Fifty Years of Cures.

To those doctors, who went up and down the country in every kind of wind and weather, faithful, patient, and true, Ayer's Sarsa-parilla owes its first success. Today any doctor of repute who prescribes any Sarsaparilla prescribes Auer's. We have thousands of testimonials from doctors all over this land that it is the one safe Sarsaparilla, and the doctors know what it is, because we have heen giving the formula of it to them for over hilf a century.

Playing of the Game. run each and every pastime to a point of exaggeration, is at a standstill, and minority composed of such cranks as the golfers of last season are looking around for novelties for the coming one, not only in clubs, shoes and costumes, but in strokes and proper atti tudes of body. One theory advanced is that of learning the proper swing The fault that is about the hardest to correct in driving is to get the shoulders and back into the stroke, so that the swing will be full and the club head follow through with the balt. The way to get the true style in driving, according to the new idea, is to practice the drive with a golf ball held firmly under the right armpit. It will erly made the ball will not be dislodged from its place, and, on the other hand, that the exertion of hold-ing the ball in its position will teach a fine carriage of the shoulders and body throughout the entire stroke. All who have tried swinging with a ball under the armpit say that it has improved their drive. Another suggescaddie bags should be not less than six and a half inches across. This recommendation is based on the experience that the usual caddie bag mouth of four and a half inches insures badly frayed leather grips of the clubs, owing to the haste of the caddie boys to push them in and out of the bag in serving the players during the round. The bags, although somewhat larger to the eye, are no heavier than those with narrow mouths, and the caddle's work is thus made easier and the chafing and scraping of clubs done away with to a great degree. A third suggestion THE pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well-known remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured is an improvement in the cups used cross pieces perforated to support the disk staff, which, especially when the considerable labor to bury in the earth.
