Brice's Christmas at Old Farm Home

Jolly Girl Goes Uncle and Aunt and Young Friends Happy Surprise

By FRANK W. WOLFE

The snow was white and heavy, and the day was clear and bright. The sun was shining, and the sky was blue. The air was cold, but the children were happy and full of energy. They were out in the snow, playing and laughing.

The children had been planning a Christmas party for weeks. They had been saving their allowances and asking their parents for extra money to buy presents. They had been making decorations and baking cookies. Now it was Christmas Eve, and they were excited for the party to begin.

They had invited all of their friends to the party, and they had worked hard to make it special. They had decorated the house with lights and tinsel, and they had baked cookies and cakes. They had planned games and activities for the children to enjoy.

When the guests arrived, they were surprised by the decorations and the presents. They were happy to see each other and to celebrate the holiday together. The children had a great time playing games, eating cookies, and opening presents.

At the end of the party, the children were tired but happy. They had had a wonderful Christmas and were looking forward to the New Year. They were already planning for next year's party and for the adventures that awaited them in the new year.
