

WITH OUR ARMY IN FRANCE

Close View of Life With Sammie In Camp and Their Front Line Trenches.

The following letter was received by Miss Jane Palmer from her cousin, Major Dana Wright, of Jamestown, North Dakota, who is with the American forces in France.

Northern France, Feb. 12, 1918. Dear Jane: The winter has nearly passed and we have been so busy that we hardly know that there has been a winter. Part of the cold weather was passed in a camp of tents on a bleak plain near the seaport where we embarked, that was the most disagreeable part of the whole winter. It was impossible to keep warm, the wind swept over the tents and filled our eyes with dust and pellets of snow. And as for washing or keeping clean, it was out of the question.

About a week before we embarked we were moved to another camp where there were heated wooden barracks for everybody, hot shower baths and facilities for washing clothes. It was luxury and we made the most of it. We began to hope we would spend the winter there, but soon we were on the largest boat afloat and out to sea.

We had a safe trip across, not a sign of a submarine. Every precaution was taken to make the trip safe and we were landed without any unusual experiences from what anyone would expect in these times. The port where we debarked is one of the large ports of Great Britain, so we loaded directly onto the trains from the ship and were sent to camp in the south of England. Here we spent a week and had many pleasant visits to the old town near by where there were many beautiful places to visit.

I had two days off and went to London and saw all that I could in that length of time—the House of Parliament, Buckingham Palace, the Tower, London Bridge, Newgate, Piccadilly, Leicester Square, the Monument, the Embankment, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's, the museums and many other places.

Shortly after that trip we were sent over the channel to a French port and then by rail to the south of France. I did not have time to get my baggage together before I was ordered to school for officers in Northern France. Spent two days on the road, including part of one day in Paris. It is a strange thing, but every officer when traveling manages to make his itinerary through Paris. I did not see much of the city, so as I have to make a trip to-morrow I am going there again and try to see some of the famous places.

We were here at the school four weeks. It was a solid, steady grind and I will say that they have made a great improvement in most of the students. After we "graduated" from the school we were sent up to the French lines between Reims and Verdun and scattered out among different regiments for a week. It was the best school I have ever had the pleasure of attending and the lessons were impressed in a very forcible manner by the Bosche.

It is a "quiet" sector, where they fire only a few hundred shells a day. That is a fact. They are constantly nagging one another with shells and machine gun fire and the other little tools for making clay from human bodies. The trenches are muddy, of course, and the men are deprived of many of the things people consider necessary in private life, but they were cheerful and confident of winning. They were much pleased to have a live "Yank" visit them and assisted in every possible way in making the trip a pleasant one. They took me up into the front line observation posts both day and night and even into the advanced observation posts both day and night. I am too large for the trenches and the Bosche sent his gas shells with his machine gun on one or two occasions when I was where they saw me. They sent several shells into one of the kitchens just back of the dugout where I was but there was no one hurt during the week I was with them. There is an enormous amount of ammunition used to kill a single soldier. We saw several aircraft fights over the line and every day the different fleets flew over the "others" lines for observation and of course were shelled by the anti-aircraft guns. It is very spectacular but not very dangerous.

At night there is a continuous flare of rockets and floating stars from the German trenches lighting up No Man's Land. They are nervous and fretful and seem to be afraid that the French will pounce on them. The lights flicker and flare and the machine guns rattle and once in a while a shell bursts; this goes on all night. And all night men crawl and slip through the dark places among the shell holes patrolling, mending wire and locating the other fellows' lines.

It is hard, dirty, dangerous work with no music or romance in it, but every night brings the end of the war that much closer. Every little corner in the rear of the line has its little cemetery with a few wooden crosses, all just alike—a name, a tin tricolor and the words "Dead for France." They are the saddest things I have seen. The people seem cheerful enough and the soldiers are in good spirits. We came back yesterday from the front and are now going to our different battalions. Mine is located some distance from here and I will be glad to be with them again. Many of them are men I have had for years and I like to be near them. Some of our men were transferred to the regulars and have been in the trenches. One was killed last week and others have been wounded. The mail service is wretched; the last letter I had from the States was dated Dec. 31st. It is the same with everyone else. It takes about three months to make a round trip. I would be very glad to hear from the Michigan people and if you will write I shall be very glad. DANA.

ure and will be in effect during the war. "This is a people's tax—it reaches right down into the pockets of the small wage earner; it makes him a partner in the job of winning the war."

THE FLY By Theodosia Garrison of The Vigilantes. The bearer of fool-stories, I would liken to the Household Fly, who is, considered at its best, a Germ-Conveyer and a Pest. "The Red Cross sells the things we knit" "Our camps are evil—men unfit!" These are the germs they bear about to spread distrust and gloom and doubt. With Sense and Science let us try Elimination of The Fly.

STEP TO VEIL TARTAN WOMEN Mohammedan Order Enlarges Handkerchiefs to Hide Face of Wives and Daughters.

Petrograd.—The Mohammedan Tartar men of Tchistopol district, province of Kavan, have ordered their wives and daughters each to sew half a square of extra material to the handkerchiefs with which they cover their heads. The women long ago ceased to veil; but when meeting unknown men they took a tab of the bow formed by tying handkerchiefs beneath the chin, and held the tab beneath the face in place of a veil. Unluckily, as the handkerchiefs with the passing of time grew smaller, the tabs ceased to cover the face, and the act became only a symbol. To make it again a reality husbands and fathers are insisting on bigger handkerchiefs.

Ha! ha! The old rosin is back again. There were two umbrella menders in town one day last week, and yet it did not rain. We have heard more people say that we are a great mistake when we went back on the county road system, and that we ought to adopt it again.

The merchants have agreed to adopt Eastern Standard time and will close their places of business at 7 o'clock Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Farmers say that wheat and grass have suffered on account of the dry weather. The wind and bright sunshine have taken the moisture.

Further evidences of the approach of spring was shown by two young lads who had caught a snapping turtle, Monday and were about to sell it. It looked as though it came through a hard winter and a farmer's swan bath would be welcomed by it.

Wm. Lindhart has moved his barber shop from the basement of the Union Savings bank, back to his old location in the Torrey building, which was recently rebuilt. The new shop features Mike Caines and Mr. Gibbs will be the job also.

In the floating of the third issue of Liberty Loan bonds, so far as the system is being adopted without permission of the Federal Food Administrator of the state. In fact, the most of the farmers exchanging wheat for flour. Surely the millers have their troubles.

A groceryman told The Enterprise that there was nothing so scarce as potatoes are concerned. If the farmers have any quantity on hand they are not offering them for sale. It appears to be no demand for them, certainly no local demand. It is evident that the farmers are not planting potatoes in any quantity, but they must be sold in a large way to get an export.

Mark your ballot as follows and insure more efficiency in the handling of Washtenaw County's funds. The old saying is that there is strength in numbers and under the new system a representative citizen of each township and ward in this County will have something to say as to how the amounts that you pay for taxes shall be expended.

Emblems of Beauty at the Eastertime

The world is softly singing Of resurrection song, Of life from death uprising, Of hope, serene and strong; And louder grows the chorus, As longer grows the days, That open before us Their golden gates of praise.

For lot A hal And eic To E A Man h And L And L And L

My Easter lilies, pure and fair and sweet, I know that hidden in your hearts of gold Still lies the secret you each year repeat— An old-told story that can never grow old— Of buds that sleep, Of bells that ring, As o'er the earth now steals the spring.

Oh, rare as the splendor of lilies, And sweet as the violet's breath, Comes the jubilation of Easter, A triumph of life over death; For fresh from the earth's quickened bosom Full blossoms of flowers we bring, And scatter their petals soft petals To carpet a path for our King.

Thank God for all the Easter light— For every morning's glow; Thank God the Easter days are "right, That surpasseth all the other days; His lilies in their robes of white Over the wintry snow; And all this world of God's is bright, And God would have it so!

find for me my love? But no answer came until once more in his own country he found and knew the lily. Flitting on his knees beside it he said, "Is it indeed thou, Tamara, and like the light of the soft south wind he heard the flower whisper, 'It is I, my beloved.'"

Among the Christian legends of the world we find the origin of the tiger or turnip. All lilies were in the beginning white, and all held their heads proudly erect but on the night of Easter time is fully as ancient as custom and is more familiar. It is the flower of the resurrection, and before the war, the tables flared with wands for the Easter... The present Board of County Commissioners choosing the same became possible to Washington County only in 1917...

EXTRAVAGANCE

WHY NOT BANK THE MONEY YOU WASTE?

Extravagance is sinful—it is waste. If you put that same money in the bank, some day you will be able to indulge yourself in those luxuries without missing the money.

A bank account grows—you will be interested in seeing it grow. You don't need those extravagances. You will need that money some day.

Have it safe in our bank.
