Published in 1897. First Published every Thursday afternoon. Office located at 100 North Main Street, Manchester, N. H.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1902

There were 51 deaths in Jackson county, 65 in Leasewee county and 65 in Washenaw county in September.

No young man should be satisfied with his present condition. Unless he is constantly striving to improve himself, he will soon find that he is no longer needed even in the position he now holds.

Don't burn up the autumn leaves, but let them lie where they fall. They are nature's coverlet and nourishment for the grass and tender roots.

Builds a new station house, the Lake Shore railway needs more track room in this village. Shippers and those who receive goods by rail are much annoyed and hindered in their work because of the limited track facilities.

Elia E. Pratt of Tecumseh, was divorced from Frank Pratt, Monday, by court support.

Lloyd Coghlin has moved his home from Clinton and wants to employ a number of broom makers as he can sell the brooms he can make.

Nothing has been heard from the projected electric road from Ann Arbor to Manchester for several months, and it was probably gone to its last sleep.

The suit brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Shagan, the mother of Charles Thomas and Johnny Johnson, against Beres W. Stevenson for work done by the boys on the farm the past season, was decided by the jury returned a verdict of $120.00.

John Jackson, of Grand Lake, is a stockholder and director of the tropical land company.

Among the jurors drawn for the November term of circuit court, are: Hon. M. B. McKee, Columbus; G. S. Barber, Grand Lake; Jas. Spicer, Liberty; W. W. McCull, Napoleon; Charles Buchanan, Norvell.

Rev. S. G. Herbert of Grand Lake, who has labored on the electric road and been resigned as pastor of the congregational church, but the trustees refused to accept it and urged him to remain as pastor. He has done excellent work for the church.

The County begins a new year with the November number. Although acknowledged to be the best printed magazine published here, it is a new type which makes lighter-looking pages. We advise all our readers who can and who cannot to buy this number as it is filled with interesting reading matter.

The big feature of the November St. Nicholas is the first installment of Howard Pyle's new serial, superbly illustrated. Those who know what he did for Robin Hood several years ago will guess what he will do for "King Arthur." Every boy and girl will want to read this and every parent should buy St. Nicholas for them.

An auction sale will be held by the W. R. C. at their hall on Saturday, November 1st. All are invited to attend.

Personal...

Men. A. F. Freeman is in Tecumseh today. He studies making an account of M. S. Hall of Ypsilanti who is now to stay on business.

Leonard Herman was in Jackson Tuesday on business. Mrs. Martin Fabry of Jackson has been visiting her parents.

John Glaskie is entertaining his brother, W. J. Barrington, Ill. Metron Barrington of Tecumseh is visiting at T. B. Bailey's, today.

Misses Clara Briest and Martha Gaus visited at Ann Arbor, today. Mr. & Mrs. Milo Rome made a business trip to Tecumseh Tuesday.

Mrs. Caroline Chaplin of Sylvania, Ohio, is visiting at J. F. Spaffard's. Lee Acheron went to Grand Rapids Friday to attend veterinary college.

Miss Anna Banton who has been at work at Clinton came home quite ill. Misses Lillie and Mary Faulhaber of Clinton visited at Jacob Reidel's, Sunday.

Amelia Younghaus returned from Ypsilanti and Toledo, O., this forenoon. Miss Bertha Fassel visited at Jackson Sunday, and attended missionary meeting.

Dr. Thomas was at home a few days last week but returned to Lansing again. Mr. & Mrs. Wm. Walworth of Napoleon are visiting his parents here this week.

Mrs. Caroline Upham went to Ann Arbor yesterday to see her daughter, Laura, who is ill. Mrs. Ernest B. Tilden of Cobolton, N. Y., is visiting her parents, Mr. & Mrs. Sam Sherwood.

Paul Schottel, C. F. Wuerthner and Otto Davider were among those who attended missionary meeting at Jackson Sunday.

Joseph Seager of Clyde, N. Y., who has been at work at the apple evaporator returned home Sunday. An Achen had formed on one of his hands and was so painful that he could not work any more.

Geo. Niles received a letter from his son, Will of Loganport, yesterday saying that his little daughter, Marguerite had been bitten very badly on the cheek by a bull dog. If her mother had not been with her they think she would have been torn to pieces.

Theodore Roosevelt on "The Presidency." Before his nomination for the vice-presidency Theodore Roosevelt wrote expressly for "The Youth's Companion" Boston, Mass., an article on the "Presidency." It will be published in the number for November 23rd, this being one of the remaining weekly issues of 1902 sent free from the time of subscription to every subscriber who at once sends $1.50 for "The Companion's 1903 volume."

When this article on "The Presidency" was written no one could have foreseen or dreamed even that the author would soon be called upon to take the oath of office of the great office. For this reason alone what Mr. Roosevelt has said and will say is of extraordinary interest, and will be eagerly awaited by persons of all shades of political opinion.

Mr. & Mrs. Will Widmayer returned Wednesday morning from a few days visit with her parents in Jackson. H. E. Bowen will move his family to Clinton in about two weeks. He has secured work there with Loring Cottoning.

T. B. Bailey, F. D. Merrieth, Dr. Tracy and Mad. D. Blosser attended a musicale meeting at Clinton Saturday. Mr. & Mrs. Dennis Tregay went to Chicago Saturday to visit Dr. Geo. Torrey. Dennis returned Tuesday morning.

J. E. Teeter who was threatened with appendicitis has been ill for three days as possible and in this it is likely that our citizens may be asked to assist. Mr. & Mrs. James Martin went to Wampler's lake last week, to close up their cottage and put things in order for the winter.

Miss Walter Smith went to Saline Friday to attend the November 1st. Saturday. She was accompanied by Miss Corn Bailey.

Frank Johnson is in Clinton, Sunday. E. E. Row was in Detroit on business, Saturday.

A. F. Freeman spent Sunday here with his family. Miss Attie Lazell was in Tecumseh, Wednesday.

Mrs. Clyde Young went to Toledo Monday, returning Tuesday. Miss Myra Spaffard visited in Tecumseh, last Friday and Saturday.

Fred M. Freeman made a business trip to Columbus, Ohio, last Friday. George J. Niles and family visited friends in Norvell over Sunday.

Mr. John Koehn of Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 19, 1902. Dear Sir: We hereby submit to you an analysis of the results of our tests of marl and soil, furnished by you from Grand Lake, Washenaw county, Michigan.

The materials will be sent to you on Monday. The marl above is exceedingly well. The clay will burn easy, and with the dry process, would make much better than the wet process. Respectfully submitted by Prof. R. C. Carpenter, Ithaca, N. Y.

This report satisfied these gentlemen that the marl and clay were right and that the Van Valkenburg and Charles Cooley needed more than 500 acres of land in and surrounding Low's lake, Cran's lake, Iron Creek and Mill property, later the Hon. Holmes and others insuring their material enough to run a factory for some time.

Two of the Toledo parties and Mr. Van Valkenburg were here Monday went over the land and completed the deal with the same. The articles of copartnership were drawn by Mr. J. W. Waters and have been sent to New York to be signed by the balance of the stockholders. All the stock $300,000 is subscribed and as soon as the papers come back they will be sent to Lansing to complete the organization according to state law.

Miss Louise Allen and Lucile Eddy of Ypsilanti, called at Mrs. Wm. Campbell over Sunday. George J. Rose manager of the Cutting Paper & Co. store, was in town last Thursday afternoon.

Mr. & Mrs. Will Widmayer returned Wednesday morning from a few days visit with her parents in Jackson. H. E. Bowen will move his family to Clinton in about two weeks. He has secured work there with Loring Cottoning.

The Living Dead.

BY GIDEON HICKS. (Copyright, 1922, by Daily Story Pub. Co.) George Hartman was traveling west for the rest and recreation he needed after some years of absorption in a successful business in an eastern city. He had stopped over for a few days in a Colorado town and was standing on the platform of the railway station awaiting the arrival of the train which was to carry him on his journey farther west. The train was twenty minutes late, and he was willing away the time watching the scenes about him.

There was some commotion in front of a saloon near the station. A man and a woman seemed to be struggling, while an interested crowd of loungers laughed and jeered.

Moved by curiosity, the traveler walked towards the saloon, and as he drew near he heard the woman pleading:

"You're drunk enough, Jim. Please come home."

At the sound of her voice Bartman stopped suddenly, and then on impulse hurried forward. Making his way through the crowd he saw a brutish-looking man—red-eyed and bloated—and a slatternly woman holding to his arm and trying to draw him away from the saloon. The woman, it could be seen, had once been beautiful, but she was now a pitiful wreck.

"Is she his wife?" asked a bystander.

"She's come here with Jim Shoffer 'bout five years ago. He's peared to have lots of money, and they lived a high-dryin' life. Jim got to gamblin' and drinkin' and goin' all the galls at a bell-roarin' rate 'til he went down into the gutter and she went with him. I s'pose she's one o' them fool women that'll stick to a man and go to the devil with him, no matter how much he abuses her."

"Does he beat her?"

"Treats her like a cog, and she hangs to him like a dog in spite of his cussedness, as if her salvation depended on him."

Shoffer shook himself free from the woman and made his way unsteadily into the saloon. The woman followed him and others of the crowd went in. Bartman also entered the saloon.

Shoffer was standing at the counter as the bartender prepared to serve him a drink of some vile, cheap stuff for the nickel he had placed on the bar. The woman took hold of him again and said:

"Jim, you shan't drink any more. Come away."

Shoffer turned fiercely and muttering an oath, struck her in the face. To the astonishment of all Bartman stepped quickly forward and with a well-directed blow felled the drunkard to the floor. Then with his hand at his hip, facing the people who had crowded into the saloon, he showed himself ready to meet any attack that might be made to resent his action.

The fallen man rose with difficulty to his feet and slunk away into a corner of the room.

No one else moved except the woman, who rushed up to Bartman, gazed a moment intently in his face, and then, covering her own face with her hands, covered down by the counter.

Seeing that no interference was attempted or contemplated, Bartman went to the woman, and taking her by the arm, raised her up and led her out of the house. As the loungers began to follow he checked them with an imperious wave of the hand.

The woman, with head bent down, walked beside Bartman until they came close to the station, where she sank down upon a curbstone.

"You can never forgive me," she sobbed, not raising her head.

"I can say this much," said Bartman, "which may give you some satisfaction."

Shoffer turned fiercely and struck her in the face.

infaction, if you have any good remaining in you. Your children and mine do not know of your conduct and of your fate. They believe their mother is dead, and that she died a true mother and an honorable woman. And you are dead to me and to them."

Without further word she slipped a bank note in the hand of the weeping woman and hurried into the station, where he boarded the train which had just rolled in.

Five minutes later, as the train slowly moved out of the station Bartman looked out of the car window and saw the woman still sitting and weeping where he had left her. He

God's Appointments. God looks upon thy heart, and then, for this weary, disappointing day, that dawn, my tears for thee, be comforted, O God, whose name is love, whose tender care is evermore our pass, lives above, he sends these disappointments? Well, then, take it from his hand, shall God's disappointment seem less good than what thyself had planned?

The Living Dead.

BY GIDEON HICKS. (Copyright, 1922, by Daily Story Pub. Co.) George Hartman was traveling west for the rest and recreation he needed after some years of absorption in a successful business in an eastern city. He had stopped over for a few days in a Colorado town and was standing on the platform of the railway station awaiting the arrival of the train which was to carry him on his journey farther west. The train was twenty minutes late, and he was willing away the time watching the scenes about him.

There was some commotion in front of a saloon near the station. A man and a woman seemed to be struggling, while an interested crowd of loungers laughed and jeered.

Moved by curiosity, the traveler walked towards the saloon, and as he drew near he heard the woman pleading:

"You're drunk enough, Jim. Please come home."

At the sound of her voice Bartman stopped suddenly, and then on impulse hurried forward. Making his way through the crowd he saw a brutish-looking man—red-eyed and bloated—and a slatternly woman holding to his arm and trying to draw him away from the saloon. The woman, it could be seen, had once been beautiful, but she was now a pitiful wreck.

"Is she his wife?" asked a bystander.

"She's come here with Jim Shoffer 'bout five years ago. He's peared to have lots of money, and they lived a high-dryin' life. Jim got to gamblin' and drinkin' and goin' all the galls at a bell-roarin' rate 'til he went down into the gutter and she went with him. I s'pose she's one o' them fool women that'll stick to a man and go to the devil with him, no matter how much he abuses her."

"Does he beat her?"

"Treats her like a cog, and she hangs to him like a dog in spite of his cussedness, as if her salvation depended on him."

Shoffer shook himself free from the woman and made his way unsteadily into the saloon. The woman followed him and others of the crowd went in. Bartman also entered the saloon.

Shoffer was standing at the counter as the bartender prepared to serve him a drink of some vile, cheap stuff for the nickel he had placed on the bar. The woman took hold of him again and said:

"Jim, you shan't drink any more. Come away."

Shoffer turned fiercely and muttering an oath, struck her in the face. To the astonishment of all Bartman stepped quickly forward and with a well-directed blow felled the drunkard to the floor. Then with his hand at his hip, facing the people who had crowded into the saloon, he showed himself ready to meet any attack that might be made to resent his action.

The fallen man rose with difficulty to his feet and slunk away into a corner of the room.

No one else moved except the woman, who rushed up to Bartman, gazed a moment intently in his face, and then, covering her own face with her hands, covered down by the counter.

Seeing that no interference was attempted or contemplated, Bartman went to the woman, and taking her by the arm, raised her up and led her out of the house. As the loungers began to follow he checked them with an imperious wave of the hand.

The woman, with head bent down, walked beside Bartman until they came close to the station, where she sank down upon a curbstone.

"You can never forgive me," she sobbed, not raising her head.

"I can say this much," said Bartman, "which may give you some satisfaction."

Shoffer turned fiercely and struck her in the face.

BURNING COLORADO FORESTS.

Suggestion That the Fires May Have Been Caused by Meteors.

Scientists are having their attention called to the coincidence in the prevalence of so many forest fires in the Rocky Mountains and the scientific fact that a great number of meteors have been tearing up the earth in this quarter of the globe.

It has been suggested that these meteors dropping in various mountain districts, in heavy pine forests, have exploded and thus started the big forest fires that are doing so much damage. This is a new theory in the scientific world, but it is not without the range of possibilities and seems the only explanation of the mysterious origin of these fires. These fires have originated apparently without human agency and there has not been any theory of lightning origin.

Denver scientists are now making a study of this theory and in a few days will doubtless express their opinions. It certainly seems a satisfactory explanation of how fires originate in sections far from the roads of travel and the habitation of men.

Word has just been received in Denver of a fire that is raging near Grand Lake, Col., and which is threatening much property. This fire, it is supposed, originated from the bursting of a meteor on a hay ranch near Grand Lake. Another disastrous fire, with mysterious origin, is raging near Georgetown, Col.—Denver (Col.) News.

LOVELY WOMEN OF EUROPE.

Every Nation Has Its Peculiar Type of Beauty.

Every nation has its peculiar type of feminine beauty. The American woman, whom Americans think is the loveliest of them all, would play an inconspicuous part in a beauty show at Constantinople, in Algiers or in Vienna, where the facial features, dress, manners, customs and styles are vastly at variance with the Georgian girl or her cousins.

The Egyptian woman still clings to a blousy dress, patterned something on the order of the Chinese pantaloons. The march of civilization has had no effect upon the women of Egypt. But it costs more to dress one of its beauties for a year than it requires to keep an American woman clothed for twice that period.

This Landlord Hates Dogs. There is a curious clause in a lease, which a gentleman in Paris was asked to sign recently. "I hereby agree not to bring any dog into the apartments which I am about to occupy and not to permit any dog to remain there. Furthermore, I authorize any person who may at any time find a dog in my apartments or in the garden or courtyard or on the stairs leading to my apartments or on the steps at the front entrance to make away with him immediately in any manner that he pleases, and I hereby promise that I will never take legal action on account of the disappearance of any such dog."

It is rather surprising," says a French paper, "that this landlord, who has such a horror of dogs, does not append to this clause another one, as follows: 'Be it understood that children come under the same category as dogs.'"

Medicine for "Working People." "Oblio produced one of the wittiest physicians in this country ever knew," said Congressman Shattuck recently. "He lived at a small place near Cleveland, and was greatly liked. His practice was large, and sometimes people would tell him that they called him in more for the fun than it was in than his skill. It was hard to say which did his patients the most good, and as he always gave his best of both at the same time, they probably helped each other. Just as it happened when one of his patients revolved at a monstrous dose of physic and said: 'Why doctor, you can't mean such a dose as this for a gentleman?' 'Oh, no,' said the doctor, 'it's for working people.'"

A Cure for Rheumatism. Bridgeport, Wash., Oct. 20th.—Rheumatism and kidney trouble seem to be the prevailing ailments in this territory and particularly in Douglas county.

A remarkable and plainly sure cure has, however, recently been introduced.

It is called Dodd's Kidney Pills and although but a short time on the market, it has already worked many wonderful cures.

One of the most striking of these is that of Mr. John Higgins, who for a long time suffered with rheumatism and kidney trouble. The pains of these diseases had combined to make his life very miserable indeed, and he could get nothing to do him any good till he heard of this new remedy. He tells his experience with it in these words:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done more for my rheumatism and kidney trouble than anything else I have ever used. There is more virtue in them than in any other medicine and I will always highly recommend them to all of my friends."

Disappointed the Dean. One of the clergy who was present at the opening of the General Theological Seminary was speaking of the bashfulness of the late Dean Hoffman.

"The Dean," said the clergyman, "was called upon to speak at a mass meeting held in the interests of a cause which received many benefactions from him. He spoke briefly of the merit of the cause, and then said, apologetically:

"I am not much of a speaker."

"Amen!" responded a Methodist brother from the first row.

The Dean, somewhat disconcerted, continued a while, and then said: "I'll detain you only a moment longer."

"Amen!" again broke in the man in the front row, and the Dean sat down very red in the face, but he enjoyed it all himself, when he learned afterward that the man in the front row was very deaf and had intercepted his appropriation entirely on faith, not on hearing."

Justice Gray and the Lawyers. Judge Gray sought to continue what he called "the old regime," the solemn state of his court. Now and then he encountered members of the bar able to turn the tables on him, but not often. Henry W. Payne was one and Sidney Bartlett, both leaders at the Suffolk bar, was another. "Mr. Bartlett," said Chief Justice Gray, leaning back in his chair, "that is not law and it never was law. To this the lawyer promptly and peaceably replied: 'It was law, your honor, until your honor just spoke.' 'If your honor please,' said Payne one day, beginning a motion. 'Sit down, sir, don't you see I am talking with another justice.' thundered the then chief justice. Mr. Payne took his hat and walked out of the courtroom. A half hour afterward a messenger reached his office with a note saying that Judge Gray was willing to hear him. 'I am not willing to be heard,' answered the old lawyer, 'until Judge Gray apologizes.' The apology followed.—Springfield Republican.

CONGRESSMAN WILBER SAYS

[To The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., of Columbus, O.]

"Pe-ru-na is All You Claim For It."

Congressman D. F. Wilber, of Oneonta, N. Y., writes: The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio: Gentlemen—'Persuaded by a friend I have tried your remedy and I have almost fully recovered after the use of a few bottles. I am fully convinced that Pe-ru-na is all you claim for it, and cheerfully recommend your medicine to all who are afflicted with catarrhal trouble.'—David F. Wilber.

Pe-ru-na Preventive and Cure for Colds. Mr. C. F. Given, Sussex, N. B., Vice President of "The Pastime Boating Club," writes: "Whenever the cold weather sets in I have for years past been very sure to catch a severe cold which was hard to the wiper off, and which would leave after-effects on my constitution the most of the winter."

"Last winter I was advised to try Pe-ru-na, and within five days the cold was broken up, and in five days more I was a well man. I recommended it to several of my friends and all speak the highest praise for it. There is nothing like Pe-ru-na for catarrhal affections. It is well nigh infallible as a cure, and I gladly endorse it."—C. F. Given.

WATER POWER IN MANCHESTER

Manchester has three good water powers within its corporate limits and within half a mile of dam number three, Kingsley's site, there is a chance for a nother power. The first dam has a fall of 13 feet and is used to furnish power for the Manchester Roller Mills, a picture of which we showed in our supplement on October 9th. The second or middle dam furnishes power for Kimble & Schmid's factory a picture of which is here given. Since the engraving was made the firm has added to the building, making a much larger structure than the cut shows. This dam has a fall of 8 feet and is ample power for a business of much larger proportions than that which the firm is doing. It is a fine site for a furniture factory, and the ENTERPRISE hopes that we may see one located there before many years pass by. The third dam, half a mile below, furnishes power for the electric light plant and the Premium Mills.
