WIVES.

By S. T. DIXON
"If she does I hope it will be for a husband who cares enough for her to spend the evening at home out of all hours."

"Fred turned red with anger and mortification. He was silent for a moment. It was evident to Jenny that this would not have been the last of it had she not been present."

"It was three years since that notified happy event occurred. Jenny had been married for three years and had the same happy smile and neat, trim appearance that she had when she was first married."

"Jenny cast a somewhat scornful glance at the grave face of the speaker. 'Why? How? Has she been ill?' 'Well, no, she has not. But she has been ill,' was the hesitating reply."

"The laugh that edged these words rounder rather forward. 'Perhaps she is not so well as you think she is. It is not her health, but her temper that is the matter.'"

"The man who was trying to make a fortune has no money on himself. 'Ladies' medicine. Move the ladies to the order to be healthy this is necessary. As a general rule, the ladies are the ones who are the most delicate and the most susceptible to disease.'"

HE BROUGHT IT FROM THE WORLD'S FAIR.

And kept it two years.

"The great World's Fair, at Chicago, in 1893, was a grand success. It was the first time in the history of the world that so many people had gathered together in one place. It was a great triumph for the United States."

"My husband took a severe cold and cough two years ago last October. He was very ill and did not get well until he had used your medicine. It was a great relief to me and to him. I have since used it for all my ailments and it has cured me of all my ailments."

"Clean blood means a clear skin. No matter how clear your skin is, it will not stay so unless you keep it clean. Your medicine is the best I have ever used. It has cured me of all my ailments and it has kept me well ever since."

"The English woman, Mrs. Francis, who was the first to use your medicine, was a great success. She was very ill and did not get well until she had used your medicine. It was a great relief to her and to her family. I have since used it for all my ailments and it has cured me of all my ailments."
