to the parties thereto. But this conflict must be one which will be recognized in the sense of international law as war.

"Belligerence, too, is a fart. The mere existence of contending armed bodies, and their occasional conflicts, do not constitute war in the sense referred to. Applying to the existing conditions of affairs in Cuba the tests recognized by publicits and writers on international law, and which have been observed by nations of dignity, honesty and power, when free from sensitive or selfish and unworthymotives, I fail to find in the insurrection the existence of such a substantial political organization, real, palpable and manifest to the world, having the forms and capable of the ordinary functions of occasional skirmishes an on land; the insurrection has not possessed itself of a single seaport whence it may send forth Jis flag, nor has it any means of communication with foreign powers except through the military lines of its adversaries. No apprehension of any of these sudden and difficult complications which a war upon the ocean is apt to precipitate upon the vessels, both commercial and national, and upon the consular officers of other powers, calls for the definition of their relations to the parties to the contest.

"Considered as a question of expediency, I regard the accordance of beiligerent rights still to be as unwise and premature, as I regard it to be, at present, indefensible as a measure of right. Such recognition entails upon the country, according the rights which flow from it difficult and complicated duties, and requires the exaction from the contending parties of the strict observance of their rights and obligations. It confers the right of search upon the high seas by vessels of both parties; it would subject the carrying of arms and munitions of war, which now may be transported frely and without interruption in vessels of the United States, to detention and to possible selzure it would give rise to counties vexatious questions, responsibility for act done by the insurgents, and would invest Spain with the right to exerce se the supervision recognized by our treaty of 1785 over our commerce on the high seas, a very large part of which, in its traffic between the Atlantic and the guiff states, and between all of them and the states on the Pacific passes through the wards and hetween all of them and the states on the Pacific passes through the wards and hetween all of them and the states on the Pacific passes through the wards and hetween all of them and the states on the Pacific passes through the wards and hetween all of them and the states on the Pacific passes through the passes the supervision could secree fail to lead, if not to abuses, certainly to collisions perilous to the peaceful relations of the two s of questionable right or expediency, or by an indirection."

Turning to the practical aspects of a recognition of belilgerency, and reviewing its conveniences and positive dangers, still further pertinent considerations appear. In the code of nations there is no such thing as a naked recognition of belilgerency unaccompanied by the assumption of international neutrality. Such recognition, without more, will not confer upon either party to a domestic conflict a status not heretofore actually possessed; or affect the relations of either party to other states.

The act of recognition usually takes the form of a solemn proclamation of neutrality which recites the de facto condition of belligerency as its motive. It announces a domestic law of neutrality in the declaring state. It assumes the international obligations of a neutral in the presence of a public state of war. It warns all citizens and others within the jurisdiction of the proclamation that they violate those rigorous obligations at their own peril and cannot expect to be shielded from the consequences.

The right of visit and search on the seas and seizure of vessels and cargoes and contraband of war and good prize under admiralty law must, under international law, be admitted as a legitimate consequence of a proclamation of belligerency. While according the equal beligerents rights defined by public law to each party in our ports, disfavors would be imposed upon both, which ominally equal, would weigh heavily in behalf of Spain herself. Possessing a navy and controlling the ports of Cuba, her maritime rights could be asserted, not only for the limitary investment of this remaritime rights could be asserted, not only for the limitary investment of this remaritime rights could be asserted, not only for the limitary investment of this remaritime rights could be asserted, not only for the limitary investment of this remaritime rights could be asserted, not only for the limitary investment of the sland, but up to the margin of our own terriorial waters, and

than now with the additional obligations of international neutrality we would perforce assume.

The enforcement of this enlarged and enormous code of neutrality would only be influential within our own jurisdiction by land and sea, and applicable by our own instrumentalities. It would impart to the United States no jurisdiction between Spain and the insurgents. It would give the United States no right of intervention to enforce the conduct of the strife within the paramount authority of Spain according to the international code of war.

For these reasons I regard the recognition of the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents as now unwise, and therefore inadmissible. Should that step hereafter be deemed wise, as a measure of right and duty, the executive will take it.

Intervention upon humanitarian grounds has been frequently suggested, and has not falled to receive my most anxious and earnest consideration. But should such a step be now taken, when it is apparent that a hopeful change has supervened in the policy of Spain toward Cuba?

Spain's Latest Promises. A new government has taken office in the mother country. It is pledged in ad-vance to the declaration that all the effort in the world cannot suffice to maintain peace in Cuba by the bayonet; that vague promises of reform after sub-jugation afford no solution of the in-suiar problem; that with a substitution of commanders must come a change of swarp and no solution of the insular problem; that with a substitution of commanders must come a change of past system of warfare far one in harmony with a new policy which shall no longer aim to drive the Cubans to the "horrible alternative of taking to the thicket or succumbing in misery;" that reforms must be instituted in accordance with the needs and circumstances of the time, and that these reforms, while designed to give full autonomy to the colory and to create a virtual entity and self-controlled administration, shall yet conserve and affirm the sovereignty of Spain by a just distribution of powers and burdens upon a basis of mutual interest untainted by methods of selfish nd burdens upon a basis of mutual in-erest untainted by methods of selfish and burdens upon a basis of mutual in expediency. The first acts of the new government lie in these honorable paths. The policy of cruel rapine and extermination that so long shocked the universal sentiment of luminity has been reversed. Under the new military commander a broad clemency is profiered. Measures have already been set on foot to releve the horrors of starvation. The power of the Spanish armies, it is asserts, is to be used not to spread ruin and desolation, but to protect the resumption of peaceful agricultural pursuits and productive industries. That past methods are futile to force a peace by subjugation is freely admitted, and that ruin without conciliation, must inevitably fall to win for Spain the fidelity of a contented dependency.

Decrees in application of the foreshadowed reforms have already been promulgated. The full text of these decrees has not been received, but as furnished in a telegraphic summary from our minister are: All civil and electoral rights of penirsular Spaniards are, in virtue of existing constitutional authority forthwith extended to colonial Spaniards.

The Autonomy Scheme.

A scheme of autonomy has been pro-claimed by decree, to become effective upon ratification by the cortes. It creites a Cuban parliament which, with the ates a Cuban parliament which, with the insular executive, can consider and vote upon all subjects affecting local order and interests, possessing unlimited powers save as to matters of state, war and the navy, as to which the governor-general acts by his own authority as the delegate of the central government. This parliament receives the oath of the governor-general to preserve faithfully the liberties and priviteges of the colony, and to it the colonial secretaries are responsible. It has the right to propose to the central government, through the governor-general.

Besides its local powers it is competent, first, to regulate electoral registration and procedure and prescribe the qualifications of electors and the manner of exercising suffrage; second, to organize courts of district with the native judges from memcial treaties which the national government may have concluded without the participation of the Cuban government; sixth, to frame the colonial tariff, acting in accord with the peninsular government, in scheduling articles of mutual commerce between the mother country and the colonies. Before introducing or voting upon a bill, the Cuban government or the chambers will lay the project before the central government and hear its opinion thereon, all the correspondence in such regard being made public.

Finally, all conflicts of jurisdiction arising between the different municipal, provincial and insular assemblies, or between the latter and the Insular executive power, and which from their nature may not be referred to the central government for decision, shall be submitted to the courts.

We'll Give 'Em One More Trial.

Not a single American citizen is now in arrest or confinement in Cuba of whom this government has any knowledge.
The near future will demonstrate whether the indispensable condition of a righteous peace, just alike to the Cubans and to Spain as well as equitable to all our in-terests so intimately involved in the wel-fare of Cuba, is likely to be attained. If not, the exigence of further and other terests so intimately involved in the welfare of Cuba, is likely to be attained. If not, the exigency of further and other action by the United States will remain to be taken.

When that time comes that action will be determined in the line of indisputable right and duty. It will be faced, without misgiving or hesitancy, in the light of the obligation this government owes to itself, to the people who have confided to it the protection of their interests and honor, and to humanity.

Sure of the right, keeping free from all offense ourselves, actuated only by upright and patriotic considerations, moved neither by passion nor selfishness, the government will continue its watchful care over the rights and property of American citizens, and will abate none of its efforts to bring about by peaceful agencies a peace which shall be honorable and enduring.

If it shall hereafter appear to be a duty imposed by our obligations to ourselves, to civilization and humanity, to intervene with force, it shall be without fault on our part, and only because the necessity for such action, will be so clear as to command the support and approval of the civilized world.

Hawaii is More Lucky.

By a special message dated the 16th day of June last, I laid before the senate a treaty signed that day by the plenipoten-tiaries of the United States and of the Republic of Hawaii, having for its purtiaries of the United States and of the Republic of Hawaii, having for its purpose the incorporation of the Hawaiian Islands as an integral part of the United States and under its sovereignty.

The senate having removed the injunction of secrecy, although the treaty is still pending before that body, the subject may be properly referred to in this message, because the necessary action of the congress is required to determine by lexislation many details of the eventual union, should the fact of annexation be accomplished, as I believe it should be.

While consistently disavowing, from a very early period any aggressive policy of absorption in regard to the Hawaiian group, a long series of declarations through three-quarters of a century has proclaimed the vital interest of the United States in the independent life of the islands and their intimate commercial dependence upon this country. At the same time it has been repeatedly asserted that in no event could the entity of Hawaiian statehood cease by the passage of the islands under the domination or influence of another power than the United States. Under these circumstances the logic of events required that annexation, heretofore offered but declined, should in the ripeness of time come about as the natural result of the strengthening ties that bind us to those islands, and be realized by the free will of the Hawaiian state. That treaty was unanimously ratified without amendment by the senate and president of the republic of Hawaii on the 10 of September last, and only awaits the favorable action of the American senate to effect the complete absorption of the Islands into the domain of the United States.

What the conditions of such a union statel the the political relation thereof to Islands into the domain of the United States.

What the conditions of such a union shall be the political relation thereof to the United States, the character of the local administration, the quality and degree of the elective franchise of the inhabitants, the extension of the federal laws to the territory, of the enactment of special laws to fit the peculiar condition thereof, the regulation, if need be, of the labor system therein, are all matters which the treaty has wisely relegated to the congress.

If the treaty is confirmed as every con-labor system therein, are all matters which the treaty has wisely relegated to the congress, which the treaty is confirmed, as every-consideration of dignity and honor requires, the wisdom of congress will see to it that avoiding abrupt assimilation of elements perhaps hardly wit fitted to share in the highest franchises of citizenship, and having due regard to the geographical conditions, the most just provident for seferable and the most just provident for our nation, will be accorded to the Harmest possible liberties as an integral part of our nation, will be accorded to the Harmest walians. No less is due to a people who, after nearly five years of a demonstrated capacity to fulfill the obligations of self-governing statehood, come of their freewill to merge their destinies in our bodypolitics.

will to merge their destinies in our bodypolitics.

The questions which have arisen between Japan and Hawaii by reason of the treatment of Japanese laborers emigrating to the islands under the HawaiianJapanese convention of 1888, are in a satisfactory stage of settlement by negotiation. This government has not been invited to mediate, and on the other hand has sought no intervention in that matter further than to evince its kindliest disposition, toward such a speedy and direct adjustment by the two sovereign states in interest as shall comport with equity and honor. It is grafifying to learn that the apprehensions at first displayed on the part of Japan lest the cessation of Hawait's national life through annexation might impair privileges to which Japan honorably laid claim, have given place to confidence in the uprightness of this government and in the sincerity of its purpose to deal with all possibile ulterior questions in the broadest spirit of friendliness.

Foreign Commerce.

Most desirable from any standpoint of national interest and patriotism is the effort to extend our foreign commerce. Tofort to extend our foreign commerce. To this end our merchant marine should be improved and enlarged. We should do our full share of the carrying trade, of the world. We do not do it now. We should be the largeard no longer, The inferiority of our merchant marine is justly humiliating to the national pride. The government by every proper constitutional means should aid in making our ships familiar visitors at every commercial port of the world, thus opening up new and valuable markets to the surplus products of the farmand the factory.

Sealing in Bering Sen.

The efforts which have been made dur-ing the two previous years by my predeing the two previous years by my prede-cessor to secure better protection to the seals in the north Pacific ocean and Ber-ing sea were renewed at an early date by this administration and have been pur-sued with earnestness. The result of the recent conferences at Washington was to place beyond controversy the daty of the governments concerned to adopt meas-ures without delay for the preservation of the herds. Negotiations to this end are now in progress.

Nicaragua Canal.

A subject of large importance to our country and increasing appreciation on the part of the people, is the completion of the great highway of trade between the Atlantic and Pacific, known as the Nicaragua canal. Its utility and value to American commerce is universally admitted. The commission appointed under date of July 24 last "to continue the surveys and examinations authorized by the act approved March 2, 1885," in regard to "the proper route, feasibility and cost of construction of the Nicaragua canal, with a view of making complete plans for the entire work of construction of auch canal," is now employed in the undertak-

The Navy's Needs.

Under the head of the navy, the president points to the necessity for special legislation to procupe the armor for the three battleships now building which three battleships now building which would be otherwise useless. He speaks in terms of praise of the quality of our ships and thinks that the time has now in terms of praise of the quality of our ships and thinks that the time has now arrived when the increase to which the country is committed should find the terms of increased facilities commensurate with the increased facilities commensurate with the increased of our nival vessels. He refers to the lack of docks and urges that three or lack of docks and urges that three or lack of docks and urges that three or four of the largest docks be provided on the Azimtle at least one on the Pacific sast, and a foating dock in the gulf. There should also be ample provision for munitions of war and an increase of officers as emisted men. Additions are also necessary to navy yards, and as there are now on the stocks five large battleships it is recommended that an appropriation he made but for one more battleship on the Pacific coast. Several tempole boats with also necessary.

A Wise More.

Speaking of the pending sale of the Kansas Pacific property, he says if no better bid is received than the upset price better bid is received than the upset price fixed by the court, the government would receive only $2.500,000 on its claim of nearly $13,000,000. He-better to hid on the road, and has directed the secretary of the treasury to make the deposit of $500,000 required to qualify as a hidder and as bid at the sale a sum at least equal to the principal of the debt to the government. He suggests, however, that its amatter so important as the government being a possible owner of the railroad congress should enact some legislation to define its views. It is clear to him, however, that the government should not permit the property to be sold at a price less than one-half the principal of its debt and less than one-fifth of its-entire debt, principal and interest.

The Indiana.

The president says that for a number of years past the conditions under which the five civilized tribes were established in the Indian territory under treaty pro-visions with the United States, with the right of self-government and the exclus-sion of all white persons from within their borders, have undergone so com-plete a change that the continuance of the system thus inaugurated is rendered practically impossible.

The Paris Exposition.

A liberal appropriation is bespoken in order that the United States may make a creditable exhibit at the approaching Paris exposition, in which the people have shown an unprecedented interest.

Conclusion.

I am forced by the length of this mes-sage to omit many important references to affairs of the government which comto affairs of the government which can gress will have to deal with at the present session.
