Barry Stewart, who is president of the Central Nebraska Irrigation District, has been selected as the outstanding farmer of the year by the National Farmers Union. He will receive the award at the organization's annual convention in Atlanta next month.

Stewart, who is a 68-year-old farmer from the Cherry Creek area, was chosen from a field of 15 nominees representing farmers from across the country. He was selected for his outstanding contributions to the agricultural community, including his role as a leader in the development of new irrigation technologies and practices.

The award is given annually by the National Farmers Union to recognize outstanding farmers who have made significant contributions to the agricultural industry. Stewart will receive a plaque, a cash prize, and other recognition for his achievements.

The National Farmers Union, which was founded in 1902, is a national organization of farmers from across the United States. Its mission is to promote and protect the economic, social, and political well-being of farmers and their families.

Stewart has been a farmer for more than 40 years and has been a leader in the development of new irrigation technologies. He is also involved in a number of other agricultural organizations, including the Nebraska Irrigation Association, the Nebraska Farm Bureau, and the National Corn Growers Association.

The award ceremony will take place during the National Farmers Union's annual convention in Atlanta on November 15th. The convention will feature a number of speakers and panel discussions on issues facing the agricultural community.

Stewart is a dedicated farmer who has made significant contributions to the development of new irrigation technologies. He is a worthy recipient of this prestigious award and will be a great role model for other farmers across the country.

We Serve "Michigan"

What Better Railroad Service Has Meant to Business

Agricultural commodities have shown an upward tendency in prices during the current year, while the course of industrial and ranching operations has been more variable. We have been going through a period of price readjustments—always a critical time for business—but, in this instance, there were not the usual accompaniments of depression.

The major reason for this absence of disturbances in business is that smaller inventories are being carried nowadays since the railroad service of the country assures certain and speedy delivery. Furthermore, there are no bad debts, therefore, is carried on with less capital and with fewer hazards.

More stabilized business conditions are assured American business. Despite these, consequently, failures become less likely and less frequent.

What the workings of the Federal Reserve Act prove to be is business, through the stabilizing of credits, the improved steam of business is accomplishing through its regular and its prompt deliveries. So the large outlays to business have justified themselves. Both expedients work to the same end that is to say, the equalization of prices.

In Michigan, this is particularly true. Vast sums, in recent years, have been expended to achieve this new standard of service. Between 1917 and 1922, building of sidings and improved tracks required this year nearly $26,000,000 in new engines and cars and improvements and betterments which will continue these stabilizing forces.

These expenditures, too, were made right at home, and at a time when the country was at its lowest ebb. Therefore, these $26,000,000, going largely to Michigan railroads and manufactured commodities, served appreciably to buoy up conditions.

Michigan railroads have, therefore, been more than local common-carriers. They have, through their service, removed some of the hazards inherent in business in former years.

BASE LINE

Jake Buerstam and his wife of Gobles, who owned 130 acres of land in Gobles, passed Sunday at Will Pullin's.

The neighbors of the Base Line were saddened to learn of the unexpected death of Mr. Buerstams. Mrs. Buerstam was a kind and gentle soul, always willing to lend a helping hand to those in need. She was a friend to many and will be greatly missed.

Mrs. Buerstam and her family were among the first settlers in Gobles, and her passing marks the end of an era in the community. She leaves behind a legacy of kindness and generosity that will be remembered for years to come.

Living and Loving

By Mrs. Virginia Lee

The Stepmother

My marriage began after I had been widowed for three years. I had been married for seven years and had one daughter, who was six years old. My husband died suddenly, leaving me with a small inheritance. I was not sure how to raise my daughter on my own, but I knew I had to try. I decided to seek the assistance of a social worker, and I was referred to Mrs. Virginia Lee, a well-known social worker in the community.

She came to my home and listened to me carefully. She asked me about my background and how I planned to raise my daughter. She also gave me advice on how to manage my finances and how to find good care for my daughter. She was very patient and understanding, and she helped me to see that I could do it.

Mrs. Lee was very knowledgeable and provided me with a lot of useful information. She helped me to understand that I had the ability to care for my daughter, and she encouraged me to keep trying. She also helped me to find a good babysitter and to connect with other parents in the community who could offer support.

With her guidance, I was able to create a stable environment for my daughter and to give her the care and attention she needed. I was able to continue my education and to pursue a career that I enjoyed. I also had the chance to develop meaningful relationships with other parents and to be part of a supportive community.

Through her help, I was able to raise my daughter with confidence and to give her the best possible start in life. I am forever grateful for her guidance and for the support she provided me during those challenging times. She showed me that with determination and hard work, anything is possible.

DOES HOME LOVE?

"Do Call," by Sir Charles Babbage

This poem is well known as a plea for leniency in the treatment of the poor. It was written in 1819 by Sir Charles Babbage, a famous mathematician and computer pioneer.

The poem was written to urge the government to adopt a more lenient approach towards the poor. It argues that they should not be punished harshly, but should be treated with understanding and compassion.

The poem is written in a simple, yet powerful style, and it is widely regarded as one of Babbage's most important works.

Mother, who are you?

Who is a Real Friend?

There is no such thing as a real friend. You can never say that you have a real friend, only that you have a person who is there for you in times of need. There are no such things as friends.

The only thing you can say is that you have a person who is there for you in times of need. There are no such things as friends.

HEALTHY OLD MEN AND WOMEN NEED NEVER HAVE GRAY HAIR

As Long as Color Grades Remain Normal and Active Plenity of Blood Circulation

If HAIR IS FADED AND STREAKED WITH GRAY BEGIN REVERSING COLOR GLANDS

Simple Tonic Starts Youthful Color Returning Again

Everybody knows if their color glands and hair roots are active and full of color, it is impossible for hair to turn white or gray. You need only a systematic, free of gray and colored-outer tonic tonic, free of gray and colored-outer tonic.

I use a doctor's advice years ago when I received a stimulating tonic into the scalp that worked wonders. I was surprised, and not at the time I saw the magic tonic tonic, free of gray and colored-outer tonic.

I do not know what to do but I am now able to get along. I received a stimulating tonic into the scalp that worked wonders. I was surprised, and not at the time I saw the magic tonic tonic, free of gray and colored-outer tonic.
