

MANCHESTER ENTERPRISE IN OUR GREAT STATE. THE HAPPENINGS IN MICHIGAN BRIEFLY RELATED.

Manch. Explosion at Ludington. A terrible explosion occurred at Ludington on the evening of the 15th which completely wrecked the electric light plant. The explosion blew the boiler, and scattered fragments 200 feet into the air. One of the fragments landed in the kitchen of a house one block distant. Four men were in the power plant when the explosion occurred, but all miraculously escaped injury. Low water is supposed to have caused the explosion.

TRANSVAAL WAR ITEMS. The Boers hoisted the flag of the Transvaal over Vryburg on Oct. 18, and are about issuing a proclamation that the Boers have taken the town. This is regarded as a move on the part of the Boers to induce the colonial Dutch to join the Boers in the original war against the British.

WAR NOTES. A special from Washington says that these important military appointments have been decided upon: Gen. John C. Bates, U. S. V., and colonel of the 34th infantry, regular army, to be major general of volunteers to fill the original vacancy caused by the increase in the enlisted force; Maj. Gen. W. L. Watson, U. S. V., and colonel in the inspector-general's department, regular army, to be brigadier general of the regular army, vice Barker, retired; Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston, regular army, to be major general of volunteers, to fill the original vacancy caused by the increase in the enlisted force.

THE ENGLISH FLOWER GARDEN. The fluctuations and history of the English flower garden in England and the United States are closely connected with the changes in national character that have taken place since the time of the Tudors.

A CHILD'S FANCY. An explanation of what seems to be a child's fancy in the English flower garden is given in the following article.

Notice to the Public.
Attention is called to the fact that the Manchester Enterprise is not a newspaper of record, and that it is not a part of the public domain. It is a private enterprise, and its publication is subject to the control of its owners. It is not a part of the public domain, and its publication is subject to the control of its owners.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1899.

The open season for deer extends from Nov. 8 to 30.

Some farmers have all their corn husked and in the crib.

We are promised a beautiful shower of stars on the nights of Nov. 13, 14 and 15.

We think a few more fairs would do us no harm.

Notice is hereby given that the Manchester Enterprise is not a newspaper of record, and that it is not a part of the public domain.

The plucky little town of Three Oaks has decided to postpone its dedication of Dewey park and the Spanish canon until next spring, but they have called the town and citizens to the attention of the fact that they will raise another and another, keeping old glory waving as long as the world stands.

Wm. Roush informs the Enterprise that he has written the state veterinarian and authorities at Lansing to ascertain the results of the examination of those sheep that he on his farm last summer, but he has received no reply. Mr. Roush promised to send the report of the examination to the Enterprise, but he has failed to do so. Mr. Roush says that he, as well as the farmers in his neighborhood, is anxious to know the truth of the matter.

The republicans of the 10th ward of Detroit, are enthusiastic for the re-election of Jacob J. Haarer for alderman. At a meeting held last week, Felix A. Jankie told of "old Haarer's" qualifications for the position, and substantially repeated his former statement that the alderman might have had as high as $50,000 if he had withdrawn his opposition to the 17th ward seat. The Enterprise is pleased to know that one of our Manchester boys is held in such high estimation by his fellow citizens.

The subject of good roads is being discussed "pretty thoroughly" everywhere about the state. The Manchester Enterprise is in luck since, other than the county, it is the state's largest source of revenue, and at the state's disposal to do with as it pleases. In this section of the state there is plenty of good gravel, which if properly applied, would make excellent roads. But there must be a different system of road making adopted before the roads will be made better. There must be a more efficient method of raising money to work and less losing down or we will never have any better roads than we have today.

Isaiah Patients in the County House. While at the county house today, the board of supervisors is looking over the building with the idea of providing some temporary quarters for the poor. It is not to be admitted to the asylum because of the crowded conditions. This question of what to do with the insane is a crying one. To inflict them upon the unfortunate to their poor relatives, and make life at the county house, is a crying one. It is a crying one to do which is little more than a crime.

From patients who are sent to the various asylums all over the country, over one-fourth are discharged as cured; many others are sent home in a greatly improved condition, and life in the institution is made as pleasant as possible during their detention there. All of this is due to the fact that the county house is a place of refuge for the insane, and it is a place of refuge for the insane.

In Ohio, there is a system of providing the way for new cases from each county, as they occur, by sending to the county house (infirmary, they call them) the cases which seem most incurable, and admitting the new cases in their place. This seems a little better than to consign new cases to a treatment which cannot be made in making them incurable. New cases are waiting for a chance to be admitted for treatment.

The various phases of these problems are being thoroughly gone over by the supervisors today, with the probability that temporary quarters will be provided at the county house pending such action as is the only humane way, a new state asylum. Tuesday, Oct. 12.

Daniel R. Ticehorn, Chiles' 7-year-old child, died Tuesday. He was a member of the M. E. church for 60 years. Samuel Ogden of Chiles, was hatching eggs Monday and laid into the kettle of boiling water prepared for scalding the eggs.

The change recommended to be made to the county jail by the state board of corrections and charities, will be made by order of the board.

The board of supervisors has refused to accept part of the expense of paving the streets surrounding the court house. This the city thinks is rank injustice.

Last year over and above the liquor sales received the supervisors appropriated $20,000 for county expenses. This year it will be $27,400. The state tax was increased about $64,000 and the city tax $32,000.

The stockholders of the Ypsilanti cemetery, Saturday afternoon voted to increase the stock of the association $5.00. This was done to pay the debt of the cemetery to establish a sinking fund at Chippewick.
