THE CYCLONE'S WAKE A DISMAL WRECK

The entire state experienced a storm of varying severity in different sections Monday afternoon and evening. In the Thumb the storm assumed the character of a cyclone which swept destruction over a path nearly a mile wide...

The Killed. Elsie Appleman, 12 years old, Hemlock, Saginaw county. Mary, daughter of John Smith, Urban, Tuscola county.

Fatally Injured. Robt. Dossor, Colling, Tuscola county. George Morrow, Central Lake. Mrs. Albert Bryan and babe, Saginaw county.

Seriously Injured. Three children of Travis Leach, Ellington. Mrs. William Hutchinson, Colling, Tuscola county.

Injured. Gavitt Dewitt, Baldwin. James Brown, Baldwin. L. O. Jones, Flint.

Missing. Unknown man and boy in Ellenwood township. Details of the Storm's Fury.

At least four lives were snuffed out in a few moments and thousands of dollars' property loss was sustained by a cyclone which came from the southwest late Monday afternoon and swept through eastern Tuscola and western Sanilac counties.

Wires are down in all directions and but meager reports have been received. The path of the storm was apparently about a mile wide, and destruction was spread over a territory at least six miles long.

Scores of people are homeless and spent the night in the dreaching rain, stumbling through the night in an endeavor to find some shelter, houses, furniture and clothes being blown away.

Mrs. William Hutchinson, who was in a field near her home, was blown across the field and struck by flying nails and boards, breaking her limbs and rendering her unconscious.

Robbie Smith, an aged man, was hurled against a fence where flying pieces of boards entered the side of the house and through windows, completely wrecking everything in the house.

Thomas Seelye, who had just completed a fine new house and barn, can only locate the places where they stood.

Isaac Finley, barn destroyed, horses killed; Andrew Van Wagner, house destroyed; William Hutchinson, house and barn destroyed; Sol Smith, barn and part of house leveled; Isaac Haines, Jarvis Turner and a farmer named Arnold each had their barns destroyed.

It is miraculous that the loss to life and limb was not greater. The greatest havoc was done around Snover and Urban, two miles apart. The storm struck the Memorial church and a school house, picked both buildings from their foundations and blew them along the road for nearly one mile.

At Snover the storm picked up the house of Ed. Philpott, where a field and into the road. It severely injured everyone in the house besides killing his boy, who was caught in the whirlwind, and whose left arm was blown completely out of its socket.

The Indian who was arrested at Dowagiac for laying ties across the track in front of a passenger train...

STORM NOTES.

In a wood belonging to Howard Foster, the wind snapped off maple trees two feet through, uprooting nearly every tree on the premises.

From Snover the cyclone traveled east and struck in the vicinity of Urban, scattering to fragments the new frame house belonging to John Smith, part of the flying roof falling upon his daughter.

Lightning struck the barn of Henry Signs, near Owosso, and felled Signs and Jeremiah Beadle. Mrs. Beadle saw the flash and hurried screaming to the barn, to find her husband stripped of his clothing by the electric fluid.

Lightning struck three business places in Baldwin, and injured several persons. Gavitt Dewitt was standing in F. Trick's saloon and was knocked down. The barkeep and another customer were burned about the arms.

George Marrow, son of a prominent farmer near Central Lake, was struck by lightning Wednesday and will not live. All his clothing, save his shirt band, was burned or singed.

The damage from the storm is and about Muskegon is conservatively estimated at $100,000, with northern sections suffering heaviest.

The fall of rain from 7 o'clock Monday night until 7 o'clock Tuesday morning amounted to 4.80 inches, mostly more than ever fell in the same period of time.

Charles Genow, 25 years old and single, of Alpena, took enough corrosive sublimate with suicidal intent to kill himself, but two doctors nipped him out. He is out of danger but says he will try again.

Prof. Wintermute, Indianapolis, decorated his lawn with piles of old tin cans. Neighbors had him arrested for maintaining a nuisance.

The probate court has solved the alleged mystery of the late John Martin Braun, of Ann Arbor, whose sons were to get three-quarters more than another, and one-third more than another daughter.

Half-tones an inch in diameter fell in Sault Ste. Marie during Thursday's heavy rainstorm, and were blown about and destroyed awnings.

L. R. Willard, aged 63 years, a justice of the peace at Clio for the past 12 years, and former village clerk, has been convicted of criminal assault on Flossie Foodick of Clio.

Mrs. Rose Reckenswald, Wilson and her four children, of Kalamazoo, left Snover, Mich., the day before the cyclone that wrecked the village.

Shattered and Useless. Admiral Enquist will not be allowed to repair his ships at Manila. This government has decided that as the injuries were not caused either by the sea or storm they will be obliged to refuse permission for the vessels to be repaired there.

The steam railroad across the state from Grand Haven to Alpena, promoted by Jeremiah Boynton, seems more nearly realized now. It being said that construction work will begin on Monday.

California "big trees" need not become extinct, is the announcement of the United States bureau of forestry. The trees need freely, but rarely germinate and it has been discovered that they take root quickly where the ground has recently been burned over.

Because Little Mary Solo, aged 6, of New Haven, Conn., would play with her little cousin, Cora Cord, aged 5, he chased her. The cord slipped his face, and in a hurry Cora decided a big crowd and cruelly beat his little playmate about the head and body so that she died.

Salsbury's Sentence.

Lant K. Salsbury was sentenced by Judge Wolcott in the Grand Rapids superior court Monday morning to pay a fine of $2,000. He was convicted December 4, 1901, of entering into a criminal conspiracy with Robert A. Cameron to secure a water contract from the city of Grand Rapids and of accepting a $75,000 bribe, or a portion of that amount, from Stilson V. MacLeod, who was acting as Cameron's agent.

When Judge Wolcott called Salsbury before him the respondent, with tears in his eyes, made a plea for mercy. He said: "I can say nothing to add new light to the affair. I have testified repeatedly to the facts. I have no just cause to urge the court in my behalf. I realize that I had a duty to perform, as every citizen has, and I violated that duty, as no one more deeply realizes than myself. I have been dishonored and also my family. I am left to start in middle life, penniless and without friends."

The fine of $2,000 was paid at once. Salsbury was the star witness for the prosecution in the water deal cases, and testified to bribing aldermen, other public officials and men of high standing. Salsbury was city attorney of Grand Rapids at the time.

THE MARKETS. Detroit.—The run of stock is moderate—this season and trade quiet. Range of prices: Light to good butchers, $16.50; pig, $15.00; light veal, $20.00; heavy fat sheep, $14.00; heavy fat sheep, $14.00; heavy fat sheep, $14.00; heavy fat sheep, $14.00.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

What a Boy Can Do
A boy can make the world more bright by simply doing his duty right. So hearts love's sunshine here. A boy can make the world more pure by his life's clean sweep. A boy can make the world more sure as a speed of most doth man. A boy can make the world more true by an excellent aim. A boy can make the world more kind by a kind heart. A boy can make the world more good by a good man's name.

The Blinding Glass
Place an inverted glass upon a map-top table that is slightly inclined by putting a couple of blocks under two of the legs. Before doing this the edges of the glass should be thoroughly cleaned with soap and water. The inclination on the table, whose inclination is not to be slight. Now, allow the flame of a candle to burn under the glass, and the latter will then start to move, as if under the influence of some mysterious force.

CLEVER AND SURPRISING TRICKS.
The funnel trick is very clever, and you can easily perform it if you will have two thin funnels, soldered together at the top, and which appear as one funnel on top. Before you are to perform the trick pour some water into the bottom of the funnel, and let it remain in that upside down position until you are ready.

Winmill for Pumping Water
A winmill is situated 55 feet from a well. It is about 10 feet higher than the well. What size of windmill and piping would be necessary to raise water from a well 55 feet deep? How is the mill stopped when the tank is full?

For the Three Tricks
In the form of a triangle, place three knives so that the blade of one rests on number three, and the blade of number two, and the blade of number one, with the handle of each on one of the corners. This will complete your bridge.

WRAPS AND GOWNS

Paris Fashion Fancies. The checked voiles in light blue and white, lilac and white, beige and white, etc., are greatly favored in Paris for very simply designed morning frocks of the shirtwaist suit or bolero and plaited skirt persuasion. Nothing could be more economical for a summer morning walking dress than one of these dainty yet serviceable frocks, made with short plaited skirt, loose bolero and short loose sleeves, slashed up the outside, and untrimmaged save for a flat collar of antique embroidered batiste and lace.

A sheer lingerie blouse must be worn with the costume and a soft leather belt of the color appearing in the checks. The voile is delightfully cool and wears well, and though in the light colors it soils more easily than in darker shades, its surface shakes off dust very well, and it cleanses perfect when it really is soiled.—New York Sun.

Stylish Suit for Summer. A new and modish box-jacket in a bold style is here shown as part of this suit. The bolero hangs straight and plain, but the smart effect is given by the sleeve and front finishing. The puffed sleeves are headed with a Cavalier cuff and deep frills of lace at the elbow, the neck, sharp-pointed cuffs and girdle being outlined in a contrasting shade of velvet. The blouse should be of lace or fine lawn, preferably the latter, as the sleeves are in evidence below the lace frills. The skirt is a nine-gored flare, with

The model makes a beautiful spring suit when developed in canvas, broadcloth, serge, sycilian, taffeta or the lincens and pique for late-wear.

Evening Dress for Summer. The evening dress of the summer woman is like the evening dress of the winter woman, largely a matter of purse.

The evening dress of this summer should be in a delicate tint, but should preferably not be of very thin goods. It is not a season of transparencies, though there are many to be seen. What the preference is more for the thin silk, with its little embroidered motifs, the pretty flowered and figured batiste and the lovely little summer dress made up for evening wear with the semi-long neck and the elbow sleeve, with the little floating ruffe. The shoulder must, in all cases, be broad, and the skirt can be tight-fitting and trailing, or it can be short and many-gored to stand out in the pretty old-new style.

Young, But Wise. One neophyte in housekeeping who has started on an economical plan and doesn't boast of a superfluity of dishes goes far to faith to white tissue paper to keep foods sweet in the ice box and free from contamination from other foods. Everything she puts in her refrigerator, like butter, milk, salad dressing, and the like, she covers over with tissue paper, keeping it in place with a rubber band.

It is her own idea, is an economical one, so far as multiplying dishes is concerned, and is a hygienic one in that the paper is proof against the penetrating odors which might affect the taste or quality of the food.

Recipe for Marguerites. To make marguerites, take one cup of powdered sugar and stir into the subventer whites of two eggs. Add one pound of English walnuts chopped very fine. Drop a teaspoonful of this mixture upon a saltine cracker and brown slowly in a moderate oven. This makes about thirty.

Prepared Chicken in Virginia Style. Joint a tender chicken as for fricassee. Dip each piece in beaten eggs, then roll in salted cracker dust until thoroughly coated. Set aside for an hour before frying in fat to a golden brown. Be sure to fry long enough for the thickest pieces of chicken to be cooked all the way through.

Light Mantles and Gowns. Delightful summer mantles are made, jackets all over again, in form used in the clumsy way in which they are employed for buttoning. Mantles employed are those the emperors himself might wear, and over the lovely delft and patins often the royal mantles are embroidered to the letter with the precious tints.

Long gowns for summer wear are distinguished by two sharply contrasting styles—the short waisted empire effect, and any draping from the shoulder which will bring in the wateau plait. It would be hard to say which is the more charming of the two, but the wateau styles are somewhat newer than the empire ones and afford more possibilities for a defective figure.

Concerning Millinery. Some of the new millinery is very startling, a lily-green chip hat being trimmed with three plumes in different shades of purple, whilst posies of different hued blossoms may be seen adorning golden-brown and white chip hats. Wreaths of leaves only and just a fall of cherries at the left side are seen on simple morning straw hats, and wreaths of heliotrope and white blossoms with a fold of leaf-green velvet, which forms the bow in front, are the favored trimming for a light biscuit coarse straw hat for a girl. Brown and green straws are much shown for every-day wear.

Almond Candy. Take one and one-half pounds of brown sugar, eight ounces of butter, one teaspoonful of vinegar and water—half and half—and ten ounces of almonds. Scald and peel the almonds, split them and spread evenly on two large dishes slightly buttered. Boil the other ingredients together about fifteen or twenty minutes. Shake them together at first, but do not stir. When a drop of the candy sets brittle in cold water, take it from the fire and pour it over the almonds.

Smart Suit of Mohair. Mohair is one of the popular materials, and was selected to develop the uses of ribbon. In the summer hotel one will see a great many flying-ribbons this season, for the ribbons are again in style. There will be sashes tied in front and ribbons tied on the side. There will be pompadour girdles, ribbon choux and so many ribbon decorations of all kinds that you will be unable to count them all.

Delights the Eye. Though many critics complain that the woman of modern times is almost too intellectual, there doesn't seem to be any immediate danger that the supply of "delightfully feminine" maidens will diminish. Certainly the shop windows seem to signify that mental adornments are not doing away with those of another variety, for lavish are the displays that they afford. The new hosiery, for instance, is lovely enough to make the newest of the "new" women falter. It is embroidered with flowers of almost every hue. Poppies, pansies, lilacs and lilies, all worked so beautifully as to suggest that they are real and have blossomed for the express purpose of adorning those filmy weaves. They are of a cobwebby thinness.

Peel the potatoes and cut them in balls with a vegetable cutter, or dice them in cubes.—Put them into boiling salted water and boil for twelve minutes. Drain and place them in a saucepan with two tablespoonfuls of butter to one pint of potatoes. Put on one side of the stove for fifteen minutes, shaking the pan occasionally so that the butter may be evenly absorbed. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and add a tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Serve in a hot dish.

Making "Old" Lace. To get just that soft "old" look to lace, dye it in tea, using about a tablespoonful of green tea to a quart of water to make an infusion of the right strength. The lace will come out a discouraging shade at first, but with a few moments in water in which a pinch of baking soda has been dropped, and the color will fade to just the right shade. Don't use coffee. It's sure to take on too yellow a tone.

Fine View from Gibraltar

It is not a very hard climb to the signal station on the summit of Gibraltar," writes a traveler. "The height is no more than 1,350 feet. I visited the station with a friend on a fine November day. The path zigzags up the precipitous western face of the mighty rock; now and again we passed a sentry and had to show our passport. Once we had gained the summit we felt ourselves more than amply repaid. Whichever way one turns the views are truly superb. Westward, across the bay of Gibraltar, with its magnificent setting of hill and mountain, lay the extreme south of beautiful Andalusia. North and east stretched Malaga and Granada, with the splendid heights of the Sierra Nevada in the far distance. Eastward rolled the blue Mediterranean; the white canvas of a sailing-bark showed right beneath us, and steamships piled, like gigantic water-battles, pushing steadily on their course. Southward, close at hand, the nearest point no more than about fifteen miles distant, the wild land of Morocco met our gaze; rugged chains of mountains corrugating its surface, while far away, in diamond distance, rose a blue range, which was pointed out to us as the mighty Atlas itself. It was a fine, clear day, and the panorama, whichever way we looked, was unpeakably grand. It seemed that one could never tire of feasting one's eyes on so sublime and so historic a prospect.

JOAN OF THE SWORD HAND

By S. R. CROCKETT, Author of 'The Raiders' Co.

(Copyright, 1898, 1900, by S. R. Crockett.)

CHAPTER X. At the High Altar. When Maurice von Lynar reached the open air he stood for full five minutes, light-headed in the rush of the city traffic.

He cast his mind back over the interview, but failed to disentangle anything definite. It was a maze of impressions out of which grew the certainty that safely to play his difficult part he must obtain the whole confidence of the Duchess Joan.

"The young Dane found the duchess walking up and down on the noble promenade which faced the river to the west.

"Ah, Von Lynar, my brave Dane, what good wind brings you here?" she cried. "I declare I was longing for some one to talk to."

"I have seen the Princess Margaret," said the youth slowly, "and I think that she must mistake me for some other person. She spoke things most strange to me."

"The eyes of the duchess danced. A load seemed suddenly lifted off her mind.

"Very," returned Von Lynar, smiling in recognition of her smile.

"What said the princess?" "First she would have it that my name and style was that of the Count von Loen. Then she reproached me fiercely because I denied it."

"Joan of the Sword Hand laughed a merry peal.

"The Count von Loen, did she say?" she meditated. "Well, so you are the Count von Loen. I create you the Count von Loen. I give you the title. I give you also therewith the estates which pertain to the title. They are situated on the borders of Reichenan."

"I am sorry for all the folk I have injured."

"Love changes all things," said the Dane, sententiously.

"You are in love—with the Princess Margaret?" she asked.

"The youth blushed a deep crimson with flooded his neck and dyed his dusky skin.

"Poor Maurice!" she said, touching his bowed head with her hand, "your troubles will not be to seek."

"My lady," said the youth, "I fear not trouble. I have promised to serve the princess in all things. She has been kind to me."

"So—you are to change your allegiance," said the duchess. "But how did you manage to appease her? That is no mean feat. She is an imperious lady and quick of understanding."

"Then Maurice von Lynar told his mistress of his most allowable falsehoods, and begged her not to undecieve the princess, for that he would rather bear all that she might put upon him than that she should know he had lied to her."

"Do not be afraid," said the duchess, "it was I who tangled the skein. So far you have unraveled it very well. The least I can do is to leave you to unwind it to the end, my brave Count von Loen."

The morning of the great day dawned cool and grey. The streets were completely lined with the folk of the city of Courtland as the Princess Margaret, with the Sparhawk and his company of lances clattering behind her, rode to the entrance of the great palace where abode the bride-elect.

"Who is that youth?" asked Margaret of Courtland of Joan, as they came out together; she looked at the Dane—"he at the head of your first troops? He looks like your brother."

"He has often been taken for such!" said the bride. "He is called the Count von Loen."

The bells of the minister clanged out a changeful thunder of brazen acclaim as the bride set out for the altar.

"I create you the Count von Loen," first time (so they told each other on the streets) to see her promised husband.

Very like a princess and a great lady looked Joan, with Margaret of Courtland by her side. She kept her look at no one and beheld nothing till she should see—that which she longed to look upon.

Suddenly she was conscious that they had stopped in the middle of a vast silence. The smiles upon the great altar threw down a golden lustre. Joan saw the irregular shadings of them on her white bride dress.

CHAPTER XI. What Joan Left Behind.

After the departure of his bride, the Prince of Courtland stood on the steps of the minister, dazed and foundered by the shame which had so suddenly befallen him. "Bid the gates be shut, prince!" The whisper came over his shoulder from a young man who had been standing all the time twisting his mustache. "Bid your horsemen bit and bridle. The plain is fair before you. It is a long way to Kernsburg. Let no wench in the world put this shame upon his wedding day!"

Thus Ivan of Muscovy, attired in silk, banded of black and gold, counseled the disdained Prince Louis, who stood pushing upward with his two fingers the point of his thin greyish beard and gnawing its straggling ends between his teeth.

The Prince Louis appeared to be moved by Prince Wasp's words. He turned about to the nearest knight-in-waiting.

"Let us to horse—every man of us!" he said. "Bid that the steeds be brought instantly."

The banded Wasp had further counsels to give. "Give out that you go to meet the princess at a rendezvous. For a pleasantry between yourselves, you have resolved to spend the honeymoon at a distant hunting-ledge. Quick! Not half a dozen of all the company caught the true import of her words. You will tame her yet."

At the command of the prince the trumpets rang out again the "Boots-and-saddles!" from the steps of the cathedral. At the sound, the grooms, who were here and there in the press, heated to find and caparison the horses of their lords. Meanwhile, on the wide steps the Prince Louis fretted, dinting his nails restlessly into his palms and shaking with anger and disappointment till his deep sleeves shook like scarlet flames in a veering wind.

ATHLETES THE BEST GUNNERS. Have Made Records on the United States Warships.

Many army and navy officers hold that rational athletics form a very valuable training for future soldiers and sailors. On the United States warship Wisconsin, flagship of the Asiatic squadron, is published a monthly publication called the Badger, which says: "In looking at the work done with our battery we find that Friel, one of our best baseball players, is the captain of the six-inch gun which made the best record on the range; McAndrews, our standby on the football team, was one of the pointers at the same gun. At another gun Smith, the captain of the team, fired a string which tied with McAndrews."

"Bringolf, Christensen and Lame, who defend the ball on the gridiron, fired three strings of record shots each from the thirteen-inch guns without a miss. With 'the six-pouters' took Ridge, our well-known pitcher, to fire the banner gun of the ship; while Lucid, whose value in the diamond we all know, takes the second place."

"A man who demonstrates his ability in the field of sport and shows his enthusiasm and interest in athletics will invariably be found not wanting in the other duties he is called upon to perform. Training and development in one line means an increased efficiency in the other."

Secret Well Kept. Cashier Jackson of the American Cotton Oil Company's New York office, formerly held the position of traveling auditor, with several of the southern states under his supervision. He is an expert on hotels in that territory which he covered, and declares that there are some which are "the limit."

"I stopped one day at a little Louisiana town," he said in telling of his experiences, "and went to its solitary hotel for supper. The waiter brought me a plate of some kind of meat. I tried to figure out what it was by looking at it and failed. Then I tasted it. Still I was in the dark. Finally I called my servitor."

"Walter," I said, "what kind of meat is that you brought me?" "Please, Suh, Boss, I's got strick orders not to tell," he replied, and moved away grinning.—New York Times.

Deepest Haul of a Net. The deepest haul of a net ever made in the world was achieved by Americans on the Tonga Islands in the South Pacific.

"The trawl struck bottom 23,000 feet below the surface; that is considerably more than four miles down, but even at that depth animal life was found. Those strange beings lived in water whose temperature was constantly just above the freezing point, and under a pressure of 9,000 pounds to the square inch. To sink that net and bring it back again took a whole day of steady labor.—St. Nicholas.

Review and Do Better. Mistakes make trouble and cost money. No human being is absolutely accurate. Some people are more accurate than others. Some mistakes are more troublesome than others. Careless people must not try to do some kinds of work. Greater individual accuracy can be grown the same as you grow wheat.—Earl M. Pratt.

REDEEMS ALL BAD MONEY. New York Church Member Keeps Collections at Par.

"We have a member of this congregation," said an usher in a Lexington avenue church, according to the New York Press, "who contributes to its support in an unusual way. He pays his pew rent all right, but he has a rooted objection to dropping a coin in the collection plate. No matter whether the contribution is for church expenses or for foreign missions, this man ducks the plate when it passes his pew. He says he abhors giving alms before men." But he redeems all the bad money that others drop into the plate as a way of getting even with his conscience.

"When the collection is counted all the bad coin is picked out and given to the treasurer of the church. Some Sundays there is a good deal of it. It seems as though men and women who have Canadian dimes and quarters, mutilated coins of all denominations and money that was never made in the mint feel justified in dropping it into the collection box. When the treasurer gets a handful of this money he calls the old man into the vestry after the Wednesday evening prayer meeting and gets good money for it. The old man puts the bad coin in his pocket and takes it home."

Thought She Couldn't Live. Moravia, N. Y., June 5.—Mr. Benjamin Wilson, a highly respected resident of this place, came very near losing his wife and now that she is cured and restored to good health his gratitude knows no bounds. He says: "My wife has suffered everything with Sugar Diabetes. She has been sick four years. She doctored with two good doctors but kept growing worse. The doctors said she could not live. She fell from 200 pounds down to 130 pounds. This was her weight when she began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and now she weighs 190, is well and feeling stronger every day."

"She used to have rheumatism so bad that it would raise great bumps all over her body and this is all gone too. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a God-send to those who suffer as my wife did. They are all that saved her. We can't praise them enough."

How Birds Build Nests. Swallows and house martins build by sticking together pellets of prepared mud. Most of the material is obtained from the drying puddles on the high roads. If not mixed with anything else the tendency of these pellets would be to crumble when dry. But the swallow tribe is supplied with a mucous secretion which enables it to gum these particles together. The swallow's nest is made of mud, and an Indian swallow which builds little boat-shaped nests against the trunks of lofty trees practically makes them of dried saliva.

Tea Cigarettes Supplant Morphine. London fashion devotees are said to be giving up morphine tablets in favor of cigarettes made from carefully blended green and black teas, the nervous effects of smoking which are even more powerful than that produced by tobacco. Dizziness, partial stupor and extravagant visions are given as the leading symptoms, victims having frequently to be sent to private sanatoria.—London Good Health.

Prefer Black Teeth. The trade of tooth-stainer, followed in eastern Asia, is as odd a calling as any. The natives prefer black teeth to the whiter kind, and the tooth-stainer, with a little box of brushes and coloring matter calls on his customers and stains their teeth. The process is not unlike that of blacking a boot, for a fine polish is given to the teeth.—The pigment is harmless.

Are School Children Overworked? A distinguished German expert in school hygiene, Dr. Schmidt-Monnard, of Halle, has found the number of sick among the children attending morning and afternoon sessions by one-half greater than among children who attend sessions in the forenoon only.

Astronomer's Strange Diet. The eminent French astronomer, Lalande, either really possessed, or else affected, an excessive fondness for spiders and caterpillars as articles of diet, and would eat them with apparent relish. He always carried a supply of these insects about with him in a bonbonniere.—Critic.

FEED YOU MONEY. Feed Your Brain, and It Will Feed You Money and Fame.

"Ever since boyhood I have been especially fond of meats, and I am convinced I ate too rapidly, and failed to masticate my food properly."

"The result was that I found myself, a few years ago, afflicted with ailments of the stomach and kidneys, which interfered seriously with my business."

"At last I took the advice of friends and began to eat Grape-Nuts instead of the heavy meats, etc., that had constituted my former diet."

"I found that I was at once benefited by the change, that I was soon relieved from the heart-burn and the indigestion that used to follow my meals, that the pains in my back from my kidney affection had ceased, showing that those organs had been healed, and that my nerves, which used to be unsteady, and my brain, which was slow and lethargic from a heavy diet of meats and greasy foods, had, not in a moment, but gradually, and none the less surely, been restored to normal efficiency. Now every nerve is steady and my brain and thinking faculties are quicker and more acute than for years past."

"After my old style breakfasts I used to suffer during the forenoon from a feeling of weakness which hindered me seriously in my work, but since I have begun to use Grape-Nuts food I can work till dinner time with all ease and comfort." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Just Discrimination in Railway Rates. All railroad men qualified to speak on the subject in a responsible way are likely to agree with President Samuel Spencer of the Southern Railway when he says: "There is no vision of opinion as to the desirability of stopping all secret or unjust discriminatory devices and practices of whatsoever character."

"Mr. Spencer, in speaking of 'unjust discriminatory' rates and devices, makes a distinction which is at once apparent to common sense. There may be discrimination in freight rates which is just, reasonable and imperatively required by the complex commercial and geographical conditions with which expert rate makers have to deal. To abolish such open and honest discrimination might paralyze the industries of cities, states and whole sections of our national territory."

This distinction between just and unjust discrimination is clearly recognized in the conclusions of the International Railway Congress, published yesterday:

"Tariffs should be based on commercial principles, taking into account the special conditions which bear upon the commercial value of the services rendered. With the reservation that rates shall be charged without arbitrary discrimination to all shippers alike under like conditions, the making of rates should be as far as possible have all the elasticity necessary to permit the development of the traffic to produce the greatest results to the public and to the railroads themselves."

The present proposal is, as Mr. Walker D. Hines of Louisville showed in his remarkable testimony the other day before the Senate Committee at Washington, to crystallize flexible and just discriminatory rates into fixed government rates which cannot be changed except by the intervention of some government tribunal, and by this very process to increase "the temptation to depart from the published rate and the lawful rate in order to meet some overpricing and urgent commercial condition."—New York Sun.

A Great Cure. Ordinary black ink has been discovered to be a sovereign remedy for scalds. It bids fair to become a cure-all, as it has long been known both as a powerful irritant, a first-class sedative for the removal of freckles from reputations, while as a soothing tonic it stands unrivaled.

Bad Odor. A bad odor from a person's breath may be caused by many different forms of dyspepsia. It may be due to stomach catarrh, biliousness, constipation or a case of ordinary indigestion. Whatever may be the cause, there is just one reliable cure—that is Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin. It clears all the impurities out of your body and makes your breath as sweet as the June morning. Safe, pleasant and effective. Sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.

Hell hath no fury like a tailor whose constructed a been forgotten. Deeper science is the cure for scientific doubt.

To Launder Delicate Muslins. Many muslin dresses may be successfully laundered at home, which if put in the ordinary wash would be hopelessly ruined. Wash quickly through warm Ivory Soap suds; rinse dip in rice water, and dry in-doors, as the air will frequently fade delicate colors. Iron with a moderately hot iron.—Eleanor R. Parker.

INTERESTING LETTERS WRITTEN BY A NOTABLE WOMAN

Mrs. Sarah Kellogg of Denver, Co., Sec'y of the Woman's Relief Corps. Sends Thanks to Mrs. Pinkham.

The following letter was written by Mrs. Kellogg of 1628 Lincoln Ave., Denver, Colo., to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

"For five years I was troubled with a tumor, which had grown, causing me great mental depression. I was unable to tend to my house work, and life became a burden to me. I was confined for days to my bed, lost my appetite, my courage and all hope."

"I could not bear to think of an operation, and in my distress I tried every remedy which I thought would be of any use. I read of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to sick women, and decided to give it a trial. I felt so discouraged that I had little hope of recovery, still when I began to feel better, after the second week, thought it only meant temporary relief, but to my great surprise I found that I kept gaining."

"The Compound continued to build up my general health and the tumor seemed to be absorbed, until, in seven months the tumor was entirely gone and I a well woman. I am so thankful for my recovery that I ask you to publish my letter in newspapers, so other women may know of the wonderful curative powers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

"When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, headache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles."

"No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine."

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Health is too valuable to risk in experiments with unknown and untried medicines or methods of treatment. Remember that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing women, and don't allow any druggist to sell you anything else in its place.
