Chancellor James Roscoe Day of Syracuse university, who has recently published a volume of essays, is on terms of unusual intimacy with the students under him. Though Chancellor Day after his graduation from Bowdoin, served a long term in the Methodist ministry, his manner has been always very simple. Young men have always found him easy to approach—a humorous, sincere, delightful friend upon whom they could rely.

Manchester Enterprise HARD TO AVERT FRICTION IN THE DUAL KINGDOM

By WAT. D. BOESSER.

THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1911.

England has placed three more islands on the red.

She Thomas is still sanguine. He has the temperament that characterizes his race.

A new office has been made for him. Nothing in China was big enough for him.

Henry Watterson declares that there is no real public life in the South. He is not a public man.

Another expedition party will be sent forth in Pecos valley presently in search of the turquoise.

Anthony Hope is going to get married. Good-bye to the Dolly Dalgarno. They will all be monopolies after this.

Typewriters are now made to write in two different languages. The language of love, not one of them.

It is to be hoped that Sir Thomas Lipton is being kept fully informed as to the remarkable performances of the Reliance.

President Diaz will accept another four years term in Mexico. Or more properly speaking, the Mexicans will accept it.

That earthquake in Asiatic Turkey with 2,000 dead is credit making. The Balkan war is now in its Christmas toy.

What of Orontides is not covered with lava and ashes is as finally revolutionary as ever. Something is brewing in Greece.

Richard Henry Stoddard, the famous poet, is a certain name in the annals of literature. He has some outside enterprises going.

Maud Gonne's husband was a peace officer and dignified citizen when she married him. Now he was a fight the entire population of Dublin.

Francis Wilson says he will all the he can probably receive good wages from the dime museum now.

Sir Thomas Lipton is bringing two Shamrock cruises up to the time. The Shamrock collection of Shamrocks will be worth good miles to see.

It does not always take possession of a large income to lead a man to the devil. As Dr. Bushy says, the devil is a very slimy fellow.

A New York man has been ordered to give his wife $200 for keeping her 1,236 times. This girl is doing herself with a cash register.

Since circus men usually have to go on strikes, that brings up the question of the American boy hope to enjoy himself as his father did.

Danger lurks in the steam yacht. The ship and the trolley line are both in the hands of the same man. It has its advantages that must not be overlooked.

One of the Chicago university professors has discovered a similarity between Shakespeare and Kipling. The world has been overrating the notorious Avonard.

If King Edward thinks of visiting Ireland, who doesn't he combine business with pleasure. He will make a big name when the big American race there comes off.

Another cure for consumption is announced. The trouble with these cures is that the victim who has been cured is likely to have a doctor to demonstrate their effectiveness.

King Edward has a decided advantage over a president in visiting the various localities in his realm. He does not have to make speeches. He does not have to lose any votes.

Miss M. E. Braddon has just published her sixtieth novel. It is almost tempting to think what might have happened if Miss Braddon had been the wife of Cyrus Townsend.

A Chicago schoolmaster estimates Shakespeare because that bard's language is behind the times. Some one should put Shakespeare's writings into slang to meet Chicago's readers for appropriate literature.

A proposition to tax incomes which is necessary to run the government has been made in Michigan. How can a woman hope to run a country as well as a man?

Ameliasa Archer is going to marry one of her daughters to a titled Englishman. It costs a good deal to have a woman hope to run a country as well as a man.

She has a good deal to say for herself. It is not that she is a woman, but that she is a woman who has a good deal to say for herself.

OLD-TIME COOKERY AS TAUGHT 250 YEARS AGO

By WAT. D. BOESSER.

THE EARLY DAYS OF THE SEVENTEENTH century cookery was taught in a little book published in 1662, and now in the possession of a Chicago collector.

The title is "The Accomplish'd Housewife," and it is a little book of 166 pages, printed for John Sturges in St. Dunstons Church-yard in Fleet street, 1662.

To take "red dressing" and "white dressing" is to take a pint of sweet cream, a penny man's worth of butter, and a penny man's worth of salt.

The method of connecting a "Gilt of Pippins, or Colour of Amber" is to take a quart of pippins, and a quart of sugar, and a quart of butter.

Next is a chapter on the "Cakes of the Court," and the "Cakes of the House." The "Cakes of the Court" are made of flour, butter, and sugar.

The "Cakes of the House" are made of flour, butter, and sugar. They are made in a little oven, and are eaten with a little wine.
