Sinners in Heaven

By CLIVE ARDEN

Copyright by The Batha-Marcello Co.

In his grasp again, and round and round he went, until he knew what it was that he sought.

For a moment they stood together, the man and the woman, a picture of contrast and conflict. The man, still the same, a man of action and passion, but now a man of experience and wisdom. The woman, still the same, a woman of beauty and grace, but now a woman of mystery and hidden secrets.

And yet, in some strange way, they were one. They were two in one. They were one in two. They were both sinners, both broken, both lost.

But beneath the golden gate of salvation, hidden deep in the shadows of the deep, the man and the woman met once more. They met in the darkness, they met in the light, they met in the love of God.

And so it was, that in the end, the man and the woman were saved. They were saved by the grace of God, they were saved by the love of human kind.

And in the end, they lived happily ever after, in the love of God and the love of each other.

The End.
