GERMANS SHOOT DOWN 6 BALLOONS

Twelve Observers in One Day Trust to Parachutes in Leaps for Life.

PERIL IN BURNING GAS BAGS

Flames Likely to Overtake the Descending Observers—Many Narrow Escapes From Death—One Relates Experiences.

Behind the British Lines in France.—Leaps for life from burning observation balloons when attacked by German airplanes were described by observers of the British Royal Flying corps to an Associated Press correspondent when he visited one of their camps behind the lines a few days ago. A balloon ascent at the front is never a light undertaking, and on one day recently when the correspondent visited a station in a fairly inactive part of the line six balloons containing 12 men were shot down by German airplanes, all within sight of one another. One of the 12 officers who were compelled to reach terra firma by the parachute route told the story of his trip.

"We were perched at 3,500 feet," he said, "and had been up only half an hour when a column of smoke two miles southward attracted our notice. 'There goes No. 16,' said my observer. 'Two white flecks floating earthward told us that the two passengers of the balloon had got clear in time. Just then two similar specks appeared suddenly from under, another balloon warning us that the Boche was out for a wholesale killing this time. Six more white specks now appeared, and, since it was evident that the entire line was being attacked, I gave the order to haul down.

Sudden Attack by Airplane.
"At 1,000 feet, I ordered the winch stopped. No more balloons had been attacked, and although ours was now the only one up, I could see British fighting planes ascending from the air-dromes behind us to chase away the enemy. So I decided to venture up again. We ascended to 3,000 feet this time, and soon were at work again.

"Then suddenly something happened. It happened swiftly as in a dream. We didn't even see the German Albatross approaching, but our ground officer and his scouts gave us the alarm just a second or two before the hawk was on us. I heard my observer, at the telephone, say suddenly, 'What's that? Stand by! Good Heavens!' Then he turned calmly to me and said with a smile, 'Sorry, old man, we must get out at once.' He helped me over the side first.

"I dropped and heard a 'wump' as the parachute left its case. This was the last sensation I attempted to analyze as I fell like a stone for 300 feet. I saw the balloon shoot violently upward, and then my view was blotted out by a large white umbrella which suddenly appeared above my head, and I realized that the parachute had opened. I didn't look down, as I felt my body swaying easily in the breeze. The roar above told me that the Albatross had done its work and the balloon was afloat. You cannot, of course, maneuver a parachute, and there is always the possibility of the burning balloon overtaking you and burning your only means of escape.

"But before I reached the ground I saw far in front the Albatross crashing to earth minus a wing. She had been hit by a cluster of antiaircraft shells.

"The next thing I knew was that I was lying in the middle of a plowed field, while a short distance off I saw my observer coming across toward me.

Narrow Escape From Death.
All 12 of the officers of the wrecked balloons escaped safely on this occasion. They are not always so fortunate. At this same station a few days before an officer was shot and killed when dropping in his parachute. His balloon had been set afire by a German airplane, and, as usual, he and his companion took to their parachutes. They had hardly got clear of the balloon when the attacking airplane swooped down on them, its machine gun in full play. One of the officers was killed, and although the other escaped, he was wounded by a bullet.

The balloon commander told the story of an officer who had gone up alone and whose balloon was shelled when flying at 4,000 feet. On these occasions it is dangerous to haul down, for the position of the winch is thereby given away to the enemy guns. At last, after a cloud of shrapnel smoke had appeared almost under the basket and no response came down the telephone wire to inquiries as to whether everything was all right, the ground officer gave the order to haul down. Ten minutes later the car touched the ground, and the observer was found lying at the bottom of the basket, unconscious but unhurt. It was a bad case of shell shock, from which the officer was several months in recovering.

A few days ago, at a nearby station, a balloon suddenly caught fire, for no apparent reason. The two observers tried to escape in their parachutes, but the blazing balloon overtook them, and they were killed. Theories as to the cause of the disaster were numerous, but the one most generally accepted was that the balloon had been fired by an electric spark from a thunder cloud.

Unusual Things Seen at State Fair

Paris recently received a complete list of the 159 Americans then prisoners in Germany. The German government permits the Red Cross to send each man 20 pounds of food a week, in two packages of ten pounds each. This Red Cross service is being enlarged and a warehouse to hold food enough for 10,000 American prisoners already is under construction near Berne, Switzerland. It is estimated that at least 90 per cent of the food packages reach the men.

Parents, wives and relatives of our soldiers and sailors will find in this particular Red Cross service the greatest satisfaction because they have dreaded German prison life for their loved ones perhaps more than death itself.

The American prisoners will be permitted to write two letters and four post cards each month, and also to acknowledge the receipt of food packages. The Red Cross food package contains such necessities as tea, sugar, and frequently fresh white bread is included from the Red Cross bakery in Berne.

This service is one more reason why the American people will respond generously to the next Red Cross war fund campaign, May 20-27, when another $100,000,000 to "carry on" will be asked.

THORNTON DIXON OF MONROE

Candidate for Nomination for Representative in Congress Second District.

DIXON'S PLATFORM "WIN THE WAR"

We are in the war and we can come out of it only as conquerors or conquered, victorious or dishonored; as an independent or a subject nation. Our lives, our homes, our institutions, all that Washington fought for and Lincoln died for are at stake. Our only way out now is to FIGHT IT OUT for the simple cause of AMERICA AND AMERICANS. We must, as Benjamin Franklin said, "Hang together or hang separately." The man who in public, or private life subordinates this cause to any other consideration, no matter what, or who FAILS IN THE FULL, DEVOTED AND EFFICIENT PERFORMANCE OF HIS DUTY to the nation, is a traitor to himself, his family, the republic and the right.

WOMEN GOOD POLICE

Are Doing Efficient Service in Great Britain.

Annual Report of Inspector Praises Work in Combating Evils of War.

London—The success of women on the police force is amply demonstrated in the annual report of Sir Leonard Dunning, H. M. Inspector of constabulary, just published.

Seven counties and 24 cities and boroughs have women "on the strength," and "their introduction into professional police work," says Sir Leonard, "may well help authorities to combat evils which have presented increasing difficulties to them for years past."

While most of the women are engaged in clerical work, others are given duties requiring the complete confidence of a woman or child, which a woman can win better than a man; the maintenance of public decorum among girls, supervision over female servants' registries, duties under the shop hours acts, food control orders and the like, and supervision over places of amusement catering for children.

It is not, Sir Leonard hopes, suggested that women should be employed in the suppression of public order and the arrest of dangerous or violent criminals.

With regard to the desirability of investing to them that part of the investigation of sexual crime which involves intimate conversation with the victim, the inspector declares that the police themselves were the first to recognize this, but until some years ago failed to find a woman of education who recognized this as a woman's work.

Sir Leonard pays tribute to the fine work being done by the women police employed by the ministry of munitions, and refers also to the success of the efforts of the women patriots. He denies that the increase of offenses by juveniles and the decrease of personal chastity of girls are the consequence of the war or that they have been aggravated by the war.

For years past police reports have laid stress on the decay of parental control and the influence of parents with a true sense of their responsibilities does not seem likely to revive. Crime is showing an upward tendency—reduced street lighting, bigamy, concealment of birth and infanticide, the latter directly due to circumstances of the war contributing.

A German army was to be in France within three months after the war started. That was four years ago. It is now on its way home, having probably abandoned the visit.

USE "CHAIN ROCKETS"

Germany's Favorite Device Against British Air Raids.

Sends Up Barrage of Fire Balls Which Lights Up the Entire Sky.

Behind British Lines in France.—One of Germany's favorite devices for opposing British airmen on night raids or reconnaissances, is a barrage of the so-called "chain rockets." These consist of long chains of brilliantly luminous balls, bright green in color, which are sent upward like skyrockets in strings of 30 or 40, and which hang suspended in the sky for a considerable time, apparently for the purpose of catching the airplane and setting fire to it.

The rockets must be fired up with tremendous force, probably from a gun, for they rise to a height of 10,000 feet, and can be placed with great accuracy. The fireballs appear to be about a foot in diameter. As they rise they are often caught by the wind, and assume beautiful curves. Sometimes the whole line topples and turns before it vanishes, floating for a few moments like a row of strange green Japanese lanterns. It is supposed that the balls are supported in the air by small parachutes.

Thousands of these chain rockets are fired by the Germans on every occasion when the entente airmen attack a town or camp. They are part of the regular shrapnel barrage which is used to hamper the attackers, but they give a much more spectacular effect than the bursting shrapnel, which only gives a momentary flash in the sky and then is gone.

If a machine is caught by a searchlight, hundreds of the chain rockets are straightway sent up toward it. They make a remarkable spectacle, as they are seen climbing up the sky and passing, one by one, across the beams of light, and finally appearing in their appointed station in the upper darkness.

A telegraph heading in a newspaper reads: "Wilson and His Cabinet Just Humans." Well, that's better than can be said of the Kaiser, according to all reports.

The Brooklyn business men's picnic will be held at Eagle Point, Clark Lake, Thursday, Aug. 15.

Profits and Prices

Profits may be considered from two angles:

- 1st—Their effect on prices;
- 2nd—As a return to investors.

When profits are small as compared with sales, they have little effect on prices.

Swift & Company's profits are only a fraction of a cent per pound on all products sold, and if eliminated entirely would have practically no effect on prices.

Swift & Company paid 10 per cent dividends to over 20,000 stockholders out of its 1917 profits. It also had to build extensions and improvements out of profits; to finance large stocks of goods made necessary by unprecedented requirements of the United States and Allied Governments; and to provide protection against the day of declining markets.

Is it fair to call this profiteering?

WAMPLER LAKE
The lake was never known to be so low. The tearing out of the dam last spring has proven a catastrophe.
This dry weather has evidently made fishing good. Even the common worm and lowly clam look good to the bass this season.
Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rundell and two daughters of Detroit are spending a week at The Farm. Roy was formerly a Manchester boy.
Talk about fire wagons, Geo. Stillwell of Detroit, who with his family, is a guest at The Farm Hotel, is said to have taken 11 fire fighters in one load to the burning field Saturday afternoon.
Cottagers and owners of property around the lake have become so incensed at the tearing out of the dam and the consequent low water that they have been holding indignation meetings and have appointed a committee to proceed with matters. It is the opinion of some that legal proceedings must be taken to establish the lake level. We learn that a fund of $150 has been subscribed as expense money.
Great excitement was caused by a grass fire on the George Kern farm Saturday afternoon. Early in the day Mr. Kern had burned some thistles and supposed all fire was out and everything secure. During the day the family were away from home and late in the afternoon it was discovered a field adjoining the earlier fire was ablaze. A call was sent to the lake and scores of the recreators jumped into autos with a supply of buckets, old rugs, brooms, etc., and were soon on the scene. The fire swept fiercely toward the farmhouse and barns, but was checked at the last fence. The ready response of neighbors and people at the lake no doubt prevented a great loss.

BRIDGEWATER
Mrs. E. D. Fenn who has been in California with her son Harry, has returned to her old home.

The Red Cross ice cream social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Feldkamp was largely attended and a great success. Mrs. John Walker of Cherry Creek, Nevada, sent a basket to be sold, which brought $15. Mrs. Henry Way contributed a quilt as did the Red Cross ladies, which were also sold. Receipts for ice cream and all were $114, with but little expense.

FREEDOM
While helping raise the barn of Martin Wenck last Saturday, Ben. Breitenwischer slipped and fell off the sill, breaking a bone in his wrist.
Mr. and Mrs. James Vogel of Lansing were guests at Matt. Alber's and returned home last Thursday accompanied by Misses Amanda and Olga Alber, who visited them until Monday.
Neighbors of Martin Wenck gathered last Saturday and helped raise the frame of a new barn 36x50, to replace one ruined by the cyclone a year ago in June. Work is proceeding and the structure is ready for the roof.
The social for the Mystic Workers and the Red Cross, held on the lot next to the Freedom store netted about $30 after all bills were paid. There was a good attendance and pleasing features of the evening were a ringing speech by A. J. Waters of Manchester and singing by G. W. Kramer, accompanied by Miss Elsie Niehaus. Mrs. Ed. Dietle, of Manchester was lucky enough to secure the quilt.

William Lindbergs has certainly had hard luck on the Garden farm this year. Things were coming along fine early in the season, but a July frost killed a nice lot of early potatoes and corn on the low land. This tract was afterward sown to buckwheat, only to fall victim to another hard frost along with thousands of hard frost along with thousands of cabbage plants which were a fine prospect. At the present time the drought promises to ruin what is left. Will says: "I've got some marsh hay left, anyway."

A Child Welfare Campaign will be held in Manchester, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 12, 13 and 14. Bring your babies under five years of age for weighing and measuring test; examinations to be held at offices of Dr. Scheurer, Dr. Kent, and Dr. Kapp. Parents of children with contagious diseases, ask for examination at home.
