LATEST NEWS OF MICHIGAN

SEVENTY YEARS OLD AND IS ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF FRIEND.

MR. FORDNEY'S NEW BILL

Matters of Note and Comment Gathered Here and There About the State Briefly Told.

To Fight Reciprocity. Congressman Fordney announces his purpose to attack Cuban reciprocity. He will introduce a bill now in preparation to terminate the reciprocity treaty. This move is made possible by the fact that the five year term for which the Cuban treaty was irrevocably made will expire December 27, 1908.

Youthful Runaways. The sheriff's officers are searching for Miss Ross Marin, aged 18, and Norman Spoor, aged 17, who disappeared last week. The girl was from Stenon last week. The boy was from Stenon last week.

Old Caucus Goes. Deputy Attorney General Chase gave the opinion Friday that as there was no provision in the state primary act for carrying the election of delegates to the national convention to county conventions would have to be by the old caucus system.

A Road's Bad Rails. At a hearing before the tax commission General Superintendent Grant, of the Kalamazoo, Lake Shore & Chicago railroad, admitted that some of the steel rails were 30 years old. The average tenure of life for rails is 15 to 20 years.

"Hideins" Caught. Joseph Murphy and George O'Connor, the Jackson prison convicts who disappeared Monday, were found Thursday hiding in the fork factory of the prison. Both were almost famished from lack of food, having eaten only a little bread which fellow convicts smuggled to them.

A bonus of $1,200 has been raised for Hamilton Bros., who lost their canning factory in Coral by fire last fall and they are getting material on the ground preparatory to building a new factory at a cost of about $15,000.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Burglars blew the safe in the D. U. R. office in Newport, stealing $23. Miss Inez Morse, aged 14, of Harvard, took chloroform and may not recover.

More than 2,000 persons in St. Clair county have signed the petition to the constitutional convention asking for state prohibition.

The 2-year-old son of Henry Nault, of Negaunee, choked to death from cold.

A heavy snowfall is reported from nearly all points in the state. In the upper peninsula delayed lumber operations can now proceed.

MR. TAFT REPORTS ON PHILIPPINES

PRESENT AND FUTURE OF THE ISLANDS PICTURED AS MOST BRIGHT.

Sharp Reply to Critics—Total Annual Expenditure Only $5,000,000—Recommendations to Congress Concerning Business of Archipelago.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Nine years after the battle of Manila-bay, Secretary Taft reports the results of the American occupation of the archipelago and forecasts the future of the Philippines in an exhaustive report transmitted to congress by the president with a letter, written by the chief executive, commending in the highest terms the secretary's conclusions.

The president declares that rule would have followed the adoption of any other policy towards the Philippines than that outlined by William McKinley and carried forward through these nine years, and asserts triumphantly that there is no brighter page in history than that dealing with the relations between the strong and the weak in those islands.

Recommendations to Congress. The secretary is willing to limit the amount of sugar and tobacco that can be exported to the United States. He predicts a development of business within 25 years that will make the Filipinos themselves stand high in the world's industrial populations.

Mrs. Eddy Leaves Concord. Concord, N. H., Jan. 27.—Mrs. Mary G. Baker Eddy, founder and head of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, left her home, Pleasant View, in this city Sunday and by a circumferential route in a special train went to Chestnut Hill, Brookline, Mass., to a house recently purchased by the Christian Science denomination, where she will reside permanently.

From the State Capital

Information and Gossip Furnished by Special Correspondent at Lansing.

Lansing—Resignation of Frank P. Glazier from the state treasurership, appointment of ex-Gov. John T. Rich as his successor, denial of Gov. Warner's charges by Glazier, counter-allegations against the executive and the latter's quick denial, were the developments in litigation regarding the state office, which have terminated Mr. Glazier's career as a public official. With his resignation Mr. Glazier sent a letter denying all the charges of misfeasance and misfeasance in office and neglect of duty, made against him by the governor. He also made counter-allegations against Mr. Warner, who he charges, in effect, was aware of conditions in the treasurers' department, and also solicited undue deposits of state funds for the Detroit United bank, of which he was vice-president. The charges against Mr. Glazier grew out of the failure of the Chelsea Savings bank with $685,000 of state funds on deposit, largely as a result of the heavy loans made to Mr. Glazier and his connection. If the charge that it was gross neglect of duty to deposit $685,000 in the Chelsea bank is true, Mr. Glazier demands of the governor if the reason he "neglected" to take action is because "you were a borrower at the Chelsea Savings bank and were carried by said bank for a long time." While he has freely admitted heretofore to making loans at the Chelsea bank for use in his business, the governor calls Mr. Glazier's allegations "marvelous untrue" and insists that they are inspired by his political enmities. Gov. Warner later announced that former Gov. John T. Rich had accepted an appointment as state treasurer to succeed Frank P. Glazier. In reply to Glazier's charge that the governor was familiar with the conditions in Glazier's savings bank at Chelsea, Gov. Warner says the bank reports received at the executive office do not show who are the borrowers from the bank, or what collateral is furnished, and that he did not know about certain heavy loans of the Chelsea savings bank to Glazier and the latter's relatives until informed by banking Commissioner Zimmerman, who has been in office only one year.

Earle Also a Candidate.
Horatio S. Earle, the "good roads" advocate, who is also a candidate for the Republican nomination as governor, talked a little about the boom of John E. Bird for the position. "What would be your course if Mr. Bird should decide to accede to the wishes of his friends and announce his willingness to accept a nomination?" Mr. Earle was asked. "Oh, I haven't any patent on the thing," he is quoted as replying. "Either Mr. Bird or I would make a good candidate, but I'm in the race and I'm going to stay. I'm going to be elected, too. You see there's one advantage I have over all the others. I stand for something. The people know I'm for good roads and a house-cleaning at Lansing. When I'm elected there will be a hundred milkers out of a job at the capital, and the voters know it."

Bird to Announce Candidacy.
Attorney General Bird says that he will make a definite announcement of his position in the gubernatorial situation within a very short time. While he refused to commit himself recently, saying that there were many things to be considered before making a declaration, he practically acknowledged himself a candidate by insisting that if he does become a candidate he will not be tied up to any faction nor allow dictation from any source. This is a direct repudiation of the efforts of the Hill-Atwood faction to tie up the Bird boom, and means that the attorney general recognizes the danger of being aligned with the distinct anti-administration crowd.

Many "Lits" to Graduate.
There will be 328 men and women given diplomas from the literary department of the University of Michigan in June, when the annual graduation takes place. The average age of the students is 24 years, though the extremes are 18 and 55. It is peculiar that the two youngest graduates in the class are women, graduating at the age of 18 and 19, and also the two oldest members are women, their ages being 47 and 55. The number of graduates this year is considered especially large.

Bay City Girl at Head.
The state convention of the Y. W. C. A. was formally closed in Bay City, there being no business before the delegates, and most of them left at once for their homes. The secretaries elected the following officers for the year: President, Miss Jessie Peaslee, Bay City; Miss Porter, Grand Rapids, and Miss Anna Rice, Detroit, vice-presidents; Miss Clark, Kalamazoo, secretary; Miss Christine Cook, Detroit, treasurer. The meeting was one of the most enjoyable held in several years.

Work of the Convention.
A plan for a public service commission to regulate transportation, telegraph and telephone lines, as well as concerns furnishing heat, light, water or power to the public, either directly or indirectly, was favorably reported to the convention by the committee on public service corporations. The proposal empowers the legislature to establish a commission of three members, with six-year terms and salaries of $7,000 each. The commission would regulate the services of all public utilities and fix the rates to be charged. Auditor General Bradley, as the watchdog of the state treasury, refused to audit vouchers for the payment of the employees of the constitutional convention after January 31. A proposal was passed authorizing counties to establish infirmaries for the treatment of contagious and infectious diseases.

The labor delegates occupied the forenoon in an effort to secure the adoption of a proposal prohibiting the contracting of convicts after 1913, and providing that after that date they work on state account in a way least to compete with free labor.

The proposal relative to the fixing of salaries of state officers was killed in committee of the whole on the ground that another proposal has already been agreed to, giving the legislature authority to do so. The committee on elective franchise reported favorably a proposal to strike out the word "male" from the constitution, and by so doing recommend woman's suffrage to the convention. The action of the committee, only five members of which were present and voting, was something of a surprise to the convention. Four members of the committee were absent. It has been expected that the suffrage proposal would be left to slumber in the hands of the committee, but a hearing was granted to Mrs. W. H. Pound, wife of a Chicago minister, who formerly lived in Lansing.

A proposal was agreed to limiting the amount of state funds deposited in any bank to 50 per cent. of the capital stock and surplus.

Municipal ownership and home rule have occupied the center of the stage at the convention.

Taft Talks Beet Sugar.
E. D. Starr, Philip H. McMillan and Charles B. Warren of Detroit and Senator William Alden Smith, while guests of Secretary Taft at luncheon had an informal discussion with him on public affairs. The Michigan visitor believes that there is no danger to Michigan beet sugar interests in any policies that the secretary will uphold. Conditions have greatly modified since Mr. Taft was governor of the Philippines, and the needs of the islands are not now expected to conflict with the interests of Michigan beet sugar men. Mr. Warren's discussion of this matter with the secretary was highly satisfactory. The Detroit party called during the afternoon on Senator Burrows and had a long visit. They called on President Roosevelt, and on Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou.

Mowry, New Secretary.
Dr. Henry F. Mowry of Bronson is the new secretary of the state board of corrections and charities. The board met on the quiet at Jackson and the first news that reached Lansing was of the election of Dr. Mowry to succeed the late Lucius C. Storrs. Dr. Mowry was president of the board and had a distinct advantage over other applicants for the place, whose qualifications it is understood, were not even considered. Gov. Warner, who is an ex-officio member of the board, was not present, and it is asserted that he was not notified of the meeting, which was called by Dr. Mowry. The salary of the secretary is $2,500 a year, and the position is one of the good ones in the state's service.

Says Bird is "Con-Con" Choice.
An enterprising correspondent of a Detroit newspaper, which is boosting John E. Bird for the governorship, the other day took a poll of the constitutional convention and he announces the following result: Bird, 64 votes; Warner, 107; Earle, 1; Nichols, 1; not made up their minds or absent, 12; Democrats, 8.

Profits Were $6,453.90.
The West Madison State Fair association held its annual meeting in Grand Rapids. The election resulted in the return of the old officers with the exception of Frank B. Lay of Kalamazoo. All of the old directors were returned with the exception of William Judson, who is succeeded by W. R. Sneyd of this city. L. J. Post of Lowell, whose successor is J. W. Mullett of Traverse City, and George W. Merriam of Hartford, whose place is taken by William McCroden. Profits of the fair last year were $6,453.90.

State Millers in Session.
The annual meeting of the Michigan State Millers' association was held at the Hotel Downey in this city. An excellent programme was carried through, and Secretary Harry Hooker estimated the attendance at 100 members. A short business session was called later. During the session C. J. De Boo led a discussion on the cost of manufacturing, and the methods employed by the flour dealers in escaping the obligations specified in their contracts. A. A. Smith gave a talk on advisability of handling spring wheat.

FINANCIER'S METHODS QUESTIONED

The trial of John E. Walsh, president of the suspended Chicago National bank, for violation of the banking laws, has been watched with interest. Sketch made while he was on the witness stand, testifying in his own behalf.

TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING. ARTIFICIAL HONEY IS COMING.

Street Urchin Drew the Line at Hash Twice in One Day.

Mr. George Marshall, a philanthropist who always kept a sharp lookout never to be wasteful, decided to go on a week's camping, taking as his guests some ragged street urchins. One morning he used the bits of meat left from the evening before and made hash for breakfast. There was some left over, which he concluded to re-heat and serve again at noon. "Johnnie, will you have some hash?" he asked one lad. "Bet your life," replied the lad, who was constitutionally hungry. "Peter, pass your plate for some hash"—to another freckled-nosed lad. "Not if I know it," was the unexpected reply. "I thought you liked hash, from the way you ate it this morning," replied Mr. Marshall. "I did like it for breakfast," replied the lad, "but none of my review of reviews for me for dinner."—Lippincott's Magazine.

German Laboratory Sends Out Formula for Its Production.

From one of those amazing German laboratories which produce everything from tanbark to turquoise has come a formula for the making of artificial honey. It is tossed into the lap of the world without price, take it or leave it. We might as well resign ourselves to the coming of the day when the honey which lubricates the breakfast biscuits shall come from a red factory in the suburbs, guiltless of loot from the busy little bee and utter stranger to every opening flower. The crusher of tartaric acid may in one shovelful duplicate the task at which a thousand bees toiled for 40 days. The flame under the evaporator may replace sun and dew and the wind at morn. There will be no test by anything so uncertain as the tongue. The housewife will have no dread lest faint chestnut, asparagus or onions come with her from the grocery. The food inspector will relieve her of this fear. He will see that the honey has a fine, golden color, that it has a specific gravity of 1.37 and that the picture of the bee on the label is not an admission that some dis-

Criticism Is Surprising.
The recent criticism of Dr. John Brown on the books of George Elliot

TYPE OF BUILDING IN FRISCO'S NEW CHINATOWN

Architects have ingeniously combined Oriental styles with such sanitary features as are imperative under the new building laws.

will not voice the opinion of most of her readers. Dr. Brown says she is full of nasty, unwomanly knowledge, which she is always hinting at. She is unwholesome. And again he speaks of the "offensiveness" of "The Mill on the Floss." Many good women who have read the books again and again have failed to discover any of the faults referred to, but no doubt an evil mind could easily construe evil where it was never intended.

Refuge in the Abstruse.
"Ethelinda seems to prefer the most classical pieces she can find," said the fond mother. "Of course she does," answered Senator Sorghum. "Some people play the piano just as some people make speeches—the more difficult and unfamiliar the subject, the less liable they are to be corrected when they make mistakes."

Dallying with Leap Year.
"Do you think Bliggins would make a good husband?" asked the conscientious youth. "Why do you ask?" inquired the girl, in surprise. "Because if you think such a fool as Bliggins could manage it, I have a good mind to take a chance myself."

Hard to Explain.
"Really," said the first speculator, "it's a wonder that stock hasn't taken a tumble. It's steadily rising, although I believe it's full of water."

Only Natural.
George—You know, ma, I've found out why it is people laugh in their sleeves. It's cause that's where their funny bone is.

A Gentle Hint.
When a boy Gov. Hughes knew something of dire poverty. His father was earning a salary of $2,000 a year in a Baptist church in Greenport, which was frequently unpaid. The family's larder was often empty and the salary long overdue. The father hesitated to ask for it, but when he did one night in prayer meeting it was in these words: "I cannot invite any of you to my house to dine, for I must tell you frankly that our household stock is so reduced that I should feel ashamed to have one of your own servants sit at my table."

The Intelligent Witness.
"What time was it when you saw the accident?" asked the Billville justice. "Well, sir," replied the witness, "if I don't disremember, it wuz wif ter time."

The Flatterer.
The tramp had applied to the farmer's wife for assistance. "You have a beautiful voice, lady," he said. She looked interested. "Have I?"

Unused to its internal tricks.
I failed to "stand from under." And shortly like the very deuce, I entered for my blunder.

Diablo!
I saw sweet Kate, who's learnt the game. Her "devil" deftly throwing. Into the air above my head. I watched the demon going.

Diré Threat.
"Accept me," cried the lovelorn youth, "and I shall smother you with kisses." "And if I refuse?" exclaimed the maid. "Beware! If you refuse I shall go to the ends of the earth." "And then?" "Why, I will smother you with your venér postal cards."—Chicago Daily News.

Ignorance of South America.

One of our contemporaries referred yesterday to "little Paraguay." That republic is four-fifths as large as Germany.

Many persons have erroneous notions as to geographical sizes and lengths of South America. They have not the slightest idea that Brazil is nearly as large as the whole of Europe, that the distance between the north and south ends of Chile is as great as that between the North Cape of Europe and Gibraltar, and that steamers ply almost straight north and south on the Paraná and its Paraguay affluent for a distance about equal to that between New York and Omaha.

Model of Economy.

A certain farmer, who is noted for his closeness in money matters, has a 12-year-old son, who is as industrious as his father is penurious.

Recently the father and son made a compact whereby the latter would receive ten cents for every cord of wood he sawed and piled in the woodshed. Immediately the boy became very busy at the woodpile and his earnings have been piling up at a rapid rate. His mother, keeping her son's hard-earned savings for him, "What are you going to do with all your money?" the thrifty youth was recently asked. "Goin' to buy a new saw with it," was the reply.

Told the Truth.
"Send me some money to get me out of this trouble," wrote the Prodigal Son. "and I'll promise to begin all over again." "Yes," muttered the old man, brumpling up the letter in his horny fist. "That's just what I'm afraid you'd do. Didn't expect you to confess it, though."
