OUR CHILDREN AND BROTHERS

Somewhere in France:
Where the birthright of peoples is shrouded in gloom,
Where hope and all justice seems placed in the tomb,
Our children and brothers are tramping the sod,
As true to the colors as sunshine to God.

Somewhere in France:
Where the sword is out-meeting the flash of its kind,
Where crimson ooze stands by footprints confined,
Our children and brothers, to guard us, unfurled
The stars of our banner in this night of the world.

Somewhere in France:
Where the war guns of nations so sullenly roll,
Where the faith of our fathers is gilding the soul,
Our children and brothers are determined to be
The vanguard of right or the last of the free.

—Will Coghlan.

Wake up, people, and loosen your purse strings. If we do not support the war and give our army the victory, the government will have to tax us for it. There were people who thought that if the 100,000,000 people of the United States gave $1 each to the $100,000,000 Red Cross war fund it would be raised easily enough. But they did not stop to think of the millions of slackers, aliens and others in this country who would not give a cent. They did not think about the millions of poor people who could not give a dollar because they have none to give.

We have often heard men who were too old to be drafted say: "I would be willing to take some position where I could be of service if the government would take me." Secretary Baker has sent to congress the draft of a bill that will, if carried, make such a condition possible. He proposes to raise the maximum age limit for voluntary enlistment in the army from 40 to 55 years. All men over 40 so enlisted would be assigned to non-combatant service.

The Story That Private Leach Told

"I say, there," called Private Leach, sitting up weakly, "where you goin' with me blinkin' at?"

The dog cast a look back across his shoulder, wagged his tail pleasantly and continued to trot away, carrying Private Leach's cap in his jaws.

"E's got a bloomin' cheek, not 'alf!" observed Private Leach and lay down again. What difference did it make? He had clicked a bullet in his right thigh, and, what with the loss of blood and pain and hunger and all, a chap might as well "go west" without a cap as with one. Now that he'd managed to get a dressing on the wound and a bandage to hold the dressing in place, the bleeding was less, but the end of the smashed bone was grinding in the torn flesh. It wasn't a bit cushy, out there in No Man's Land, six hours in a shell hole with a busted leg.

The dog had popped up from nowhere at all, with his alert eyes and sensitive, searching nose. Girt tightly about his body was the broad white band bearing the flaming sign of the Red Cross. He stood quite still while Private Leach painfully unfastened the first aid package from his back and, still more painfully, applied the disinfectant, gauze pads and clean cotton tincture. Looking up, he whined a friendly, sympathetic whine, and the soldier patted him gratefully.

"Good old chap," said Private Leach. "You've been knocked about a bit yourself, eh?" He touched the dog's ear where a recent hurt had left a scarcely healed scar.

And then the rascal had seized Private Leach's cap and made off with it toward the lines, paying no serious attention to the wounded man's remonstrances.

"Rum little bloke!" remarked Private Leach and frowned.

Private Leach sat on a sunny bench in the small courtyard of the convalescent hospital and explained matters to a compatriot, likewise recovering from the effects of boche courtesy.

"And the bloomin' surgeon," he says then dawgs is trained like that. The one that found me, 'e don't mind bullets no more than buns, 'e don't, a-wizzin' past 'is 'ead. And when 'e finds a wounded chap 'e tykes 'is cap or anything that's loose 'e can get 'is teeth in, and away 'e goes to report to 'is K. O., like a good soldier. So then the stretcher bearers, they goes out and brings in the chap, same as they did me, d'ye see? Red Cross trains dawgs with 'undreds. Great, eh, wot?"

"Right," agreed Private Leach's companion. "Spect you'd like to meet that fellow again. Dawgs'll look a bit different to me when I gets back to Blighty. Bil-me, I awiways 'ated dawgs, but not now I don't."

"Look!" said Private Leach. "Ere comes one of the little beggars."

A wiry, short haired dog with a deal of bull in his make-up came limping along on three legs, the fourth held stiffly in front of him by an ingenious arrangement of sling and bandage.

"Clicked a bit o' Fritz's lead 'is bloomin' little self, 'e did, eh, wot?"

"Ere, Bill. Nice old blokey."

The dog went and laid his head, friendly fashion, on Private Leach's knee and looked up into the soldier's face, whining sympathetically.

"E knows 'ow it feels," observed Private Leach. Then, "I say, there, old timer, look at that ear!"

"Scar," said his companion. "Been fightin', like as not?"

"Bil-me!" cried Leach. "E's the same chap. 'Ere, now, where you goin' with me blinkin' at?"

The dog, holding Private Leach's cap at a provoking distance, viewed the two convalescents with a mischievous eye.

"E's a cute un. Wish 'e was goin' back to Blighty wif me, not 'alf. Eh wot?"

"Sure," agreed the other. "I al ways 'ated 'em, but not now I don't. Red Cross dawgs is bloomin' humans Strafe me if they ain't!"

HOT DRINKS FOR TIRED FIGHTERS

The Red Cross Rolling Canteen.

In six months the American Red Cross supplied a million French poilus with hot coffee, tea, chocolate, bouillon, at the time they needed it most—just as they were entering the communication trenches for a tour of duty under boche fire or coming out, tired and worn, after their grueling vigil. If you were dragging the tired pair of feet in France through the mud, and if you were greeted by a cheery voice and a steaming pint of beef tea, wouldn't it be "a grand and glorious feelin'?" Oh, boy!

Now, this is the work of the "rolling canteen," and some day a Kipling will sing "the story of the tanks"—tanks of breath and bouillon that the Red Cross "Special Front Line Service" trundles up to the lines. The Military Sanitary Service supplies the wagons and stencils. The Red Cross unit does the work. It supplies these hot drinks at a cost of 50 francs ($10) per thousand men, a cent apiece!

Think of that—the penny your little girl sends the Red Cross can buy a big hot cheering drink, a good natured greeting, for a fighting man who desperately needs just that! One penny! Red Cross Rolling Canteens to the number of 15 are now behind the lines in continuous service. Their crews are exposed to shell fire and often have to put on gas masks.

Eugene Hale, brother of United States Senator Joseph Hale, served six months with a rolling canteen in France, and he says:

"While the men are glad to have the hot drinks, their chief satisfaction consists in the sense this service gives them of a friend being there with a helping hand in a critical hour."

And now the American army has asked the Red Cross to maintain this front line service directly in touch with the medical relief stations nearest the Yankee front and this the Red Cross is eager to do.

Loan Sharks Busy in Army. Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala.—In an order from the war department officers are warned to keep a sharp lookout for loan sharks, many of whom have been reported operating in National Guard and National army camps. The order states that many of the money lenders have been taking $50, $75 and $100 Liberty bonds, frequently charging as much as 10 per cent interest on short time loans.

Wapakoneia, O.—"Go to work, go to war or go to jail." This was the order just issued by Harvey Smith, mayor of St. Mary's, near here. And Mayor Smith means what he says, according to orders issued to the police for the treatment of loafers, both men and women, found loitering about the city.

RAINBOWS BY REX BEACH. THE IRON TRIAL, THE SPOILERS, HEART OF THE SUNSET, ETC.

ESTEBAN'S CONNECTION WITH THE INSURRECTOS BRINGS DISASTER UPON HIMSELF AND ROSA.

Synopsis.—Don Esteban Varona, a Cuban planter, hides his wealth in money, jewels and titles in a will on his estate. The hiding place is known only to Sebastian, a slave. Don Esteban's wife dies at the birth of twins, Esteban and Rosa. Don Esteban marries the beautiful Donna Isabel, who tries to convert him to a question in any mind; but in view of Esteban's threat he thought it wise to protect himself by setting a backfire.

As he sat on an old stone bench, musingly reviewing the catastrophe which had befallen him, Esteban had described it, his attention fell upon an envelope at his feet. It was a letter, and he opened it. It was a letter from his father, and he read it. Before he had gone far he started; then he cast a furtive glance about him. But the place was secluded; he was unobserved. When he finished reading he rose, smiling. He no longer feared Esteban. On the contrary, he rather pitied the young fool; for here between his fingers was that which he had so longed for. It was the money, the money which he had so longed for. It was the money which he had so longed for.

CHAPTER IV.—Continued. The woman seemed to hear and yet not to hear. She turned her head and listened, but continued to wait. He seated himself on one of the old stone benches, the young man opposite to him. He waited for a long time, grumbling inwardly, for the night was late and he was weary. At last a figure stole out of the gloom and joined him. The newcomer was a negro, dressed in the fashion of the poorer country people.

"Well, Asensio, I thought you'd never come. I'll get better from this," Esteban said irritably. "It is a long way, Don Esteban, and Evangelina has been waiting for me. I tell you we have to be careful these days."

"What is the news? What did you hear?" Asensio sighed gratefully as he seated himself. "One hears a great deal, but one never knows what to believe. There is fighting in Santa Clara, and Macao seems westward."

"What's that?" gasped the negro. He began to tremble violently and his breath became stifled. He was compelled to hold him down by main force. "It is old Don Esteban, your father. They say he is carrying his head in his two hands."

"What's that?" gasped the negro. He began to tremble violently and his breath became stifled. He was compelled to hold him down by main force. "It is old Don Esteban, your father. They say he is carrying his head in his two hands."

back upon the elder man, he walked away. Now it did not occur to Cuetio to doubt the boy's innocence, though the circumstances of Donna Isabel's death were suspicious enough to raise a question in any mind; but in view of Esteban's threat he thought it wise to protect himself by setting a backfire.

HOW THE PIPELESS FURNACE OPERATES

New System of Heating Is Getting Attention.

SAVING IN FUEL IS CLAIMED

Idea Was First Conceived Fifty or Sixty Years Ago but Only Recently Applied.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF CHARGE on all subjects pertaining to the subject building, for a limited time. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is without doubt, the highest authority on all subjects connected with the three-cent stamp for radford.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD. Fifty or sixty years ago some one conceived the idea that a stove with a jacket around it placed in the basement, with an opening above it, could be made to heat a house. He thought so well of the idea that he made a model, drew plans and specifications and secured a patent.

The pipes which carry the heated air from the ordinary type of furnace to the rooms above are usually ten inches in diameter. The area of a ten-inch pipe is one-half a square foot. One of these pipes leads to each room. That is to say, there are ten pipes for every room.

Scientific Basis of System. Now what follows is the scientific basis upon which is founded the success of the pipeless furnace. The pipes which carry the heated air from the ordinary type of furnace to the rooms above are usually ten inches in diameter. The area of a ten-inch pipe is one-half a square foot.

Lesson Was Too Realistic. Class in First-Aid Work Promptly Proved That "Nerve" Was a Thing to Be Proud of.

A doctor of a small town of central Missouri was instructing a class of 30 enthusiastic young women in first-aid work. The lesson for the evening was on "Nerve." For one thing, the doctor was not a nervous man, and he was endeavoring to enlighten them as to just what "nerve" was, and how it was especially necessary in the case of accidents.

Things That Have Passed. Here are some things not of the ordinary order that were said within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. They are enumerated by George Constant of the Louisville Courier-Journal. Little girls and boys who could correctly name in sequence the books of the Bible, recited the names of the twelve apostles, and to whom the names and antecedents of movie stars were as familiar as their own.

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE INCREASES IN WESTERN CANADA LAND VALUES

But Forty and Fifty Bushels of Wheat to the Acre.

During the past year there has been a great increase in farm lands in Western Canada that for a number of years past. The demand is for good farm lands improved and well cultivated. And at an increase of from ten to fifteen dollars an acre more than the value of the land had for a couple of years ago.

The rise in the price of every kind of produce grown on these Western lands has caused the value of the land to increase. The price of wheat has risen from about 40 bushels to 50 bushels to the acre. The price of other crops has also risen.

Just wherein lies the reason for the use of vegetable preparations for infants and children?

Why are any but vegetable preparations unsafe for infants and children? Why has the Government placed a ban on all preparations containing, among other poisonous drugs, Opium in its variously prepared forms and pleasing tastes, and under its innumerable names?

These are questions that every Mother will do well to inquire about. Any Physician will recommend the keeping of Fletcher's Castoria in the house for the common ailments of infants and children.

Registration of Men Who Have Become 21 Years of Age Since Last Draft Was Made.

The Washtenaw Selective Service Board has orders and instructions for the registration of men who have attained the age of 21 years since the first registration, one year ago. The registration will take place at the court house next Wednesday, June 5th, and continue until the 18th. The registration for Ypsilanti city will be held in Ypsilanti.

It is the duty of every citizen to assist in bringing about a complete registration of eligible male inhabitants of draft age. It is believed that this registration will not be so large but that all the men can get in for registration during the time specified.

AMERICA HAS AWAKENED.

"America has awakened to the sacrifice you young men are making," said Dr. W. T. Baylis, Red Cross director, at the western front to the drafted men who had assembled at the Arena before leaving for war duty. "Do not be down-hearted. We are rapidly nearing the time when if we find a slacker we will know how to deal with him and if we find a traitor, we will not send him to a resort in the south, but back him up against a stone wall."

"Say to the hungry and homeless and hopeless of our allies 'over there' that as long as God fills our granaries they can eat out of your knapsacks, for we are comrades in the war and will be friends forever."

"This war has become a personal war for America. I got sick and tired of the talk prevalent some months ago that we were at war with the Kaiser, but not with the German people. I tell you we are at war with Germany."

Under the auspices of the Jackson Trotting Association, the first professional automobile races will be held in Jackson over the county fair grounds track, since the fatal accident in 1913 which resulted in the death of Harry Endicott, brother of the famous Wild Bill Endicott, who is still following the dangerous profession. The date has been set for Saturday, June 1st, with the greatest field of starters ever sent away in one dirt track meet outside of the big motor racing centers. With the idea of making automobile racing an annual event in Jackson, the trotting association are bent on signing up a field of all-star drivers to battle for the $2,000 in purses.

Patriotism will be the keynote of the 1918 Michigan State Fair. The management of the fair has been spurred on in this work through the active interest taken by the United States government which will ship a monstrous exhibit to the fair for the purpose of instructing the people how they can do their "bit" at home. Equal interest is being shown by the state, the counties, the Good Roads Association, the Red Cross and other organizations whose activities will directly affect the outcome of the war. The fair date is Aug. 30 to Sept. 8.

NEWBERRY for United States Senator

Truman H. Newberry is a candidate for United States Senator. He is an American in real earnest. His service in the Spanish-American War, his record as Secretary of the Navy under President Roosevelt, and his present work as a commander in the Third Naval District, which includes the port of New York and the Brooklyn Navy yard, mark him as a FIGHTER and DOER, capable and courageous.

Truman H. Newberry

continues to serve his country, standing for and by the government for the full prosecution of the war and leaving his campaign for Senator entirely in the hands of his friends. His two sons are enlisted in their country's service, too, one as a major in the army, the other as an ensign in the navy.

Truman Newberry is a worker. After he left college, he took hard knocks working with a construction gang on the old Detroit, Bay City & Alpena Railroad. He also sailed the Lakes and earned for himself a license as first-class pilot. HE IS A MAN'S MAN.

As Secretary of the Navy under President Roosevelt, he is credited with putting the navy in a state of preparedness, which has had much to do with its present efficiency.

"Fighting Bob" Evans said of him—"Truman H. Newberry is the greatest Secretary of the Navy the nation has ever had."

His ability and experience make him an ideal candidate for United States Senator.
