Speaker Cannon will not be ready to announce the house committee until Friday, it being necessary for him to confer with Representative Williams in regard to the minority representation. In spite of the appeals of different members, he sees no reason for adjourning the special session, as it can be merged into the regular session with out any interruption, and he is determined not to bow to the senate. Both bodies will meet tomorrow and adjournment will be taken until Monday, which will mark the opening of the regular session.

He will advocate a school system for the Indian Territory, where 20,000 citizens are without school facilities.

There will be no financial legislation at the coming session, so the subject will be briefly dismissed. Some recommendations concerning the administration of Alaska will be made, but stashed for the territories will not be mentioned.
