United States Consular Agent Mertens at Grao has submitted to the state department some figures relative to the Spanish trade last year, showing the surprising fact that notwithstanding her complete defeat in war and her distressed economic conditions, Spain was actually able to show a balance of trade in her favor for 1898. Mr. Mertens cites this fact as a demonstration of the natural wealth of the country. The total exports were $132,401,038 and the imports were $91,772,450.
