

Some people can benefit if they can't be president.

A gem of thought is often impaired by a bad setting.

The lead pencil is sometimes hard pushed to make remarks.

The way of the transgressor is often the shortest route to Canada.

After suspicion is once directed toward a man it is difficult to side-track it.

A bachelor may have no real happiness, but he escapes a lot of real misery.

The man who always says exactly what he means is more numerous than popular.

When a woman has troubles she confides in a doctor. When a man has troubles he consults a lawyer.

There are times when the average boy would like to assume the role of father to the man for a few brief moments.

Spaniards in Cuba now want to be Cuban. Things have changed, and the "ever-faithful" will try to be faithful to herself.

It is said Cornelius Vanderbilt refused an offer of an average man to be a letter carrier. He is not bragging about it. There are quick donors with confidential secrets to sell who get as many.

Recent receptions of military and naval troops in England and America emphasize the fact that we ought to welcome heroes in some more sensible way than by punching them in the ribs or crushing their hats. "Will you allow us to pass" an adjutant begged in a recent reception.

"This is an expedition of the United States." "I do not care if it is Hobson," retorted the rustic who blocked the way. "I am not going to have my girl pushed."

Mr. Strand reports in the London Daily Chronicle that wherever he goes in Europe he finds the governing classes understanding the English language. At the court of St. Petersburg it is the household tongue, the language of the street and the language of the market.

There is no saying that the tongue of each man is many, but it is true that the tongue of one language toward another universal language and the English language is the most universal.

Whether equal suffrage is to be enjoyed or merely endured by women, it has been for some years considered a definite in Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, and just now South Dakota has come near to adopting it in the form of a constitutional amendment.

It is noteworthy that in all these new and apparently settled communities of the West the women are the most conspicuous of the men, and are probably the more highly valued for their activity. In many localities they act as directors of sporting clubs, of the schools, and in Idaho two of them have been elected to the legislature.

In Albert Richardson's "Beyond the Mississippi," published more than a quarter of a century ago, occurs a passage which, in the light of recent events and their ulterior possibilities, seems almost prophetic. He points to the fact that the Spirit of Progress, emerging from Egypt and Greece, has passed on through China and Rome and Western Europe, across the Atlantic, through Jamestown harbor, over Plymouth Rock, and on to the Pacific. "Be long," he continues, "through the golden Gate, to San Francisco, it will open up by the islands of the sea to that dreamy Orient where it was born. And then—what?"

It had been suggested, said what is prophetic among the poets of the world, that the woman should suffer from poverty and want should appropriate to themselves those things which they most need and desire. It is pronounced, however, how a woman with every want supplied and money for purchasing her heart's desire should deliberately abstain from the use of no material value to her and by so doing court the risk of social ruin. It is not well to deal too cavalierly with the word kleptomaniac. It is a disease. It has ruined hundreds of homes. Kleptomaniacs in their activity is shoplifting. But all kleptomaniacs are not shoplifters.

Whether it would be well to have an extra session of congress called after the fourth of March is now a much discussed topic. The present congress, the Fifty-fifth, and the Fifty-sixth were both summoned in extraordinary session. The frequency of these calls grows out of the long period which ordinarily elapses between the November election of members of the house and their assembling in regular session in December of the following year. There have been many cases of extraordinary change in the congressional calendar.

The belief of some that by our refusal to trade with the Canadians freely we can compel them to come into the union is a delusion. They will not join us if they believe they have reason for disliking the Congress. Amicable and mutually beneficial relations seem to be the best method for bringing about a continental union of the Anglo-Saxon people of America.

When a judge is in love with Maid Miller he declares her as sweet as consistory hay. When he is not he considers her as green as grass.
